FOREWORD.

The object of the following work is to present all of the general laws of the state of California, which are now in force, in a single volume, and in as complete a form as possible. With the purpose of rendering the compilation as convenient as practicable in use, the cyclopedic or alphabetical arrangement has been adopted, and no pains have been spared to make the whole as complete as possible, alike in statutes, their histories, and references to the cases decided in which a statute is involved. For the convenience of those who may desire to trace any particular statute from its inception to its present form, in each case the volume and page of the session laws where the original enactment appears is given, as well as the volume and the page of each and every amendment or revision thereof.

The general laws are found in thirty-six volumes of session laws, with many conflicting provisions; which volumes contain also an innumerable mass of conflicting special legislation. With special legislation, nothing has been attempted; it is only the general laws in force that have been collated. Many general laws have been codified and carried into the appropriate codes, and where this has been done the fact is noted and reference made to the appropriate section of the particular code into which the statute, or part of the statute, has been carried.

In the various conflicting enactments, amendments, revisions, and repeals, it is sometimes a difficult matter to decide just what acts, or parts of acts, are still in force, and it will require a decision of the supreme court to finally settle the question. We do not claim to be able to judicially determine whether certain laws are "in force." It is possible that the courts may in some decisions declare that there is some vitality existing in a statute that has been omitted from this volume as "superseded" or repealed; but our effort has been to err, if at all, by inserting statutes where there is doubt as to their vitality, rather than by omitting them.

There are many subjects of legislation having a history, and we have endeavored to give such history by reference, in the notes, to past legislation on such subjects. On the subject of corporations, the notes embrace upwards of seventy statutes enacted from 1850 to the adoption of the codes. The subjects of Roads and Highways and Municipal Government are exhaustively annotated, and all other subjects are treated with thoroughness; so that it is believed the busy lawyer, the student, the professor, and the judge,—in fact, every one having occasion to consult the laws of this state,—will here find ready the laws as they are to-day, with references to the decisions construing them, and to the history of the legislation on the subjects they would inquire into.

A table of statutes, from 1872 to 1905, which have been held unconstitutional, or otherwise void, or repealed, in decisions of the supreme court of this state, together with references to the decisions, from volume 45 to volume 145, inclusive, of the California Reports, is given for convenience of ready reference.

Pacific Reporter citations, as well as duplicate references to the American Decisions, American Reports, American State Reports, and the Lawyers' Reports Annotated, are given.

Numerous references are made to the notes or annotations in the Trinity Series and the Lawyers' Reports Annotated, wherein will be found valuable discussions on the points to which the references are made. No pains have been spared to make the work as complete and serviceable to the bench and bar as it is practicable to make it. In the matter of annotation it has not been sought to abstract the point decided or to give the reasoning of the court in arriving at its conclusion; the author has been contented with merely referring to the case and the page where the discussion will be found. The occasional departing from this rule is confined to a few instances only, in which the decision referred to is likely not to be found upon the shelves of the library of many lawyers.

The publication of this series, presenting the codes and statute laws of California as they are to-day, is not a spasmodic effort on the part of the publishers. A staff of trained writers and annotators has for some time been engaged in this work, and will be retained; so that not only the laws of California, as now presented, will be kept up to date in a convenient and inexpensive form in the future, but other valuable publications on various subjects in the different departments of the law will be put forth from time to time, in keeping with the public demand therefor.

DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE.

JULY 4, 1776.

THE UNANIMOUS DECLARATION OF THE THIRTEEN UNITED STATES OF AMERICA IN CONGRESS ASSEMBLED.

When in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth the separate and equal station to which the laws of nature and of nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. That to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed, that whenever any form of government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the right of the people to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their safety and happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shown, that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same object evinces a design to reduce them under absolute despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such government, and to provide new guards for their future security. Such has been the patient sufferance of these colonies; and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former systems of government. The history of the present king of Great Britain is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct object the establishment of an absolute tyranny over these states. To prove this, let facts be submitted to a candid world.

He has refused his assent to laws, the most wholesome and necessary for the public good.

He has forbidden his governors to pass laws of immediate and pressing importance, unless suspended in their operation until his assent should be obtained; and when so suspended, he has utterly neglected to attend to them.

He has refused to pass other laws for the accommodation of large districts of people, unless those people would relinquish the right of representation in the legislature, a right inestimable to them and formidable to tyrants only.

He has called together legislative bodies at places unusual, uncomfortable, and distant from the repository of their public records, for the sole purpose of fatiguing them into compliance with his measures.

He has dissolved representative houses repeatedly for opposing with manly firmness his invasions on the rights of the people.

He has refused, for a long time after such dissolutions, to cause others to be elected; whereby the legislative powers, incapable of annihilation, have returned to the people at large for their exercise; the state remaining in the meantime exposed to all the dangers of invasion from without, and convulsions within.

He has endeavored to prevent the population of these states; for that purpose obstructing the laws for naturalization of foreigners; refusing to pass others to encourage their migration hither, and raising the conditions of new appropriations of lands.

He has obstructed the administration of justice, by refusing his assent to laws for establishing judiciary powers.

He has made judges dependent on his will alone, for the tenure of their offices, and the amount and payment of their salaries.

He has erected a multitude of new offices, and sent hither swarms of officers to harass our people and eat out their substance.

He has kept among us, in times of peace, standing armies without the consent of our legislatures.

He has affected to render the military independent of and superior to the civil power.

He has combined with others to subject us to a jurisdiction foreign to our constitution, and unacknowledged by our laws: giving his assent to their acts of pretended legislation.

For quartering large bodies of armed troops among us;

For protecting them, by a mock trial, from punishment for any murders which they should commit on the inhabitants of these states;

For cutting off our trade with all parts of the world;

For imposing taxes on us without our consent;

For depriving us in many cases of the benefits of trial by jury;

For transporting us beyond seas to be tried for pretended offenses;

For abolishing the free system of English laws in a neighboring province, establishing therein an arbitrary government, and enlarging its boundaries so as to render it at once an example and fit instrument for introducing the same absolute rule into these colonies;

For taking away our charters, abolishing our most valuable laws, and altering fundamentally, the forms of our governments;

For suspending our own legislatures, and declaring themselves invested with power to legislate for us in all cases whatsoever.

He has abdicated government here, by declaring us out of his protection and waging war against us.

He has plundered our seas, ravaged our coasts, burned our towns, and destroyed the lives of our people.

He is at this time transporting large armies of foreign mercenaries to complete the works of death, desolation and tyranny, already begun with circumstances of cruelty and perfidy scarcely paralleled in the most barbarous ages, and totally unworthy the head of a civilized nation.

He has constrained our fellow-citizens taken captive on the high seas to bear arms against their country, to become the executioners of their friends and brethren, or to fall themselves by their hands.

He has excited domestic insurrection among us, and has endeavored to bring on the inhabitants of our frontiers, the merciless Indian savages, whose known rule of warfare, is an undistinguished destruction of all ages, sexes and conditions.

In every stage of these oppressions we have petitioned for redress in the most humble terms. Our repeated petitions have been answered only by repeated injury. A prince, whose character is thus marked by every act which may define a tyrant, is unfit to be the ruler of a free people.

Nor have we been wanting in attentions to our British brethren. We have warned them from time to time of attempts by their legislature to extend an unwarrantable jurisdiction over us. We have reminded them of the circumstances of our emigration and settlement here. We have appealed to their native justice and magnanimity, and we have conjured them by the ties of our common kindred to disavow these usurpations, which, would inevitably interrupt our connections and correspondence. They too have been deaf to the voice of justice and consanguinity. We must, therefore, acquiesce in the necessity, which denounces our separation, and hold them, as we hold the rest of mankind, enemies in war, in peace friends.

We, therefore, the representatives of the United States of America, in General Congress, assembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the world for the rectitude of our intentions, do, in the name, and by the authority of the good people of these colonies, solemnly publish and declare, that these united colonies are, and of right ought to be free and independent states; that they are absolved from all allegiance to the British Crown, and that all political connections between them and the state of Great Britain, is and ought to be totally dissolved; and that as free and independent states, they have full power to levy war, conclude peace, contract alliances, establish commerce, and to do all other acts and things which independent states may of right do. And for the support of this declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honor.

CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES—1787.

We the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquillity, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this constitution for the United States of America.

ARTICLE I.

§ 1. All legislative powers herein granted shall be vested in a Congress of the United States, which shall consist of a senate and house of representatives.

§ 2. The house of representatives shall be composed of members chosen every second year by the people of the several states, and the electors in each state shall have the qualifications requisite for electors of the most numerous branch of the state legislature.

No person shall be a representative who shall not have attained to the age of twenty-five years, and been seven years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of that state in which he shall be chosen.

[Representatives and direct taxes shall be apportioned among the several states which may be included within this union, according to their respective numbers, which shall be determined by adding to the whole number of free persons, including those bound to service for a term of years, and excluding Indians not taxed, three fifths of all other persons.] The actual enumeration shall be made within three years after the first meeting of the Congress of the United States, and within every subsequent term of ten years, in such manner as they shall by law direct. The number of representatives shall not exceed one for every thirty thousand, but each state shall have at least one representative; and until such enumeration shall be made, the state of New Hampshire shall be entitled to choose three, Massachusetts eight, Rhode Island and Providence Plantations one, Connecticut five, New York six, New Jersey four, Pennsylvania eight, Delaware one, Maryland six, Virginia ten, North Carolina five, South Carolina five, and Georgia three.

When vacancies happen in the representation from any state, the executive authority thereof shall issue writs of election to fill such vacancies.

The house of representatives shall choose their speaker and other officers; and shall have the sole power of impeachment.

§ 3. The senate of the United States shall be composed of two senators from each state, chosen by the legislature thereof, for six years; and each senator shall have one vote.

Immediately after they shall be assembled in consequence of the first election, they shall be divided as equally as may be into three classes. The seats of the senators of the first class shall be vacated at the expiration of the second year, of the second class at the expiration of the fourth year, and of the third class at the expiration of the sixth year, so that one third may be chosen every second year; and if vacancies happen by resignation, or otherwise, during the recess of the legislature of any state, the executive thereof may make temporary appointments until the next meeting of the legislature, which shall then fill such vacancies.

No person shall be a senator who shall not have attained to the age of thirty years, and been nine years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of that state for which he shall be chosen.

The vice-president of the United States shall be president of the senate, but shall have no vote unless they be equally divided.

The senate shall choose their other officers, and also a president pro tempore, in the absence of the vice-president, or when he shall exercise the office of president of the United States.

The senate shall have the sole power to try all impeachments. When sitting for that purpose, they shall be on oath or affirmation. When the president of the United States is tried, the chief justice shall preside: And no person shall be convicted without the concurrence of two thirds of the members present.

Judgment in cases of impeachment shall not extend further than to removal from office, and disqualification to hold and enjoy any office of honor, trust or profit under the United States; but the party convicted shall nevertheless be liable and subject to indictment, trial, judgment and punishment, according to law.

§ 4. The times, places and manner of holding elections for senators and representatives, shall be prescribed in each state by the legislature thereof; but the Congress may at any time by law make or alter such regulations, except as to the places of choosing senators.

The Congress shall assemble at least once in every year, and such meeting shall be on the first Monday in December, unless they shall by law appoint a different day.

§ 5. Each house shall be the judge of the elections, returns and qualifications of its own members, and a majority of each shall constitute a quorum to do business; but a smaller number may adjourn from day to day, and may be authorized to compel the attendance of absent members, in such manner, and under such penalties as each house may provide.

Each house may determine the rules of its proceedings, punish its members for disorderly behavior, and, with the concurrence of two thirds, expel a member.

Each house shall keep a journal of its proceedings, and from time to time publish the same, excepting such parts as may in their judgment require secrecy; and the yeas and nays of the members of either house on any question shall, at the desire of one fifth of those present, be entered on the journal.

Neither house, during the session of Congress, shall without the consent of the other, adjourn for more than three days, nor to any other place than that in which the two houses shall be sitting.

§ 6. The senators and representatives shall receive a compensation for their services, to be ascertained by law, and paid out of the treasury of the United States. They shall in all cases, except treason, felony and breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest during their attendance at the session of their respective houses, and in going to and returning from the same; and for any speech or debate in either house, they shall not be questioned in any other place.

No senator or representative shall, during the time for which he was elected, be appointed to any civil office under the authority of the United States, which shall have been created, or the emoluments whereof shall have been increased during such time; and no person holding any office under the United States, shall be a member of either house during his continuance in office.

§ 7. All bills for raising revenue shall originate in the house of representatives; but the senate may propose or concur with amendments as on other bills.

Every bill which shall have passed the house of representatives and the senate, shall, before it become a law, be presented to the president of the United States; if he approve he shall sign it, but if not he shall return it, with his objections, to that house in which it shall have originated, who shall enter the objections at large on their journal, and proceed to reconsider it. If after such reconsideration two thirds of that house shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other house, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered, and if approved by two thirds of that house, it shall become a law. But in all such cases the votes of both houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the persons voting for and against the bill shall be entered on the journal of each house respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the president within ten days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law, in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the Congress by their adjournment prevent its return, in which case it shall not be a law.

TREATY OF PEACE, FRIENDSHIP, LIMITS AND SETTLEMENT BETWEEN THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA AND THE MEXICAN REPUBLIC.

Dated at Guadalupe Hidalgo, 2d February, 1848.

Ratified by the President U. S., 16th March, 1848.

Exchanged at Queretaro, 30th May, 1848.

Proclaimed by the President U. S., 4th July, 1848.

BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

A PROCLAMATION.

Whereas, A treaty of peace, friendship, limits, and settlement between the United States of America and the Mexican Republic was concluded and signed at the city of Guadalupe Hidalgo, on the second day of February, one thousand eight hundred and forty-eight, which treaty, as amended by the senate of the United States, and being in the English and Spanish languages, is word for word as follows:—

In the name of Almighty God:—

The United States of America and the United Mexican States, animated by a sincere desire to put an end to the calamities of the war which unhappily exists between the two republics, and to establish upon a solid basis relations of peace and friendship, which shall confer reciprocal benefits upon the citizens of both, and assure the concord, harmony, and mutual confidence wherein the two people should live, as good neighbors, have for that purpose appointed their respective plenipotentiaries—that is to say, the president of the United States has appointed Nicholas P. Trist, a citizen of the United States, and the president of the Mexican Republic has appointed Don Luis Gonzaga Cuevas, Don Bernardo Couto, and Don Miguel Atristan, citizens of the said republic, who, after a reciprocal communication of their respective full powers, have, under the protection of Almighty God, the author of peace, arranged, agreed upon, and signed the following

TREATY OF PEACE, FRIENDSHIP, LIMITS AND SETTLEMENT BE-TWEEN THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA AND THE MEXICAN REPUBLIC.

ARTICLE I.

There shall be firm and universal peace between the United States of America and the Mexican Republic, and between their respective countries, territories, cities, towns, and people, without exception of places or persons.

ARTICLE II.

Immediately upon the signature of this treaty, a convention shall be entered into between a commissioner or commissioners appointed by the general-in-chief of the forces of the United States and such as may be appointed by the Mexican government, to the end that a provisional suspension of hostilities shall take place, and that, in the places occupied by the said forces, constitutional order may be re-established as regards the political, administrative, and judicial branches, so far as this shall be permitted by the circumstances of military occupation.

ARTICLE III.

Immediately upon the ratification of the present treaty by the government of the United States, orders shall be transmitted to the commanders of their land and naval forces, requiring the latter (provided this treaty shall then have been ratified by the government of the Mexican republic, and the ratifications exchanged) immediately to desist from blockading any Mexican ports; and requiring the former (under the same condition) to commence, at the earliest moment practicable, withdrawing all troops of the United States then in the interior of the Mexican Republic, to points that shall be selected by common agreement, at a distance from the seaports not exceeding thirty leagues; and such evacuation of the interior of the republic shall be completed with the least possible delay; the Mexican government hereby binding itself to afford every facility in its power for rendering the same convenient to the troops, on their march and in their new positions, and for promoting a good understanding between them and the inhabitants. In like manner, orders shall be dispatched to the persons in charge of the custom-houses at all the ports occupied by the forces of the United States, requiring them (under the same condition) immediately to deliver possession of the same to the persons authorized by the Mexican government to receive it, together with all bonds and evidences of debt for duties on importations and on exportations, not yet fallen due. Moreover, a faithful and exact account shall be made out, showing the entire amount of all duties on imports and on exports, collected at such custom-houses or elsewhere in Mexico, by authority of the United States, from and after the day of the ratification of this treaty by the government of the Mexican Republic; and also on account of the cost of collection; and such entire amount, deducting only the cost of collection, shall be delivered to the Mexican government, at the city of Mexico, within three months after the exchange of ratifications.

The evacuation of the capital of the Mexican Republic by the troops of the United States, in virtue of the above stipulation, shall be completed within one month after the orders there stipulated for shall have been received by the commander of said troops, or sooner, if possible.

ARTICLE IV.

Immediately after the exchange of ratifications of the present treaty, all castles, forts, territories, places, and possessions, which have been taken or occupied by the forces of the United States during the present war within the limits of the Mexican Republic, as about to be established by the following article, shall be definitely restored to the said republic, together with all the artillery, arms, apparatus of war, munitions, and other public property, which were in the said castles and forts when captured, and which shall remain there at the time when this treaty shall be duly ratified by the government of the Mexican Republic. To this end, immediately upon the signature of this treaty, orders shall be dispatched to the American officers commanding such castles and forts, securing against the removal or destruction of any such artillery, arms, apparatus of war, munitions, or other public property. The city of Mexico, within the inner line of intrenchments surrounding the said city, is comprehended in the above stipulations as regards the restoration of artillery, apparatus of war, et cetera.

The final evacuation of the territory of the Mexican Republic, by the forces of the United States, shall be completed in three months from the said exchange of ratifications, or sooner, if possible: the Mexican government hereby engaging, as in the foregoing article, to use all means in its power for facilitating such evacuation, and rendering it convenient to the troops, and for promoting a good understanding between them and the inhabitants.

If, however, the ratification of this treaty by both parties should not take place in time to allow the embarkation of the troops of the United States to be completed before the commencement of the sickly season, at the Mexican ports on the Gulf of Mexico, in such case a friendly arrangement shall be entered into between the general-in-chief of the said troops and the Mexican government, whereby healthy and otherwise suitable places, at a distance from the ports not exceeding thirty leagues, shall be designated for the residence of such troops as may not yet have embarked, until the return of the healthy season. And the space of time here referred to as comprehending the sickly season, shall be understood to extend from the first day of May to the first day of November.

All prisoners of war taken on either side, on land or on sea, shall be restored as soon as practicable after the exchange of ratifications of this treaty. It is also agreed that if any Mexicans should now be held as captives by any savage tribe within the limits of the United States, as about to be established by the following article, the government of the said United States will exact the release of such captives, and cause them to be restored to their country.

ARTICLE V.

The boundary line between the two republics shall commence in the Gulf of Mexico, three leagues from land, opposite the mouth of the Rio Grande, otherwise called Rio Bravo del Norte, or opposite the mouth of its deepest branch, if it should have more than one branch emptying directly into the sea; from thence up the middle of that river, following the deepest channel, where it has more than one, to the point where it strikes the southern boundary of New Mexico; thence, westwardly, along the whole southern boundary of New Mexico (which runs north of the town called Paso) to its western termination; thence, northward, along the western line of New Mexico, until it intersects the first branch of the river Gila (or if it should not intersect any branch of that river, then to the point on the said line nearest to such branch, and thence in a direct line to the same); thence down the middle of the said branch and of the said river, until it empties into the Rio Colorado; thence across the Rio Colorado, following the division line between Upper and Lower California, to the Pacific Ocean.

The southern and western limits of New Mexico, mentioned in this article, are those laid down in the map entitled "Map of the United Mexican States, as organized and defined by various acts of the Congress of said Republic, and constructed according to the best Authorities. Revised edition. Published at New York, in eighteen hundred and forty-seven, by J. Disturnell." Of which map a copy is added to this treaty, bearing the signatures and seals of the undersigned plenipotentiaries. And, in order to preclude all difficulty in tracing upon the ground the limit separating Upper from Lower California, it is agreed that the said limit shall consist of a straight line drawn from the middle of the Rio Gila, where it unites with the Colorado, to a point on the coast of the Pacific Ocean distant one marine league due south of the southernmost point of the port of San Diego, according to the plan of said port made in the year seventeen hundred and eighty-two by Don Juan Pantoja, second sailing master of the Spanish fleet, and published at Madrid in the year eighteen hundred and two, in the atlas of the voyage of the schooners Sutil and Mexicana, of which plan a copy is hereunto added, signed and sealed by the respective plenipotentiaries.

In order to designate the boundary line with due precision, upon authoritative maps, and to establish upon the ground landmarks which shall show the limits of both republics, as described in the present article, the two governments shall each appoint a commissioner and a surveyor, who, before the expiration of one year from the date of the exchange of ratifications of this treaty, shall meet at the port of San Diego, and proceed to run and mark the said boundary in its whole course to the mouth of the Rio Bravo del Norte. They shall keep journals and make out plans of their operations; and the result agreed upon by them shall be deemed a part of this treaty, and shall have the same force as if it were inserted therein. The two governments will amicably agree regarding what may be necessary to these persons, and also as to their respective escorts, should such be necessary.

The boundary line established by this article shall be religiously respected by each of the two republics, and no change shall ever be made therein, except by the express and free consent of both nations, lawfully given by the general government of each, in conformity with its own constitution.

ARTICLE VI.

The vessels and citizens of the United States shall, in all time, have a free and uninterrupted passage by the Gulf of California, and by the River Colorado below its confluence with the Gila, to and from their possessions situated north of the boundary line defined in the preceding article; it being understood that this passage is to be by navigating the Gulf of California and the River Colorado, and not by land, without the express consent of the Mexican government.

If, by the examinations which may be made, it should be ascertained to be practicable and advantageous to construct a road, canal, or railway, which should in whole or part run upon the River Gila, or upon its right or its left bank, within the space of one marine league from either margin of the river, the governments of both republics will form an agreement regarding its construction, in order that it may serve equally for the use and advantage of both countries.

ARTICLE VII.

The River Gila, and the part of the Rio Bravo del Norte lying below the southern boundary of New Mexico, being agreeably to the fifth article, divided in the middle between the two republics, the navigation of the Gila and of the Bravo below said boundary shall be free and common to the vessels and citizens of both countries; and neither shall, without the consent of the other, construct any work that may impede or interrupt, in whole or in part, the exercise of this right; not even for the purpose of favoring new methods of navigation. Nor shall any tax or contribution, under any denomination or title, be levied upon vessels or persons navigating the same, or upon merchandise or effects transported thereon, except in the case of landing upon one of their shores. If, for the purpose of making the said rivers navigable, or for maintaining them in such state, it should be necessary or advantageous to establish any tax or contribution, this shall not be done without the consent of both governments.

The stipulations contained in the present article shall not impair the territorial rights of either republic within its established limits.

ARTICLE VIII.

Mexicans now established in territories previously belonging to Mexico, and which remain for the future within the limits of the United States, as defined by the present treaty, shall be free to continue where they now reside, or to remove at any time to the Mexican Republic, retaining the property which they possess in the said territories, or disposing thereof, and removing the proceeds wherever they please, without their being subjected, on this account, to any contribution, tax, or charge whatever.

Those who shall prefer to remain in the said territories may either retain the title and rights of Mexican citizens, or acquire those of citizens of the United States. But they shall be under the obligation to make their election within one year from the date of the exchange of ratifications of this treaty; and those who shall remain in the said territories after the expiration of that year, without having declared their intention to retain the character of Mexicans, shall be considered to have elected to become citizens of the United States.

In the said territories, property of every kind, now belonging to Mexicans not established there, shall be inviolably respected. The present owners, the heirs of these, and all Mexicans who may hereafter acquire said property by contract, shall enjoy, with respect to it, guarantees equally ample as if the same belonged to citizens of the United States.

ARTICLE IX.

The Mexicans who, in the territories aforesaid, shall not preserve the character of citizens of the Mexican Republic, conformably with what is stipulated in the preceding article, shall be incorporated into the Union of the United States, and be admitted at the proper time (to be judged by the Congress of the United States) to the enjoyment of all the rights of citizens of the United States according to the principles of the constitution; and in the meantime shall be maintained and protected in the free enjoyment of their liberty and property, and secured in the free exercise of their religion without restriction.

ARTICLE X.

[Stricken out.]

ARTICLE XI.

Considering that a great part of the territories which, by the present treaty, are to be comprehended for the future within the limits of the United States, is now occupied by savage tribes, who will hereafter be under the exclusive control of the government of the United States, and whose incursions within the territory of Mexico would be prejudicial in the extreme, it is solemnly agreed that all such incursions shall be forcibly restrained by the government of the United States whensoever this may be necessary; and that, when they cannot be prevented, they shall be punished by the said government, and satisfaction for the same shall be exacted—all in the same way, and with equal diligence and energy, as if the same incursions were meditated or committed within its own territory against its own citizens.

It shall not be lawful, under any pretext whatever, for any inhabitant of the United States to purchase or acquire any Mexican, or any foreigner residing in Mexico, who may have been captured by Indians inhabiting the territory of either of the two republics, nor to purchase or acquire horses, mules, cattle, or property of any kind, stolen within Mexican territory by such Indians.

And in the event of any person or persons, captured within Mexican territory by Indians, being carried into the territory of the United States, the government of the latter engages and binds itself in the most solemn manner, so soon as it shall know of such captives being within its territory, and shall be able so to do, through the faithful exercise of its influence and power, to rescue them, and return them to their country, or deliver them to the agent or representative of the Mexican government. The Mexican authorities will, as far as practicable, give to the government of the United States notice of such captures; and its agent shall pay the expenses incurred in the maintenance and transmission of the rescued captives; who, in the meantime, shall be treated with the utmost hospitality by the American authorities at the place where they may be. But if the government of the United States, before receiving such notice from Mexico, should obtain intelligence, through any other channel, of the existence of Mexican captives within its territory, it will proceed forthwith to effect their release and delivery to the Mexican agent as above stipulated.

For the purpose of giving to these stipulations the fullest possible efficacy, thereby affording the security and redress demanded by their true spirit and intent, the government of the United States will now and hereafter pass, without unnecessary delay, and always vigilantly enforce, such laws as the nature of the subject may require. And finally, the sacredness of this obligation shall never be lost sight of by the said government when providing for the removal of the Indians from any portion of the said territories, or for its being settled by citizens of the United States; but on the contrary, special care shall then be taken not to place its Indian occupants under the necessity of seeking new homes, by committing those invasions which the United States have solemnly obliged themselves to restrain.

ARTICLE XII.

In consideration of the extension acquired by the boundaries of the United States, as defined in the fifth article of the present treaty, the government of the United States engages to pay to that of the Mexican Republic the sum of fifteen millions of dollars.

Immediately after this treaty shall have been duly ratified by the government of the Mexican Republic, the sum of three millions of dollars shall be paid to the said government by that of the United States, at the city of Mexico, in gold or silver coin of Mexico. The remaining twelve millions of dollars shall be paid at the same place, and in the same coin, in annual instalments of three millions of dollars each, together with interest on the same at the rate of six per centum per annum. This interest shall begin to run upon the whole sum of twelve millions from the day of the ratification of the present treaty by the Mexican government, and the first of the instalments shall be paid at the expiration of one year from the same day. Together with each annual instalment, as it falls due, the whole interest accruing on such instalment from the beginning shall also be paid.

ARTICLE XIII.

The United States engage, moreover, to assume and pay to the claimants all the amounts now due them, and those hereafter to become due, by reason of the claims already liquidated, and decided against the Mexican Republic, under the conventions between the two republics severally concluded on the eleventh day of April, eighteen hundred and thirty-nine, and on the thirtieth day of January, eighteen hundred and forty-three; so that the Mexican Republic shall be absolutely exempt for the future from all expenses whatever on account of the said claims.

ARTICLE XIV.

The United States do furthermore discharge the Mexican Republic from all claims of citizens of the United States, not heretofore decided against the Mexican government, which may have arisen previously to the date of the signature of this treaty; which discharge shall be final and perpetual, whether the said claims be rejected or be allowed by the board of commissioners provided for in the following article, and whatever shall be the total amount of those allowed.

ARTICLE XV.

The United States, exonerating Mexico from all demands on account of the claims of their citizens mentioned in the preceding article, and considering them entirely and forever canceled, whatever their amount may be, undertake to make satisfaction for the same, to an amount not exceeding three and one quarter millions of dollars. To ascertain the validity and amount of those claims, a board of commissioners shall be established by the government of the United States, whose awards shall be final and conclusive: provided, that in deciding upon the validity of each claim, the board shall be guided and governed by the principles and rules of decision prescribed by the first and fifth articles of the unratified convention, concluded at the city of Mexico on the twentieth day of November, one thousand eight hundred and forty-three; and in no case shall an award be made in favor of any claim not embraced by these principles and rules.

If, in the opinion of the said board of commissioners, or of the claimants, any books, records, or documents in the possession or power of the government of the Mexican Republic, shall be deemed necessary to the just decision of any claim, the commissioners, or the claimants through them, shall, within such period as Congress may designate, make an application in writing for the same, addressed to the Mexican minister for foreign affairs, to be transmitted by the secretary of state of the United States; and the Mexican government engages, at the earliest possible moment after the receipt of such demand, to cause any of the books, records, or documents, so specified, which shall be in their possession or power (or authenticated copies or extracts of the same), to be transmitted to the said secretary of state, who shall immediately deliver them over to the said board of commissioners; provided, that no such application shall be made by, or at the instance of, any claimant, until the facts which it is expected to prove by such books, records, or documents, shall have been stated under oath or affirmation.

ARTICLE XVI.

Each of the contracting parties reserves to itself the entire right to fortify whatever point within its territory it may judge proper so to fortify, for its security.

ARTICLE XVII.

The treaty of amity, commerce, and navigation, concluded at the City of Mexico on the fifth day of April, in the year of our Lord eighteen hundred and thirty-one, between the United States of America and the United Mexican States, except the additional article, and except so far as the stipulations of the said treaty may be incompatible with any stipulation contained in the present treaty, is hereby revived for the period of eight years from the day of the exchange of ratifications of this treaty, with the same force and virtue as if incorporated therein; it being understood that each of the contracting parties reserves to itself the right, at any time after the said period of eight years shall have expired, to terminate the same by giving one year's notice of such intention to the other party.

ARTICLE XVIII.

All supplies whatever, for troops of the United States in Mexico, arriving at ports in the occupation of such troops previous to the final evacuation thereof, although subsequently to the restoration of the custom-houses at such ports, shall be entirely exempt from duties and charges of any kind; the government of the United States hereby engaging and pledging its faith to establish, and vigilantly to enforce all possible guards for securing the revenue of Mexico, by preventing the importation, under cover of this stipulation, of any articles other than such, both in kind and quantity, as shall really be wanted for the use and consumption of the forces of the United States during the time they may remain in Mexico. To this end, it shall be the duty of all officers and agents of the United States to denounce to the Mexican authorities at the respective ports any attempts at a fraudulent abuse of this stipulation which they may know of or may have reason to suspect, and to give to such authorities all the aid in their power with regard thereto: and every such attempt, when duly proved and established by sentence of a competent tribunal, shall be punished by the confiscation of the property so attempted to be fraudulently introduced.

ARTICLE XIX.

With respect to all merchandise, effects, and property whatsoever, imported into ports of Mexico whilst in the occupation of the forces of the United States, whether by citizens of either republic, or by citizens or subjects of any neutral nation, the following rules shall be observed:—

1. All such merchandise, effects, and property, if imported previously to the restoration of the custom-houses to the Mexican authorities, as stipulated for in the third article of this treaty, shall be exempt from confiscation, although the importation of the same be prohibited by the Mexican tariff.

2. The same perfect exemption shall be enjoyed by all such merchandise, effects, and property, imported subsequently to the restoration of the custom-houses, and previously to the sixty days fixed in the following article for the coming into force of the Mexican tariff at such ports respectively; the said merchandise, effects, and property being, however, at the time of their importation, subject to the payment of duties, as provided for in the said following article.

3. All merchandise, effects, and property described in the two rules foregoing shall, during their continuance at the place of importation, and upon their leaving such place for the interior, be exempt from all duty, tax, or impost of every kind, under whatsoever title or denomination. Nor shall they be there subjected to any charge whatsoever upon the sale thereof.

4. All merchandise, effects, and property described in the first and second rules, which shall have been removed to any place in the interior whilst such place was in the occupation of the forces of the United States, shall, during their continuance therein, be exempt from all tax upon the sale or consumption thereof, and from every kind of impost or contribution, under whatsoever title or denomination.

5. But if any merchandise, effects, or property described in the first and second rules, shall be removed to any place not occupied at the time by the forces of the United States, they shall, upon their introduction into such place, or upon their sale or consumption there, be subject to the same duties which, under the Mexican laws, they would be required to pay in such cases if they had been imported in time of peace, through the maritime custom-houses, and had there paid the duties conformably with the Mexican tariff.

6. The owners of all merchandise, effects, or property described in the first and second rules, and existing in any port of Mexico, shall have the right to reship the same, exempt from all tax, impost, or contribution whatever.

With respect to the metals, or other property, exported from any Mexican port whilst in the occupation of the forces of the United States, and previously to the restoration of the custom-house of such port, no person shall be required by the Mexican authorities, whether general or state, to pay any tax, duty, or contribution upon any such exportation, or in any manner to account for the same to the said authorities.

ARTICLE XX.

Through consideration for the interests of commerce generally, it is agreed, that if less than sixty days should elapse between the date of the signature of this treaty and the restoration of the custom-houses conformably with the stipulation in the third article, in such case all merchandise, effects, and property whatsoever, arriving at the Mexican ports after the restoration of the said custom-houses, and previously to the expiration of sixty days after the day of the signature of this treaty, shall be admitted to entry; and no other duties shall be levied thereon than the duties established by the tariff found in force at such custom-houses at the time of the restoration of the same. And to all such merchandise, effects, and property, the rules established by the preceding article shall apply.

ARTICLE XXI.

If unhappily any disagreement should hereafter arise between the governments of the two republics, whether with respect to the interpretation of any stipulation in this treaty, or with respect to any other particular concerning the political or commercial relations of the two nations, the said governments, in the name of those nations, do promise to each other that they will endeavor, in the most sincere and earnest manner, to settle the differences so arising, and to preserve the state of peace and friendship in which the two countries are now placing themselves; using, for this end, mutual representations and pacific negotiations. And if, by these means, they should not be enabled to come to an agreement, a resort shall not, on this account, be had to reprisals, aggression, or hostility of any kind, by the one republic against the other, until the government of that which deems itself aggrieved shall have maturely considered, in the spirit of peace and good neighborship, whether it would not be better that such difference should be settled by the arbitration of commissioners appointed on each side, or by that of a friendly nation. And should such course be proposed by either party, it shall be acceded to by the other, unless deemed by it altogether incompatible with the nature of the difference, or the circumstances of the case.

ARTICLE XXII.

If (which is not to be expected, and which God forbid!) war should unhappily break out between the two republics, they do now, with a view to such calamity, solemnly pledge themselves to each other and to the world, to observe the following rules, absolutely, where the nature of the subject permits, and as closely as possible in all cases where such absolute observance shall be impossible:

1. The merchants of either republic then residing in the other shall be allowed to remain twelve months (for those dwelling in the interior), and six months (for those dwelling at seaports), to collect their debts and settle their affairs; during which periods they shall enjoy the same protection and be on the same footing, in all respects, as the citizens or subjects of the most friendly nations; and, at the expiration thereof, or at any time before, they shall have full liberty to depart, carrying off all their effects without molestation or hindrance; conforming therein to the same laws which the citizens or subjects of the most friendly nations are required to conform to. Upon the entrance of the armies of either nation into the territories of the other, women and children, ecclesiastics, scholars of every faculty, cultivators of the earth, merchants, artisans, manufacturers, and fishermen, unarmed and inhabiting unfortified towns, villages, or places, and in general all persons whose occupations are for the common subsistence and benefit of mankind, shall be allowed to continue their respective employments unmolested in their persons. Nor shall their houses or goods be burned or otherwise destroyed, nor their cattle taken, nor their fields wasted by the armed force into whose power, by the events of war, they may happen to fall; but if the necessity arise to take anything from them for the use of such armed force, the same shall be paid for at an equitable price. All churches, hospitals, schools, colleges, libraries, and other establishments for charitable and benefi-cent purposes, shall be respected, and all persons connected with the same protected in the discharge of their duties and the pursuit of their vocations.

2. In order that the fate of prisoners of war may be alleviated, all such practices as those of sending them into distant, inclement, or unwholesome districts, or crowding them into close and noxious places, shall be studiously avoided. They shall not be confined in dungeons, prison-ships, or prisons; nor be put in irons, or bound, or otherwise restrained in the use of their limbs. The officers shall enjoy liberty on their paroles, within convenient districts, and have comfortable quarters; and the common soldiers shall be disposed in cantonments, open and extensive enough for air and exercise, and lodged in barracks as roomy and good as are provided by the party in whose power they are, for its own troops. But if any officer shall break his parole by leaving the district so assigned him, or any other prisoner shall escape from the limits of his cantonment, after they shall have been designated to him, such individual, officer, or other prisoner shall forfeit so much of the benefit of this article as provides for his liberty on parole or in cantonment. And if any officer so breaking his parole, or any common soldier so escaping from the limits assigned him, shall afterwards be found in arms, previously to his being regularly exchanged, the person so offending shall be dealt with according to the established laws of war. The officers shall be daily furnished by the party in whose power they are, with as many rations, and of the same articles, as are allowed, either in kind or by commutation, to officers of equal rank in its own army; and all others shall be daily furnished with such ration as is allowed to a common soldier in its own service: the value of all which supplies shall, at the close of the war, or at periods to be agreed upon between the respective commanders, be paid by the other party on a mutual adjustment of accounts for the subsistence of prisoners; and such accounts shall not be mingled with or set off against any others, nor the balance due on them be withheld, as a compensation or reprisal for any cause whatever, real or pretended. Each party shall be allowed to keep a commissary of prisoners, appointed by itself, with every cantonment of prisoners, in possession of the other; which commissary shall see the prisoners as often as he pleases; shall be allowed to receive, exempt from all duties or taxes, and to distribute, whatever comforts may be sent to them by their friends; and shall be free to transmit his reports in open letters to the party by whom he is employed.

And it is declared that neither the pretense that war dissolves all treaties, nor any other whatever, shall be considered as annulling or suspending the solemn covenant contained in this article. On the contrary, the state of war is precisely that for which it is provided; and during which its stipulations are to be as sacredly observed as the most acknowledged obligations under the law of nature or nations.

ARTICLE XXIII.

This treaty shall be ratified by the president of the United States of America, by and with the advice and consent of the senate thereof; and by the president of the Mexican Republic, with the previous approbation of its general Congress; and the ratifications shall be exchanged in the city of Washington, or at the seat of government of Mexico, in four months from the date of the signature hereof, or sooner if practicable.

In faith whereof, we, the respective plenipotentiaries, have signed this treaty of peace, friendship, limits, and settlement; and have hereunto affixed our seals respectively.

Done in quintuplicate, at the city of Guadalupe Hidalgo, on the second day of February, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and forty-eight.

ARTICLES REFERRED TO IN THE FIFTEENTH ARTICLE OF THE PRECEDING TREATY.

FIRST AND FIFTH ARTICLES OF THE UNRATIFIED CONVENTION BETWEEN THE UNITED STATES AND THE MEXICAN REPUBLIC, OF THE TWENTIETH OF NOVEMBER, EIGHTEEN HUNDRED AND FORTY-THREE.

ARTICLE I.

All claims of citizens of the Mexican Republic against the government of the United States, which shall be presented in the manner and time hereinafter expressed, and all claims of citizens of the United States against the government of the Mexican Republic, which for whatever cause were not submitted to, nor considered nor finally decided by, the commission, nor by the arbiter appointed by the convention of eighteen hundred and thirty-nine, and which shall be presented in the manner and time hereinafter specified, shall be referred to four commissioners, who shall form a board, and shall be appointed in the following manner, that is to say: Two commissioners shall be appointed by the president of the Mexican Republic, and the other two by the president of the United States, with the approbation and consent of the senate. The said commissioners, thus appointed, shall, in the presence of each other, take an oath to examine and decide impartially the claims submitted to them, and which may lawfully be considered, according to the proofs which shall be presented, the principles of right and justice, the law of nations, and the treaties between the two republics.

ARTICLE V.

All claims of citizens of the United States against the government of the Mexican Republic, which were considered by the commissioners, and referred to the umpire appointed under the convention of the eleventh of April, eighteen hundred and thirty-nine, and which were decided by him, shall be referred to, and decided by, the umpire to be appointed, as provided by this convention, on the points submitted to the umpire under the late convention, and his decision shall be final and conclusive. It is also agreed that, if the respective commissioners shall deem it expedient, they may submit to the said arbiter new arguments upon the said claims.

PROCLAMATION TO THE PEOPLE OF CALIFORNIA.

I.

PROCLAMATION, CALLING A CONVENTION TO FORM A STATE CONSTITUTION FOR CALIFORNIA.

Congress having failed, at its recent session, to provide a new government for this country, to replace that which existed on the annexation of California to the United States, the undersigned would call attention to the means which he deems best calculated to avoid the embarrassments of our present position.

The undersigned, in accordance with instructions from the secretary of war, has assumed the administration of civil affairs in California, not as a military governor, but as the executive of the existing civil government. In the absence of a properly appointed civil governor, the commanding officer of the department is, by the laws of California, ex officio civil governor of the country, and the instructions from Washington were based on the provisions of these laws. This subject has been misrepresented, or at least misconceived, and currency given to the impression that the government of the country is still military. Such is not the fact. The military government ended with the war, and what remains is the civil government recognized in the existing laws of California. Although the command of the troops in this department, and the administration of civil affairs in California, are, by the existing laws of the country, and the instructions of the president of the United States, temporarily lodged in the hands of the same individual, they are separate and distinct. No military officer, other than the commanding general of the department, exercises any civil authority by virtue of his military commission, and the powers of the commanding general, as ex officio governor, are only such as are defined and recognized in the existing laws. The instructions of the secretary of war make it the duty of all military officers to recognize the existing civil government, and to aid its officers with the military force under their control. Beyond this, any interference is not only uncalled for, but strictly forbidden.

The laws of California, not inconsistent with the laws, constitution, and treaties of the United States, are still in force, and must continue in force until changed by competent authority. Whatever may be thought of the right of the people to temporarily replace the officers of the existing government by others appointed by a provisional territorial legislature, there can be no question that the existing laws of the country must continue in force till replaced by others made and enacted by competent power. That power, by the treaty of peace, as well as from the nature of the case, is vested in Congress. The situation of California, in this respect, is very different from that of Oregon. The latter was without laws, while the former has a system of laws, which, though somewhat defective, and requiring many changes and amendments, must continue in force till repealed by competent legislative power. The situation of California is almost identical with that of Louisiana; and the decisions of the supreme court, in recognizing the validity of the laws which existed in that country previous to its annexation to the United States, were not inconsistent with the constitution and laws of the United States, or repealed by legitimate legislative enactments, furnish us a clear and safe guide in our present situation. It is important that citizens should understand this fact, so as not to endanger their property and involve themselves in useless and expensive litigation, by giving countenance to persons claiming authority which is not given them by law, and by putting faith in laws which can never be recognized by legitimate courts.

As Congress has failed to organize a new territorial government, it becomes our imperative duty to take some active measures to provide for the existing wants of the country. This, it is thought, may be best accomplished by putting in full vigor the administration of the laws as they now exist, and completing the organization of the civil government, by the election and appointment of all officers recognized by law; while, at the same time, a convention, in which all parts of the territory are represented, shall meet and frame a state constitution, or a territorial organization, to be submitted to the people for their ratification, and then proposed to Congress for its approval. Considerable time will necessarily elapse before any new government can be legitimately organized and put in operation; in the interim, the existing government, if its organization be completed, will be found sufficient for all our temporary wants.

A brief summary of the organization of the present government may not be uninteresting. It consists: 1. Of a governor, appointed by the supreme government: in default of such appointment, the office is temporarily vested in the commanding military officer of the department. The powers and duties of the governor are of a limited character, but fully defined and pointed out by the laws. 2. A secretary, whose duties and powers are also properly defined. 3. A territorial or department legislature, with limited power to pass laws of a local character. 4. A superior court (tribunal superior) of the territory, consisting of four judges and a fiscal. 5. A prefect and sub-prefects for each district, who are charged with the preservation of public order and the execution of the laws; their duties correspond, in a great measure, with those of district marshals and sheriffs. 6. A judge of first instance for each district. This office is, by a custom not inconsistent with the laws, vested in the first alcalde of the district. 7. Alcaldes who have concurrent jurisdiction among themselves in the same district, but are subordinate to the higher judicial tribunals. 8. Local justices of the peace. 9. Ayuntamientos, or town councils. The powers and functions of all these officers are fully defined in the laws of this country, and are almost identical with those of the corresponding offices in the Atlantic and western states.

In order to complete this organization with the least possible delay, the undersigned, in virtue of power in him vested, does hereby appoint the first of August next as the day for holding a special election for delegates to a general convention, and for filling the offices of judges of the superior court, prefects and sub-prefects, and all vacancies in the offices of first alcalde (or judge of first instance), alcaldes, justices of the peace, and town councils. The judges of the superior court and district prefects are by law executive appointments, but being desirous that the wishes of the people should be fully consulted, the governor will appoint such persons as may receive the plurality of votes in their respective districts, provided they are competent and eligible to the office. Each district will therefore elect a prefect and two sub-prefects, and fill the vacancies in the offices of first alcalde (or judge of first instance) and of alcaldes. One judge of the superior court will be elected in the districts of San Diego, Los Angeles and Santa Barbara; one in the district of San Luis Obispo and Monterey; one in the districts of San Jose and San Francisco; and one in the districts of Sonoma, Sacramento and San Joaquin. The salaries of the judges of the superior court, the prefects and judges of first instance, are regulated by the governor, but cannot exceed, for the first, four thousand dollars per annum, for the second, two thousand five hundred dollars, and for the third, one thousand five hundred dollars. These salaries will be paid out of the civil fund which has been formed from the proceeds of the customs, provided no instructions to the contrary are received from Washington. The law requires that the judges of the superior court meet within three months after its organization, and form a tariff of fees for the different territorial courts and legal officers, including all alcaldes, justices of the peace, sheriffs, constables, et cetera.

All local alcaldes, justices of the peace, and members of town councils elected at the special election, will continue in office till the first of January, one thousand eight hundred and fifty, when their places will be supplied by the persons who may be elected at the regular annual election, which takes place in November, at which time the election of members to the territorial assembly will also be held.

The general convention for forming a state constitution or a plan for territorial government, will consist of thirty-seven delegates, who will meet in Monterey on the first day of September next. These delegates will be chosen as follows:

The district of San Diego will elect two delegates, of Los Angeles four, of Santa Barbara two, of San Luis Obispo two, of Monterey five, of San Jose five, of San Francisco five, of Sonoma four, of Sacramento four, of San Joaquin four. Should any district think itself entitled to a greater number of delegates than the above named, it may elect supernumeraries, who, on the organization of the convention, will be admitted or not at the pleasure of that body.

The places for holding the election will be as follows: San Diego, San Juan Capistrano, Los Angeles, San Fernando, San Buenaventura, Santa Barbara, Nepoma, San Luis Obispo, Monterey, San Juan Baptiste, Santa Cruz, San Jose de Guadalupe, San Francisco, San Rafael, Bodega, Sonoma, Benicia (the places for holding election in the Sacramento and San Joaquin districts will be hereafter designated). The local alcaldes and members of the ayuntamientos or town councils, will act as judges and inspectors of elections. In case there should be less than three such judges and inspectors present at each of the places designated on the day of election, the people will appoint some competent person to fill the vacancies. The polls will be open from ten o'clock a. m. to four p. m., or until sunset, if the judges deem it necessary.

Every free male citizen of the United States and of Upper California, twenty-one years of age, and actually resident in the district where the vote is offered, will be entitled to the right of suffrage. All citizens of Lower California who have been forced to come to this territory on account of having rendered assistance to the American troops during the recent war with Mexico, should also be allowed to vote in the district where they actually reside.

Great care should be taken by the inspectors that votes are received only from bona fide citizens actually resident in the country. These judges and inspectors, previous to entering upon the duties of their office, should take an oath faithfully and truly to perform these duties. The returns should state distinctly the number of votes received for each candidate, be signed by the inspectors, sealed, and immediately transmitted to the secretary of state for file in his office.

The following are the limits of the several districts:

1. The district of San Diego is bounded on the south by Lower California, on the west by the sea, on the north by the parallel of latitude including the Mission San Juan Capistrano, and on the east by the Colorado River.

2. The district of Los Angeles is bounded on the south by the district of San Diego, on the west by the sea, on the north by the Santa Clara River, and a parallel of latitude running from the headwaters of that river to the Colorado.

3. The district of Santa Barbara is bounded on the south by the district of Los Angeles, on the west by the sea, on the north by Santa Ynez River, and a parallel of latitude existing from the headwaters of that river to the summit of the Coast Range of mountains.

4. The district of San Luis Obispo is bounded on the south by the district of Santa Barbara, on the west by the sea, on the north by a parallel of latitude including San Miguel, and on the east by the Coast Range of mountains.

5. The district of Monterey is bounded on the south by the district of San Luis Obispo, and on the north and east by a line running east from New Year's Point to the summit of the Santa Clara range of mountains, thence along the summit of that range to the Arroya de los Leagas, and a parallel of latitude extending to the summit of the Coast Range, and along that range to the district of San Luis Obispo.

6. The district of San Jose is bounded on the north by the straits of Carquenas, the Bay of San Francisco, the arroya of San Francisco, and a parallel of latitude to the summit of Santa Clara Mountains, on the west and south by the Santa Clara Mountains and the district of Monterey, and on the east by the Coast Range.

7. The district of San Francisco is bounded on the west by the sea, on the south by the districts of San Jose and Monterey, and on the east and north by the Bay of San Francisco, including the islands in that bay.

8. The district of Sonoma includes all the country bounded by the sea, the bays of San Francisco and Suisun, the Sacramento River and Oregon.

9. The district of Sacramento is bounded on the north and west by the Sacramento River, on the east by the Sierra Nevada, and on the south by the Cosumnes River.

10. The district of San Joaquin includes all the country south of the Sacramento district, and lying between the Coast Range and the Sierra Nevada.

The method here indicated to attain what is desired by all, viz., a more perfect political organization, is deemed the most direct and safe that can be adopted, and one fully authorized by law. It is the course advised by the president, and by the secretaries of state and of war of the United States, and is calculated to avoid the innumerable evils which must necessarily result from any attempt at illegal local legislation. It is therefore hoped that it will meet the approbation of the people of California, and that all good citizens will unite in carrying it into execution.

Given at Monterey, California, this third day of June, anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and forty-nine.

Brevet Brig. Gen. U. S. A., and Governor of California.

PROCLAMATION TO THE PEOPLE OF CALIFORNIA.

The delegates of the people assembled in convention have formed a constitution, which is now presented for your ratification. The time and manner of voting on this constitution, and of holding the first general election, are clearly set forth in the schedule; the whole subject is therefore left for your unbiased and deliberate consideration.

The prefect (or person exercising the functions of that office) of each district will designate the places for opening the polls, and give due notice of the election, in accordance with the provisions of the constitution and schedule.

The people are now called upon to form a government for themselves, and to designate such officers as they desire to make and execute the laws. That their choice may be wisely made, and that the government so organized may secure the permanent welfare and happiness of the people of the new state, is the sincere and earnest wish of the present executive, who, if the constitution be ratified, will, with pleasure, surrender his powers to whomsoever the people may designate as his successor.

Given at Monterey, California, this twelfth day of October, anno Domini eighteen hundred and forty-nine.

B. RILEY,

Bvt. Brig. Gen'l U. S. A., and Governor of California.

Official: H. W. HALLECK,

Brev. Capt. and Secretary of State.

III.

PROCLAMATION TO THE PEOPLE OF CALIFORNIA.

A new executive having been elected and installed into office, in accordance with the provisions of the constitution of the state, the undersigned hereby resigns his powers as governor of California. In thus dissolving his official connection with the people of this country, he would tender to them his heartfelt thanks for their many kind attentions, and for the uniform support which they have given to the measures of his administration. The principal object of all his wishes is now accomplished—the people have a government of their own choice, and one which, under the favor of Divine Providence, will secure their own prosperity and happiness, and the permanent welfare of the new state.

Given at San Jose, California, this twentieth day of December, anno Domini eighteen hundred and forty-nine.

B. RILEY,

Brevet Brigadier-General U. S. A., and Governor of California.

We, the people of California, grateful to Almighty God for our freedom, in order to secure its blessings, do establish this constitution.

ARTICLE I.DECLARATION OF RIGHTS.

§ 1. All men are by nature free and independent, and have certain inalienable rights, among which are those of enjoying and defending life and liberty; acquiring, possessing and protecting property; and pursuing and obtaining safety and happiness.

§ 2. All political power is inherent in the people. Government is instituted for the protection, security and benefit of the people; and they have the right to alter or reform the same, whenever the public good may require it.

§ 3. The right of trial by jury shall be secured to all, and remain inviolate forever; but a jury trial may be waived by the parties in all civil cases, in the manner to be prescribed by law.

§ 4. The free exercise and enjoyment of religious profession and worship, without discrimination or preference, shall forever be allowed in this state; and no person shall be rendered incompetent to be a witness on account of his opinions on matters of religious belief; but the liberty of conscience hereby secured shall not be so construed as to excuse acts of licentiousness, or justify practices inconsistent with the peace or safety of the state.

§ 5. The privilege of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended, unless when, in cases of rebellion or invasion, the public safety may require its suspension.

§ 6. Excessive bail shall not be required, nor excessive fines imposed, nor shall cruel or unusual punishments be inflicted, nor shall witnesses be unreasonably detained.

§ 7. All persons shall be bailable by sufficient sureties, unless for capital offenses, when the proof is evident or the presumption great.

§ 8. No person shall be held to answer for a capital or otherwise infamous crime (except in cases of impeachment, and in cases of militia when in actual service, and the land and naval forces in time of war, or which this state may keep with the consent of Congress in time of peace, and in cases of petit larceny under the regulation of the legislature) unless on presentment or indictment of a grand jury; and in any trial in any court whatever, the party accused shall be allowed to appear and defend in person and with counsel, as in civil actions. No person shall be subject to be twice put in jeopardy for the same offense; nor shall he be compelled, in any criminal case, to be a witness against himself, nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use without just compensation.

§ 9. Every citizen may freely speak, write, and publish his sentiments on all subjects, being responsible for the abuse of that right; and no law shall be passed to restrain or abridge the liberty of speech or of the press. In all criminal prosecutions on indictments for libels, the truth may be given in evidence to the jury; and if it shall appear to the jury that the matter charged as libelous is true, and was published with good motives and for justifiable ends, the party shall be acquitted; and the jury shall have the right to determine the law and the fact.

§ 10. The people shall have the right freely to assemble together, to consult for the common good, to instruct their representatives, and to petition the legislature for redress of grievances.

§ 11. All laws of a general nature shall have a uniform operation.

§ 12. The military shall be subordinate to the civil power. No standing army shall be kept up by this state in time of peace; and in time of war no appropriation for a standing army shall be for a longer time than two years.

§ 13. No soldier shall in time of peace, be quartered in any house without the consent of the owner; nor in time of war, except in the manner to be prescribed by law.

§ 14. Representation shall be apportioned according to population.

§ 15. No person shall be imprisoned for debt in any civil action on mesne or final process, unless in cases of fraud; and no person shall be imprisoned for a militia fine in time of peace.

§ 17. Foreigners who are or who may hereafter become bona fide residents of this state shall enjoy the same rights, in respect to the possession, enjoyment, and inheritance of property, as native-born citizens.

§ 18. Neither slavery, nor involuntary servitude, unless for the punishment of crimes, shall ever be tolerated in this state.

§ 19. The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects, against unreasonable seizures and searches, shall not be violated; and no warrant shall issue but on probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, particularly describing the place to be searched and the persons and things to be seized.

§ 20. Treason against the state shall consist only in levying war against it, adhering to its enemies, or giving them aid and comfort. No person shall be convicted of treason, unless on the evidence of two witnesses to the same overt act, or confession in open court.

§ 21. This enumeration of rights shall not be construed to impair or deny others retained by the people.

ARTICLE II.

RIGHT OF SUFFRAGE.

§ 1. Every white male citizen of the United States, and every white male citizen of Mexico who shall have elected to become a citizen of the United States, under the treaty of peace exchanged and ratified at Queretaro, on the thirtieth day of May, eighteen hundred and forty-eight, of the age of twenty-one years, who shall have been a resident of the state six months next preceeding the election, and the county or district in which he claims his vote thirty days, shall be entitled to vote at all elections which are now or hereafter may be authorized by law: provided, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to prevent the legislature, by a two thirds concurrent vote, from admitting to the right of suffrage Indians, or the descendants of Indians, in such special cases as such a proportion of the legislative body may deem just and proper.

§ 2. Electors shall, in all cases except treason, felony, or breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest on the days of election, during their attendance at such election, going to and returning therefrom.

§ 3. No elector shall be obliged to perform militia duty on the day of election, except in time of war or public danger.

§ 4. § 5. No idiot or insane person, or person convicted of any infamous crime, shall be entitled to the privileges of an elector.

§ 6. All elections by the people shall be by ballot.

ARTICLE III.

DISTRIBUTION OF POWERS.

The powers of the government of the state of California shall be divided into three separate departments—the legislative, the executive, and judicial: and no person charged with the exercise of powers properly belonging to one of these departments shall exercise any functions appertaining to either of the others, except in the cases hereinafter expressly directed or permitted.

ARTICLE IV.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

§ 1. The legislative power of this state shall be vested in a senate and assembly, which shall be designated the legislature of the state of California: and the enacting clause of every law shall be as follows: "The People of the State of California, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:"

§ 2. The sessions of the legislature shall be biennial, and shall commence on the first Monday of December next ensuing the election of its members, unless the governor of the state shall in the interim convene the legislature by proclamation. No session shall continue longer than one hundred and twenty days. [Amendment, proposed 1861; ratified 3d September, 1862.]

§ 3. The members of the assembly shall be chosen biennially, by the qualified electors of their respective districts, on the first Wednesday in September, unless otherwise ordered by the legislature, and their term of office shall be two years. [Amendment, proposed 1861; ratified 3d September, 1862.]

§ 4. Senators and members of assembly shall be duly qualified electors in the respective counties and districts which they represent.

§ 5. Senators shall be chosen for the term of four years, at the same time and places as members of assembly; and no person shall be a member of the senate or assembly who has not been a citizen and inhabitant of the state, and of the county, or district for which he shall be chosen, one year next before his election. [Amendment, proposed 1861; ratified 3d September, 1862.]

§ 6. The number of senators shall not be less than one third, nor more than one half, of that of the members of assembly; and at the first session of the legislature after this section takes effect the senators shall be divided by lot, as equally as may be, into two classes. The seats of the senators of the first class shall be vacated at the expiration of the second year, so that one half shall be chosen biennially. [Amendment, proposed 1861; ratified 3d September, 1862.]

§ 7. When the number of senators is increased, they shall be apportioned by lot, so as to keep the two classes as nearly equal in number as possible.

§ 8. Each house shall choose its own officers, and judge of the qualifications, elections, and returns of its own members.

§ 9. A majority of each house shall constitute a quorum to do business; but a smaller number may adjourn from day to day, and may compel the attendance of absent members, in such manner and under such penalties as each house may provide.

§ 10. Each house shall determine the rules of its own proceedings, and may, with the concurrence of two thirds of all the members elected, expel a member.

§ 11. Each house shall keep a journal of its own proceedings, and publish the same; and the yeas and nays of the members of either house on any question shall, at the desire of any three members present, be entered on the journal.

§ 12. Members of the legislature shall, in all cases except treason, felony, and breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest, and shall not be subject to any civil process during the session of the legislature, nor for fifteen days next before the commencement and after the termination of each session.

§ 13. When vacancies occur in either house, the governor, or the person exercising the functions of the governor, shall issue writs of elections to fill such vacancies.

§ 14. The doors of each house shall be open, except on such occasions as, in the opinion of the house, may require secrecy.

§ 15. Neither house shall, without the consent of the other, adjourn for more than three days, nor to any other place than that in which they be sitting.

§ 16. Any bill may originate in either house of the legislature, and all bills passed by one house may be amended in the other.

§ 17. Every bill which may have passed the legislature, shall, before it becomes a law, be presented to the governor. If he approve it, he shall sign it; but if not, he shall return it, with his objections, to the house in which it originated, which shall enter the same upon the journal, and proceed to reconsider it. If, after such reconsideration, it again pass both houses, by yeas and nays, by a majority of two thirds of the members of each house present, it shall become a law, notwithstanding the governor's objections. If any bill shall not be returned within ten days after it shall have been presented to him (Sundays excepted), the same shall become a law, in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the legislature, by adjournment, prevent such return.

§ 18. The assembly shall have the sole power of impeachment, and all impeachments shall be tried by the senate. When sitting for that purpose, the senators shall be upon oath or affirmation; and no person shall be convicted without the concurrence of two thirds of the members present.

§ 19. The governor, lieutenant-governor, secretary of state, controller, treasurer, attorney-general, surveyor-general, justices of the supreme court, and judges of the district courts, shall be liable to impeachment for any misdemeanor in office; but judgment in such cases shall extend only to removal from office and disqualification to hold any office of honor, trust, or profit under the state; but the party convicted or acquitted shall, nevertheless, be liable to indictment, trial, and punishment, according to law. All other civil officers shall be tried for misdemeanors in office, in such a manner as the legislature may provide.

§ 20. No senator or member of assembly shall, during the term for which he shall have been elected, be appointed to any civil office of profit under this state, which shall have been created, or the emoluments of which shall have been increased, during such term, except such office as may be filled by elections by the people.

§ 21. No person holding any lucrative office under the United States, or any other power, shall be eligible to any civil office of profit under this state; provided, that officers in the militia, to which there is attached no annual salary, or local officers and postmasters whose compensation does not exceed five hundred dollars per annum, shall not be deemed lucrative.

§ 22. No person who shall be convicted of the embezzlement or defalcation of the public funds of this state shall ever be eligible to any office of honor, trust or profit, under this state; and the legislature shall, as soon as practicable, pass a law providing for the punishment of such embezzlement, or defalcation, as a felony.

§ 23. No money shall be drawn from the treasury but in consequence of appropriations made by law. An accurate statement of the receipts and expenditures of the public moneys shall be attached to and published with the laws at every regular session of the legislature.

§ 24. The members of the legislature shall receive for their services a compensation to be fixed by law, and paid out of the public treasury; but no increase of the compensation shall take effect during the term for which the members of either house shall have been elected.

§ 25. Every law enacted by the legislature shall embrace but one object, and that shall be expressed in the title; and no law shall be revised or amended by reference to its title; but in such case the act revised or section amended shall be re-enacted and published at length.

§ 26. No divorce shall be granted by the legislature.

§ 27. No lottery shall be authorized by this state, nor shall the sale of lottery tickets be allowed.

§ 28. The enumeration of the inhabitants of this state shall be taken, under the direction of the legislature, in the year one thousand eight hundred and fifty-two, and one thousand eight hundred and fifty-five, and at the end of every ten years thereafter; and these enumerations, together with the census that may be taken under the direction of the Congress of the United States, in the year one thousand eight hundred and fifty, and every subsequent ten years, shall serve as the basis of representation in both houses of the legislature.

§ 29. The number of senators and members of assembly shall, at the first session of the legislature holden after the enumeration herein provided for and made, be fixed by the legislature, and apportioned among the several counties and districts to be established by law, according to the number of white inhabitants. The number of members of assembly shall not be less than twenty-four, nor more than thirty-six, until the number of inhabitants within this state shall amount to one hundred thousand; and after that period at such ratio that the whole number of members of assembly shall never be less than thirty, nor more than eighty.

§ 30. When a congressional, senatorial, or assembly district shall be composed of two or more counties, it shall not be separated by any county belonging to another district. No county shall be divided, in forming a congressional, senatorial, or assembly district, so as to attach one portion of a county to another county; but the legislature may divide each county into as many congressional, senatorial or assembly districts as such county may by apportionment be entitled to. [Amendment, proposed 1861; ratified 3d September, 1862.]

§ 31. Corporations may be formed under general laws, but shall not be created by special act, except for municipal purposes. All general laws and special acts passed pursuant to this section may be altered from time to time, or repealed.

§ 32. Dues from corporations shall be secured by such individual liability of the corporators and other means as may be prescribed by law.

§ 33. The term "corporations," as used in this article, shall be construed to include all associations and joint-stock companies having any of the powers or privileges of corporations not possessed by individuals or partnerships. And all corporations shall have the right to sue, and shall be subject to be sued, in all courts, in like cases as natural persons.

§ 34. The legislature shall have no power to pass any act granting any charter for banking purposes; but associations may be formed, under general laws, for the deposit of gold and silver; but no such association shall make, issue, or put in circulation, any bill, check, ticket, certificate, promissory note, or other paper, or the paper of any bank, to circulate as money.

§ 35. The legislature of this state shall prohibit by law any person or persons, association, company, or corporation from exercising the privileges of banking, or creating paper to circulate as money.

§ 36. Each stockholder of a corporation or joint-stock association shall be individually and personally liable for his proportion of all its debts and liabilities.

§ 37. It shall be the duty of the legislature to provide for the organization of cities and incorporated villages, and to restrict their power of taxation, assessment, borrowing money, contracting debts, and loaning their credit, so as to prevent abuses in assessments and in contracting debts by such municipal corporations.

§ 38. In all elections by the legislature, the members thereof shall vote viva voce, and the votes shall be entered on the journal.

§ 39. In order that no inconvenience may result to the public service from the taking effect of the amendments proposed to article four by the legislature of eighteen hundred and sixty-one, no officer shall be suspended or superseded thereby, until the election and qualification of the several officers provided for in said amendments. [Amendment, proposed 1861; ratified 3d September, 1862.]

ARTICLE V.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT.

§ 1. The supreme executive power of this state shall be vested in a chief magistrate, who shall be styled the governor of the state of California.

§ 2. The governor shall be elected by the qualified electors at the time and places of voting for members of the assembly, and shall hold his office four years from and after the first Monday in December subsequent to his election, and until his successor is elected and qualified. [Amendment, proposed 1861; ratified 3d September, 1862.]

§ 3. No person shall be eligible to the office of governor (except at the first election) who has not been a citizen of the United States and a resident of this state two years next preceeding the election, and attained the age of twenty-five years at the time of said election.

§ 4. The returns of every election for governor shall be sealed up and transmitted to the seat of government, directed to the speaker of the assembly, who shall, during the first week of the session, open and publish them in presence of both houses of the legislature. The person having the highest number of votes shall be governor; but in case any two or more have an equal and the highest number of votes, the legislature shall, by joint vote of both houses, choose one of said persons so having an equal and the highest number of votes, for governor.

§ 5. The governor shall be commander-in-chief of the militia, the army, and navy of this state.

§ 6. He shall transact all executive business with the officers of government, civil and military, and may require information in writing from the officers of the executive department upon any subject relating to the duties of their respective offices.

§ 7. He shall see that the laws are faithfully executed.

§ 8. When any office shall, from any cause, become vacant, and no mode is provided by the constitution and laws for filling such vacancy, the governor shall have power to fill such vacancy by granting a commission, which shall expire at the end of the next session of the legislature, or at the next election by the people.

§ 9. He may, on extraordinary occasions, convene the legislature by proclamation, and shall state to both houses, when assembled, the purpose for which they shall have been convened.

§ 10. He shall communicate by message to the legislature, at every session, the condition of the state, and recommend such matters as he shall deem expedient.

§ 11. In case of a disagreement between the two houses with respect to the time of adjournment the governor shall have power to adjourn the legislature to such time as he may think proper; provided it be not beyond the time fixed for the meeting of the next legislature.

§ 12. No person shall, while holding any office under the United States or this state, exercise the office of governor, except as hereinafter expressly provided.

§ 13. The governor shall have the power to grant reprieves and pardons after conviction, for all offenses except treason and cases of impeachment, upon such conditions and with such restrictions and limitations as he may think proper, subject to such regulations as may be provided by law relative to the manner of applying for pardons. Upon conviction for treason, he shall have the power to suspend the execution of the sentence until the case shall be reported to the legislature at its next meeting, when the legislature shall either pardon, direct the execution of the sentence, or grant a further reprieve. He shall communicate to the legislature, at the beginning of every session, every case of reprieve or pardon granted, stating the name of the convict, the crime of which he was convicted, the sentence and its date, and the date of the pardon or reprieve.

§ 14. There shall be a seal of this state, which shall be kept by the governor, and used by him officially, and shall be called "The Great Seal of the State of California."

§ 15. All grants and commissions shall be in the name and by the authority of the people of the state of California, sealed with the great seal of the state, signed by the governor, and countersigned by the secretary of state.

§ 16. A lieutenant-governor shall be elected at the same time and places, and in the same manner as the governor; and his term of office and his qualifications of eligibility shall also be the same. He shall be president of the senate, but shall only have a casting vote therein. If, during a vacancy of the office of governor, the lieutenant-governor shall be impeached, displaced, resign, die, or become incapable of performing the duties of his office, or be absent from the state, the president of the senate shall act as governor until the vacancy be filled or the disability shall cease.

§ 17. In case of the impeachment of the governor, or his removal from office, death, inability to discharge the powers and duties of the said office, resignation, or absence from the state, the powers and duties of the office shall devolve upon the lieutenant-governor for the residue of the term, or until the disability shall cease. But when the governor shall, with the consent of the legislature, be out of the state in time of war, at the head of any military force thereof, he shall continue commander-in-chief of all the military forces of the state.

§ 18. A secretary of state, a controller, a treasurer, an attorney-general, and a surveyor-general shall be elected at the same time and places, and in the same manner, as the governor and lieutenant-governor, and whose term of office shall be the same as the governor. [Amendment, proposed 1861; ratified 3d September, 1862.]

§ 19. The secretary of state shall keep a fair record of the official acts of the legislative and executive departments of the government, and shall, when required, lay the same, and all matters relative thereto, before either branch of the legislature, and shall perform such other duties as may be assigned him by law; and in order that no inconvenience may result to the public service from the taking effect of the amendments proposed to said article five by the legislature of eighteen hundred and sixty-one, no officer shall be superseded or suspended thereby, until the election and qualification of the several officers provided for in said amendments. [Amendment, proposed 1861; ratified 3d September, 1862.]

§ 20. The controller, treasurer, attorney-general, and surveyor-general shall be chosen by joint vote of the two houses of the legislature, at their first session under this constitution, and thereafter shall be elected at the same time and places, and in the same manner, as the governor and lieutenant-governor.

§ 21. The governor, lieutenant-governor, secretary of state, controller, treasurer, attorney-general, and surveyor-general shall each, at stated times during their continuance in office, receive for their services a compensation which shall not be increased or diminished during the term for which they shall have been elected; but neither of these officers shall receive for his own use any fees for the performance of his official duties.

ARTICLE VI.

JUDICIAL DEPARTMENT.

§ 1. The judicial power of this state shall be vested in a supreme court, in district courts, in county courts, in probate courts, and in justices of the peace, and in such recorders and other inferior courts as the legislature may establish in any incorporated city or town. [Amendment, proposed 1861; ratified 3d September, 1862.]

§ 2. The supreme court shall consist of a chief justice and four associate justices. The presence of three justices shall be necessary for the transaction of business, excepting such business as may be done at chambers, and the concurrence of three justices shall be necessary to pronounce a judgment. [Amendment, proposed 1861; ratified 3d September, 1862.]

themselves by lot, that one justice shall go out of office every two years. The justice having the shortest term to serve shall be the chief justice. [Amendment, proposed 1861; ratified 3d September, 1862.]

§ 4. The supreme court shall have appellate jurisdiction in all cases in equity; also, in all cases at law which involve the title or possession of real estate, or the legality of any tax, impost, assessment, toll, or municipal fine, or in which the demand, exclusive of interest or the value of the property in controversy, amounts to three hundred dollars; also, in all cases arising in the probate courts; and also in all criminal cases amounting to felony, on questions of law alone. The court shall also have power to issue writs of mandamus, certiorari, prohibition, and habeas corpus, and also, all writs necessary or proper to the complete exercise of its appellate jurisdiction. Each of the justices shall have power to issue writs of habeas corpus to any part of the state, upon petition on behalf of any person held in actual custody, and may make such writs returnable before himself, or the supreme court, or before any district court, or any county court in the state, or before any judge of said courts. [Amendment, proposed 1861; ratified 3d September, 1862.]

§ 5. The state shall be divided, by the legislature of eighteen hundred and sixty-three, into fourteen judicial districts, subject to such alteration, from time to time, by a two-thirds vote of all the members elected to both houses, as the public good may require; in each of which there shall be a district court, and for each of which a district judge shall be elected by the qualified electors of the district, at the special judicial elections to be held as provided for the election of justices of the supreme court by section three of this article. The district judges shall hold their offices for the term of six years from the first day of January next after their election. § 6. The district courts shall have original jurisdiction in all cases in equity; also, in all cases at law which involve the title or possession of real property, or the legality of any tax, impost, assessment, toll, or municipal fine, and in all other cases in which the demand, exclusive of interest or the value of the property in controversy, amounts to three hundred dollars; and also in all criminal cases not otherwise provided for. [Amendment, proposed 1861; ratified 3d September, 1862.]

§ 7. There shall be in each of the organized counties of the state, a county court, for each of which a county judge shall be elected by the qualified electors of the county, at the special judicial elections to be held as provided for the election of justices of the supreme court by section three of this article. The county judges shall hold their offices for the term of four years from the first day of January next after their election. Said courts shall also have power to issue naturalization papers. § 8. The county courts shall have original jurisdiction of actions of forcible entry and detainer, of proceedings in insolvency, of actions to prevent or abate a nuisance, and of all such special cases and proceedings as are not otherwise provided for; and also such criminal jurisdiction as the legislature may prescribe; they shall also have appellate jurisdiction in all cases arising in courts held by justices of the peace and recorders, and in such inferior courts as may be established in pursuance of section one of this article, in their respective counties. The county judges shall also hold in their several counties probate courts, and perform such duties as probate judges as may be prescribed by law. [Amendment, proposed 1861; ratified 3d September, 1862.]

§ 9. The legislature shall determine the number of justices of the peace to be elected in each city and township of the state, and fix by law their powers, duties, and responsibilities; provided, such powers shall not in any case trench upon the jurisdiction of the several courts of record. The supreme court, the district courts, county courts, the probate courts, and such other courts as the legislature shall prescribe, shall be courts of record. [Amendment, proposed 1861; ratified 3d September, 1862.]

§ 10. The legislature shall fix by law the jurisdiction of any recorder's, or other inferior municipal court which may be established in pursuance of section one of this article, and shall fix by law the powers, duties, and responsibilities of the judges thereof. [Amendment, proposed 1861; ratified 3d September, 1862.]

[Amendment, proposed 1861; ratified 3d September, 1862.]

§ 16. The justices of the supreme court, and the district judges, and the county judges, shall be ineligible to any other office than a judicial office during the term for which they shall have been elected. [Amendment, proposed 1861; ratified 3d September, 1862.]

§ 2. The legislature shall encourage, by all suitable means, the promotion of intellectual, scientific, moral, and agricultural improvement. And it shall be the duty of the legislature, as soon as may be, to provide effectual means for the improvement and permanent security of the funds of said university.

the members elected to each of the two houses, such proposed amendment or amendments shall be entered on their journals, with the yeas and nays taken thereon, and referred to the legislature then next to be chosen, and shall be published for three months next preceding the time of making such choice. And if in the legislature next chosen as aforesaid, such proposed amendment or amendments shall be agreed to by a majority of all the members elected to each house, then it shall be the duty of the legislature to submit such proposed amendment or amendments to the people, in such manner and at such time as the legislature shall prescribe; and if the people shall approve and ratify such amendment or amendments, by a majority of the electors qualified to vote for members of the legislature voting thereon, such amendment or amendments shall become part of the constitution.

§ 2. And if, at any time, two thirds of the senate and assembly shall think it necessary to revise or change this entire constitution, they shall recommend to the electors, at the next election for members of the legislature, to vote for or against a convention; and if it shall appear that a majority of the electors voting at such election have voted in favor of calling a convention, the legislature shall, at its next session, provide by law for calling a convention, to be holden within six months after the passage of such law; and such convention shall consist of a number of members not less than that of both branches of the legislature. The constitution that may have been agreed upon and adopted by such convention, shall be submitted to the people, at a special election, to be provided for by law, for their ratification or rejection; each voter shall express his opinion by depositing in the ballot-box a ticket whereon shall be written or printed the words "For the New Constitution," or "Against the New Constitution." The returns of such election shall, in such manner as the convention shall direct, be certified to the executive of the state, who shall call to his assistance the controller, treasurer, and secretary of state, and compare the votes so certified to him. If, by such examination, it be ascertained that a majority of the whole number of votes cast at such election, be in favor of such new constitution, the executive of this state shall, by his proclamation, declare such new constitution to be the constitution of the state of California. § 11. The legislature, at its first session, shall elect such officers as may be ordered by this constitution, to be elected by that body, and within four days after its organization, proceed to elect two senators to the Congress of the United States. ACT OF ADMISSION.

AN ACT

FOR THE ADMISSION OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA INTO THE UNION.

Whereas, the people of California have presented a constitution, and asked admission into the Union, which constitution was submitted to Congress by the president of the United States, by message, dated February thirteenth, eighteen hundred and fifty, and which, on due examination, is found to be republican in its form of government:—

Be it enacted by the senate and house of representatives of the United States of America, in Congress assembled, That the state of California shall be one, and is hereby declared to be one, of the United States of America, and admitted into the Union on an equal footing with the original states, in all respects whatever.

§ 2. And be it further enacted, That, until the representatives in Congress shall be apportioned, according to an actual enumeration of the inhabitants of the United States, the state of California shall be entitled to two representatives in Congress.

§ 3. And be it further enacted, That the said state of California is admitted into the Union upon the express condition that the people of said state, through their legislature or otherwise, shall never interfere with the primary disposal of the public lands within its limits, and shall pass no law and do no act whereby the title of the United States to, and right to dispose of, the same shall be impaired or questioned; and that they shall never lay any tax, or assessment of any description whatsoever, upon the public domain of the United States, and in no case shall non-resident proprietors, who are citizens of the United States, be taxed higher than residents; and that all the navigable waters within the said state shall be common highways, and forever free, as well to the inhabitants of said state as to the citizens of the United States, without any tax, impost or duty therefor; provided, that nothing herein contained shall be construed as recognizing or rejecting the propositions tendered by the people of California as articles of compact in the ordinance adopted by the convention which formed the constitution of that state.

Approved, September ninth, eighteen hundred and fifty.

CONSTITUTION OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

Adopted March 3, 1879.

Ratified May 17, 1879.

In force July 4, 1879.

PREAMBLE.

We, the people of the state of California, grateful to Almighty God for our freedom, in order to secure and perpetuate its blessings, do establish this constitution.

ARTICLE I.

DECLARATION OF RIGHTS.

§ 1. All men are by nature free and independent, and have certain inalienable rights, among which are those of enjoying and defending life and liberty; acquiring, possessing, and protecting property; and pursuing and obtaining safety and happiness.

§ 2. All political power is inherent in the people. Government is instituted for the protection, security, and benefit of the people, and they have the right to alter or reform the same whenever the public good may require it.

§ 3. The state of California is an inseparable part of the American Union, and the constitution of the United States is the supreme law of the land.

§ 4. The free exercise and enjoyment of religious profession and worship, without discrimination or preference, shall forever be guaranteed in this state; and no person shall be rendered incompetent to be a witness or juror on account of his opinions on matters of religious belief; but the liberty of conscience hereby secured shall not be so construed as to excuse acts of licentiousness, or justify practices inconsistent with the peace or safety of this state.

§ 5. The privilege of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended unless when, in cases of rebellion or invasion, the public safety may require its suspension.

§ 6. All persons shall be bailable by sufficient sureties, unless for capital offenses when the proof is evident or the presumption great. Excessive bail shall not be required, nor excessive fines imposed; nor shall cruel or unusual punishment be inflicted. Witnesses shall not be unreasonably detained, nor confined in any room where criminals are actually imprisoned.

§ 7. The right of trial by jury shall be secured to all, and remain inviolate; but in civil actions three fourths of the jury may render a verdict. A trial by jury may be waived in all criminal cases not amounting to a felony, by the consent of both parties, expressed in open court, and in civil actions by the consent of the parties, signified in such manner as may be prescribed by law. In civil actions and cases of misdemeanor, the jury may consist of twelve, or of any number less than twelve upon which the parties may agree in open court.

§ 8. Offenses heretofore required to be prosecuted by indictment shall be prosecuted by information, after examination and commitment by a magistrate, or by indictment, with or without such examination and commitment, as may be prescribed by law. A grand jury shall be drawn and summoned at least once a year in each county.

§ 9. Every citizen may freely speak, write, and publish his sentiments on all subjects, being responsible for the abuse of that right; and no law shall be passed to restrain or abridge the liberty of speech or of the press. In all criminal prosecutions for libels, the truth may be given in evidence to the jury; and if it shall appear to the jury that the matter charged as libelous is true, and was published with good motives, and for justifiable ends, the party shall be acquitted; and the jury shall have the right to determine the law and the fact. Indictments found, or information laid, for publications in newspapers, shall be tried in the county where such newspapers have their publication office, or in the county where the party alleged to be libeled resided at the time of the alleged publication, unless the place of trial shall be changed for good cause.

§ 10. The people shall have the right to freely assemble together to consult for the common good, to instruct their representatives, and to petition the legislature for redress of grievances.

§ 11. All laws of a general nature shall have a uniform operation.

§ 12. The military shall be subordinate to the civil power. No standing army shall be kept up by this state in time of peace, and no soldier shall, in time of peace, be quartered in any house without the consent of the owner; nor in time of war, except in the manner prescribed by law.

§ 13. In criminal prosecutions, in any court whatever, the party accused shall have the right to a speedy and public trial; to have the process of the court to compel the attendance of witnesses in his behalf, and to appear and defend, in person and with counsel. No person shall be twice put in jeopardy for the same offense; nor be compelled, in any criminal case, to be a witness against himself; nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property without due process of law. The legislature shall have power to provide for the taking, in the presence of the party accused and his counsel, of depositions of witnesses, in criminal cases other than cases of homicide, when there is reason to believe that the witness, from inability or other cause, will not attend at the trial.

§ 14. Private property shall not be taken or damaged for public use without just compensation having been first made to, or paid into court for, the owner, and no right of way shall be appropriated to the use of any corporation other than municipal until full compensation therefor be first made in money or ascertained and paid into court for the owner, irrespective of any benefit from any improvement proposed by such corporation, which compensation shall be ascertained by a jury, unless a jury be waived, as in other civil cases in a court of record, as shall be prescribed by law.

§ 15. No person shall be imprisoned for debt in any civil action, on mesne or final process, unless in cases of fraud, nor in civil actions for torts, except in cases of wilful injury to person or property; and no person shall be imprisoned for a militia fine in time of peace.

§ 16. No bill of attainder, ex post facto law, or law impairing the obligations of contracts, shall ever be passed.

§ 17. Foreigners of the white race, or of African descent, eligible to become citizens of the United States under the naturalization laws thereof, while bona fide residents of this state, shall have the same rights in respect to the acquisition, possession, enjoyment, transmission, and inheritance of all property, other than real estate, as native born citizens; provided, that such aliens owning real estate at the time of the adoption of this amendment may remain such owners; and provided further, that the legislature may, by statute, provide for the disposition of real estate which shall hereafter be acquired by such aliens by descent or devise. [Amendment adopted November 6, 1894.]

§ 18. Neither slavery nor involuntary servitude, unless for the punishment of crime, shall ever be tolerated in this state.

§ 19. The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects, against unreasonable seizures and searches, shall not be violated; and no warrant shall issue but on probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, particularly describing the place to be searched and the person and things to be seized.

§ 20. Treason against the state shall consist only in levying war against it, adhering to its enemies, or giving them aid and comfort. No person shall be convicted of treason unless on the evidence of two witnesses to the same overt act, or confession in open court.

§ 21. No special privileges or immunities shall ever be granted which may not be altered, revoked or repealed by the legislature, nor shall any citizen, or class of citizens, be granted privileges or immunities which, upon the same terms, shall not be granted to all citizens.

§ 22. The provisions of this constitution are mandatory and prohibitory, unless by express words they are declared to be otherwise.

§ 23. This enumeration of rights shall not be construed to impair or deny others retained by the people.

§ 24. No property qualifications shall ever be required for any person to vote or hold office.

ARTICLE II.

§ 1. Every native male citizen of the United States, every male person who shall have acquired the rights of citizenship under or by virtue of the treaty of Queretaro, and every male naturalized citizen thereof, who shall have become such ninety days prior to any election, of the age of twenty-one years, who shall have been resident of the state one year next preceding the election, and of the county in which he claims his vote ninety days, and in the election precinct thirty days, shall be entitled to vote at all elections which are now or may hereafter be authorized by law; provided, no native of China, no idiot, no insane person, no person convicted of any infamous crime, no person hereafter convicted of the embezzlement or misappropriation of public money, and no person who shall not be able to read the constitution in the English language and write his name, shall ever exercise the privileges of an elector in this state; provided, that the provisions of this amendment relative to an educational qualification shall not apply to any person prevented by a physical disability from complying with its requisitions, nor to any person who now has the right to vote, nor to any person who shall be sixty years of age and upwards at the time this amendment shall take effect. [Amendment adopted November 6, 1894.]

§ 2. Electors shall in all cases, except treason, felony, or breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest on the days of election, during their attendance at such election, going to and returning therefrom.

§ 2½. The legislature shall have the power to enact laws relative to the election of delegates to conventions of political parties at elections known and designated as primary elections. Also to determine the tests and conditions upon which electors, political parties, or organizations of voters, may participate in any such primary election, which tests or conditions may be different from the tests and conditions required and permitted at other elections authorized by law; or the legislature may delegate the power to determine such tests or conditions, at primary elections, to the various political parties participating therein. It shall also be lawful for the legislature to prescribe that any such primary election law shall be obligatory and mandatory in any city, or any city and county, or in any county, or in any political subdivision, of a designated population, and that such law shall be optional in any city, city and county, county, or political subdivision of a lesser population, and for such purpose such law may declare the population of any city, city and county, county, or political subdivision, and may also provide what, if any, compensation primary election officers in defined places or political subdivisions may receive, without making compensation either general or uniform. [Amendment adopted November 6, 1900.]

§ 3. No elector shall be obliged to perform militia duty on the day of election, except in time of war or public danger.

§ 4. For the purpose of voting, no person shall be deemed to have gained or lost a residence by reason of his presence or absence while employed in the service of the United States; nor while engaged in the navigation of the waters of this state, or of the United States, or of the high seas; nor while a student at any seminary of learning; nor while kept in any almshouse or other asylum, at public expense; nor while confined in any public prison.

§ 5. All elections by the people shall be by ballot or by such other method as may be prescribed by law; provided, that secrecy in voting be preserved. [Amendment adopted November 3, 1896.]

§ 6. The inhibitions of this constitution to the contrary notwithstanding, the legislature shall have power to provide that in different parts of the state different methods may be employed for receiving and registering the will of the people as expressed at elections, and may provide that mechanical devices may be used within designated subdivisions of the state at the option of the local authority indicated by the legislature for that purpose. [New section, adopted November 4, 1902.]

ARTICLE III.

DISTRIBUTION OF POWERS.

§ 1. The powers of the government of the state of California shall be divided into three separate departments—the legislative, executive, and judicial; and no person charged with the exercise of powers properly belonging to one of these departments shall exercise any functions appertaining to either of the others, except as in this constitution expressly directed or permitted.

ARTICLE IV.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

§ 2. The sessions of the legislature shall commence at twelve o'clock m. on the first Monday after the first day of January next succeeding the election of its members, and after the election held in the year eighteen hundred and eighty shall be biennial, unless the governor shall, in the interim, convene the legislature by proclamation. No pay shall be allowed to members for a longer time than sixty days, except for the first session after the adoption of this constitution, for which they may be allowed pay for one hundred days. And no bill shall be introduced in either house after the expiration of ninety days from the commencement of the first session, nor after fifty days after the commencement of each succeeding session, without the consent of two thirds of the members thereof.

§ 3. Members of the assembly shall be elected in the year eighteen hundred and seventy-nine, at the time and in the manner now provided by law. The second election of members of the assembly, after the adoption of this constitution, shall be on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, eighteen hundred and eighty. Thereafter members of the assembly shall be chosen biennially, and their term of office shall be two years; and each election shall be on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, unless otherwise ordered by the legislature.

§ 4. Senators shall be chosen for the term of four years, at the same time and places as members of the assembly, and no person shall be a member of the senate or assembly who has not been a citizen and inhabitant of the state three years, and of the district for which he shall be chosen one year, next before his election.

§ 5. The senate shall consist of forty members, and the assembly of eighty members, to be elected by districts, numbered as hereinafter provided. The seats of the twenty senators elected in the year eighteen hundred and eighty-two from the odd-numbered districts shall be vacated at the expiration of the second year, so that one half of the senators shall be elected every two years; provided, that all the senators elected at the first election under this constitution shall hold office for the term of three years.

§ 6. For the purpose of choosing members of the legislature, the state shall be divided into forty senatorial and eighty assembly districts, as nearly equal in population as may be, and composed of contiguous territory, to be called senatorial and assembly districts. Each senatorial district shall choose one senator, and each assembly district shall choose one member of assembly. The senatorial districts shall be numbered from one to forty, inclusive, in numerical order, and the assembly districts shall be numbered from one to eighty in the same order, commencing at the northern boundary of the state and ending at the southern boundary thereof. In the formation of such districts no county, or city and county, shall be divided, unless it contains sufficient population within itself to form two or more districts, nor shall a part of any county, or of any city and county, be united with any other county, or city and county, in forming any district. The census taken under the direction of the Congress of the United States in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty, and every ten years thereafter, shall be the basis of fixing and adjusting the legislative districts; and the legislature shall, at its first session after each census, adjust such districts and re-apportion the representation so as to preserve them as near equal in population as may be. But in making such adjustment no persons who are not eligible to become citizens of the United States, under the naturalization laws, shall be counted as forming a part of the population of any district. Until such districting as herein provided for shall be made, senators and assemblymen shall be elected by the districts according to the apportionment now provided for by law.

§ 7. Each house shall choose its officers, and judge of the qualifications, elections, and returns of its members.

§ 8. A majority of each house shall constitute a quorum to do business, but a smaller number may adjourn from day to day, and may compel the attendance of absent members in such manner and under such penalties as each house may provide.

§ 9. Each house shall determine the rule of its proceeding, and may, with the concurrence of two thirds of all the members elected, expel a member.

§ 10. Each house shall keep a journal of its proceedings, and publish the same; and the yeas and nays of the members of either house, on any question, shall, at the desire of any three members present, be entered on the journal.

§ 11. Members of the legislature shall, in all cases, except treason, felony, and breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest, and shall not be subject to any civil process during the session of the legislature, nor for fifteen days next before the commencement and after the termination of each session.

§ 12. When vacancies occur in either house, the governor, or the person exercising the functions of the governor, shall issue writs of election to fill such vacancies.

§ 13. The doors of each house shall be open, except on such occasions as, in the opinion of the house, may require secrecy.

§ 14. Neither house shall, without the consent of the other, adjourn for more than three days, nor to any place other than that in which they may be sitting.

Nor shall the members of either house draw pay for any recess or adjournment for a longer time than three days.

§ 15. No law shall be passed except by bill. Nor shall any bill be put upon its final passage until the same, with the amendments thereto, shall have been printed for the use of the members; nor shall any bill become a law unless the same be read on three several days in each house, unless, in case of urgency, two thirds of the house where such bill may be pending shall, by a vote of yeas and nays, dispense with this provision. Any bill may originate in either house, but may be amended or rejected by the other; and on the final passage of all bills they shall be read at length, and the vote shall be by yeas and nays upon each bill separately, and shall be entered on the journal, and no bill shall become a law without the concurrence of a majority of the members elected to each house.

§ 16. Every bill which may have passed the legislature shall, before it becomes a law, be presented to the governor. If he approve it, he shall sign it; but if not, he shall return it, with his objections, to the house in which it originated, which shall enter such objections upon the journal and proceed to reconsider it. If, after such reconsideration, it again passes both houses, by yeas and nays, two thirds of the members elected to each house voting therefor, it shall become a law, notwithstanding the governor's objections. If any bill shall not be returned within ten days after it shall have been presented to him (Sundays excepted), the same shall become a law in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the legislature, by adjournment, prevent such return, in which case it shall not become a law, unless the governor, within ten days after such adjournment (Sundays excepted), shall sign and deposit the same in the office of the secretary of state, in which case it shall become a law in like manner as if it had been signed by him before adjournment. If any bill presented to the governor contains several items of appropriation of money, he may object to one or more items, while approving other portions of the bill. In such case he shall append to the bill, at the time of signing it, a statement of the items to which he objects, and the reasons therefor, and the appropriations so objected to shall not take effect unless passed over the governor's veto, as hereinbefore provided. If the legislature be in session, the governor shall transmit to the house in which the bill originated a copy of such statement, and the items so objected to shall be separately reconsidered in the same manner as bills which have been disapproved by the governor.

§ 17. The assembly shall have the sole power of impeachment, and all impeachments shall be tried by the senate. When sitting for that purpose, the senators shall be upon oath or affirmation, and no person shall be convicted without the concurrence of two thirds of the members elected.

§ 18. The governor, lieutenant-governor, secretary of state, controller, treasurer, attorney-general, surveyor-general, chief justice and associate justices of the supreme court, and judges of the superior courts, shall be liable to impeachment for any misdemeanor in office; but judgment in such cases shall extend only to removal from office and disqualification to hold any office of honor, trust, or profit under the state; but the party convicted or acquitted shall, nevertheless, be liable to indictment, trial, and punishment, according to law. All other civil officers shall be tried for misdemeanor in office in such manner as the legislature may provide.

§ 19. No senator or member of assembly shall, during the term for which he shall have been elected, be appointed to any civil office of profit under this state which shall have been created, or the emoluments of which have been increased, during such term, except such offices as may be filled by election by the people.

§ 20. No person holding any lucrative office under the United States, or any other power, shall be eligible to any civil office of profit under this state; provided, that officers in the militia who receive no annual salary, local officers, or postmasters whose compensation does not exceed five hundred dollars per annum, shall not be deemed to hold lucrative offices.

§ 21. No person convicted of the embezzlement or defalcation of the public funds of the United States, or of any state, or of any county or municipality therein, shall ever be eligible to any office of honor, trust, or profit under this state, and the legislature shall provide, by law, for the punishment of embezzlement or defalcation as a felony.

§ 22. No money shall be drawn from the treasury but in consequence of appropriations made by law, and upon warrants duly drawn thereon by the controller; and no money shall ever be appropriated or drawn from the state treasury for the use or benefit of any corporation, association, asylum, hospital, or any other institution not under the exclusive management and control of the state as a state institution, nor shall any grant or donation of property ever be made thereto by the state; provided, that notwithstanding anything contained in this or any other section of this constitution, the legislature shall have the power to grant aid to institutions conducted for the support and maintenance of minor orphans, or half-orphans, or abandoned children, or aged persons in indigent circumstances—such aid to be granted by a uniform rule, and proportioned to the number of inmates of such respective institutions; provided further, that the state shall have at any time the right to inquire into the management of such institution; provided further, that whenever any county, or city and county, or city, or town shall provide for support of minor orphans, or half-orphans, or abandoned children, or aged persons in indigent circumstances, such county, city and county, city, or town shall be entitled to receive the same pro rata appropriations as may be granted to such institutions under church or other control. An accurate statement of the receipts and expenditures of public moneys shall be attached to and published with the laws at every regular session of the legislature.

§ 23. The members of the legislature shall receive for their services a per diem and mileage, to be fixed by law, and paid out of the public treasury; such per diem shall not exceed eight dollars, and such mileage shall not exceed ten cents per mile, and for contingent expenses not exceeding twenty-five dollars for each session. No increase in compensation or mileage shall take effect during the term for which the members of either house shall have been elected, and the pay of no attaché shall be increased after he is elected or appointed.

§ 24. Every act shall embrace but one subject, which subject shall be expressed in its title. But if any subject shall be embraced in an act which shall not be expressed in its title, such act shall be void only as to so much thereof as shall not be expressed in its title. No law shall be revised or amended by reference to its title; but in such case the act revised or section amended shall be re-enacted and published at length as revised or amended; and all laws of the state of California, and all official writings, and the executive, legislative, and judicial proceedings, shall be conducted, preserved, and published in no other than the English language.

§ 25. The legislature shall not pass local or special laws in any of the following enumerated cases, that is to say:

First—Regulating the jurisdiction and duties of justices of the peace, police judges, and of constables.

The legislature shall pass laws for the regulation and limitation of the charges for services performed and commodities furnished by telegraph and gas corporations, and the charges by corporations or individuals for storage and wharfage, in which there is a public use; and where laws shall provide for the selection of any person or officer to regulate and limit such rates, no such person or officer shall be selected by any corporation or individual interested in the business to be regulated, and no person shall be selected who is an officer or stockholder in any such corporation.

§ 34. No bill making an appropriation of money, except the general appropriation bill, shall contain more than one item of appropriation, and that for one single and certain purpose, to be therein expressed.

Any member of the legislature who shall be influenced, in his vote or action, upon any matter pending before the legislature, by any reward, or

In case of the impeachment of the governor, or his removal from office, death, inability to discharge the powers and duties of his office, resignation, or absence from the state, the powers and duties of the office shall devolve upon the lieutenant-governor for the residue of the term, or until the disability shall cease. And should the lieutenant-governor be impeached, displaced, resign, die, or become incapable of performing the duties of his office, or be absent from the state, the president pro tempore of the senate shall act as governor until the vacancy in the office of governor shall be filled at the next general election when members of the legislature shall be chosen, or until such disability of the lieutenant-governor shall cease. In case of a vacancy in the office of governor for any of the reasons above named, and neither the lieutenant-governor nor the president pro tempore of the senate succeed to the powers and duties of governor, then the powers and duties of such office shall devolve upon the speaker of the assembly, until the office of governor shall be filled at such general election. [Amendment adopted November 8, 1898.]

§ 17. A secretary of state, a controller, a treasurer, an attorney-general, and a surveyor-general shall be elected at the same time and places, and in the same manner, as the governor and lieutenant-governor, and their terms of office shall be the same as that of the governor.

ARTICLE VI.

JUDICIAL DEPARTMENT.

§ 1. The judicial power of the state shall be vested in the senate, sitting as a court of impeachment, in a supreme court, district courts of appeal, superior courts, justices of the peace, and such inferior courts as the legislature may establish in any incorporated city or town, or city and county. [Amendment adopted November 8, 1904.]

§ 2. The supreme court shall consist of a chief justice and six associate justices. The court may sit in departments and in bank, and shall always be open for the transaction of business. There shall be two departments, denominated, respectively, department one and department two. The chief justice shall assign three of the associate justices to each department, and such assignment may be changed by him from time to time. The associate justices shall be competent to sit in either department, and may interchange with each other by agreement among themselves, or as ordered by the chief justice. Each of the departments shall have the power to hear and determine causes, and all questions arising therein, subject to the provisions hereinafter contained in relation to the court in bank. The presence of three justices shall be necessary to transact any business in either of the departments, except such as may be done at chambers, and the concurrence of three justices shall be necessary to pronounce a judgment. The chief justice shall apportion the business to the departments, and may, in his discretion, order any cause pending before the court to be heard and decided by the court in bank. The order may be made before or after judgment pronounced by a department; but where a cause has been allotted to one of the departments, and a judgment pronounced thereon, the order must be made within thirty days after such judgment, and concurred in by two associate justices, and if so made it shall have the effect to vacate and set aside the judgment. Any four justices may, either before or after judgment by a department, order a case to be heard in bank. If the order be not made within the time above limited, the judgment shall be final. No judgment by a department shall become final until the expiration of the period of thirty days aforesaid, unless approved by the chief justice, in writing, with the concurrence of two associate justices. The chief justice may convene the court in bank at any time, and shall be the presiding justice of the court when so convened. The concurrence of four justices present at the argument shall be necessary to pronounce a judgment in bank; but if four justices, so present, do not concur in a judgment, then all the justices qualified to sit in the cause shall hear the argument; but to render a judgment a concurrence of four judges shall be necessary. In the determination of causes, all decisions of the court, in bank or in departments, shall be given in writing, and the grounds of the decision shall be stated. The chief justice may sit in either department, and shall preside when so sitting, but the justices assigned to each department shall select one of their number as presiding justice. In case of the absence of the chief justice from the place at which the court is held, or his inability to act, the associate justices shall select one of their own number to perform the duties and exercise the powers of the chief justice during such absence or inability to act.

§ 3. The chief justice and the associate justices shall be elected by the qualified electors of the state at large at the general state elections, at the time and places at which state officers are elected; and the term of office shall be twelve years from and after the first Monday after the first day of January next succeeding their election; provided, that the six associate justices elected at the first election shall, at their first meeting, so classify themselves, by lot, that two of them shall go out of office at the end of four years, two of them at the end of eight years, and two of them at the end of twelve years, and an entry of such classification shall be made in the minutes of the court in bank, signed by them, and a duplicate thereof shall be filed in the office of the secretary of state. If a vacancy occur in the office of a justice, the governor shall appoint a person to hold the office until the election and qualification of a justice to fill the vacancy, which election shall take place at the next succeeding general election, and the justice so elected shall hold the office for the remainder of the unexpired term. The first election of the justices shall be at the first general election after the adoption and ratification of this constitution.

§ 4. The supreme court shall have appellate jurisdiction on appeal from the superior courts in all cases in equity, except such as arise in justices' courts; also in all cases at law which involve the title or possession of real estate, or the legality of any tax, impost, assessment, toll, or municipal fine, or in which the demand, exclusive of interest, or the value of the property in controversy, amounts to two thousand dollars; also, in all such probate matters as may be provided by law; also, on questions of law alone, in all criminal cases where judgment of death has been rendered; the said court shall also have appellate jurisdiction in all cases, matters, and proceedings pending before a district court of appeal which shall be ordered by the supreme court to be transferred to itself for hearing and decision, as hereinafter provided. The said court shall also have power to issue writs of mandamus, certiorari, prohibition, and habeas corpus, and all other writs necessary or proper to the complete exercise of its appellate jurisdiction. Each of the justices shall have power to issue writs of habeas corpus to any part of the state, upon petition by or on behalf of any person held in actual custody, and may make such writs returnable before himself or the supreme court, or before any district court of appeal, or before any judge thereof, or before any superior court in the state, or before any judge thereof.

The state is hereby divided into three appellate districts, in each of which there shall be a district court of appeal, consisting of three justices. The first district shall embrace the following counties: San Francisco, Marin, Contra Costa, Alameda, San Mateo, Santa Clara, Fresno, Santa Cruz, Monterey, and San Benito.

The second district shall embrace the following counties: Tulare, Kings, San Luis Obispo, Kern, Inyo, Santa Barbara, Ventura, Los Angeles, San Bernardino, Orange, Riverside, and San Diego.

The third district shall embrace the following counties: Del Norte, Siskiyou, Modoc, Humboldt, Trinity, Shasta, Lassen, Tehama, Plumas, Mendocino, Lake, Colusa, Glenn, Butte, Sierra, Sutter, Yuba, Nevada, Sonoma, Napa, Yolo, Placer, Solano, Sacramento, El Dorado, San Joaquin, Amador, Calaveras, Stanislaus, Mariposa, Madera, Merced, Tuolumne, Alpine, and Mono.

The supreme court, by orders entered in its minutes, may from time to time remove one or more counties from one appellate district to another, but no county not contiguous to another county of a district shall be added to such district.

Said district courts of appeal shall hold their regular sessions respectively at San Francisco, Los Angeles, and Sacramento, and they shall always be open for the transaction of business.

The district courts of appeal shall have appellate jurisdiction on appeal from the superior courts in all cases at law in which the demand, exclusive of interest, or the value of the property in controversy, amounts to three hundred dollars, and does not amount to two thousand dollars; also, in all cases of forcible and unlawful entry and detainer (except such as arise in justices' courts), in proceedings in insolvency, and in actions to prevent or abate a nuisance; in proceedings of mandamus, certiorari, and prohibition, usurpation of office, contesting elections and eminent domain, and in such other special proceedings as may be provided by law (excepting cases in which appellate jurisdiction is given to the supreme court); also, on questions of law alone, in all criminal cases prosecuted by indictment or information in a court of record, excepting criminal cases where judgment of death has been rendered. The said courts shall also have appellate jurisdiction in all cases, matters, and proceedings pending before the supreme court which shall be ordered by the supreme court to be transferred to a district court of appeal for hearing and decision. The said courts shall also have power to issue writs of mandamus, certiorari, prohibition, and habeas corpus, and all other writs necessary or proper to the complete exercise of their appellate jurisdiction. Each of the justices thereof shall have power to issue writs of habeas corpus to any part of his appellate district upon petition by or on behalf of any person held in actual custody, and may make such writs returnable before himself or the district court of appeal of his district, or before any superior court within his district, or before any judge thereof.

The supreme court shall have power to order any cause pending before the supreme court to be heard and determined by a district court of appeal, and to order any cause pending before a district court of appeal to be heard and determined by the supreme court. The order last mentioned may be made before judgment has been pronounced by a district court of appeal, or within thirty days after such judgment shall have become final therein. The judgments of the district courts of appeal shall become final therein upon the expiration of thirty days after the same shall have been pronounced.

The supreme court shall have power to order causes pending before a district court of appeal for one district to be transferred to the district court of appeal of another district for hearing and decision.

The justices of the district courts of appeal shall be elected by the qualified electors within their respective districts at the general state election at the times and places at which justices of the supreme court are elected. Their terms of office and salaries shall be the same as those of justices of the supreme court, and their salaries shall be paid by the state. Upon the ratification by the people of this amendment the governor shall appoint nine persons to serve as justices of the district courts of appeal until the first Monday after the first day of January in the year nineteen hundred and seven; provided, that not more than six of said persons shall be members of the same political party. At the election in the year nineteen hundred and six nine of such justices shall be elected as above provided, and the justices of each district court of appeal shall so classify themselves by lot that one of them shall go out of office at the end of four years, one of them at the end of eight years, and one of them at the end of twelve years; an entry of such classification shall be made in the minutes of the court, signed by the three justices thereof, and a duplicate thereof filed in the office of the secretary of state. If any vacancy occur in the office of a justice of the district courts of appeal, the governor shall appoint a person to hold office until the election and qualification of a justice to fill the vacancy; such election shall take place at the next succeeding general state election as aforesaid; the justice then elected shall hold the office for the unexpired term.

One of the justices of each of the district courts of appeal shall be the presiding justice thereof, and as such shall be appointed or elected as the case may be. The presence of three justices shall be necessary for the transaction of any business by such court, except such as may be done at chambers, and the concurrence of three justices shall be necessary to pronounce a judgment.

Whenever any justice of the supreme court is for any reason disqualified or unable to act in a cause pending before it, the remaining justices may select one of the justices of a district court of appeal to act pro tempore in the place of the justice so disqualified or unable to act.

Whenever any justice of a district court of appeal is for any reason disqualified or unable to act in any cause pending before it, the supreme court may appoint a justice of the district court of appeal of another district, or a judge of a superior court who has not acted in the cause in the court below, to act pro tempore in the place of the justice so disqualified or unable to act.

No appeal taken to the supreme court or to a district court of appeal shall be dismissed for the reason only that the same was not taken to the proper court, but the cause shall be transferred to the proper court upon such terms as to costs or otherwise as may be just, and shall be proceeded with therein as if regularly appealed thereto.

All statutes now in force allowing, providing for, or regulating appeals to the supreme court shall apply to appeals to the district courts of appeal so far as such statutes are not inconsistent with this article and until the legislature shall otherwise provide.

The supreme court shall make and adopt rules not inconsistent with law for the government of the supreme court and of the district courts of appeal and of the officers thereof, and for regulating the practice in said courts. [Amendment adopted November 8, 1904.]

§ 5. The superior court shall have original jurisdiction in all cases in equity, and in all cases at law which involve the title or possession of real property, or the legality of any tax, impost, assessment, toll, or municipal fine, and in all other cases in which the demand, exclusive of interest, or the value of the property in controversy, amounts to three hundred dollars, and in all criminal cases amounting to felony, and cases of misdemeanor not otherwise provided for; of actions of forcible entry and detainer; of proceedings in insolvency; of actions to prevent or abate a nuisance; of all matters of probate; of divorce and for annulment of marriage; and of all such special cases and proceedings as are not otherwise provided for. And said court shall have the power of naturalization, and to issue papers therefor. They shall have appellate jurisdiction in such cases arising in justices' and other inferior courts in their respective counties as may be prescribed by law. They shall be always open (legal holidays and non-judicial days excepted), and their process shall extend to all parts of the state; provided that all actions for the recovery of the possession of, quieting the title to, or for the enforcement of liens upon real estate, shall be commenced in the county in which the real estate, or any part thereof, affected by such action or actions, is situated. Said courts, and their judges, shall have power to issue writs of mandamus, certiorari, prohibition, quo warranto, and habeas corpus, on petition by or on behalf of any person in actual custody, in their respective counties. Injunctions and writs of prohibition may be issued and served on legal holidays and non-judicial days.

§ 6. There shall be in each of the organized counties, or cities and counties, of the state, a superior court, for each of which at least one judge shall be elected by the qualified electors of the county or city and county, at the general state election; provided, that until otherwise ordered by the legislature, only one judge shall be elected for the counties of Yuba and Sutter, and that in the city and county of San Francisco there shall be elected twelve judges of the superior court, any one or more of whom may hold court. There may be as many sessions of said court, at the same time, as there are judges thereof. The said judges shall choose, from their own number, a presiding judge, who may be removed at their pleasure. He shall distribute the business of the court among the judges thereof, and prescribe the order of business. The judgments, orders, and proceedings of any session of the superior court held by any one or more of the judges of said courts, respectively, shall be equally effectual as if all the judges of said respective courts presided at such session. In each of the counties of Sacramento, San Joaquin, Los Angeles, Sonoma, Santa Clara, and Alameda there shall be elected two such judges. The term of office of judges of the superior courts shall be six years from and after the first Monday of January next succeeding their election: provided, that the twelve judges of the superior court elected in the city and county of San Francisco, at the first election held under this constitution, shall at their first meeting so classify themselves, by lot, that four of them shall go out of office at the end of two years, and four of them shall go out of office at the end of four years, and four of them shall go out of office at the end of six years, and an entry of such classification shall be made in the minutes of the court, signed by them, and a duplicate thereof filed in the office of the secretary of state. The first election of judges of the superior courts shall take place at the first general election held after the adoption and ratification of this constitution. If a vacancy occur in the office of judge of a superior court, the governor shall appoint a person to hold the office until the election and qualification of a judge to fill the vacancy, which election shall take place at the next succeeding general election, and the judge so elected shall hold office for the remainder of the unexpired term.

§ 7. In any county, or city and county, other than the city and county of San Francisco, in which there shall be more than one judge of the superior court, the judges of such court may hold as many sessions of said court at the same time as there are judges thereof, and shall apportion the business among themselves as equally as may be.

§ 8. A judge of any superior court may hold a superior court in any county, at the request of a judge of the superior court thereof, and upon the request of the governor it shall be his duty so to do. But a cause in the superior court may be tried by a judge pro tempore, who must be a member of the bar, agreed upon in writing by the parties litigant, or their attorneys of record, approved by the court, and sworn to try the cause.

§ 9. The legislature shall have no power to grant leave of absence to any judicial officer; and any such officer who shall absent himself from the state for more than sixty consecutive days shall be deemed to have forfeited his office. The legislature of the state may, at any time, two thirds of the members of the senate and two thirds of the members of the assembly voting therefor, increase or diminish the number of judges of the superior court in any county, or city and county, in the state: provided, that no such reduction shall affect any judge who has been elected.

§ 10. Justices of the supreme court, and of the district courts of appeal, and judges of the superior courts may be removed by concurrent resolution of both houses of the legislature adopted by a two-thirds vote of each house. All other judicial officers, except justices of the peace, may be removed by the senate on the recommendation of the governor: but no removal shall be made by virtue of this section unless the cause thereof be entered on the journal, nor unless the party complained of has been served with a copy of the complaint against him and shall have had an opportunity of being heard in his defense. On the question of removal the ayes and noes shall be entered on the journal. [Amendment adopted November 8, 1904.]

§ 11. The legislature shall determine the number of justices of the peace to be elected in townships, incorporated cities and towns, or cities and counties, and shall fix by law the powers, duties, and responsibilities of justices of the peace; provided, such powers shall not, in any case, trench upon the jurisdiction of the several courts of record, except that said justices shall have concurrent jurisdiction with the superior courts in cases of forcible entry and detainer, where the rental value does not exceed twenty-five dollars per month, and where the whole amount of damages claimed does not exceed two hundred dollars, and in cases to enforce and foreclose liens on personal property when neither the amount of liens nor the value of the property amounts to three hundred dollars.

The legislature may also provide for the appointment, by the several superior courts, of one or more commissioners in their respective counties, or cities and counties, with authority to perform chamber business of the judges of the superior courts, to take depositions, and perform such other business connected with the administration of justice as may be prescribed by law.

§ 15. No judicial officer, except justices of the peace and court commissioners, shall receive to his own use any fees or perquisites of office.

One half of the salary of each superior court judge shall be paid by the state; the other half thereof shall be paid by the county for which he is elected. [Amendment adopted November 8, 1904.]

§ 18. The justices of the supreme court, and of the district courts of appeal, and the judges of the superior courts shall be ineligible to any other office or public employment than a judicial office or employment during the term for which they shall have been elected. [Amendment adopted November 8, 1904.]

[Amendment adopted November 8, 1904.]

The legislature, by special act, may grant to the trustees of the Leland Stanford Junior University corporate powers and privileges, but it shall not thereby alter their tenure, or limit their powers or obligations as trustees. All property now or hereafter held in trust for the founding, maintenance or benefit of the Leland Stanford Junior University, or of any department thereof, may be exempted by special act from state taxation, and all personal property so held, the Palo Alto farm as described in the endowment grant to the trustees of the university, and all other real property so held and used by the university for educational purposes exclusively, may be similarly exempted from county and municipal taxation: provided, that residents of California shall be charged no fees for tuition unless such fees be authorized by act of the legislature. [New section, adopted November 6, 1900.]

§ 11. All property now or hereafter belonging to "The California School of Mechanical Arts," an institution founded and endowed by the late James Lick to educate males and females in the practical arts of life, and incorporated under the laws of the state of California, November twenty-third, eighteen hundred and eighty-five, having its school buildings located in the city and county of San Francisco, shall be exempt from taxation. The appointee to a vacancy occurring before the expiration of a term shall hold office only for the unexpired term of his predecessor. The governor shall have the power to remove either of the directors for misconduct, incompetency, or neglect of duty, after an opportunity to be heard upon written charges.

§ 2. The board of directors shall have the charge and superintendence of the state prisons, and shall possess such powers and perform such duties, in respect to other penal and reformatory institutions of the state, as the legislature may prescribe.

§ 3. The board shall appoint the warden and clerk, and determine the other necessary officers of the prisons. The board shall have power to remove the wardens and clerks for misconduct, incompetency, or neglect of duty. All other officers and employees of the prisons shall be appointed by the warden thereof, and be removed at his pleasure.

§ 4. The members of the board shall receive no compensation, other than reasonable traveling and other expenses incurred while engaged in the performance of official duties, to be audited as the legislature may direct.

§ 6. After the first day of January, eighteen hundred and eighty-two, the labor of convicts shall not be let out by contract to any person, copartnership, company, or corporation, and the legislature shall, by law, provide for the working of convicts for the benefit of the state.

ARTICLE XI.

COUNTIES, CITIES, AND TOWNS.

§ 1. The several counties, as they now exist, are hereby recognized as legal subdivisions of this state.

§ 2. No county seat shall be removed unless two thirds of the qualified electors of the county, voting on the proposition at a general election, shall vote in favor of such removal. A proposition of removal shall not be submitted in the same county more than once in four years.

§ 3. The legislature, by general and uniform laws, may provide for the formation of new counties; provided, however, that no new county shall be established which shall reduce any county to a population of less than eight thousand; nor shall a new county be formed containing a less population than five thousand; nor shall any line thereof pass within five miles of the county seat of any county proposed to be divided. Every county which shall be enlarged or created from territory taken from any other county or counties shall be liable for a just proportion of the existing debts and liabilities of the county or counties from which such territory shall be taken. [Amendment adopted November 6, 1894.]

§ 4. The legislature shall establish a system of county governments, which shall be uniform throughout the state; and by general laws shall provide for township organization, under which any county may organize whenever a majority of the qualified electors of such county, voting at a general election, shall so determine; and whenever a county shall adopt township organization, the assessment and collection of the revenue shall be made, and the business of such county and the local affairs of the several townships therein shall be managed and transacted, in the manner prescribed by such general laws.

§ 5. The legislature, by general and uniform laws, shall provide for the election or appointment, in the several counties, of boards of supervisors, sheriffs, county clerks, district attorneys, and such other county, township, and municipal officers as public convenience may require, and shall prescribe their duties and fix their terms of office. It shall regulate the compensation of all such officers, in proportion to duties, and for this purpose may classify the counties by population, and it shall provide for the strict accountability of county and township officers for all fees which may be collected by them, and for all public and municipal moneys which may be paid to them, or officially come into their possession.

§ 6. Corporations for municipal purposes shall not be created by special laws; but the legislature, by general laws, shall provide for the incorporation, organization, and classification, in proportion to population, of cities and towns, which laws may be altered, amended, or repealed. Cities and towns heretofore organized or incorporated may become organized under such general laws whenever a majority of the electors voting at a general election shall so determine, and shall organize in conformity therewith; and cities and towns heretofore or hereafter organized, and all charters thereof framed or adopted by authority of this constitution, except in municipal affairs, shall be subject to and controlled by general laws. [Amendment adopted November 3, 1896.]

§ 7. City and county governments may be merged and consolidated into one municipal government, with one set of officers, and may be incorporated under general laws providing for the incorporation and organization of corporations for municipal purposes. The provisions of this constitution applicable to cities, and also those applicable to counties, so far as not inconsistent or prohibited to cities, shall be applicable to such consolidated government. [Amendment adopted November 6, 1894.]

§ 8. Any city containing a population of more than three thousand five hundred inhabitants may frame a charter for its own government, consistent with and subject to the constitution and laws of this state, by causing a board of fifteen freeholders, who shall have been for at least five years qualified electors thereof, to be elected by the qualified voters of said city, at any general or special election, whose duty it shall be, within ninety days after such election, to prepare and propose a charter for such city, which shall be signed in duplicate by the members of such board, or a majority of them, and returned, one copy to the mayor thereof, or other chief executive officer of such city, and the other to the recorder of the county. Such proposed charter shall then be published in two daily newspapers of general circulation in such city, for at least twenty days, and the first publication shall be made within twenty days after the completion of the charter; provided, that in cities containing a population of not more than ten thousand inhabitants such proposed charter shall be published in one such daily newspaper; and within not less than thirty days after such publication it shall be submitted to the qualified electors of said city at a general or special election, and if a majority of such qualified electors voting thereon shall ratify the same, it shall thereafter be submitted to the legislature for its approval or rejection as a whole, without power of alteration or amendment. Such approval may be made by concurrent resolution, and if approved by a majority vote of the members elected to each house, it shall become the charter of such city, or if such city be consolidated with a county, then of such city and county, and shall become the organic law thereof, and supersede any existing charter, and all amendments thereof, and all laws inconsistent with such charter. A copy of such charter, certified by the mayor or chief executive officer, and authenticated by the seal of such city, setting forth the submission of such charter to the electors, and its ratification by them, shall, after the approval of such charter by the legislature, be made in duplicate, and deposited, one in the office of the secretary of state, and the other, after being recorded in said recorder's office, shall be deposited in the archives of the city, and thereafter all courts shall take judicial notice of said charter. The charter, so ratified, may be amended at intervals of not less than two years by proposals therefor, submitted by the legislative authority of the city to the qualified electors thereof, at a general or special election, held at least forty days after the publication of such proposals for twenty days in a daily newspaper of general circulation in such city, and ratified by a majority of the electors voting thereon, and approved by the legislature as herein provided for the approval of the charter. Whenever fifteen per centum of the qualified voters of the city shall petition the legislative authority thereof to submit any proposed amendment or amendments to said charter to the qualified voters thereof for approval, the legislative authority thereof must submit the same. In submitting any such charter, or amendments thereto, any alternative article or proposition may be presented for the choice of the voters, and may be voted on separately without prejudice to others. [Amendment adopted November 4, 1902.]

§ 8½. It shall be competent, in all charters framed under the authority given by section eight of article eleven of this constitution, to provide, in addition to those provisions allowable by this constitution and by the laws of the state, as follows:

1. For the constitution, regulation, government, and jurisdiction of police courts, and for the manner in which, the times at which, and the terms for which the judges of such courts shall be elected or appointed, and for the compensation of said judges and of their clerks and attachés.

2. For the manner in which, the times at which, and the terms for which the members of boards of education shall be elected or appointed, and the number which shall constitute any one of such boards.

3. For the manner in which, the times at which, and the terms for which the members of the boards of police commissioners shall be elected or appointed; and for the constitution, regulation, compensation, and government of such boards and of the municipal police force.

4. For the manner in which, the times at which, and the terms for which the members of all boards of election shall be elected or appointed, and for the constitution, regulation, compensation, and government of such boards, and of their clerks and attachés; and for all expenses incident to the holding of any election.

Where a city and county government has been merged and consolidated into one municipal government, it shall also be competent in any charter framed under said section eight of said article eleven, to provide for the manner in which, the times at which, and the terms for which the several county officers shall be elected or appointed, for their compensation, and for the number of deputies that each shall have, and for the compensation payable to each of such deputies. [Amendment adopted November 3, 1896.]

§ 9. The compensation of any county, city, town, or municipal officer shall not be increased after his election or during his term of office; nor shall the term of any such officer be extended beyond the period for which he is elected or appointed.

§ 10. No county, city, town, or other public or municipal corporation, nor the inhabitants thereof, nor the property therein, shall be released or discharged from its or their proportionate share of taxes to be levied for state purposes, nor shall commutation for such taxes be authorized in any form whatsoever.

§ 11. Any county, city, town, or township may make and enforce within its limits all such local, police, sanitary, and other regulations as are not in conflict with general laws.

§ 12. The legislature shall have no power to impose taxes upon counties, cities, towns or other public or municipal corporations, or upon the inhabitants or property thereof, for county, city, town, or other municipal purposes, but may, by general laws, vest in the corporate authorities thereof the power to assess and collect taxes for such purposes.

§ 13. The legislature shall not delegate to any special commission, private corporation, company, association, or individual, any power to make, control, appropriate, supervise, or in any way interfere with any county, city, town, or municipal improvement, money, property, or effects, whether held in trust or otherwise, or to levy taxes or assessments, or perform any municipal functions whatever.

§ 14. No state office shall be continued or created in any county, city, town, or other municipality, for the inspection, measurement, or graduation of any merchandise, manufacture, or commodity; but such county, city, town, or municipality may, when authorized by general law, appoint such officers.

§ 15. Private property shall not be taken or sold for the payment of the corporate debt of any political or municipal corporation.

§ 16. All moneys, assessments, and taxes belonging to or collected for the use of any county, city, town, or other public or municipal corporation coming into the hands of any officer thereof, shall immediately be deposited with the treasurer, or other legal depository, to the credit of such city, town, or other corporation, respectively, for the benefit of the funds to which they respectively belong.

§ 17. The making of profit out of county, city, town, or other public money, or using the same for any purpose not authorized by law, by any officer having the possession or control thereof, shall be a felony, and shall be prosecuted and punished as prescribed by law.

§ 18. No county, city, town, township, board of education, or school districts, shall incur any indebtedness or liability in any manner or for any purpose exceeding in any year the income and revenue provided for such year, without the assent of two thirds of the qualified electors thereof, voting at an election to be held for that purpose, nor unless before or at the time of incurring such indebtedness provision shall be made for the collection of an annual tax sufficient to pay the interest on such indebtedness as it falls due, and also provision to constitute a sinking fund for the payment of the principal thereof on or before maturity, which shall not exceed forty years from the time of contracting the same: provided, however, that the city and county of San Francisco may at any time pay the unpaid claims, with interest thereon at the rate of five per centum per annum, for materials furnished to and work done for said city and county during the forty-first, forty-second, forty-third, forty-fourth, and fiftieth fiscal years, and for unpaid teachers' salaries for the fiftieth fiscal year, out of the income and revenue of any succeeding year or years, the amount to be paid in full of said claims not to exceed in the aggregate the sum of five hundred thousand dollars, and that no statute of limitations shall apply in any manner to these claims; and provided further, that the city of Vallejo, of Solano County, may pay its existing indebtedness incurred in the construction of its waterworks whenever two thirds of the electors thereof voting at an election held for that purpose shall so decide, and that no statute of limitations shall apply in any manner. Any indebtedness or liability incurred contrary to this provision, with the exceptions hereinbefore recited, shall be void. [Amendment adopted November 6, 1900.]

§ 19. In any city where there are no public works owned and controlled by the municipality for supplying the same with water or artificial light, any individual, or any company duly incorporated for such purpose under and by authority of the laws of this state, shall, under the direction of the superintendent of streets, or other officer in control thereof, and under such general regulations as the municipality may prescribe for damages and indemnity for damages, have the privilege of using the public streets and thoroughfares thereof, and of laying down pipes and conduits therein, and connections therewith, so far as may be necessary for introducing into and supplying such city and its inhabitants either with gaslight or other illuminating light, or with fresh water for domestic and all other purposes, upon the condition that the municipal government shall have the right to regulate the charges thereof. [Amendment adopted November 4, 1884.]

ARTICLE XII.

CORPORATIONS.

§ 1. Corporations may be formed under general laws, but shall not be created by special act. All laws now in force in this state concerning corporations, and all laws that may be hereafter passed pursuant to this section, may be altered from time to time or repealed.

§ 2. Dues from corporations shall be secured by such individual liability of the corporators and other means as may be prescribed by law.

§ 3. Each stockholder of a corporation or joint-stock association shall be individually and personally liable for such proportion of all its debts and liabilities contracted or incurred during the time he was a stockholder as the amount of stock or shares owned by him bears to the whole of the subscribed capital stock or shares of the corporation or association. The directors or trustees of corporations and joint-stock associations shall be jointly and severally liable to the creditors and stockholders for all moneys embezzled or misappropriated by the officers of such corporation or joint-stock association during the term of office of such director or trustee.

§ 4. The term "corporations," as used in this article, shall be construed to include all associations and joint-stock companies having any of the powers or privileges of corporations not possessed by individuals or partnerships, and all corporations shall have the right to sue, and be subject to be sued, in all courts, in like cases as natural persons.

§ 5. The legislature shall have no power to pass any act granting any charter for banking purposes, but corporations or associations may be formed for such purposes under general laws. No corporation, association, or individual shall issue or put in circulation, as money, anything but the lawful money of the United States.

§ 6. All existing charters, grants, franchises, special or exclusive privileges, under which an actual and bona fide organization shall not have taken place, and business been commenced in good faith, at the time of the adoption of this constitution, shall thereafter have no validity.

§ 7. The legislature shall not extend any franchise or charter, nor remit the forfeiture of any franchise or charter, of any corporation now existing, or which shall hereafter exist, under the laws of this state.

§ 8. The exercise of the right of eminent domain shall never be so abridged or construed as to prevent the legislature from taking the property and franchises of incorporated companies and subjecting them to public use the same as the property of individuals; and the exercise of the police power of the state shall never be so abridged or construed as to permit corporations to conduct their business in such manner as to infringe the rights of individuals or the general well-being of the state.

§ 9. No corporation shall engage in any business other than that expressly authorized in its charter or the law under which it may have been or may hereafter be organized; nor shall it hold for a longer period than five years any real estate, except such as may be necessary for carrying on its business.

§ 10. The legislature shall not pass any laws permitting the leasing or alienation of any franchise, so as to relieve the franchise or property held thereunder from the liabilities of the lessor or grantor, lessee or grantee, contracted or incurred in the operation, use, or enjoyment of such franchise, or any of its privileges.

§ 11. No corporation shall issue stock or bonds, except for money paid, labor done, or property actually received, and all fictitious increase of stock or indebtedness shall be void. The stock and bonded indebtedness of corporations shall not be increased, except in pursuance of general law, nor without the consent of the persons holding the larger amount in value of the stock, at a meeting called for that purpose, giving sixty days' public notice as may be provided by law.

§ 12. In all elections for directors or managers of corporations every stockholder shall have the right to vote, in person or by proxy, the number of shares of stock owned by him, for as many persons as there are directors or managers to be elected, or to cumulate said shares and give one candidate as many votes as the number of directors multiplied by the number of his shares of stock shall equal, or to distribute them, on the same principle, among as many candidates as he shall think fit; and such directors or managers shall not be elected in any other manner, except that members of co-operative societies formed for agricultural, mercantile, and manufacturing purposes may vote on all questions affecting such societies in manner prescribed by law.

§ 13. The state shall not, in any manner, loan its credit, nor shall it subscribe to or be interested in the stock of any company, association, or corporation.

§ 14. Every corporation, other than religious, educational, or benevolent, organized or doing business in this state, shall have and maintain an office or place in this state for the transaction of its business, where transfers of stock shall be made, and in which shall be kept, for inspection by every person having an interest therein, and legislative committees, books in which shall be recorded the amount of capital stock subscribed, and by whom; the names of the owners of its stock, and the amounts owned by them respectively; the amount of stock paid in, and by whom; the transfers of stock; the amount of its assets and liabilities, and the names and places of residence of its officers.

§ 15. No corporation organized outside the limits of this state shall be allowed to transact business within this state on more favorable conditions than are prescribed by law to similar corporations organized under the laws of this state.

§ 16. A corporation or association may be sued in the county where the contract is made or is to be performed, or where the obligation or liability arises or the breach occurs; or in the county where the principal place of business of such corporation is situated, subject to the power of the court to change the place of trial, as in other cases.

§ 17. All railroad, canal, and other transportation companies are declared to be common carriers, and subject to legislative control. Any association or corporation, organized for the purpose under the laws of this state, shall have the right to connect at the state line with railroads of other states. Every railroad company shall have the right with its road to intersect, connect with, or cross any other railroad, and shall receive and transport each the other's passengers, tonnage, and cars, without delay or discrimination.

§ 18. No president, director, officer, agent, or employee of any railroad or canal company shall be interested, directly or indirectly, in the furnishing of material or supplies to such company, nor in the business of transportation as a common carrier of freight or passengers over the works owned, leased, controlled, or worked by such company, except such interest in the business of transportation as lawfully flows from the ownership of stock therein.

§ 19. No railroad or other transportation company shall grant free passes, or passes or tickets at a discount, to any person holding any office of honor, trust, or profit in this state; and the acceptance of any such pass or ticket, by a member of the legislature, or any public officer, other than railroad commissioner, shall work a forfeiture of his office.

§ 20. No railroad company or other common carrier shall combine or make any contract with the owners of any vessel that leaves port or makes port in this state, or with any common carrier, by which combination or contract the earnings of one doing the carrying are to be shared by the other not doing the carrying. And whenever a railroad corporation shall, for the purpose of competing with any other common carrier, lower its rates for transportation of passengers or freight from one point to another, such reduced rates shall not be again raised or increased from such standard without the consent of the governmental authority in which shall be vested the power to regulate fares and freights.

§ 21. No discrimination in charges or facilities for transportation shall be made by any railroad or other transportation company between places or persons, or in the facilities for the transportation of the same classes of freight or passengers within this state, or coming from or going to any other state. Persons and property transported over any railroad, or by any other transportation company or individual, shall be delivered at any station, landing, or port, at charges not exceeding the charges for transportation of persons and property of the same class, in the same direction, to any more distant station, port, or landing. Excursion and commutation tickets may be issued at special rates.

§ 22. The state shall be divided into three districts as nearly equal in population as practicable, in each of which one railroad commissioner shall be elected by the qualified electors thereof at the regular gubernatorial elections, whose salary shall be fixed by law, and whose term of office shall be four years, commencing on the first Monday after the first day of January next succeeding their election. Said commissioners shall be qualified electors of this state and of the district from which they are elected, and shall not be interested in any railroad corporation, or other transportation company, as stockholder, creditor, agent, attorney, or employee; and the act of a majority of said commissioners shall be deemed the act of said commission. Said commissioners shall have the power, and it shall be their duty, to establish rates of charges for the transportation of passengers and freight by railroad or other transportation companies; and publish the same from time to time, with such changes as they may make; to examine the books, records, and papers of all railroad and other transportation companies, and for this purpose they shall have power to issue subpoenas and all other necessary process; to hear and determine complaints against railroad and other transportation companies, to send for persons and papers, to administer oaths, take testimony, and punish for contempt of their orders and processes, in the same manner and to the same extent as courts of record, and enforce their decisions and correct abuses through the medium of the courts. Said commissioners shall prescribe a uniform system of accounts to be kept by all such corporations and companies. Any railroad corporation or transportation company which shall fail or refuse to conform to such rates as shall be established by such commissioners, or shall charge rates in excess thereof, or shall fail to keep their accounts in accordance with the system prescribed by the commission, shall be fined not exceeding twenty thousand dollars for each offense; and every officer, agent, or employee of any such corporation or company who shall demand or receive rates in excess thereof, or who shall in any manner violate the provisions of this section, shall be fined not exceeding five thousand dollars, or be imprisoned in the county jail not exceeding one year. In all controversies, civil or criminal, the rates of fares and freights established by said commission shall be deemed conclusively just and reasonable, and in any action against such corporation or company for damages sustained by charging excessive rates, the plaintiff, in addition to the actual damage, may, in the discretion of the judge or jury, recover exemplary damages. Said commission shall report to the governor, annually, their proceedings, and such other facts as may be deemed important. Nothing in this section shall prevent individuals from maintaining actions against any such companies. The legislature may, in addition to any penalties herein prescribed, enforce this article by forfeiture of charter or otherwise, and may confer such further powers on the commissioners as shall be necessary to enable them to perform the duties enjoined on them in this and the foregoing section. The legislature shall have power, by a two-thirds vote of all the members elected to each house, to remove any one or more of said commissioners from office, for dereliction of duty, or corruption; or incompetency; and whenever, from any cause, a vacancy in office shall occur in said commission, the governor shall fill the same by the appointment of a qualified person thereto, who shall hold office for the residue of the unexpired term, and until his successor shall have been elected and qualified.

§ 23. Until the legislature shall district the state, the following shall be the railroad districts: The first district shall be composed of the counties of Alpine, Amador, Butte, Calaveras, Colusa, Del Norte, El Dorado, Humboldt, Lake, Lassen, Mendocino, Modoc, Napa, Nevada, Placer, Plumas, Sacramento, Shasta, Sierra, Siskiyou, Solano, Sonoma, Sutter, Tehama, Trinity, Yolo, and Yuba, from which one railroad commissioner shall be elected. The second district shall be composed of the counties of Marin, San Francisco, and San Mateo, from which one railroad commissioner shall be elected. The third district shall be composed of the counties of Alameda, Contra Costa, Fresno, Inyo, Kern, Los Angeles, Mariposa, Merced, Mono, Monterey, San Benito, San Bernardino, San Diego, San Joaquin, San Luis Obispo, Santa Barbara, Santa Clara, Santa Cruz, Stanislaus, Tulare, Tuolumne, and Ventura, from which one railroad commissioner shall be elected.

§ 24. The legislature shall pass all laws necessary for the enforcement of the provisions of this article.

REVENUE AND TAXATION.

§ 1. All property in the state, not exempt under the laws of the United States, shall be taxed in proportion to its value, to be ascertained as provided by law. The word "property," as used in this article and section, is hereby declared to include moneys, credits, bonds, stocks, dues, franchises, and all other matters and things, real, personal, and mixed, capable of private ownership; provided, that property used for free public libraries and free museums, growing crops, property used exclusively for public schools, and such as may belong to the United States, this state, or to any county or municipal corporation within this state, shall be exempt from taxation. The legislature may provide, except in case of credits secured by mortgage or trust deed, for a deduction from credits of debts due to bona fide residents of this state. [Amendment adopted November 6, 1894.]

§ 1½. All buildings, and so much of the real property on which they are situated as may be required for the convenient use and occupation of said buildings, when the same are used solely and exclusively for religious worship, shall be free from taxation; provided, that no building so used which may be rented for religious purposes and rent received by the owner thereof shall be exempt from taxation. [New section, adopted November 6, 1900.]

§ 1¾. All bonds hereafter issued by the state of California, or by any county, city and county, municipal corporation, or district (including school, reclamation, and irrigation districts) within said state, shall be free and exempt from taxation. [New section, adopted November 4, 1902.]

§ 2. Land, and the improvements thereon, shall be separately assessed. Cultivated and uncultivated land, of the same quality, and similarly situated, shall be assessed at the same value.

§ 3. Every tract of land containing more than six hundred and forty acres, and which has been sectionized by the United States government, shall be assessed, for the purposes of taxation, by sections or fractions of sections. The legislature shall provide by law for the assessment, in small tracts, of all lands not sectionized by the United States government.

§ 4. A mortgage, deed of trust, contract, or other obligation by which a debt is secured, shall, for the purposes of assessment and taxation, be deemed and treated as an interest in the property affected thereby. Except as to railroad and other quasi-public corporations, in case of debt so secured, the value of the property affected by such mortgage, deed of trust, contract, or obligation, less the value of such security, shall be assessed and taxed to the owner of the property, and the value of such security shall be assessed and taxed to the owner thereof, in the county, city, or district in which the property affected thereby is situate. The taxes so levied shall be a lien upon the property and security, and may be paid by either party to such security: if paid by the owner of the security, the tax so levied upon the property affected thereby shall become a part of the debt so secured; if the owner of the property shall pay the tax so levied on such security, it shall constitute a payment thereon, and to the extent of such payment, a full discharge thereof; provided, that if any such security or indebtedness shall be paid by any such debtor or debtors, after assessment and before the tax levy, the amount of such levy may likewise be retained by such debtor or debtors, and shall be computed according to the tax levy for the preceding year.

§ 5. Every contract hereafter made, by which a debtor is obligated to pay any tax or assessment on money loaned, or on any mortgage, deed of trust, or other lien, shall, as to any interest specified therein, and as to such tax or assessment, be null and void.

§ 6. The power of taxation shall never be surrendered or suspended by any grant or contract to which the state shall be a party.

§ 7. The legislature shall have the power to provide by law for the payment of all taxes on real property by instalments.

§ 8. The legislature shall by law require each taxpayer in this state to make and deliver to the county assessor, annually, a statement, under oath, setting forth specifically all the real and personal property owned by such taxpayer, or in his possession, or under his control, at twelve o'clock meridian on the first Monday of March.

§ 9. A state board of equalization, consisting of one member from each congressional district in this state, as the same existed in eighteen hundred and seventy-nine, shall be elected by the qualified electors of their respective districts, at the general election to be held in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-six, and at each gubernatorial election thereafter, whose term of office shall be for four years; whose duty it shall be to equalize the valuation of the taxable property in the several counties of the state for the purpose of taxation. The controller of state shall be ex officio a member of the boards. The boards of supervisors of the several counties of the state shall constitute boards of equalization for their respective counties, whose duty it shall be to equalize the valuation of the taxable property in the county for the purpose of taxation; provided, such state and county boards of equalization are hereby authorized and empowered, under such rules of notice as the county boards may prescribe as to county assessments, and under such rules of notice as the state board may prescribe as to the action of the state board, to increase or lower the entire assessment roll, or any assessment contained therein, so as to equalize the assessment of the property contained in said assessment roll, and make the assessment conform to the true value in money of the property contained in said roll; provided, that no board of equalization shall raise any mortgage, deed of trust, contract, or other obligation by which a debt is secured, money, or solvent credits, above its face value. The present state board of equalization shall continue in office until their successors, as herein provided for, shall be elected and shall qualify. The legislature shall have power to redistrict the state into four districts, as nearly equal in population as practical, and to provide for the elections of members of said board of equalization. [Amendment adopted November 4, 1884.]

§ 10. All property, except as hereinafter in this section provided, shall be assessed in the county, city, city and county, town, township, or district in which it is situated, in the manner prescribed by law. The franchise, roadway, road-bed, rails, and rolling stock of all railroads operated in more than one county in this state shall be assessed by the state board of equalization at their actual value, and the same shall be apportioned to the counties, cities and counties, cities, towns, townships, and districts in which such railroads are located, in proportion to the number of miles of railway laid in such counties, cities and counties, cities, towns, townships, and districts.

§ 10½. The personal property of every householder to the amount of one hundred dollars, the articles to be selected by each householder, shall be exempt from taxation. [New section, adopted November 8, 1904.]

§ 12. The legislature shall provide for the levy and collection of an annual poll-tax, of not less than two dollars, on every male inhabitant of this state over twenty-one and under sixty years of age, except paupers, idiots, insane persons, and Indians not taxed. Said tax shall be paid into the state school fund.

§ 12¾. Fruit and nut-bearing trees under the age of four years from the time of planting in orchard form, and grapevines under the age of three years from the time of planting in vineyard form, shall be exempt from taxation, and nothing in this article shall be construed as subjecting such trees and grapevines to taxation. [New section, adopted November 6, 1894.]

§ 13. The legislature shall pass all laws necessary to carry out the provisions of this article.

ARTICLE XIV.

§ 1. The use of all water now appropriated, or that may hereafter be appropriated, for sale, rental, or distribution, is hereby declared to be a public use, and subject to the regulation and control of the state, in the manner to be prescribed by law; provided, that the rates or compensation to be collected by any person, company, or corporation in this state for the use of water supplied to any city and county, or city, or town, or the inhabitants thereof, shall be fixed, annually, by the board of supervisors, or city and county, or city, or town council, or other governing body of such city and county, or city, or town, by ordinance or otherwise, in the manner that other ordinances or legislative acts or resolutions

Such ordinances or resolutions shall be passed in the month of February of each year, and take effect on the first day of July thereafter. Any board or body failing to pass the necessary ordinances or resolutions fixing water rates, where necessary, within such time, shall be subject to peremptory process to compel action, at the suit of any party interested, and shall be liable to such further processes and penalties as the legislature may prescribe. § 2. No individual, partnership, or corporation, claiming or possessing the frontage of tidal lands of a harbor, bay, inlet, estuary, or other navigable water in this state, shall be permitted to exclude the right of way to such water whenever it is required for any public purpose, nor to destroy or obstruct the free navigation of such water; and the legislature shall enact such laws as will give the most liberal construction to this provision, so that access to the navigable waters of this state shall be always attainable for the people thereof.

§ 3. All tide-lands within two miles of any incorporated city or town of this state, and fronting on the waters of any harbor, estuary, bay, or inlet, used for the purposes of navigation, shall be withheld from grant or sale to private persons, partnerships, or corporations.

ARTICLE XVI.

STATE INDEBTEDNESS.

§ 1. The legislature shall not, in any manner, create any debt of debts, liability or liabilities, which shall, singly or in the aggregate with any previous debts or liabilities, exceed the sum of three hundred thousand dollars, except in case of war to repel invasion or suppress insurrection, unless the same shall be authorized by law for some single object or work to be distinctly specified therein, which law shall provide ways and means, exclusive of loans, for the payment of the interest of such debt or liability as it falls due, and also to pay and discharge the principal of such debt or liability within twenty years of the time of the contracting thereof, and shall be irrepealable until the principal and interest thereon shall be paid and discharged; but no such law shall take effect until, at a general election, it shall have been submitted to the people and shall have received a majority of all the votes cast for and against it at such election; and all moneys raised by authority of such law shall be applied only to the specific object therein stated, or to the payment of the debt thereby created, and such law shall be published in at least one newspaper in each county, or city and county, if one be published therein, throughout the state, for three months next preceding the election at which it is submitted to the people. ARTICLE XVIII.

AMENDING AND REVISING THE CONSTITUTION.

§ 1. Any amendment or amendments to this constitution may be proposed in the senate or assembly, and if two thirds of all the members elected to each of the two houses shall vote in favor thereof, such proposed amendment or amendments shall be entered in their journals, with the yeas and nays taken thereon; and it shall be the duty of the legislature to submit such proposed amendment or amendments to the people in such manner, and at such time, and after such publication as may be deemed expedient. Should more amendments than one be submitted at the same election, they shall be so prepared and distinguished, by numbers or otherwise, that each can be voted on separately. If the people shall approve and ratify such amendment or amendments, or any of them, by a majority of the qualified electors voting thereon, such amendment or amendments shall become a part of this constitution.

§ 2. Whenever two thirds of the members elected to each branch of the legislature shall deem it necessary to revise this constitution they shall recommend to the electors to vote, at the next general election, for or against a convention for that purpose, and if a majority of the electors voting at such election on the proposition for a convention shall vote in favor thereof, the legislature shall, at its next session, provide by law for calling the same. The convention shall consist of a number of delegates not to exceed that of both branches of the legislature, who shall be chosen in the same manner, and have the same qualifications, as members of the legislature. The delegates so elected shall meet within three months after their election, at such place as the legislature may direct. At a special election, to be provided for by law, the constitution that may be agreed upon by such convention shall be submitted to the people for their ratification or rejection, in such manner as the convention may determine. The returns of such election shall, in such manner as the convention shall direct, be certified to the executive of the state, who shall call to his assistance the controller, treasurer, and secretary of state, and compare the returns so certified to him; and it shall be the duty of the executive to declare, by his proclamation, such constitution as may have been ratified by a majority of all the votes cast at such special election, to be the constitution of the state of California.

ARTICLE XIX.

CHINESE.

§ 1. The legislature shall prescribe all necessary regulations for the protection of the state, and the counties, cities, and towns thereof, from the burdens and evils arising from the presence of aliens who are or may become vagrants, paupers, mendicants, criminals, or invalids afflicted with contagious or infectious diseases, and from aliens otherwise dangerous or detrimental to the well-being or peace of the state, and to impose conditions upon which such persons may reside in the state, and to provide the means and mode of their removal from the state, upon failure or refusal to comply with such conditions: provided, that nothing contained in this section shall be construed to impair or limit the power of the legislature to pass such police laws or other regulations as it may deem necessary.

§ 2. No corporation now existing or hereafter formed under the laws of this state shall, after the adoption of this constitution, employ, directly or indirectly, in any capacity, any Chinese or Mongolian. The legislature shall pass such laws as may be necessary to enforce this provision.

§ 3. No Chinese shall be employed on any state, county, municipal, or other public work, except in punishment for crime.

Asiatic coolieism is a form of human slavery, and is forever prohibited in this state, and all contracts for coolie labor shall be void. All companies or corporations, whether formed in this country or any foreign country, for the importation of such labor, shall be subject to such penalties as the legislature may prescribe. The legislature shall delegate all necessary power to the incorporated cities and towns of this state for the removal of Chinese without the limits of such cities and towns, or for their location within prescribed portions of those limits, and it shall also provide the necessary legislation to prohibit the introduction into this state of Chinese after the adoption of this constitution. This section shall be enforced by appropriate legislation.

ARTICLE XX.

MISCELLANEOUS SUBJECTS.

§ 1. The city of Sacramento is hereby declared to be the seat of government of this state, and shall so remain until changed by law: but no law changing the seat of government shall be valid or binding unless the same be approved and ratified by a majority of the qualified electors of the state voting therefor at a general state election, under such regulations and provisions as the legislature, by a two-thirds vote of each house, may provide, submitting the question of change to the people.

§ 2. Any citizen of this state who shall, after the adoption of this constitution, fight a duel with deadly weapons, or send or accept a challenge to fight a duel with deadly weapons, either within this state or out of it, or who shall act as

§ 10. Every person shall be disqualified from holding any office of profit in this state who shall have been convicted of having given or offered a bribe to procure his election or appointment.

§ 11. Laws shall be made to exclude from office, serving on juries, and from the right of suffrage, persons convicted of bribery, perjury, forgery, malfeasance in office, or other high crimes. The privilege of free suffrage shall be supported by laws regulating elections, and prohibiting, under adequate penalties, all undue influence thereon from power, bribery, tumult, or other improper practice.

§ 12. Absence from this state, on business of the state or of the United States, shall not affect the question of residence of any person.

§ 13. A plurality of the votes given at any election shall constitute a choice, where not otherwise directed in this constitution.

§ 14. The legislature shall provide, by law, for the maintenance and efficiency of a state board of health.

§ 15. § 16. When the term of any officer or commissioner is not provided for in this constitution, the term of such officer or commissioner may be declared by law; and if not so declared, such officer or commissioner shall hold his position as such officer or commissioner during the pleasure of the authority making the appointment; but in no case shall such term exceed four years.

§ 17. The time of service of all laborers, or workmen or mechanics employed upon any public works of the state of California, or of any county, city and county, city, town, district, township, or any other political subdivision thereof, whether said work is done by contract or otherwise, shall be limited and restricted to eight hours in any one calendar day, except in cases of extraordinary emergency caused by fire, flood, or danger to life and property, or except to work upon public, military, or naval works or defenses in time of war, and the legislature shall provide by law that a stipulation to this effect shall be incorporated in all contracts for public work and prescribe proper penalties for the speedy and efficient enforcement of said law. [Amendment adopted November 4, 1902.]

§ 18. No person shall, on account of sex, be disqualified from entering upon or pursuing any lawful business, vocation, or profession.

§ 19. Nothing in this constitution shall prevent the legislature from providing, by law, for the payment of the expenses of the convention framing this constitution, including the per diem of the delegates for the full term thereof.

§ 20. Elections of the officers provided for by this constitution, except at the election in the year eighteen hundred and seventy-nine, shall be held on the even-numbered years next before the expiration of their respective terms. ARTICLE XXII.

SCHEDULE.

That no inconvenience may arise from the alterations and amendments to the constitution of this state, and to carry the same into complete effect, it is hereby ordained and declared:

§ 1. That all laws in force at the adoption of this constitution, not inconsistent therewith, shall remain in full force and effect until altered or repealed by the legislature; and all rights, actions, prosecutions, claims, and contracts of the state, counties, individuals, or bodies corporate, not inconsistent therewith, shall continue to be as valid as if this constitution had not been adopted. The provisions of all laws which are inconsistent with this constitution shall cease upon the adoption thereof, except that all laws which are inconsistent with such provisions of this constitution as require legislation to enforce them shall remain in full force until the first day of July, eighteen hundred and eighty, unless sooner altered or repealed by the legislature.

§ 2. That all recognizances, obligations, and all other instruments entered into or executed before the adoption of this constitution, to this state, or to any subdivision thereof, or any municipality therein, and all fines, taxes, penalties, and forfeitures due or owing to this state, or any subdivision or municipality thereof, and all writs, prosecutions, actions, and causes of action, except as herein otherwise provided, shall continue and remain unaffected by the adoption of this constitution. All indictments or informations which shall have been found, or may hereafter be found, for any crime or offense committed before this constitution takes effect, may be proceeded upon as if no change had taken place, except as otherwise provided in this constitution.

§ 3. All courts now existing, save justices' and police courts, are hereby abolished; and all records, books, papers, and proceedings from such courts, as are abolished by this constitution, shall be transferred, on the first day of January, eighteen hundred and eighty, to the courts provided for in this constitution; and the courts to which the same are thus transferred shall have the same power and jurisdiction over them as if they had been in the first instance commenced, filed, or lodged therein.

§ 4. The superintendent of printing of the state of California shall, at least thirty days before the first Wednesday in May, anno Domini eighteen hundred and seventy-nine, cause to be printed at the state printing office, in pamphlet form, simply stitched, as many copies of this constitution as there are registered voters in this state, and mail one copy thereof to the post-office address of each registered voter; provided, any copies not called for ten days after reaching their delivery office, shall be subject to general distribution by the several postmasters of the state. The governor shall issue his proclamation, giving notice of the election for the adoption or rejection of this constitution, at least thirty days before the said first Wednesday of May, eighteen hundred and seventy-nine, and the boards of supervisors of the several counties shall cause said proclamation to be made public in their respective counties, and general notice of said election to be given at least fifteen days next before said election.

§ 5. The superintendent of printing of the state of California shall, at least twenty days before said election, cause to be printed and delivered to the clerk of each county in this state five times the number of properly prepared ballots for said election that there are voters in said respective counties, with the words printed thereon: "For the New Constitution." He shall likewise cause to be so printed and delivered to said clerks five times the number of properly prepared ballots for said election that there are voters in said respective counties, with the words printed thereon: "Against the New Constitution." The secretary of state is hereby authorized and required to furnish the superintendent of state printing a sufficient quantity of legal ballot paper, now on hand, to carry out the provisions of this section.

§ 6. The clerks of the several counties in the state shall, at least five days before said election, cause to be delivered to the inspectors of election, at each election precinct or polling-place in their respective counties, suitable registers, poll-books, forms of return, and an equal number of the aforesaid ballots, which number, in the aggregate, must be ten times greater than the number of voters in the said election precincts or polling-places. The returns of the number of votes cast at the presidential election in the year eighteen hundred and seventy-six shall serve as a basis of calculation for this and the preceding section; provided, that the duties in this and the preceding section imposed upon the clerks of the respective counties shall, in the city and county of San Francisco, be performed by the registrar of voters for said city and county.

§ 7. Every citizen of the United States, entitled by law to vote for members of the assembly in this state, shall be entitled to vote for the adoption or rejection of this constitution.

§ 8. The officers of the several counties of this state, whose duty it is, under the law, to receive and canvass the returns from the several precincts of their respective counties, as well as of the city and county of San Francisco, shall meet at the usual places of meeting for such purposes on the first Monday after said election. If, at the time of meeting, the returns from each precinct in the county in which the polls were opened have been received, the board must then and there proceed to canvass the returns; but if all the returns have not been received, the canvass must be postponed from time to time until all the returns are received, or until the second Monday after said election, when they shall proceed to make out returns of the votes cast for and against the new constitution; and the proceedings of said board shall be the same as those prescribed for like boards in the case of an election for governor. Upon the completion of said canvass and returns, the said board shall immediately certify the same, in the usual form, to the governor of the state of California.

§ 9. The governor of the state of California shall, as soon as the returns of said election shall be received by him, or within thirty days after said election, in the presence and with the assistance of the controller, treasurer, and secretary of state, open and compute all the returns received of votes cast for and against the new constitution. If, by such examination and computation, it is ascertained that a majority of the whole number of votes cast at such election is in favor of such new constitution, the executive of this state shall, by his proclamation, declare such new constitution to be the constitution of the state of California, and that it shall take effect and be in force on the days hereinafter specified.

§ 10. In order that future elections in this state shall conform to the requirements of this constitution, the terms of all officers elected at the first election under the same shall be, respectively, one year shorter than the terms as fixed by law or by this constitution; and the successors of all such officers shall be elected at the last election before the expiration of the terms as in this section provided. The first officers chosen after the adoption of this constitution shall be elected at the time and in the manner now provided by law. Judicial officers and the superintendent of public instruction shall be elected at the time and in the manner that state officers are elected.

§ 11. All laws relative to the present judicial system of the state shall be applicable to the judicial system created by this constitution until changed by legislation.

§ 12. This constitution shall take effect and be in force on and after the fourth day of July, eighteen hundred and seventy-nine, at twelve o'clock meridian, so far as the same relates to the election of all officers, the commencement of their terms of office, and the meeting of the legislature. In all other respects, and for all other purposes, this constitution shall take effect on the first day of January, eighteen hundred and eighty, at twelve o'clock meridian.

NATURALIZATION LAWS.

(United States Revised Statutes, §§ 2165-2174.)

§ 2165. An alien may be admitted to become a citizen of the United States in the following manner, and not otherwise:

First. He shall declare on oath, before a circuit or district court of the United States, or a district or supreme court of the territories, or a court of record of any of the states having common-law jurisdiction, and a seal and clerk, two years, at least, prior to his admission, that it is bona fide his intention to become a citizen of the United States, and to renounce forever all allegiance and fidelity to any foreign prince, potentate, state, or sovereignty, and, particularly, by name, to the prince, potentate, state, or sovereignty of which the alien may be at the time a citizen or subject.

Second. He shall, at the time of his application to be admitted, declare, on oath, before some one of the courts above specified, that he will support the constitution of the United States, and that he absolutely and entirely renounces and abjures all allegiance and fidelity to every foreign prince, potentate, state, or sovereignty; and, particularly, by name, to the prince, potentate, state, or sovereignty of which he was before a citizen or subject; which proceedings shall be recorded by the clerk of the court.

Third. It shall be made to appear to the satisfaction of the court admitting such alien that he has resided within the United States five years at least, and within the state or territory where such court is at the time held, one year at least; and that during that time he has behaved as a man of a good moral character, attached to the principles of the constitution of the United States, and well disposed to the good order and happiness of the same; but the oath of the applicant shall in no case be allowed to prove his residence.

Fourth. In case the alien applying to be admitted to citizenship has borne any hereditary title, or been of any of the orders of nobility in the kingdom or state from which he came, he shall, in addition to the above requisites, make an express renunciation of his title or order of nobility in the court to which his application is made, and his renunciation shall be recorded in the court.

Fifth. Any alien who was residing within the limits and under the jurisdiction of the United States before the twenty-ninth day of January, one thousand seven hundred and ninety-five, may be admitted to become a citizen, on due proof made to some one of the courts above specified, that he has resided two years, at least, within the jurisdiction of the United States, and one year, at least, immediately preceding his application, within the state or territory where such court is at the time held; and on his declaring on oath that he will support the constitution of the United States, and that he absolutely entirely renounces and abjures all allegiance and fidelity to any foreign prince, potentate, state, or sovereignty, and, particularly, by name, to the prince, potentate, state, or sovereignty whereof he was before a citizen or subject; and, also, on its appearing to the satisfaction of the court, that during such term of two years he has behaved as a man of good moral character, attached to the constitution of the United States, and well disposed to the good order and happiness of the same; and where the alien, applying for admission to citizenship, has borne any hereditary title or been of any of the orders of nobility in the kingdom or state from which he came, on his, moreover, making in the court an express renunciation of his title or order of nobility. All of the proceedings required in this condition to be performed in the court, shall be recorded by the clerk thereof.

Sixth. Any alien who was residing within the limits and under the jurisdiction of the United States, between the eighteenth day of June, one thousand seven hundred and ninety-eight, and the eighteenth day of June, one thousand eight hundred and twelve, and who has continued to reside within the same, may be admitted to become a citizen of the United States without having made any previous declaration of his intention to become such; but whenever any person, without a certificate of such declaration of intention, makes application to be admitted a citizen, it must be proved to the satisfaction of the court, that the applicant was residing within the limits and jurisdiction of the United States before the eighteenth day of June, one thousand eight hundred and twelve, and has continued to reside within the same; and the residence of the applicant within the limits and under the jurisdiction of the United States, for at least five years immediately preceding the time of such application, must be proved by the oath of citizens of the United States, which citizens shall be named in the record as witnesses; and such continued residence within the limits and under the jurisdiction of the United States, when satisfactorily proved, and the place where the applicant has resided for at least five years, shall be stated and set forth, together with the names of such citizen; in the record of the court admitting the applicant; otherwise the same shall not entitle him to be considered and deemed a citizen of the United States. [Be it enacted by the senate and house of representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the declaration of intention to become a citizen of the United States, required by section two thousand one hundred and sixty-five of the Revised Statutes of the United States, may be made by an alien before the clerk of any of the courts named in section two thousand one hundred and sixty-five; and all such declarations heretofore made before any such clerk are hereby declared as legal and valid as if made before one of the courts named in said section.]

§ 2166. Any alien, of the age of twenty-one years and upward, who has enlisted, or may enlist, in the armies of the United States, either the regular or the volunteer forces, and has been, or may be hereafter, honorably discharged, shall be admitted to become a citizen of the United States, upon the petition, without any previous declaration of his intention to become such; and he shall not be required to prove more than one year's residence within the United States previous to his application to become such citizen; and the court admitting such alien shall, in addition to such proof of residence and good moral character, as now provided by law, be satisfied by competent proof of such persons having been honorably discharged from the service of the United States.

§ 2167. An alien being under the age of twenty-one years, who has resided in the United States three years next preceding his arriving at that age, and who has continued to reside therein to the time he may make application to be admitted a citizen thereof, may, after he arrives at the age of twenty-one years, and after he has resided five years within the United States, including the three years of his minority, be admitted a citizen of the United States, without having made the declaration required in the first condition of section twenty-one hundred and sixty-five; but such alien shall make the declaration required therein at the time of his admission; and shall further declare, on oath, and prove to the satisfaction of the court, that, for two years next preceding, it has been his bona fide intention to become a citizen of the United States; and he shall in all other respects comply with the laws in regard to naturalization.

§ 2168. When any alien, who has complied with the first condition specified in section twenty-one hundred and sixty-five, dies before he is actually naturalized, the widow and children of such alien shall be considered as citizens of the United States, and shall be entitled to all rights and privileges as such, upon taking the oaths proscribed [prescribed] by law.

§ 2170. No alien shall be admitted to become a citizen, who has not for the continued term of five years next preceding his admission resided in the United States.

§ 2171. No alien who is a native citizen or subject or a denizen of any country, state, or sovereignty with which the United States are at war, at the time of his application, shall be then admitted to become a citizen of the United States; but persons resident within the United States, or the territories thereof, on the eighteenth day of June, in the year one thousand eight hundred and twelve, who had before that day made a declaration, according to law, of their intention to become citizens of the United States, or who were at that day entitled to become citizens without making such declaration, may be admitted to become citizens thereof, notwithstanding they were alien enemies at the time and in the manner prescribed by the laws heretofore passed on that subject; nor shall anything herein contained be taken or construed to interfere with or prevent the apprehension and removal, agreeably to law, of any alien enemy at any time previous to the actual naturalization of such alien.

§ 2172. The children of persons who have been duly naturalized under any law of the United States, or who, previous to the passing of any law on that subject, by the government of the United States, may have become citizens of any one of the states, under the laws thereof, being under the age of twenty-one years at the time of the naturalization of their parents, shall if dwelling in the United States, be considered as citizens thereof; and the children of persons who now are, or have been, citizens of the United States, shall, though born out of the limits and jurisdiction of the United States, be considered as citizens thereof; but no person heretofore proscribed [prescribed] by any state, or who has been legally convicted of having joined the army of Great Britain during the revolutionary war, shall be admitted to become a citizen without the consent of the legislature of the state in which such person was proscribed [prescribed].

served three years on board of a merchant vessel of the United States subsequent to the date of such declaration, may, on his application to any competent court, and the production of his certificate of discharge and good conduct during that time, together with the certificate of his declaration of intention to become a citizen, be admitted a citizen of the United States; and every seaman, being a foreigner, shall, after his declaration of intention to become a citizen of the United States, and after he shall have served such three years, be deemed a citizen of the United States for the purpose of manning and serving on board any merchant vessel of the United States, anything to the contrary in any act of Congress notwithstanding; but such seaman shall, for all purposes of protection as an American citizen, be deemed such, after the filing of his declaration of intention to become such citizen.

Citizenship to be accorded to allottees and Indians adopting civilized life.

§ 6. That upon the completion of said allotments and the patenting of the lands to said allottees, each and every member of the respective bands or tribes of Indians to whom allotments have been made shall have the benefit of and be subject to the laws, both civil and criminal, of the state or territory in which they may reside; and no territory shall pass or enforce any law denying any such Indian within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the law.

And every Indian born within the territorial limits of the United States to whom allotments shall have been made under the provisions of this act, or under any law or treaty, and every Indian born within the territorial limits of the United States who has voluntarily taken up, within said limits, his residence separate and apart from any tribe of Indians therein, and has adopted the habits of civilized life, is hereby declared to be a citizen of the United States, and is entitled to all the rights, privileges, and immunities of such citizens, whether said Indian has been or not, by birth or otherwise, a member of any tribe of Indians within the territorial limits of the United States without in any manner impairing or otherwise affecting the right of any such Indian to tribal or other property. [Act February 8, 1887: 24 Stats. at L. 388.]

That every Indian woman, member of any such tribe of Indians, who may hereafter be married to any citizen of the United States, is hereby declared to become by such marriage a citizen of the United States, with all the rights, privileges, and immunities of any such citizen, being a married woman:

Provided, That nothing in this act contained shall impair or in any way affect the right or title of such married woman to any tribal property or any interest therein.

§ 3. That whenever the marriage of any white man with any Indian woman, a member of any such tribe of Indians, is required or offered to be proved in any judicial proceeding, evidence of the admission of such fact by the party against whom the proceeding is had, or evidence of general repute, or of cohabitation as married persons, or any other circumstantial or presumptive evidence from which fact may be inferred, shall be competent. 5. To require the annual renewal of all such certificates, and to collect therefor a renewal fee of not exceeding one dollar;

6. To revoke for cause any such certificate, after written notice to the holder, and a hearing being had thereon; provided, that such revocation must receive the affirmative vote of at least four members of the board; formation of the new agricultural district. Whenever the board of directors of two or more agricultural districts shall, by a majority vote of each board, elect to unite, the said several districts may associate as one district, and hold a fair in any of said districts, and may for such purpose draw the appropriation for all of said districts, and expend the same for said fair.

§ 3. Any fifty or more persons, representing a majority of the counties within any one of the districts above constituted, may form an association for the improvement of the material industries within such district, and when so formed, the association shall be known and designated by the name of —— agricultural association, and by such name and style shall have perpetual succession, and shall have power and authority to contract and be contracted with, to sue and be sued, to have and use a common seal, to purchase and hold and lease real estate, with such buildings and improvements as may be erected thereon, and may sell and lease and dispose of the same at pleasure. The said real estate, except as hereinafter provided, shall be used by such association for the purpose of holding exhibitions of horses, cattle, and other stock, and of the agricultural, horticultural, viticultural, mechanical, manufacturing, and domestic products of such district, with a view to the improvement of all industries in the same. But the said association shall have the power, and are hereby authorized, to sell and convey any portion of the real estate held by it, by whatever title derived, which may not be necessary for the permanent use of said association for the purposes aforesaid.

§ 5. Within ten days after the formation of any new agricultural association within any of the districts above constituted in accordance with the provisions of this act, and notice of such formation to the governor, the governor shall appoint eight resident citizens of such district as members of a district board of agriculture for said district, whose term of office shall be four years, except as hereinafter provided.

§ 6. § 7. At the same meeting the members of the board shall, by lot or otherwise, classify themselves into four classes of two members each. The term of office of the first class shall expire at the end of the first fiscal year; of the second class, of the second fiscal year; of the third class, of the third fiscal year; and of the fourth class, at the end of the full term of four years. The fiscal year shall be from December first to December first; provided, that all officers of agricultural districts now in office, under any law heretofore passed, shall hold office for the term for which they were appointed, except in cases specified in section two of this act. And the agricultural associations heretofore established shall be continued in force, and, so far as applicable, are made agricultural associations under this act.

§ 8. They shall have the power to make all necessary by-laws, rules, and regulations for the government of the association and the management of its prudential and financial affairs. They shall provide for an annual fair or exhibition by the association of all the industries and industrial products in the district, at such time and place as they deem advisable; provided, that the state shall, in no event, be liable for any premium offered or award made, or for any debt contracted by any district board of agriculture, or agricultural association; and provided further, that nothing in this section shall be so construed as in any way to affect or modify any of the provisions of section eleven.

§ 9. When any district board of agriculture shall have been classified and organized as herein provided, the secretary of the board shall report such classification and organization to the state board of agriculture. He shall also report the same to the governor, and shall report any vacancy that may occur in the board to the governor, who shall fill the same, by appointment, for the unexpired term.

It shall be the duty of each district association formed under this act, to report to the state board of agriculture, on or before January first of each year, a detailed financial statement, together with a complete statistical review of the agricultural resources of each county in the district, for the year ending December thirty-first. § 10. Whenever any such association shall desire to sell any portion of its real estate not needed for the permanent use of the association, for the purposes specified in section three, and such real estate be held by such association under a deed or deeds of trust conveying the said lands in trust, to be held in perpetuity as a place for holding agricultural exhibitions or fairs, or for other permanent purposes of such association, it shall be lawful for such association to file its complaint in the superior court of the county in which such lands are situated, setting forth the nature of the title under which they are held, and that it is the desire of the said association to sell and dispose of such real estate, and praying for judgment authorizing it to sell and convey the same. In such action the trustee or trustees in such deed or deeds, or the survivor or survivors of them, or the heirs, or administrators, or executors of deceased trustees, as the case may require, shall be made parties defendant; and upon service of the summons upon such defendants, personally or by publication, or upon their appearance, the court shall have full jurisdiction in the premises, and the deed executed under and in pursuance of the judgment of the court shall be valid and effectual to convey to the purchaser the title of said association, and that of all of its predecessors in title made parties to the suit.

§ 11. Every such association organized and existing under the laws of the state, and which has heretofore issued certificates of the capital stock of such association, and which certificates last mentioned have been accepted by the members of such association in lieu of certificates of membership therein, may elect to have a capital stock, and may issue certificates of stock therefor, in the same manner and with like effect as corporations formed under the provisions of chapter one, article one, of the Civil Code, relating to the formation of corporations. In order to effect such change, a meeting of the holders of such alleged certificates of capital stock may be called, at which the holders of such alleged stock shall be entitled to one vote for each share of such stock appearing in their names, respectively, upon the books of such association. Upon the receipt of a written application, signed by the holders of one fourth of the shares of such alleged capital stock of such association, requesting him so to do, the secretary of such association shall give notice of the time and place of holding such meeting, by publication in some newspaper printed and published in such county, or city and county, in which the principal place of business of such association is located, at least once a week for three successive weeks next prior to the holding thereof. Such notice shall state that the object of the meeting is, (1) to determine whether such corporation elects to have a capital stock as provided by this act; (2) the amount of such capital stock, and (3) the number of shares into which the same shall be divided. At such meeting, should the holders of a majority of the shares of such alleged capital stock vote in favor of having a capital stock, and fix the amount thereof, and the number of shares into which it shall be divided, then such corporation shall issue certificates of capital stock to the amount fixed at such meeting, divided into the number of shares provided by said meeting, to the holders of such alleged capital stock, in the same proportion as such alleged stock appears in the names of such holders, respectively, upon the books of such association. A copy of the notice calling such meeting, the affidavit of publication thereof, the proceedings of such meeting, the amount of capital stock voted, number of shares into which the capital stock was divided, and to whom assigned, duly certified by the chairman of such meeting, and the secretary of such association, under the seal thereof, must be filed with the secretary of state and the clerk of the county where such association has its principal place of business. Thereafter such association shall be possessed of all rights and powers, and shall be subject to all the obligations and restrictions, as if it had been originally created a corporation with a capital stock, including the right to elect a board of directors authorized to exercise such control of all the property of such association, as provided in chapters one, two, three, and four of the Civil Code, relating to corporations: provided, such association shall have no authority to sell any portion of the real estate owned and held by it, by whatever title derived, which may be necessary for the permanent use of such association, for the purposes aforesaid; and provided further, that in the event that such association, after the issuance of a capital stock as aforesaid, shall be offered aid at any time from the state by appropriation, for the purpose of holding an annual district fair, and such association, by a vote of the board of directors, elected as hereinafter provided, adopts a resolution accepting such appropriation, then and in that event said annual fair shall be held under the control and management of the district board of agriculture of such district; but said district board of agriculture shall have no other authority, control, or management of or over the property of such association, and the authority which it may exercise over said property shall continue only during the time occupied in holding the said district fair, which time shall not extend over more than one week annually.

When any corporation has elected to issue capital stock under this act, the president thereof shall, within ten days after filing with the secretary of state of the certificate hereinbefore provided, call a meeting of the stockholders of such corporation, for the purpose of electing a board of directors of such corporation, which board of directors shall hold their office until their successors are elected and qualified, and thereafter a board of directors of such corporation shall be elected annually, on the day of the month upon which the election of said first board of directors elected as aforesaid is held, unless a different day for holding such election is fixed by the board of directors of such corporation, by its by-laws, properly adopted.

§ 13. This act shall take effect from and after its passage.

(Stats. 1905, 128, ch. CXXVI.)

§ 1. The governor of the state of California is hereby directed, and it is hereby made his duty to cause to be made under the supervision and direction of the director of the agricultural experiment station of the University of California, such investigation and experiments as he may deem best, for the purpose of discovering and making known such improved methods of cereal culture in the state of California as will increase the yield of cereals in said state, and increase the percentage of gluten in said cereals, or otherwise improve the quality thereof. The said governor shall have the exclusive charge and control of all moneys appropriated hereby, to be used in employing such expert and scientific assistants as he may deem necessary, and for the paying of the expenses of carrying on the experiments and investigations herein provided for. favor of such persons as the governor shall direct; and the state treasurer is hereby empowered and directed to pay the same.

§ 3. This act is exempted from the provisions of section six hundred and seventy-two of the Political Code.

AGRICULTURAL SOCIETIES—STATE.

To authorize state agricultural societies under the control of the state to sell property held by them in fee, or held by trustees for their use, or in which they may have any interest; to prescribe a course of procedure therefor; to indemnify purchasers at such sale, and to direct how the proceeds shall be applied.

§ 1. Whenever any state agricultural society under state control shall desire to sell the whole or any portion of its real estate held by it in fee, or by a trustee for its use, or in which it may have any title, interest, or claim, it shall be lawful for such society or association to file its complaint in the superior court of the county in which such lands are situated, setting forth the nature of the title under which the land to be affected by the decree of the court is held, and what claim such society or association has therein; and that it is the desire of such society or association to sell such real estate, and praying for judgment authorizing it to sell the same. In such action the trustee or trustees holding title in trust for such society or association, or their successors, or the survivor or survivors of them, or such other persons deriving title from the trustees, as the case shall require, shall be made parties defendant; and upon the service of the summons upon such defendants personally or by publication, or upon their appearance, the court shall have full jurisdiction in the premises. Such society or association may include as defendants in such action in addition to such persons or parties as appear of record to have, and other persons or parties who are known to have, some claim in or lien on the lands described in the complaint; also all other persons or parties unknown, claiming any right, interest, or lien in such land, and the plaintiff may describe such defendants in the complaint as follows:

“Also all other persons or parties, unknown, claiming any right, title, estate, lien, or interest in the real estate described in the complaint herein.” Service of the summons may be had upon all such unknown persons or parties defendant by publication, as provided by law in case of non-resident defendants. All such unknown persons or parties so served shall have the same rights as are provided by law in case of all the other defendants upon whom service is made by publication or personally and the action shall proceed against such unknown persons or parties in the same manner as against the defendants who are named, upon whom service is made by publication, and with like effect; and any such unknown persons or parties who have or claim any right, estate, lien, or interest in the said property in controversy at the time of the commencement of the action, duly served as aforesaid, shall be bound and concluded by the judgment in such action as effectually as if the action was brought against such defendant by his or her name, and personal service of the summons obtained, notwithstanding any such unknown person may be under legal disability. The court shall have full power and authority to order the property sold. In case of a sale, the court shall appoint a commissioner to make the sale, and shall direct the manner in which the sale shall be conducted; provided, that when any property is held in trust by any such agricultural society or association, such property held in trust shall be sold separately from any that may be held in fee. The commissioner shall make a report of sale to the court, which, after such notice as it may deem proper, shall proceed to hear the same, and if it finds that the sale was fairly conducted, and the price bid was proportionate to the value of the land sold, it shall make and enter a decree confirming the sale, and directing the commissioner to execute a deed to the purchaser. The deed executed by said commissioner, under and in pursuance of the decree of the court, shall be valid and effectual to convey to the purchaser an absolute title in fee simple to the premises; provided, however, that before the filing of any such complaint in the superior or any other court, it shall be necessary for such agricultural society, or any person or corporation claiming the title to such land, to prepare, sign, and properly acknowledge a good and sufficient deed or deeds sufficient to vest in the state all title, interest, or claim which such society may have in and to any land to be affected by the proceedings hereby authorized to be instituted; such deed or deeds to be conditioned that the title, claim, or interest of such society embraced in such deed or deeds shall be held by the state of California in trust for the benefit of such society; which said deed or deeds shall be deposited with the state treasurer, to be by him held in escrow pending the final conclusion of such proceedings in such court. If the court in which such proceedings are had shall order such land to be sold, as herein provided for, the state treasurer shall forthwith file such deed or deeds with the county recorder of the county, or city and county, in which such land is located. If there be any liens upon or claims against the property, the court shall order them paid out of the proceeds of sale. The residue remaining, after paying the costs and expenses of sale and such liens and claims against the property as the court may order paid, shall be paid into the state treasury, where it shall remain until required for the purchase of other property for the use of such society or association, upon the order of the state controller; and it shall be drawn therefrom only upon authorization passed by the board of directors or trustees of such society or association, by and with the approval of the state board of examiners, and upon warrants duly drawn by the state controller. If, through any defects in the proceedings, or otherwise, the title should not pass, the state will indemnify the purchaser by repaying to him the amount paid by him; provided, such purchaser or purchasers shall file their claim or claims for the repayment of such purchase price with the state board of examiners within five years after the payment of such purchase price to the state treasurer in the first instance. The surplus of proceeds of sale, paid into the state treasury, shall be drawn out on certificate, signed by a majority of the directors, or governing body of such society or association, and also of the state board of examiners, stating that it is desired for the payment for other property for the use of such agricultural society; and upon receipt of such certificate, the treasurer shall pay to the said directors, or governing body, or person designated by them, all or such part of such surplus as may be required for the purchase of other property; provided, however, that if all or any portion of the real estate, and the improvements thereon held by any state agricultural society under state control, shall have been acquired in the name of such society, or of any person, association, or corporation, in trust for the use of said, or any other agricultural society, originally, or at any time, by the use of money derived from taxation of the taxable property of any city and county, county, or city, then, and in that event, the surplus proceeds of any sale of such property shall be invested in other real estate, within the same county, or city and county, for the same purpose, and not otherwise, or elsewhere. It is expressly provided that in no event shall the state be liable for the payment of any expense, interest, or attorneys' fees, incurred by any one, on any account, by or on behalf of any such agricultural society in their behalf; and it shall be incumbent on such society to make provision for the payment of the expenses, costs, attorneys' fees, and any interest that may be necessary to be paid any purchaser, by reason of repayment of any purchase money on account of failure of title to such lands; such provision for the payment of expenses, attorneys' fees, costs, and anticipated interest to be provided for prior to the issue of any summons, or order of publication in any action contemplated by this act. [Amended, Stats. 1899, 106.]

§ 2. If any person or persons shall, within one year thereafter, prove to the satisfaction of the board of supervisors of the county in which the stray or estrays were sold, that he or they are entitled to the sum so held by the county treasurer, or any part thereof, the said board of supervisors shall order such sum to be paid over to the person or persons; and if not so proven within one year, then the same shall become a part of the common school fund of said county.

§ 7. All sales made by any constable, or other officer, under the provisions of this act, shall convey a good and valid title to the purchaser, and the owner of the stray or estrays so sold shall thereafter be barred from all right to recover the same.

§ 8. § 9. Nothing in this act shall affect the laws or regulations in force or which may be in force regarding estrays, the poundkeeper, or other pound officer within the limits of any city or town where laws regarding estrays are in force.

ANIMALS—SHEEP.

Authorizing and empowering the boards of supervisors of the several counties of the state to prevent and eradicate infectious and contagious diseases among sheep, to provide for the appointment of a sheep commissioner, and to define the duties and powers of commissioner.

(Stats. 1889, 216, ch. CLXXXII.)

It is believed that it was the intention to supersede the above-mentioned act (or that it is superseded) by the following act.

To create the office of sheep inspector for the state of California, to provide for the appointment, and to define the powers and duties of said officer and his deputies, and their compensation, and providing for the prosecution of offenses under the same, and to suppress and prevent dissemination of scab among sheep.

(Stats. 1903, 372, ch. CCLXVII.)

§ 1. The office of sheep inspector for the state of California is hereby created and the state veterinarian of the state of California is hereby made ex-officio sheep inspector and shall perform the duties imposed by this act without additional salary or compensation from the state of California.

§ 2. The board of supervisors may, in their discretion, upon the written demand of a majority of sheep growers of their respective counties, appoint one or more deputy sheep inspectors. Such deputies shall be practical sheepmen and subject to removal whenever the board may deem it necessary.

§ 3. It shall be the duty of the state sheep inspector to have general supervision over his deputies appointed under the provisions of this act and to aid, counsel, and advise with such deputies and generally to enforce the provisions of this act.

§ 4. The deputies appointed under the provisions of this act shall have power to administer oaths, and it shall be the duty of at least one deputy inspector in each county where the same may be appointed, as herein provided by the state sheep inspector, to personally examine all sheep and bands of sheep in his county every spring between the first day of February and the first day of June and every fall between the first day of October and the first day of December for the first two years after the passage of this act, and thereafter between the first day of February and the first day of June of each year; and to the owners or persons in charge of herds found to be clean he shall issue a certificate stating such fact, which certificate shall permit such herds to pass into and through any and all counties in this state so long as they shall remain free and clean from disease. And such deputy also is required to examine any band or bands of sheep at any time he may be called upon to do so at the request of one or more sheep growers in writing, stating that such sheep are affected or infected with some infectious or contagious disease, and that there is imminent and immediate danger of the spreading of such disease; provided, that if, upon examination, such sheep are found to be clean the person or persons making such complaint shall pay the expenses and costs of such examination, which may be recovered in a civil action therefor; but in case such inspector, upon making such examination, finds said sheep diseased, he shall forthwith issue his order quarantining said sheep; and further provided, that all bands of sheep of less than two hundred and fifty head shall not be subject to such inspections when known to be sound; but where complaint is made, then the deputy inspector must comply with and enforce the provisions of this act as in other cases hereinafter provided for.

§ 5. Any person, company, association, or corporation desiring to move his or their sheep which are not sound or are infected or affected by scab or any infectious or contagious disease shall obtain from a deputy inspector a traveling permit. Such permit shall only be granted for the purpose of moving said sheep to some place where they may be dipped for said disease, or on account of shortage of feed, and then by such route as the deputy sheep inspector may designate.

§ 6. Whenever upon examination of any bands or herds of sheep, kept or herded in any county of the state of California the deputy sheep inspector of such county shall find such sheep, or any portion of them affected or infected with the scab or scabies, or any other infectious or contagious disease, he shall forthwith notify the owner or person in charge of said sheep, in writing, to dip said sheep for said disease within a period of fifteen days from said notice; and also during said period to keep such sheep from contact with other sheep by such means as he may specify; and if, upon examination at the end of fifteen days from such notice, said deputy sheep inspector shall find that said sheep have not been dipped for said disease, or have not been kept from contact with other sheep that are sound, the owner or owners, or person or persons controlling said sheep, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred dollars or more than two hundred and fifty dollars; and in case said sheep have not been dipped for said disease within said fifteen days, such deputy sheep inspector shall immediately take possession of said sheep and dip them for said disease, and all expenses incurred in so doing, including a compensation of four dollars for every day, or part of a day, in which said deputy sheep inspector may be engaged in dipping said sheep, shall become and is hereby made a lien upon said sheep; and such deputy sheep inspector shall hold such sheep for the period of ten days, and if the same is not paid within such time he may collect the same, together with the costs and expenses of collection, by advertising and selling said sheep, or as many thereof as may be necessary, in the manner prescribed by law for the sale of personal property on execution. If, however, upon examination at the end of fifteen days from the notice required to be given under this section such deputy sheep inspector shall find that said sheep have been dipped for said disease, but are still infected with the same, then he shall instruct the owner or controller of said sheep to dip once or more times, as circumstances demand, and as soon as possible, but with an interval between the dippings of not less than nine or more than twelve days; and if upon examination at the end of thirty days further, such deputy sheep inspector finds that said sheep have been dipped for said disease, but are still infected, then he shall at once take possession of said sheep and dip them as above specified. If, however, upon examination he finds that said sheep have not been dipped he shall seize said sheep and dip them as above specified, and the owner or owners, or controller, by reason of his failure to dip such sheep as required, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred dollars nor more than two hundred and fifty dollars; provided, however, that no person, persons, company, or corporation shall be required to dip his or their bands of sheep between the first day of December and such time as he or they can shear such sheep in the following spring.

§ 7. No person, persons, company, or corporation shall be required to dip a band or bands of ewes or any part of them which are ewes with lambs, at any time between the fifteen[th] of December and the fifteenth of May following of any year; but they must be held in quarantine and kept separate from sound sheep, and the owner, owners, or controller shall be responsible for all damages as stated in sections seven and eight of this act, to be enforced and recovered as therein provided for. It shall also be the duty of such deputy sheep inspector to require the owner, owners, or controller of sheep, while held in quarantine during the above exemption, to spot or hand dress all sheep in their band or bands that show any scab or other contagious disease, with some reliable medicine; and such deputy sheep inspector shall have power to enforce hand dressing or spotting during the exemption referred to in this section, the same as he has power to enforce dipping at any other period of the year, as provided by this act.

§ 8. The deputy sheep inspector appointed in the several counties as provided in this act shall receive four dollars per day for every day or part of a day spent in the performance of his duty, to be paid by the owner or owners of the sheep examined, and to be enforced as a lien against the sheep so examined, as provided in section six of this act.

§ 9. In any action or proceeding, civil or criminal, arising under this act, any and all persons having an interest in the sheep or controlling the same, and concerning which such action or proceeding is had, shall be deemed the owners of said sheep, and shall be liable severally and jointly for such violation of this act. Any herder or shepherd, or other person in charge of sheep, who shall wilfully refuse to give a deputy sheep inspector after showing a star any and all information as to the condition of sheep in his charge, requested by such deputy, shall be deemed guilty of misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than twenty-five dollars nor more than one hundred dollars. In criminal actions against corporations under this act no arrest shall be necessary, but a summons containing notice of the time and place of trial, together with a copy of the complaint filed before a justice of the peace, or in the court in which the action is commenced, shall be served in the same manner and for the same length of time as in civil actions.

§ 10. It shall be the duty of each deputy sheep inspector appointed under this act to keep a book in which he shall record as complete a description as practicable of the marks and brands with which each person in his county marks or brands his sheep, and the owners of sheep shall report in writing to such deputy sheep inspector their marks and brands, for the purpose of aiding such deputy sheep inspector to make up and keep such records; said deputy sheep inspectors are also required to keep a book in which they shall record the names of all persons prosecuted for violations of this act, together with a description of the particular offense charged against him, the name of the court in which said prosecution was had, and the result of such prosecution, giving the amount of fines where fines are imposed. And on the first day of January of each year, each deputy sheep inspector appointed under the provisions of this act shall make a report to the state sheep inspector, which report shall contain a true and correct copy of his record as contained in the books required by him to be kept under the provisions of this act, which report shall be placed on file in the office of the state sheep inspector.

§ 11. It shall be unlawful for any person, persons, company, corporation or association, owning, controlling, or managing any ferry-boat, toll-bridge, car, steamboat, wagon, vehicle, or other things used for transportation, to allow any sheep to be carried thereon unless the party in charge of said sheep shall first produce a certificate from a deputy sheep inspector appointed under this act, that said sheep are free from scab, scabies, and other infectious or contagious disease. Any violation of this section shall be deemed a misdemeanor and punishable by a fine of not less than one hundred dollars or more than two hundred and fifty dollars.

§ 12. If any person or persons, company, or corporation, in driving or herding any sheep, should get into their herd any stray sheep, they shall immediately notify the owner thereof; and if the owner is unknown, he or they shall forthwith notify the deputy sheep inspector of such county, giving the number of such sheep and the brands of each; and any person, persons, company, or corporation violating the provisions of this section shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not less than twenty-five dollars nor more than two hundred dollars.

§ 13. All deputy sheep inspectors are hereby given the power, and it is hereby made their duty to arrest and bring before a justice of the peace, or other court having jurisdiction of the same, any and all persons found violating the provisions of this act, where a complaint shall be filed by such deputy sheep inspector, either upon his own knowledge or upon sworn complaint of such violation, whereupon a hearing shall be had as in other like criminal cases; and such deputy sheep inspectors are hereby vested with the same authority to arrest and to require aid in the execution of their said office as sheriffs and their deputies of the several counties of this state; provided, that the provisions of this act requiring the deputy sheep inspectors of the county to prosecute for a violation of the provisions of this act [requiring the deputy sheep inspectors of the county to prosecute for a violation of the provisions of this act] shall not be construed so as to prevent such prosecutions from being commenced and prosecuted by other persons as criminal action[s] are commenced and prosecuted in other cases.

§ 15. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

§ 1. The office of the state veterinarian of the state of California is hereby created. It shall be the duty of the governor, within sixty days from and after the passage of this act, to appoint a skilled veterinary surgeon for the state of California to fill said office of state veterinarian, who at the date of such appointment shall be a graduate in good standing of a recognized college of veterinary surgery, legally qualified to practice as such in this state, and shall hold his said office at the pleasure of the governor. The salary of said veterinary surgeon shall on no account exceed the sum of two thousand dollars per year, and his necessary expenses incurred in the discharge of his duties hereinafter provided for, not exceeding five hundred dollars per annum. In making said appointment it shall be the duty of the governor to disregard political affiliations, and be guided in his selection merely by the professional and moral qualifications of said veterinary for the performance of his duties.

§ 2. It shall be the duty of the state veterinarian, provided for in the first section of this act, to protect the health of all domestic animals of the state from all contagious and infectious diseases, so far as practicable: and for the purpose he is hereby authorized and empowered, by and with the approval of the governor, to establish, maintain, and enforce such quarantine, sanitary, and other regulations as he may deem necessary as to stock passing over any quarantine line existing, or which may be established within the state, and all such stock so moving shall be inspected by him, and he shall issue his certificate of state inspection, unless such stock shall have been, immediately prior to such moving, inspected by an officer or agent acting under the laws of the United States. Whenever it may be necessary to carry out and give effect to the provisions of this act, the governor is hereby authorized and empowered to appoint an assistant state veterinarian, at a salary of twelve hundred dollars per annum, and his necessary expenses incurred in the discharge of his duties not exceeding three hundred dollars per year whose tenure of office shall be determined and fixed by the governor. § 4. Upon the discovery of any case of such contagious or infectious disease, the state veterinarian shall immediately inform the state dairy bureau and the board of supervisors of the county or counties in which said disease exists, or diseased animals are located, of the existence of such disease and of such facts and circumstances in connection therewith as will enable said board of supervisors to take prompt and proper action to prevent the spread of such disease and to eradicate the same.

§ 5. Upon the receipt of such report, it shall be duty of said dairy bureau when more than one county is involved, and of the board of supervisors when only one county is involved, to proceed immediately to eradicate or suppress said disease, to prevent its spread or introduction among healthy animals, or the infection of pastures, roads, places, or sections theretofore free from said disease and uninfected.

§ 6. Should said board of supervisors refuse or neglect for the period of five days to take any or proper action to quarantine such cases of contagious and infectious diseases so reported to them, or to suppress or eradicate the same, or prevent the spread thereof, the state veterinarian shall have the power, and it shall be his duty, to quarantine such county, or such portions thereof as may be necessary, and thereafter it shall be unlawful for the owners of domestic animals quarantined, their agents or employees, to move any of such animals across the quarantine line established, or without the county or portion thereof quarantined, without first obtaining a permit from said state veterinarian, who shall, before such permit is issued, inspect and if necessary cause such animals and vehicles of transportation to be disinfected according to the rules laid down by the United States bureau of animal industry, department of agriculture, or until such quarantine has been raised or discontinued by said state veterinarian.

§ 7. The state veterinarian shall determine, from time to time, the quarantine and other regulations necessary to prevent the spread among domestic animals of any malignant, contagious or infectious disease found to exist among the live stock of this state, and shall to that end co-operate with, and, so far as possible, obtain the assent of the proper United States authorities to the establishment or changing of quarantine lines which are or may be hereafter established, and when he shall have done so he shall notify the governor thereof, who, if he approve, shall issue his proclamation proclaiming the boundaries of such quarantine, and the orders, rules, and such regulations prescribed for the maintenance and enforcement of such quarantine, and shall publish the same in such manner as he shall deem expedient.

§ 8. Any person failing to comply with the provisions of this act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction be fined not less than one hundred nor more than five hundred dollars for each offense, and shall be liable for any damage and loss that may be sustained by any person or persons by reason of the failure of such owner or agent to comply with the provisions of this act.

§ 9. For the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this act there shall be appropriated the sum of eight thousand dollars, not more than one thousand dollars payable out of the revenues for the current fiscal year, out of the general fund of this state.

APIARIES.—BEE CULTURE.

To promote the apicultural interests of the state of California by providing county inspectors of apiaries, and defining their duties, and providing for their compensation, and repealing the act entitled "An act to authorize the board of supervisors of the several counties of this state to appoint inspectors of apiaries, and provide for their compensation, and defining their duties, and for the further protection of bee culture," approved March 13, 1883.

(Stats. 1901, 13, ch. XXIV; amended and new sections added, 1903, 7, ch. VI.)

§ 1. Whenever a petition is presented to the board of supervisors of any county, signed by ten or more persons, each of whom is a property-holder resident of the county, and possessor of an apiary or place where bees are kept, stating that certain or all apiaries within the county are infected with the disease known as "foul-brood," or any other disease which is infectious or contagious in its nature, and injurious to the bees, their eggs or larvæ, and praying that an inspector be appointed by them, whose duty it shall be to supervise the treatment of said bees and apiaries as herein provided, the board of supervisors shall, within twenty (20) days thereafter, appoint a suitable person, who shall be a skilled bee-keeper, inspector of apiaries. Upon petition of ten persons, each of whom is a resident property holder and possessor of an apiary, the board of supervisors may remove said inspector for cause, after a hearing of the petition.

§ 2. It shall be the duty of the inspector in each county to cause an inspection to be made, when he deems it necessary, of any or every apiary, or other place within his jurisdiction in which bees are kept, and if found infected with foul-brood, or any other infectious or contagious disease injurious to the bees, or their eggs or larvæ, he shall notify the owner or owners, person or persons in charge, or in possession of said apiaries or places where bees are kept, that the same are infected with foul-brood, or any other disease infectious or contagious in its nature, and injurious to the bees, their eggs or larvæ, and he shall require such person or persons to eradicate and remove such disease or cause of contagion within a certain time to be specified. Said notice may be served upon the person or persons, or either of them, owning or having charge, or having possession of such infected apiaries, or places where bees are kept, by any inspector, or by any person deputized by the said inspector for that purpose, or they may be served in the same manner as a summons in a civil action. Any and all such apiaries, or places where bees are kept, found infected with foul-brood, or any other infectious or contagious disease, are hereby adjudged and declared to be a public nuisance; and whenever any such nuisance shall exist at any place within his jurisdiction, or on the property of any non-resident, or on any property the owner or owners of which cannot be found by the inspector, after diligent search, within the county, or upon the property of any owner or owners upon whom notice aforesaid has been served, and who shall refuse or neglect to abate the same within the time specified, it shall be the duty of the inspector to abate the same, either by treating the disease, or by destroying the infected hives, together with their combs and bees therein. The expense thereof shall be a county charge, and the board of supervisors shall allow and pay the same out of the general fund of the county.

§ 3. It shall be the duty of the county inspector of apiaries to keep a record of his official acts and doings, and make a monthly report thereof to the board of supervisors; and the board of supervisors may withhold warrants for salary of said inspector until such time as said report is made.

§ 4. The salary of the county inspector of apiaries shall be four dollars per day when actually engaged in the performance of his duties, and itemized necessary traveling expenses incurred in the performance of his duties as prescribed in this act. [Amend. Stats. 1903, 7.]

§ 5. An act entitled "An act to authorize the board of supervisors of the several counties of this state to appoint inspectors of apiaries, and provide for their compensation, and defining their duties, and for the further protection of bee-culture," approved March thirteenth, eighteen hundred and eighty-three, is hereby repealed.

§ 6. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

§ 7. The inspector of apiaries may, in his discretion, order the owner, or owners, or other person in charge of bees kept in box or other immovable or stationary comb-hives in apiaries infected with foul-brood or any other infectious or contagious disease, or within a radius of three miles of such diseased apiaries, to transfer such bees to movable frame hives within a reasonable time, to be specified in such order or notice, and in default of such transfer by the owner, or owners, or other person in charge of such bees, the inspector may destroy, or cause to be destroyed, all such hives, together with their contents, and the expense thereof shall be a county charge, as provided in section two of this act. [New sec. added, Stats. 1903, 7.]

§ 8. Any person or persons who shall import bees into the state of California, which said bees are not accompanied with a certificate from a duly authorized inspector of apiaries, or bee inspector, certifying that such bees are free from foul-brood and other infectious or contagious diseases, or who shall import bees from another county within this state not having a bee inspector, into a county having a bee inspector shall immediately, upon the receipt of such bees, cause them to be inspected by a duly authorized inspector of apiaries, and if such bees are found to be infected with foul-brood or other infectious or contagious disease, such inspector shall proceed to have such disease eradicated as provided in section two of this act. Any person violating the provisions of this section shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor. [New sec. added, Stats. 1903, 7.]

§ 9. Not more than one twenty-fourth part of the amount appropriated under this act for each department or institution for the two years ending June thirtieth, nineteen hundred and seven, shall be expended during any one month without the consent of the state board of examiners, and not more than one half of such appropriation during the fifty-seventh fiscal year, unless the same has been expressly authorized by this act.

§ 5. The officers of the various departments, boards, commissions, and institutions, for whose benefit and support appropriations are made in this act, are expressly forbidden to make any expenditure in excess of such appropriations, except the unanimous consent of the state board of examiners be first obtained, and a certificate, in writing, duly signed by every member of said board, of the unavoidable necessity of such expenditure; and any indebtedness attempted to be created against the state in violation of the provisions of this section shall be absolutely null and void, and shall not be allowed by said state board of examiners, nor paid out of any state appropriations; provided, that any member of any such department, board, commissions, or institutions, who shall vote for any expenditure, or create any indebtedness against the state in excess of the respective appropriations made by this act, except by the unanimous consent of the state board of examiners, and the certificate in this section provided to be first obtained, shall be liable on his official bond for the amount of such indebtedness, to be recovered in any court of competent jurisdiction by the person or persons, firm or corporation, to whom such indebtedness is owing.

§ 6. No money appropriated by this act shall be used to renew, or pay for the renewal of, any insurance on any public building or property, nor to effect or pay for any new insurance on any public building or property, except the state printing office and its contents and the pavilion of the state agricultural society.

§ 7. The various sums herein appropriated for printing, ruling, binding, materials and all other work provided by law to be done in the state printing office shall be expended only upon requisitions to be approved by the state board of examiners, and said board is authorized and given power to reduce the amount of such requisitions either in whole or in any item thereof.

March 22, 1905.

This bill, being Assembly Bill No. 1157, entitled "An act making appropriations for the support of the government of the state of California for the fifty-seventh and fifty-eighth fiscal years," is approved, with the exception of the following items, that is to say: two items on page 13, reading as follows:

"For Hospital for Convict Insane.

"For support of Hospital for Convict Insane, six thousand dollars.

"For salaries of officers and employees of same, six thousand dollars."

I object to the foregoing items of the same and withhold my approval from them for the following reason, that is to say:

The Hospital for Convict Insane, for the construction of which an appropriation has been made, will probably not be completed until about the end of the biennial period included in the fifty-seventh and fifty-eighth fiscal years; and, therefore, it is not necessary to make appropriations at this time for the support of such hospital or for salaries of officers and employees. Therefore I disapprove of the two items of appropriation above cited, while approving all of the remainder of the bill.

GEO. C. PARDEE, Governor.

ARBITRATION—STATE BOARD OF.

To provide for a state board of arbitration for the settlement of differences between employers and employees, to define the duties of said board, and to appropriate the sum of twenty-five hundred dollars therefor.

(Stats. 1891, 49, ch. LI.)

§ 1. On or before the first day of May of each year, the governor of the state shall appoint three competent persons to serve as a state board of arbitration and conciliation. One shall represent the employers of labor, one shall represent labor employees, and the third member shall represent neither, and shall be chairman of the board. They shall hold office for one year and until their successors are appointed and qualified. If a vacancy occurs, as soon as possible thereafter the governor shall appoint some one to serve the unexpired term; provided, however, that when the parties to any controversy or difference, as provided in section two of this act, do not desire to submit their controversy to the state board, they may by agreement each choose one person, and the two shall choose a third, who shall be chairman and umpire, and the three shall constitute a board of arbitration and conciliation for the special controversy submitted to it, and shall for that purpose have the same powers as the state board. The members of the said board or boards, before entering upon the duties of their office, shall be sworn to faithfully discharge the duties thereof. They shall adopt such rules of procedure as they may deem best to carry out the provisions of this act.

§ 2. Whenever any controversy or difference exists between an employer, whether an individual, copartnership, or corporation, which, if not arbitrated, would involve a strike or lockout, and his employees, the board shall, upon application, as hereinafter provided, and as soon as practicable thereafter, visit, if necessary, the locality of the dispute and make careful inquiry into the cause thereof, hear all persons interested therein who may come before them, advise the respective parties what, if anything, ought to be done or submitted to by either, or both, to adjust said dispute and make a written decision thereof. This decision shall at once be made public, and shall be recorded upon proper books of record to be kept by the board.

§ 3. Said application shall be signed by said employer, or by a majority of his employees in the department of the business in which the controversy or difference exists, or their duly authorized agent, or by both parties, and shall contain a concise statement of the grievances complained of, and a promise to continue on in business or at work, without any lockout or strike, until the decision of said board, which must, if possible, be made within three weeks of the date of filing the application. Immediately upon receipt of said application, the chairman of said board shall cause public notice to be given of the time and place for hearing. Should the petitioners fail to keep the promise made therein, the board shall proceed no further thereupon without the written consent of the adverse party. And the party violating the contract shall pay the extra cost of the board entailed thereby. The board may then reopen the case and proceed to the final arbitration thereof as provided in section two hereof.

§ 4. The decision rendered by the board shall be binding upon the parties who join in the application for six months, or until either party has given the other a written notice of his intention not to be further bound by the conditions thereof after the expiration of sixty days or any time agreed upon by the parties, which agreement shall be entered as a part of the decision. Said notice may be given to the employees by posting a notice thereof in three conspicuous places in the shop or factory where they work.

§ 5. Both employers and employees shall have the right at any time to submit to the board complaints or grievances and ask for an investigation thereof. The board shall decide whether the complaint is entitled to a public investigation, and if they decide in the affirmative, they shall proceed to hear testimony, after giving notice to all parties concerned, and publish the result of their investigations as soon as possible thereafter.

§ 6. The arbitrators hereby created shall be paid five dollars per day for each day of actual service, and also their necessary traveling and other expenses incident to the duties of their office shall be paid out of the state treasury; but the expenses and salaries hereby authorized shall not exceed the sum of twenty-five hundred dollars for the two years.

§ 7. The sum of twenty-five hundred dollars is hereby appropriated out of any money in the state treasury not otherwise appropriated, for the expenses of the board for the first two years after its organization.

§ 8. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

And thereafter, upon the expiration of the term of office of the persons so appointed, the governor of the state shall appoint a successor or successors to such outgoing person or persons whose term of office shall have expired, to hold office for four years; provided, that the membership of the state board of architecture shall be composed as herein set forth. The said state board of architecture shall, within thirty days from and after their appointment, meet and elect from their number a president and a vice-president, one of whom shall be a resident of the northern district, and one a resident of the southern district, and two secretaries, one from each district. The secretaries shall also act as treasurers. The person receiving the highest number of votes shall be secretary, and the person receiving the next highest number of votes, assistant secretary. Said persons shall hold office for two years, or until their successors shall have been duly elected and qualified.

§ 3. The board may adopt rules and regulations for the government of its proceedings, not inconsistent with this act. The state board shall adopt a seal for its own use, and one for each of the district boards. The seal used by the northern district board shall have the words "Northern District" inscribed thereon, and the one for the southern district shall have the words "Southern District" inscribed thereon, and the secretary and assistant secretary shall have charge, care and custody thereof. The secretary shall keep a correct record of all the proceedings of the board, which shall be open to public examination at all times. Six members shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business of the state board of architecture, and three members shall constitute a quorum of the district boards for the transaction of business. Special meetings of the state board of architecture shall be called by the secretary upon the written request of four of its members, and by giving twenty days' written notice of such meeting, and the time and place at which such meeting is to be held, to each member of the board. The district boards shall call special meetings upon the written request of two of its members made to the secretary, and upon five days' written notice to each member of such district board. Within thirty days from and after the date of their appointment, the state board shall meet to organize, elect officers as in this act provided for, and formulate and adopt a code of rules and regulations for its government in the examination of applicants for certificates to practise architecture in this state; and such other rules and regulations as may be necessary and proper, not inconsistent with this act. The board may from time to time repeal or modify its rules and regulations, not inconsistent with this act. The state board shall meet annually, on the second Tuesday in April, for the purpose of transacting such business as may lawfully come before it, not inconsistent with this act. The district boards shall hold their regular meetings for the examination of applicants for certificates to practise architecture, on the last Tuesday of January, April, July and October of each year. The board of the northern district shall meet in San Francisco; and the board of the southern district shall meet in Los Angeles, and at such other times and places as they may elect, to examine applicants for certificates. Any person shall be entitled to an examination for a certificate to practise architecture, upon payment, to the district board when he makes application, of a fee of fifteen dollars, which fee shall be retained by the board; should the applicant pass a satisfactory examination by said district board, the secretary shall, upon the payment to him of a further fee of five dollars, issue to the applicant a certificate, signed by the president and secretary, sealed with the seal of the district board, and directed to the secretary of state, setting forth the fact that the person therein named has passed a satisfactory examination, and that such person is entitled to a certificate to practise architecture in this state, in accordance with the provisions of this act; and upon the payment to the secretary of state a fee of five dollars, the secretary shall at once issue to the person therein named, a certificate to practise architecture in this state in accordance with the provisions of this act, which certificate shall contain the full name of the applicant, his birthplace, and age, together with the name of the district board issuing the certificate, and date of issuance thereof. All papers received by the secretary of state on application for certificate shall be kept on file in his office, and a proper index and record thereof shall be kept by him.

§ 4. Any architect in good standing, who shall show to the satisfaction of the district board of the district in which such architect may reside, that he was engaged in the practice of the profession of architecture on the date of the passage of this act, shall be granted a certificate without passing an examination, on the payment to the district board of a fee of five dollars; provided, such application shall be made within six months from and after the passage of this act. Said certificate shall set forth the fact that the person to whom the same was issued was practising architecture in this state at the time of the passage of this act, and that the person therein named is entitled to a certificate to practise architecture without having to pass an examination by the district board; and the secretary of state shall, upon the payment to him of a fee of five dollars, issue to the person named therein a certificate to practise architecture in this state, in accordance with the provisions of this act. Each certificated architect shall have his certificate recorded in the office of the county recorder, in each and every county in this state, in which the holder thereof shall practise, and he shall pay to the recorder the same fee as is charged for the recording of deeds. A failure to have his certificate so recorded shall be deemed sufficient cause for revocation of such certificate.

§ 5. After the expiration of six months from the passage of this act, it shall be unlawful, and it shall be a misdemeanor, punishable by fine of not less than fifty dollars nor more than five hundred dollars, for any person to practise architecture without a certificate in this state, or to advertise, or put out any sign or card, or other device which might indicate to the public that he was an architect; provided, that nothing in this act shall prevent any person from making plans for his own buildings, nor furnishing plans or other data for buildings for other persons, provided the person so furnishing such plans or data shall fully inform the person for whom such plans or data are furnished, that he, the person furnishing such plans, is not a certificated architect; provided, that nothing in this act shall prevent the employment of an architect residing out of the state of California, to prepare plans and specifications for buildings or other structures within the state, conditioned he shall present satisfactory evidence to the board of the district in which the structure is to be erected, that he is a competent architect, when such board shall issue to such architect a temporary certificate for such employment, upon the payment of a fee of five dollars. Architects' certificates issued in accordance with the provisions of this act shall remain in full force until revoked for cause, as hereinafter provided for in this act. A certificate may be revoked for dishonest practices, or for gross incompetency in the practice of the profession, which questions shall be determined by the district board of the district in which the person whose certificate is called in question shall reside, or shall be doing business; and upon a full investigation of the charges by the district board, an opportunity having been given the accused to be heard in his own defense or by counsel; and upon the verdict of at least four members of the district board, the board may issue its certificate to the secretary of state revoking the certificate of the person accused; and the secretary of state shall thereupon cancel such certificate. And on the cancellation of such certificate, it shall be the duty of the secretary of the district board to give notice of such cancellation to the county recorder of each county in this state, whereupon the recorder shall mark the certificate recorded in his office, "Canceled."

After the expiration of six months the person whose certificate was revoked, may have a new certificate issued to him by the secretary of state upon the certificate of the district board by which the certificate was revoked.

Every certificated architect shall have a seal, the impression of which must contain the name of the architect, his place of business, and the words "Certificated Architect," with which he may stamp all plans prepared by him.

§ 6. This act shall take effect from and after its passage.

§ 7. Each regularly certificated architect shall pay an annual license fee of five dollars, said fee to be paid to the secretary of the board of the district of which he shall be a resident, and shall be payable in advance on January one, and shall become delinquent the first day of April, of each year, after which date it shall be delinquent, and the certificate of such architect who shall fail to pay their license fees by April one of each year, shall be subject to cancelation by said district board, and notice of such cancelation shall be sent to each county recorder of the state of California and to the secretary of state, as provided in section five of the act to regulate the practice of architecture, approved March twenty-three, nineteen hundred and one, for cancelation of certificates. And the secretary of the said district shall issue a receipt signed by the president and secretary of the district, and under the seal of the district board, to each architect paying said license fee, showing that said certificated architect has paid his annual license fee, which license receipt shall be displayed in a prominent place in the office of said architect. The fees so collected shall be used to meet the expenses of the state board of architecture. [New section, Stats. 1903, 522.]

5. Such rules and regulations for the management of such institution, and the furtherance of its purposes, as the grantor may elect to prescribe; but such rules and regulations shall, unless the grant shall otherwise prescribe, be deemed advisory only, and shall not preclude such trustees or their successors from making such changes as new conditions may, from time to time, require.

6. The place or places where the necessary buildings shall be erected, and the general character thereof. The person making such grant may therein provide for all other things necessary or proper to carry out the purposes thereof, or otherwise, by his last will or testament.

fication of any act of such trustees, in case he shall, within thirty days after notice of the performance of such act, file in the office of said trustees, or deliver to their president or principal officer, a notice in writing, of such veto, annulment, or modification, and upon a like notice, in conformity with a provision in such gift or grant, he may elect to perform during his life all the powers which, by the terms thereof, are vested in or enjoined upon the trustees therein named, and their successors; provided, that upon the death or disability to act of the founder and grantor, such powers and duties shall be devolved upon, and be exercised by, the trustees named in the gift or grant, and their successors. § 7. Any such gift or grant may be executed, acknowledged, and recorded in the manner now or hereafter provided by law for the execution, acknowledgment, and recording of grants of real property.

§ 8. No suit, action, or proceeding shall be commenced or maintained by any person to set aside, annul, or affect said gift, grant, or conveyance, or to affect the title to the property conveyed, or the right to the possession or to the rents, issues, and profits thereof, unless the same be commenced within two years after the date of the filing of such grant for record.

Such devise or bequest is hereby suffered to be made by way of assurance that the intentions of the grantor shall be carried out, and in the faith that the state, in case it shall succeed to the property, or any part thereof, will, to the extent and value of such property carry out, in respect to the objects and purposes of any such grant, all the wishes and intentions of the grantor.

§ 10. The provisions of this act shall be liberally construed, with a view to effect its objects and purposes, and the singular number in the construction thereof shall be deemed to include the plural, and the plural number shall be deemed to include the singular.

§ 11. Nothing in this act shall repeal, modify, change, or have any effect upon any of the provisions of an act of the legislature of the state of California entitled "An act to advance learning, the arts and sciences, and to promote the public welfare by providing for the conveyance, holding, and protection of property, and the creation of trusts for the funding, endowment, erection, and maintenance, within this state, of universities, colleges, schools, seminaries of learning, mechanical institutes, museums, and galleries of art," approved March ninth, eighteen hundred and eighty-five.

§ 12. This act shall take effect immediately.

BALLOTING MACHINES.

Creating a state commission on voting or balloting machines, defining their powers, and providing for the use at the option of indicated local authorities of voting or ballot machines for receiving and registering the vote in one or more precincts of any county, or city and county, city or town, at any or all elections held therein, and for ascertaining the result at such elections; and providing for the punishment of all violations of the provisions of this act.

(Stats. 1903, 262, ch. CCXXVI.)

§ 1. 1. The governor, secretary of state and attorney-general, and their successors in office are hereby created and constituted the state commission on voting or ballot machines. It shall be the duty of said commissioners to examine all voting or ballot machines which may be offered for their inspection in order to determine whether such machines comply with the requirements of this act, and can safely be used by voters at elections under the provisions of this act; and no machine or machines shall be provided by the board of supervisors, or other board having charge and control of elections in each of the counties, and cities and counties, cities or towns of the state, unless the said machine or machines shall have received the approval of a majority of said commission as herein provided.

2. Any machine or machines which shall have the approval of a majority of said commission may be provided for use at elections by the boards authorized so to do under the provisions of this act. The report of said commission on each and every kind of voting or ballot machine shall be filed with the secretary of state within thirty days after their examination of said machines, and the secretary of state must within five days after the filing of any report approving any machine or machines, transmit to the boards of supervisors or other boards having charge and control of elections in each of the counties and cities and counties, cities or towns of the state, a list of the machines so approved.

3. No machine or machines shall be used unless such machine or machines shall have received the approval of the state commission at least ninety days prior to any election at which such machine or machines are to be used.

4. For carrying out the provisions of this act the members of the state commission under this act shall be allowed their actual necessary expenses.

§ 2. The board of supervisors, or other board having charge and control of elections in each of the counties, and cities and counties, cities or towns of the state, may at any regular meeting, or at any special meeting called for the purpose, provide for and require the use of a voting or ballot machine, or machines for receiving and registering the vote at any or all elections held in such county, city and county, city or town, respectively, or in any one or more precincts thereof, and every such board of supervisors, or other board having charge and control of elections in each of the counties, and cities and counties, cities or towns of the state, may determine upon and require the use of voting or ballot machines at any and all elections to be held within such county, city and county, city or town of the state, or in one or more precincts thereof, and thereupon the voting or ballot machine or machines so determined upon and required shall be used in voting for all public officers to be voted for by the voters of such counties, cities and counties, cities or towns of the state, or in the precinct or precincts thereof, for which the same shall have been so determined upon and required, and also in voting upon all amendments to the constitution, and upon all laws or propositions or questions which may be lawfully submitted to such voters, and for receiving and registering the votes cast at any and every such election.

§ 3. In purchasing the necessary voting or ballot machines to be used at elections, as herein provided, the boards of supervisors of the several counties, and the legislative bodies of the incorporated cities and towns therein, may, by agreement, entered into by said board of supervisors and the legislative body of any incorporated city or town in such county, provide for the joint purchase and subsequent ownership thereof, and for the care, maintenance and use of the same.

§ 4. No voting or ballot machine shall be approved by the said board unless the same be so constructed as to provide facilities for voting for the candidates of as many different parties or organizations as may make nominations for office and for and against as many different propositions or amendments as may be submitted; nor shall any such machine be approved unless the same will permit a voter to vote for any person for any office; it must enable the voter to vote and select a ticket all from [from all] the nominees of one party or a ticket selected in part from the nominees of one party and in part from the nominees of any or all other parties, and in part from independent nominations, or in part or in whole of the names of persons not nominated by any party or upon any independent ticket; such machines must also secure to the voter privacy and secrecy in the act of voting: such machines must also be so constructed that a voter cannot vote for a candidate or a proposition or amendment for whom or on which he is not lawfully entitled to vote, also to prevent voting for more than one person for the same office, except in cases where the voter is lawfully entitled to vote for more than one person for the same office, in which event they must enable the voter to vote for as many persons for that office as he is by law entitled to vote, and no more; they must also prevent his voting more than once for the same person for the same office; and allow of his reversing his vote in case of mistake or desire to change; and such machines must be so constructed that all votes cast for any person voted for, or for or against any proposition or amendment submitted to the voters shall be accurately registered or recorded, and any machine to be approved by said board must be of such kind, style or pattern as will permit the exercise by each voter of the full right and privilege of his elective franchise under the constitution and laws of this state.

§ 5. The board of supervisors or other board having charge and control of elections adopting a voting or ballot machine shall, as soon as practicable thereafter, provide for such polling place or places, as they may determine, one or more voting machines in complete working order and also such other accessories as may be required for the practical working of the machine and shall thereafter preserve and keep the machines in repair, and shall have the custody of the furniture and equipment. If it shall be impracticable to supply each and every election district with a voting or ballot machine or machines at any election following such adoption, as many may be supplied as it is practicable to procure, and the same may be used in such election precincts within the county, or city and county, city, or town, as the board having control may direct.

§ 6. All necessary stationery and instructions to voters shall be delivered to the boards of election of each election precinct not later than twenty-four hours next preceding the election.

§ 7. Tally lists shall be so prepared that the results of such election may be clearly and accurately set forth and certified to by the officers of election.

§ 8. The precinct boards of election of each precinct shall meet at the polling-place therein, at least one hour before the time set for the opening of the polls at each election, and shall proceed to arrange within the guard-rail the furniture, stationery, and voting or ballot machine for the conduct of the election. The inspectors of election shall then and there have the voting or ballot machine, instructions to voters, and stationery required to be delivered to them for such election. The inspectors shall thereupon cause at least two instruction cards to be posted conspicuously within the polling-place. If not previously done, they shall adjust the voting or ballot machine so as to record and register the votes to be cast at such election, and adjust the registering and recording device of such machine so as to start at zero, and the same shall be subject to the inspection of the public before the opening of the polls.

§ 9. The exterior of the voting or ballot machine and every part of the polling place shall be in plain view of the election officers and public. The voting or ballot machines shall be placed at least three feet from every wall and partition of the polling-place, and at least three feet from the guard-rail. A guard-rail shall be constructed at least three feet from the machine, with openings to admit electors or officers of election to and from the machine.

§ 10. After the opening of the polls, the inspectors shall not allow any voter to pass within the guard-rail until they ascertain that he is duly entitled to vote. The operation of voting by an elector while voting shall be secret and obscured from all other persons, except as provided in cases of voting by assisted electors. No voter shall remain within the voting or ballot machine booth longer than two minutes, and if he shall refuse to leave it after the lapse of two minutes he may be removed by the inspectors.

§ 11. As soon as the polls of the election are closed the inspectors of election thereat shall immediately lock the voting or ballot machine against voting, and, in the presence and full view of the public who may be lawfully within the polling place, proceed to demonstrate and declare the result of such election as registered or recorded or received by the machine. As such result is so ascertained and declared the clerks shall record it and at its completion, submit their records to the inspectors and judges for examination, and if found to be correct the inspectors shall at once announce the same, and make returns as provided by law.

§ 12. The inspectors of election shall, as soon as the result is fully ascertained and declared, as in the preceding section required, lock the machine so that the record of each election shall be preserved for the period of six months following such election, except in cases where the machine is required for use in a subsequent election during such period, in which case the board of supervisors or other board having charge and control of elections shall inspect the registering or recording and receiving device of the machines, and file a report of said inspection with the county clerk or registrar of voters. Said report of said board when so certified and filed shall be prima facie evidence of the vote at such election. Any supplementary or duplicate record of an election, which may be furnished by a machine, shall be preserved by the county clerk or registrar of voters for one year following such election.

§ 13. The provisions of the law relating to misconduct at elections shall apply to elections with voting or ballot machines.

§ 14. For any election in any county, city and county, city or town, in which voting or ballot machines are to be used, the election precincts in which such machines are to be used may be created by the officers charged with the duty of creating election precincts, so as to contain not to exceed six hundred votes each.

§ 15. The list of candidates used or to be used on the voting or ballot machine shall be deemed an official ballot under this act for an election precinct in which a voting or ballot machine is used, pursuant to law. The word "ballot" as used in this act, (except when reference is made to independent ballots) means that portion of the cardboard, or paper, or other material within the ballot frames, containing the name of the candidate for office, or a statement of a proposed constitutional amendment, or other question or proposition with the word "for" or the word "against," or "yes" or "no."

§ 16. The provisions of section eleven hundred and forty-two of the Political Code shall apply where voting or ballot machines are used.

§ 17. All laws and parts of laws of this state relating to elections and prescribing the powers and duties of election officers, shall, so far as applicable to the use of voting or ballot machines, remain in full force and effect; and all laws and parts of laws inconsistent herewith, shall not be applicable in each county, city and county, city or town election precinct wherein such voting or ballot machines are used, pursuant to this act, so long as such voting or ballot machine or machines shall be used therein, and nothing in this act contained shall be construed as repealing any existing law or authorizing any deviation or omission therefrom, except as provided for or set forth herein.

§ 18. Any wilful violation of any provision of this act or any wilful injury to any voting or ballot machine tending to injure its effectiveness or to change the true expression given by the voters at any election shall be a felony and punishable as such, in accordance with the provisions of the Penal Code of the state.

§ 19. This act shall take effect immediately.

§ 4. It shall be the duty of one or more of the bank commissioners, as designated by the commissioners, once in each year, and as often as in their judgment may be deemed necessary, without previous notice, to visit and make, personally, a full examination of each and every corporation mentioned in section three of this act; to inspect all books, papers, notes, bonds, or evidences of debt of such corporation, and all securities; to ascertain the condition of every such corporation, its solvency, its ability to fulfil its obligations, and, if in their opinion it is deemed necessary, report its condition to the attorney-general as soon as practicable after such examination.

§ 5. Such commissioners must examine, under oath, any of the officers, agents, and servants of any such corporation, in relation to the affairs and condition of such corporation, and may administer such oath personally; and whoever shall neglect or refuse, after demand and notice thereof, and without justifiable cause, to appear, or testify under oath, before the said commissioners in the discharge of their duties, shall be deemed guilty of misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof be punished by a fine not exceeding five thousand dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

§ 6. If any bank commissioner shall have knowledge of the insolvency or unsafe condition of any corporation mentioned in this act, and shall neglect to report the same, in writing, to the attorney-general, as required by this act, he shall on conviction thereof be punished by a fine not exceeding ten thousand dollars nor less than five thousand dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail not less than one year nor more than two years, or by both such fine and imprisonment, and his office shall be declared vacant by the governor, and a successor be appointed for the unexpired term.

§ 7. No corporation shall use the name or transact the business of a savings bank, or bank, or banking corporation, without the license provided for by section three of this act: and any corporation violating this provision shall forfeit the sum of one hundred dollars per day during the continuance of the offense; and any person who enters upon, engages in, or carries on, or in any manner attends to the business or management of a savings bank, or bank, or banking corporation, doing business without such license, whether as manager, principal, agent, officer, employee, or otherwise, shall forfeit the sum of one hundred dollars for every day he so enters upon, engages in, or carries on, or attends to such business; and any violation of this section is also hereby declared to be a misdemeanor.

§ 8. Any corporation mentioned in section three of this act, including banks in liquidation or insolvency, shall, whenever required by the board of bank commissioners, make a report in writing to the commissioners, verified by the oath of its president and its secretary, or cashier, or its two principal officers. Said report shall show the actual financial condition of the corporation making the report at the close of any past day by the commissioners specified, by stating:

First—The amount of its capital stock, and the number of shares into which it is divided;

Second—The names of the directors, and the number of shares of stock held by each;

The reports as provided for by this section shall by the commissioners be required from each and every corporation herein mentioned at least three times in each year, and shall be transmitted to the commissioners within fifteen days after the receipt from them of a request or requisition therefor.

§ 9. Any corporation mentioned in section three of this act failing to furnish to the bank commissioners any report by them required under the provisions of this act within the time herein specified, shall forfeit the sum of one hundred dollars per day during the time of such default.

§ 10. If the bank commissioners, on examination of the affairs of any corporation mentioned in section three of this act, shall find that any such corporation has been guilty of violating its charter, the laws of this state, or any of the provisions of this act, or is conducting business in an unsafe manner, they shall, by an order addressed to the corporation so offending, direct discontinuance of such illegal and unsafe practices, and a conformity with the requirements of the law and its charter, and of the provisions of this act. And if such corporation shall refuse or neglect to conform with such requirements before the expiration of the time in the order specified, or if it shall appear to said commissioners and they shall unanimously decide that it is unsafe for any such corporation to continue to transact business, it shall be the duty of the commissioners immediately to take such control of such corporation, and all the property and effects thereof, as may be necessary to prevent waste or diversion of assets, and to hold possession of the same until the order of court hereinafter mentioned, and to immediately notify the governor and the attorney-general of their action; and it is hereby made the duty of the attorney-general, upon receiving such notification, to immediately commence suit in the proper court against such corporation, and all the directors or trustees thereof, to enjoin and prohibit them from the transaction of any further business. If upon the hearing of the case the court shall find that such corporation is solvent and may safely continue business, it shall dismiss the action, and order that the corporation be restored to the possession of the property, but if the court shall find that it is unsafe for such corporation to continue business, or that such corporation is insolvent, said court shall by its decree order such corporation into involuntary liquidation, and shall issue the injunction applied for, and shall cause the same to be served according to law, and shall order the commissioners to surrender the property of the corporation in their possession to a receiver appointed by the court for the purpose of liquidation in such proceeding, under the orders and direction of the court. The issuance of the injunction hereinbefore provided for shall, by operation of law, dissolve any and all attachments levied upon any property of such corporation within one month next preceding the date of the notification by the commissioners to the governor and the attorney-general as provided for in this section; and no attachment or execution shall, after the issuance of such injunction and during the process of liquidation, be levied upon any property of such corporation, nor shall any lien be created thereon. If a receiver be appointed, before surrendering to him the property of the corporation for purposes of liquidation, the person named as receiver shall execute to the people of the state of California, an undertaking, with sufficient sureties, in an amount to be fixed by the court, that he will well and truly perform all the duties devolving on him by reason of such receivership, and that he will faithfully discharge the duty of receiver in the proceeding, and obey the orders of the court therein. Every receiver appointed under the provisions of this section shall make report of the conditions of the affairs under his charge to the bank commissioners in the same manner as the solvent banks mentioned in this article are, by law, required to do, and, in addition thereto, shall state the amount of dividends paid, debts collected, and the money realized on property sold, if any, since the previous report. The bank commissioners shall have the power, and it is hereby made their duty, to examine the conditions of the affairs of every such corporation in liquidation, in the same manner as in case of solvent banks, businesses, and institutions, and they shall have a general supervision of the affairs of such corporation in liquidation. They shall have the power to limit the number of employees necessary to close up the business of any such corporation in liquidation, and also to limit the salaries of the same, and shall do all in their power to make such liquidation as economical and as expeditious as the interests of the creditors, depositors, and stockholders will admit. If any officer or employee of any association or corporation solvent, insolvent, or in liquidation, or if any other person, shall refuse to comply with the provisions of this section, or disregard or refuse to obey the directions of said bank commissioners, given in accordance with the provisions of this act, such person, officer, or employee shall be punished by a fine not exceeding five thousand dollars or by imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment. When the receiver herein provided for shall have been appointed and qualified, the duties of the attorney-general shall end.

The bank commissioners shall, by a resolution entered upon its minutes, concurred in by at least three members, have power to employ legal counsel for any of the purposes mentioned in this section or to enforce any of the penalties prescribed by this act, without the consent of the attorney-general, the expense thereof to be a charge against the individual bank concerning which said services are required, and if more than one bank, then pro rata among such banks.

§ 11. The bank commissioners shall each receive a salary of three thousand six hundred dollars per annum, and necessary traveling expenses, not to exceed, for the four commissioners, the sum of four thousand dollars per annum, to be audited by the state controller and paid by the state treasurer, in the same manner as the salaries and expenses of other state officers. No person while holding any other office, or engaged in business of any kind requiring his personal attention between the hours of nine a. m. and four p. m., shall serve as bank commissioner.

§ 12. The bank commissioners shall furnish each member of the legislature with a copy of their annual report, at each session of the legislature during the first week of the session.

§ 13. The bank commissioners shall have the power to appoint a secretary, at a salary of three hundred ($300) dollars per month.

It shall be the duty of the secretary whenever required by the bank commissioners to visit and make personally a full examination of any corporation mentioned in section three (3) of this act and report its condition to the bank commissioners, and the secretary shall be allowed his actual expenditures necessarily incurred in making such examination and report and for this purpose the secretary of the bank commissioners is hereby empowered to administer oaths.

The said commissioners shall keep their office open for business from nine o'clock a. m. until four o'clock p. m. every day, except non-judicial days. They shall procure rooms necessary for their office, at a rent not to exceed one hundred ($100) dollars per month. They may also provide stationery, fuel and other conveniences necessary for the transaction of their duties, not exceeding in the aggregate the sum of four thousand ($4000) dollars per annum, and cause their annual reports to the governor of this state to be printed by the lowest bidder and distributed, at a cost not to exceed two thousand ($2000) dollars per annum, and which printing shall be exempt from the provisions of article twelve, chapter three, title one, part three of the Political Code. All expenditures authorized in this section shall be audited and paid in the same manner as the salary of the commissioners. [Amendment, Stats. 1905, 305.]

§ 14. All reports required to be made to the bank commissioners by the provisions of this act shall be filed, and kept on file, by the bank commissioners, in their office, and shall be open to the inspection of the public during their office hours.

§ 15. To pay the salaries, the cost of printing the bank commissioners' annual reports, and all other necessary expenses of the commissioners, as provided for in this act, every corporation, person or partnership receiving a license shall pay annually therefor, in advance, to the commissioners, in gold coin, the sum of forty ($40) dollars. To meet the balance of such expenses, after deducting therefrom the amount received from licenses, each of said corporations, persons and partnerships shall pay annually, in advance, to the commissioners, in gold coin, its, his or their share of the amount of said balance; the share to be paid by any such corporation, person or partnership to be determined by the proportion which the deposits of any such corporation, person or partnership bear to the aggregate deposits of all such corporations, persons or partnerships receiving licenses, as shown by the latest reports of such corporations, persons and partnerships to the commissioners. Said commissioners shall, on demand made therefor, and without charge, furnish to every corporation, society, association, company, institution, partnership, person or persons, mentioned in this act, copies of papers, statements and reports filed in their office, and may, as provided by this act, recover any and all moneys payable to them by any corporation, association, society, company, institution, partnership, person or persons herein mentioned; and all moneys collected or received by such bank commissioners, or either of them, under or by virtue of the provisions herein, shall be by them delivered to the treasurer of this state, who shall pay the same into a fund which is hereby created, and which shall be known as the "bank commissioners' fund." And the unexpended balances of all moneys heretofore paid into the state treasury by said bank commissioners shall be transferred to said fund and become a part thereof. [Amendment, Stats. 1905, 305.]

matters, and things done by them under the provisions of this act, which shall be open to the inspection of the public during their office hours.

§ 17. The bank commissioners or either of them may issue subpoenas for witnesses to attend and testify before them or either of them on any examination by this act authorized, which must be served, obeyed, and enforced as provided in the Code of Civil Procedure for civil cases; the commissioners to issue attachments, and impose the penalty for disobedience, and the witnesses may be punished as provided in the Penal Code.

§ 18. The bank commissioners may sue for and recover, in the name of the people, in any court of competent jurisdiction, all sums of money which become due, payable, or forfeited by any of the provisions of this act.

§ 19. The commissioners shall, upon the expiration of their term of office, deliver to their successors, or if there be none, then to the controller of state, all property, books, reports, and papers of every description pertaining to their office.

§ 20. Every person engaged for himself, or any person being the cashier, manager or agent of two or more persons, not incorporated, engaged in the business of banking in this state, or publicly receiving money on deposit, must apply for and take out a license for such privilege, and shall be subject to the same requirements, limitations, liabilities, penalties and provisions as are in this act provided for incorporated banks or banking corporations, so far as the same appertain to said business. [Amendment, Stats. 1905, 306.]

§ 21. The use of the word "bank," or any other word or terms denoting or implying the conduct of the business of banking, or the use of the word "savings," alone or in connection with other words denoting or implying the conduct of the business of a savings institution, or a savings and loan society, is hereby prohibited to all persons, firms, associations, companies, or corporations other than those subject to the supervision of the bank commissioners or required by this act to report to them, and no license as in this act provided shall be issued by the commissioners to any corporation that does not receive money from the public as deposits in manner customary with commercial or savings banks. Any person, firm, association, company, or corporation not subject to the supervision of the bank commissioners or not required by this act to report to them, making use of terms implying conduct of a bank, savings bank, or savings and loan society by means of signs, advertisements, letter heads, bill heads, blank notes, blank receipts, certificates, circulars, or any written or printed or partly written and partly printed paper whatever, having thereon any artificial or corporate name or other word or words indicating that such business is the business of a bank, savings bank, or savings and loan society, shall forfeit for each day the offense is continued the sum of one hundred dollars, to be recovered as provided in this act.

§ 22. The commission hereby established shall be the legal successor of the bank commissioners created by the act creating a board of bank commissioners, approved March thirty, eighteen hundred and seventy-eight, and the acts amendatory thereto, and shall be entitled to have and receive all the books, records and other property acquired by and belonging to the said bank commissioners and shall be substituted for and continue in the stead and place of

§ 3. Said cession is made upon this express condition, that the authorities of the city of Benicia shall not sell the property ceded without first giving notice of said sale by publication in at least one daily newspaper in San Francisco, and one newspaper, if one be published, in the county of Solano for thirty days preceeding said sale, and that said property so ceded shall be sold at public auction to the highest bidder, and in separate lots not exceeding in size one hundred feet, by one hundred and sixty feet in size.

§ 4. § 1. Counties, cities and counties, chartered or incorporated cities and towns in the state of California, are hereby, through the governing bodies thereof, authorized and permitted to license the use of bicycles, tricycles, automobile carriages and carts, and similar wheeled vehicles propelled by the power of the rider, or by motor under control of the rider, owned, rented, and used within the several jurisdictions above named; provided, that such license shall be granted and issued only on payment of a fee not to exceed one dollar a year for each of such vehicles; and further provided, that the money so collected shall be appropriated and used only for the purpose of constructing and maintaining paths and walkways for the use of pedestrians, and the wheeling of the above-named vehicles; and provided also, that the sum of the taxes paid to the state, county, towns, or municipality, upon any vehicle the use of which is hereby authorized to be licensed, shall be deducted from the amount of the license fee hereby authorized, and credited upon the license; it being the intention that any license fee hereby authorized shall be collected in such less sum as is represented by the subtraction of the personal property tax from the sum of the license fee fixed by such ordinance.

§ 2. When an ordinance establishing such license and fixing such license fee is passed, the fee shall be collected and the license issued in the manner and by the officer or officers provided for the issuance and collection of other licenses, and the governing body of such jurisdictions named in section one of this act may devise such label, tag, or certificate as is deemed necessary to be witness of the possession of such license, and the payment of such fee; provided, that no license shall be required for any vehicle so named in this act as is in the possession of a merchant, manufacturer, or dealer, for the purposes of sale or barter, and not for use by the owner or his or her agent, or by persons to whom such vehicles are rented for use, by the hour, the day, the week, or other period of time.

§ 3. It shall be lawful for such governing bodies to provide in such ordinance or ordinances for the enforcement of penalties for the violation thereof, or for failure or refusal to take such license, or pay such license fee; provided, that no penalty shall exceed the sum of the said license fee, with the costs of collection and prosecution under the ordinance added thereto; nor shall any judgment of imprisonment exceed a period of twenty-four hours for violation of said ordinance.

§ 4. It shall be lawful to provide in any such ordinance authorized by this act, for the application of the money collected to the construction and maintenance of such paths, by said towns or cities, or consolidated cities and counties, without the limits of such town and municipal jurisdictions, but within the county, by and with the consent of the board of supervisors of such county.

§ 5. No municipal or town authority in this act referred to shall have authority by ordinance or otherwise to license any such vehicle for use as is in this act referred to, except the same is owned by a resident of such municipal or town jurisdiction, or is used by a resident of such jurisdiction; nor shall any county, by ordinance or otherwise, lay such license upon the use of any such vehicle named in this act, or require a license fee therefor, except the same is owned or used by a resident of the county without the boundaries of town or municipal jurisdictions in the county; provided, that if any town or municipal authority authorized under this act does not provide for such ordinance of license and fee as is permitted by this act, then, and in that case, the governing body of the county may by ordinance provide for the license herein provided for and permitted, and the collection of the fee authorized by this act, so as to make the same applicable to the residents of such town or municipality. But in no case shall any license or fee be required of travelers in counties other than that of their residence, nor from tourists, or visitors, or temporary residents of any city, town, city and county, or county.

§ 6. All costs and charges for licenses herein provided for, for tags, or visible evidences of issuance and possession of license, for receipts for payment of the license fee, and other necessary and inseparable expense related to such licenses, shall be paid from the sum of such collections of fees; provided, that no additional salary or fee shall be paid to any officer of any county, or town, or city, or city and county, for services in issuing or delivering licenses provided for by this act, or for collecting the fees therefor, authorized and provided for in this act.

§ 7. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

The said commissioners shall receive no compensation, other than necessary traveling expenses incurred in performing the duties of the board as prescribed in this act. [Amendment, Stats. 1885, 212.]

§ 4. Said commissioners shall elect a suitable person as guardian of the Yosemite Valley and Mariposa Big Tree Grove, who may be one of said commissioners. Said guardian shall hold his office during the pleasure of the board of commissioners, shall be subject to their orders, and may be removed at any regularly called meeting of said commissioners. He shall receive the sum of one hundred and twenty-five dollars per month, payable monthly, which salary shall be paid from the state treasury in the same manner as the salaries of state officers are paid. All moneys derived from leases of privileges within the grant of the Yosemite Valley and Mariposa Big Tree Grove, shall be expended in the preservation and improvement of the valley, or the roads leading thereto, by order of the board of commissioners and under the supervision of said guardian. § 1. Any receiver, assignee, trustee, guardian, administrator or executor required by law or by the order of court to give a bond as such, shall be allowed as part of the lawful expense of executing his trust, the sum paid for such bond, not exceeding, however, one half ($\frac{1}{2}$) of one (1) per centum of the amount of such bond, for each year that the same shall remain in force.

(Stats. 1881, 24, ch. XXXIV.)

§ 1. The board of supervisors of any of the counties of this state are hereby authorized and empowered to grant the privilege of constructing booms for the purpose of holding logs and timber to companies, corporations, or individuals, and to prescribe the conditions on which the same shall be maintained, and the prices which may be charged for the use of the same.

§ 2. This act will be in force from and after its passage, provided that navigation shall not be interfered with thereby.

There may be serious question as to the validity of the foregoing act, or as to whether it has been superseded. It is broad enough in its terms to admit of franchises where "tolls" are not taken, while subd. 35, § 25, County Government Act of 1897, relates to franchises where tolls are to be charged; but the peculiar feature of this act is in § 2, which provides that it will be in force from and after its passage, "provided that navigation shall not be interfered with thereby."

§ 4. Whenever the supervisors of any county or counties desire to erect a bridge on any public highway, or to grant the privilege so to do to any individual or corporation, across a navigable stream, under the provisions of this act, said board or boards shall notify the state engineer of such purpose, and of the precise point where such bridge is proposed to be located. The state engineer shall, within ten days of the receipt of such notice, designate the width of the draw to be made in such bridge, and also the length of the spans necessary to permit the free flow of water.

§ 5. newspaper published in the county or counties from which the application came, of the time and place of the hearing.

§ 6. In case of the absence or inability of the state engineer to act, the duties devolving upon him under this act shall be performed by the state surveyor-general.

(Stats. 1905, 659, ch. DIV.)

§ 1. There is hereby created a bureau, to be known and designated as the "bureau of building and loan supervision," with powers of supervision, examination and license of all building and loan associations, mutual loan associations, co-operative home associations, and all other corporations, associations and societies, whenever, wherever and however formed, which, in the judgment of the administration of said bureau, are based, or are operating on plans or methods similar to building and loan associations as defined in section six hundred and forty-eight of the Civil Code; it is also charged with the enforcement of all laws designed for the formation, government or operation, in this state, of any such association, corporation or society.

§ 2. The administration of said bureau shall be vested in two commissioners, to be known and designated as the "building and loan commissioners," who shall be appointed by the governor (except as herein provided) and commissioned to hold office for the term of four years and until their successors shall be appointed and have qualified. They must be citizens of this state and residents of different counties; and they must not be in any way connected with any association, corporation or society coming under their supervision. They shall be authorized and empowered to appoint a secretary, with powers of examination the same as their own, who must be a practical, skilled accountant, fully conversant with building and loan accounts.

§ 3. The commissioners shall each receive a salary of twenty-four hundred dollars per annum, and their secretary shall receive a salary of not exceeding eighteen hundred dollars per annum. There shall also be allowed and paid the necessary traveling expenses of the commissioners and their secretary, not to exceed the sum of eight hundred dollars per annum. The commissioners shall procure and have an office in the city of San Francisco, for which there shall be allowed and paid a rental of not exceeding fifty dollars per month, and such office shall be kept open for business, every business day, during such hours as are commonly observed by the banks of that city as banking hours; they may also provide such fuel, stationery, printing, postage, office help and other necessary conveniences as may be requisite in such office, at a cost not to exceed, in the aggregate, the sum of five hundred dollars per annum. All said salaries and expenses shall be audited and paid in the same manner as the salaries and expenses of other state officers.

§ 4. Before entering upon their respective duties the commissioners must each execute an official bond in the sum of five thousand dollars and the secretary a like bond in the sum of two thousand dollars, and each must take the oath of office as prescribed by the Political Code for state officers in general.

§ 5. It shall be the duty of the commissioners to furnish to all associations, corporations or societies, which, in their judgment, legally come under their jurisdiction, and that have otherwise complied with the requirements of law, a license authorizing them to transact business for one year from the date of said license; to receive and place on file in their office the annual or other reports required by law to be made by building and loan associations or other corporations or societies licensed by them; to supply each with blank forms for such statements; and to make, on or before the first day of October in each year, a tabulated report to the governor of this state, showing the condition of all such associations, corporations or societies reporting to them, with such recommendation as they may deem proper, accompanied by a detailed statement of all moneys received by them since their last report, and the disposition thereof.

§ 6. It shall be the duty of one or both of the commissioners, in person, at least once in each year, without previous notice, to visit and examine into the affairs of every such association, corporation or society licensed by them, incorporated or doing business in this state; on such occasions they shall have free access to all the books, records, securities and papers of every such association, corporation or society and shall first count the cash and check the bank balance of such corporation or association with the proper amount of funds as shown by the books to be on hand and at the date and hour of such examination, and shall then examine and verify the books, accounts, and securities, and, so far as possible and consistent, the values of all property owned or held as collateral security for moneys loaned, and otherwise use reasonable diligence to ascertain the financial condition and solvency thereof. They and their secretary shall have power to administer oaths in the line of duty, and to examine under oath the officers, employees and agents, or the custodian or receiver, relative to any or all the business thereof. The commissioners or their secretary or representative shall receive for any examination into the books and affairs of any such association, corporation or society formed outside of the state of California and applying for a license to do business in this state, their reasonable expenses, which shall be paid by the association, corporation or society so examined; provided, that they may accept the result of any such examination made by the duly constituted authorities of any state having similar laws of supervision.

§ 7. To facilitate the examinations specified in the foregoing section, they shall require every such association, corporation or society to keep its books in such form as to accurately show its assets and liabilities in detail and to keep records written in ink, showing the appraised and assessed values of the real estate security held in connection with each loan, and signed in each case by the appraiser, officer or committee charged with making such estimated valuations. The commissioners shall make a revaluation of the real estate owned, and of the other securities of any such association, corporation or society licensed by them, on which the loan payments may be delinquent for six months or more, and may, for that purpose, appoint local appraisers, who shall be disinterested persons, at the expense of such association, corporation or society; the expense of such appraisal to be fixed by the commissioners, but not to exceed the sum of five dollars for property located outside of any incorporated limits and three dollars for property located inside of any incorporated limits for each property so examined and appraised. Each appraiser so appointed shall be required to make a sworn report to the commissioners of his estimated valuations of all property so examined and appraised.

§ 8. The commissioners shall have power to issue subpoenas and require attendance of any or all trustees, or agents of any such association, corporation or society, and such other witnesses as they may deem necessary, in relation to its affairs, transactions and condition, and any such person so served with such subpoena may upon application of the commissioner be required by order of the superior court of the county where the corporation, association or society has its principal place of business, to appear and answer such pertinent questions as may be put to him by such commissioner and be required to produce such books, papers or documents in his possession as may be required by such commissioner.

§ 9. If the commissioners, upon any examination, or from any report made to them or to the shareholders, shall find that any association, corporation or society licensed by them, is violating the provisions of its charter or of the laws of this state provided for its government, or is conducting its business in an unsafe or unauthorized manner, they may, by an order addressed to the association, corporation or society so offending, direct a discontinuance of such violations or unsafe practices and a conformity with all the requirements of law; and if such association, corporation or society shall refuse or neglect to comply with such order within the time specified therein; or if it shall appear to the commissioners, in their opinion, that any such association, corporation or society is in an unsafe condition, or is conducting its business in an unsafe manner, such as to render its further proceeding hazardous to the public or to those having funds in its custody, they shall notify the attorney-general of such facts and furnish him with a statement showing its condition, as the same may have been found to exist; at the same time they shall notify the officers of such association, corporation or society of the fact of such report having been made and direct them to cease the transaction of any new business, and to hold all moneys, securities and property intact, pending the action of the attorney-general on such report. The attorney-general shall thereupon apply to the superior court, of the county in which such association, corporation or society has its principal place of business, to issue an injunction restraining it, in whole or in part, from further proceeding with its business until a hearing can be had. Such court may, in such application, issue such injunction, and after a full hearing, may dissolve or modify it, or make it perpetual, and may make such orders and decrees according to the course of proceedings in equity, to restrain or prohibit the further prosecution of business by such association, corporation or society, as may be needful in the premises; and may appoint one or more receivers to take possession of its property and effects, subject to such directions as may from time to time be prescribed by the court; or it may, by its decree, order and direct that, in lieu of the appointment of a receiver, the business and affairs be liquidated by a board of trustees equal in number to the board of directors, to be elected by the shareholders, at a meeting thereof, to be called for such purpose and held within two weeks from and after the first Monday succeeding the date of such order and decree; such meeting to be called and held on the order of the commissioners, one of whom shall be present and preside until such election shall be had; whereupon he shall report the result to the proper court, and thereupon the term of office of the existing board of directors and of all the officers shall cease and determine. Such board of trustees, when so elected, shall at once assume office and have possession and control of all the property and assets for the purpose of liquidation; and such liquidation shall be conducted by such board under the supervision of the commissioners, who shall have full power to limit the time within which it shall be accomplished, and to limit the number of employees and the salaries and expenses that shall be allowed and paid. The issuance of an injunction, in the manner herein provided, shall operate to dissolve or stay any and all attachments or executions initiated or levied within thirty days next preceding the date of notification of the attorney-general by the commissioners; and, pending the process of liquidation as ordered by the court, no attachment or execution shall be levied, nor lien created, upon any of the property of such association, corporation or society.

§ 10. Whenever a receiver or receivers are appointed, or trustees elected in lieu thereof, the commissioners shall require the president and secretary of such association, corporation or society to, and such officers shall, make a schedule of all its property and make oath that such schedule sets forth all the property which such association, corporation or society owns or is entitled to, and deliver said schedule and possession of the property to the receivers or to the trustees, and a copy of such schedule to the commissioners, who may at any time examine under oath such president and secretary, or other officers, to determine whether or not all the property which such association, corporation or society owns, or is entitled to, has been transferred to such receivers or trustees.

§ 11. The commissioners shall, at least once in each year and as much oftener as they may deem expedient, examine the accounts and doings of receivers or trustees, and shall carefully examine and report on all accounts and reports made to the proper court, and, for the purposes of this section, shall have full and free access to all the books, accounts and vouchers relating to any such liquidation.

§ 12. Upon the certificate, under oath, of any ten or more officers, trustees, creditors, shareholders or depositors of any such association, corporation or society, setting forth their interest and the reason for the making of such examination, directed to the commissioners, and requesting them so to do, they shall forthwith make a full investigation of its affairs, in the manner provided.

§ 13. If either of the commissioners, having knowledge of the insolvent condition, or of any violation of law or unsafe practice of any such association, corporation or society under their supervision, such as renders, in their opinion, the conduct of its business hazardous to its shareholders, creditors or depositors, shall fail to take the proper action required by this act, or shall refuse or neglect to perform the official duties pertaining to his office, then upon conviction thereof the office of such commissioner shall be declared vacant by the governor, and a successor be appointed to fill the unexpired term.

§ 14. To meet the salaries and expenses provided for by this act, the commissioners shall require every association, corporation or society licensed by them or coming under their supervision to pay in advance, to them, and prior to the issuance of any license, its pro rata amount of all such salaries and expenses, and it is hereby made the duty of every such association, corporation or society to pay the same; such pro rata shall be fixed and determined by the proportion which its assets bear to the aggregate assets of all such associations, corporations, or societies, receiving licenses, as shown by the last reports of such corporations, associations, or societies to the commissioners. On or before the thirtieth day of December, in each year, the commissioners shall notify each of such associations, corporations or societies, through the United States mail, of the amount assessed and levied against it and that the same must be paid within twenty days thereafter; and should payment not be made to them within said twenty days, they shall then assess and collect a penalty, in addition thereto, of ten per centum per day for each day that such payment may be delayed or withheld; provided, however, that in the levy and collection of such assessment, no such association, corporation or society shall be assessed for, nor be permitted to pay less than ten dollars per annum, and any such association hereafter formed in this state, shall be required to pay not less than one dollar per month for the unexpired term ending December thirty-first, succeeding application; and in like manner any such association organized outside this state shall be required to pay not less than three dollars per month, for such unexpired term, for its first license.

§ 15. It shall be the duty of the commissioners to require every such association, corporation or society coming under their supervision, to procure from them, prior to the transaction of any business, a certificate of authority or license to transact business in this state; and it is hereby made the duty of every such association, corporation or society to comply with such requirement. To procure such license, there must be filed with and approved by the commissioners, a certified copy of its articles of incorporation, constitution and by-laws and all subsequent amendments thereto, accompanied by the license fee herein provided for; and after the expiration of the term for which a license may have been granted to it, no such association, corporation or society shall be permitted to continue to transact business without first procuring a renewal of such license on the terms provided in this act, and any such association, corporation or society violating the provisions hereof shall be subject to a penalty of ten per centum per day of the amount of the license fee required to be paid under section fifteen of this act, in addition thereto, for each day during the continuance of such offense. The commissioners are authorized and empowered to revoke the license of any such association, corporation or society under their supervision, the solvency whereof may have become imperiled by losses or irregularities; and immediately upon the revoking of any such license they shall report the facts to the attorney-general, who shall thereupon take such proceedings as are provided in section nine of this act.

§ 16. The commissioners shall require every association, corporation or society licensed by them, and including associations in liquidation, within thirty days after the close of its annual fiscal term to make a report to them in writing, verified by the oath of its president and secretary, showing accurately its financial condition at the close of such term; such report shall also include all the receipts and disbursements and income and expenses for the term, together with such statistical and other information as may be deemed essential; all and every of such reports shall be in such form as the commissioners may prescribe, and upon blanks to be by them furnished therefor. Every such association, corporation or society is hereby required to make and file all such reports within the time specified herein, and for failure or neglect so to do shall be subject to a penalty of ten dollars per day for each and every day the same shall be delayed or withheld.

§ 17. The collection of all moneys assessed, as herein provided, for the payment of salaries and annual expenses, or forfeitable as fines for failure to make payments of assessments, procure licenses, or make and file reports as herein specified, and due from any such association, corporation or society coming within the provisions of this act, or imposed as a penalty for violation of any order or summons, may be enforced by the commissioners, by action instituted in any court of competent jurisdiction; and all moneys collected or received by the commissioners under this act, shall be deposited with the state treasurer, to be credited to a fund to be known and designated as the "building and loan inspection fund"; which said fund shall only be used in defraying the salaries and expenses provided for by this act.

§ 18. This act shall not be construed as affecting the terms of office of the commissioners appointed under and by virtue of an act entitled "An act creating a board of commissioners of the building and loan associations and prescribing their duties and powers," approved March twenty-third, eighteen hundred and ninety-three, and acts amendatory thereof, and such commissioners are hereby created the building and loan commissioners for the unexpired terms for which they were appointed, and they and their secretary are hereby vested with all the powers and duties, and are entitled to all the emoluments herein provided for; and they and their successors in office, as the building and loan commissioners herein provided for, shall succeed to all the rights, privileges and benefits, and to the control and possession of all records, property and funds in the possession of or enjoyed by the board of commissioners of the building and loan associations appointed under and by virtue of said act of March twenty-third, eighteen hundred and ninety-three.

§ 19. All acts and parts of acts, including an act entitled "An act creating a board of commissioners of the building and loan associations and prescribing their duties and powers," approved March twenty-third, eighteen hundred and ninety-three, and all acts amendatory thereof, are hereby repealed.

hereinafter required; provided that in case of any death outside of the state, where the body is accompanied by a removal or transit permit issued in accordance with the law and the health regulations in force where the death occurred, such removal or transit permit shall be accepted as of the same authority as a permit from the local registrar when such removal or transit permit shall have indorsed thereon the written approval of the state registrar of vital statistics, or when said state registrar otherwise officially notifies the local registrar of his approval.

He shall then present the certificate to the attending physician, if any, or to the health officer or coroner, as directed by the registrar, for the medical certificate of the cause of death and other particulars necessary to complete the record, as specified in the preceding section. And he shall then state the facts required relative to the date and place of burial over his signature and with his address, and present the completed certificate to the registrar within the time limit, if any, designated by the local board of health for the issuance of a burial or removal permit. The undertaker shall deliver the burial permit to the sexton or person in charge of the premises before interring the body, or attach it to the box containing the corpse, when shipped by any transportation company, to accompany same to destination, when it shall be accepted by the sexton as authority for the interment of the body.

§ 9. It shall be the duty of the local registrar to supply blank forms of certificates to such persons as require them. He shall carefully examine each certificate when presented for record to see that it has been made out in accordance with the provisions of this act and the instructions of the state registrar, and if any certificate is incomplete or unsatisfactory it shall be his duty to call attention to the defects in the return and to withhold issuing the burial or removal permit until they are corrected. He shall then number them in consecutive order, beginning with number one for the first death in each calendar year, and sign his name as registrar in attest of the date of filing in his office. If the certificate is properly executed and complete, he shall then issue a burial or removal permit to the undertaker; provided, that in case the death occurred from some disease that is held by the state board of health to be infectious, contagious, or communicable and dangerous to the public health, no permit for the removal or other disposition of the body shall be granted by the registrar except under such conditions as may be prescribed by the state and local boards of health. He shall also make a complete and accurate copy of each certificate registered by him, upon a form identical with the original certificate, to be filed and permanently preserved in his office as the local record of such death, in such manner as directed by the state registrar. He shall, on or before the eighth day of each month, transmit to the state registrar all original certificates registered by him during the preceding month. If no deaths occurred in any month he shall, on or before the eighth day of the following month, report that fact to the state registrar in such manner as the state registrar shall direct.

§ 10. If the interment, or other disposition of the body is to be made in the registration district in which the death occurred, the wording of the burial permit may be limited to a statement by the registrar, and over his signature, that a satisfactory certificate of death having been filed with him as required by law, permission is granted to inter, remove, or otherwise dispose of the body of the deceased, stating the name, age, sex and cause of death and other necessary details upon the form prescribed by the state registrar. In case the interment, or other disposition of the body, is to be made in some registration district other than that in which the death occurred, a complete copy of the certificate of death shall be attached to and made a part of the permit.

§ 11. No sexton or person in charge of any premises in which interments are made shall inter or permit the interment of any body unless it is accompanied by a burial, removal, or transit permit as herein provided. Each sexton for person in charge of any burial ground shall indorse upon the permit the date of interment, over his signature, and shall return all permits, so indorsed, to the local registrar of his district within one day from the date of interment. He shall also keep a record of all interments made in the premises under his charge, stating the name of the deceased person, place of death, date of burial, and name and address of the undertaker, which record shall at all times be open to public inspection.

§ 12. The state registrar shall prepare a sample form and blank for all registrars for use in registering, recording and preserving the returns or in otherwise carrying out the purposes of this act, and shall prepare and issue such detailed instructions as may be required to secure the uniform observance of its provisions and the maintenance of a perfect system of registration. No other forms of blanks shall be used than those prescribed by the state registrar. He shall carefully examine the certificates received monthly from the local registrars, and if any such are incomplete or unsatisfactory he shall require such further information to be furnished as may be necessary to make the record satisfactory. All physicians, informants, or undertakers connected with the case, and all other persons having knowledge of the facts, are hereby required to furnish such information as they may possess regarding any death, upon demand of the state registrar, in person, by mail, or through the local registrar. He shall further arrange, bind and permanently preserve the certificates in a systematic manner, and shall prepare and maintain a comprehensive index of all deaths registered, showing the name of deceased, place and date of death, number of certificate, and the volume in which it is contained. He shall inform all registrars what diseases are to be considered as infectious, contagious, or communicable, and dangerous to the public health, as decided by the state board of health, in order that when deaths occur from such diseases proper precautions may be taken to prevent the spreading of dangerous diseases, and all rules and regulations made by him for carrying out and enforcing the purposes of this act shall, when promulgated, have the same force and effect as if enacted by law.

§ 13. Whenever it may be alleged that the facts are not correctly stated in any certificate of death theretofore registered, the local registrar shall require a deposition under oath to be made by the person asserting the fact, to be supported by the depositions of two or more credible persons having knowledge of the facts, setting forth the changes necessary to make the record correct. Having received such depositions, he shall file them and shall then draw a line through the incorrect statement or statements in the certificate, without erasing them, and make the necessary corrections, noting on the margin of the certificate his authority for so doing, and transmit the deposition, attached to the original certificate, when making his regular monthly returns to the state registrar. If the correction relates to a certificate previously returned to the state registrar, he shall transmit the deposition forthwith to the state registrar. If the correction is first made upon the original certificate on file in the state bureau of vital statistics, the state registrar shall transmit a certified copy of the original certificate, corrected as above, to the local registrar, who shall thereupon substitute such certified copy for the copy of the certificate in his records. All such corrections and marginal notes referring to them shall be legibly written in ink, typewritten or printed.

§ 14. Each local registrar shall be entitled to be paid the sum of not exceeding twenty-five cents for each death certificate properly and completely made out and registered with him, and by him returned to the state registrar on or before the eighth day of the following month, which sum shall cover and include the making out of the burial permit and the copy of the certificate to be filed and preserved in his office. And in case no deaths were registered during any month, the local registrar shall be entitled to a sum not exceeding twenty-five cents for each report to that effect, promptly made in accordance with the directions of the state registrar; provided, however, that all such compensation for such services shall be fixed by the board of supervisors, city council, or other governing body of such local registration district.

All amounts payable to registrars under the provisions of this act shall be paid by the treasurer or other lawful officer, out of the funds of each registration district, upon warrants drawn by the local auditor or other proper local officer of such district, which warrants shall specify the number of certificates properly registered and reports promptly returned where no deaths are registered, with the amount due for each: provided, however, that no warrant shall be issued to any local registrar, or, if issued, shall be paid where notice is previously given by the state registrar to the auditor, treasurer or other proper officer of such registration district that the local registrar has failed to comply with the rules and regulations of the state bureau of vital statistics and the instructions of the state registrar.

§ 15. The state registrar shall, upon receipt, furnish any applicant a certified copy of the record of any death registered under provisions of this act, for the making and certification of which he shall be entitled to a fee of fifty cents, to be paid by the applicant. And any such copy of the record of a death, when properly certified by the state registrar to be a true copy thereof, shall be prima facie evidence in all courts and places of the facts therein stated. For any search of the files and records, when no certified copy is made, the state registrar shall be entitled to a fee of fifty cents for each hour or fractional hour of time of search to be paid by the applicant. And the state registrar shall keep a true and correct account of all fees by him received under these provisions, and turn the same over to the state treasurer.

§ 16. Every physician and undertaker, residing in, at the date of this act or thereafter establishing a residence in, any registration district, shall forthwith register his or her name, address, and occupation, with the local registrar of the district in which he or she resides, and they shall thereupon be furnished by the registrar a copy of this act and such rules, regulations, and instructions as may be prepared by the state registrar with relation to their duties under this act.

§ 17. If any physician who was in medical attendance upon any deceased person at the time of death shall neglect or refuse to make out and deliver to the undertaker, sexton, or other person in charge of the interment, removal, or other disposition of the body, upon request, the medical certificate of cause of death hereinbefore provided for, or shall wilfully or knowingly make a false certification of the cause of death in any case, he shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor.

If any undertaker, sexton, or other person acting as undertaker shall inter, remove, or otherwise dispose of the body of any deceased person without having received a burial or removal permit as herein provided, he shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor.

Any registrar, deputy registrar or sub-registrar who shall neglect or fail to enforce the provisions of this act in his district, or shall neglect or refuse to perform any of the duties imposed upon him by this act or by the instructions and directions of the state registrar, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor.

And any person or persons who shall violate any of the provisions of this act, or shall wilfully neglect or refuse to perform any duties imposed upon them by the provisions of this act, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor.

Any transportation company or common carrier transporting or carrying, or accepting through its agents or employees for transportation or carriage, the body of any deceased person without an accompanying permit, issued in accordance with the provisions of this act, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not less than fifty nor more than two hundred dollars.

§ 18. Local registrars are hereby charged with the strict and thorough enforcement of the provisions of this act in their districts under the supervision and direction of the state registrar. They shall make an immediate report to the state registrar of any violations of this law coming to their notice by observation or upon complaint of any person or otherwise. The state registrar shall have authority to investigate cases of irregularity or violation of law, personally or by accredited representative, and all registrars shall aid him, upon request, in such investigations. When he shall deem it necessary, he shall report cases of violation of any of the provisions of this act to the prosecuting attorney or other proper officer of the county or municipality, with a statement of the facts and circumstances, and when any such case is reported to them by the state registrar all prosecuting attorneys or officials acting in such capacity shall forthwith initiate and promptly follow up the necessary court proceedings against the parties responsible for the alleged violations of law.

§ 19. All acts and parts of acts in conflict or inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

The meeting shall also determine on what day, in each year, the future annual elections of trustees shall be held.

§ 2. The chairman and secretary of the meeting shall within three days after such meeting, make a written certificate, and sign their names thereto, and acknowledge the same before an officer authorized to take proof and acknowledgment of conveyances, in the county where such meeting shall have been held, which certificate shall state the names of the associates determined upon by the majority of the persons who met; the number of trustees fixed on to manage the concerns of the association; the names of the trustees chosen at the meeting, and their classification, and the day fixed on for the annual election of trustees; which certificate it shall be the duty of the chairman and secretary of such meeting to cause to be filed and recorded in the office of the county clerk of the county in which the cemetery grounds are situated, in a book to be appropriated to the recording of certificates of incorporation.

or her relative, except by the consent of all persons having an interest in such lot, or plat.

§ 12. In case the grounds purchased for cemetery purposes, in accordance with section seven of this act, shall have been used as a cemetery previous to such purchase, then those who are lot owners, at the time of the purchase, shall have, and be entitled to, all the privileges they would be entitled to by purchase from a corporation formed as aforesaid.

§ 13. CHARITIES AND CORRECTIONS—STATE BOARD OF

To create a state board of charities and corrections, prescribing its duties and powers, and appropriating money therefor.

§ 1. A state board of charities and corrections is hereby created of six members, to be appointed by the governor, with the advice and consent of the senate, not more than three of whom shall be of the same political party. Such members shall hold office for the period of twelve years and until their successors are appointed and qualified; provided, that the members of the first board appointed under this act shall, at their first meeting, so classify themselves by lot that two of them shall go out of office at the end of four years, two at the end of eight years, and two at the end of twelve years, and an entry of such classification shall be made in the minutes of said board, and a duplicate thereof shall be filed in the office of the secretary of state. Women may be appointed members of said board, or hold any position in the appointment of said board. No person shall be appointed a member, or continue to act as such, while he is a trustee, manager, director, or other administrative officer of an institution subject to the terms of this act. Appointments to fill vacancies before the expiration of such terms, shall be made for the residue of terms in the same manner as original appointments. The governor shall be ex officio a member of said board.

§ 2. The members shall act without compensation, but shall be allowed their actual necessary expenses. The said board may appoint a secretary, who shall receive such salary as may be determined by said board, not to exceed twenty-four hundred ($2400) dollars per annum. All the expenses of said board, including the salary of the secretary, shall not exceed the sum of six thousand ($6,000) dollars in any one fiscal year, and said sum of six thousand ($6,000) dollars is hereby appropriated annually therefor out of any moneys in the treasury not otherwise appropriated. The secretary of said board shall execute a bond in the sum of five thousand ($5,000) dollars, and take the oath of office prescribed by the Political Code for the executive officers of this state. The board shall provide itself with an office in the city and county of San Francisco. Meetings of the board may be held at such times and in such places in the state of California as said board may deem fit. It may make such rules and orders for the regulation of its own proceedings as it may deem necessary, and may fix the number of members necessary to constitute a quorum. The failure of a member to attend three consecutive meetings of said board during any calendar year, unless excused by formal vote of the board, may be construed by the governor as a resignation of said non-attending member.

§ 3. The board is hereby empowered and authorized, and it shall be its duty as a whole, or by committee, or by its secretary, to investigate, examine, and make reports upon the charitable, correctional, and penal institutions of the state, including the state hospitals for the insane, of the counties, cities and counties, cities and towns of the state, and such public officers as are in any way responsible for the administration of public funds used for the relief or maintenance of the poor in public institutions or of any of the inmates of said institutions. All the persons or officers in charge of or connected with such public institutions or with the administration of said funds are hereby required to furnish to the board or its committee or secretary such information and statistics as they may request or require, and allow said board, committee or secretary free access to all departments of such institutions and to all of their records. In order to secure accuracy, uniformity and completeness in such statistics and information, the board may prescribe such forms of report and records by the state commission in lunacy regarding the state hospitals for the insane and by such other officers, boards or institutions as it may deem necessary and also such forms of registration at all public institutions referred to in this section as it may require. The state commission in lunacy on behalf of the institutions under its charge and the officers of all other institutions, and all officers, in any way responsible for public funds used for the relief of the poor or the maintenance of any inmates of said public institutions, are hereby required to follow such forms, records and registration so prescribed; provided, that the intent of this law is that so far as possible, the board shall make use of the forms of report, record and registration now obtaining in the state commission of lunacy and other state boards and institutions. All plans of new buildings, or parts of buildings for any of the public institutions coming under the provisions of this act, or any additions or alterations in such buildings, shall, before their adoption by the proper officials, be submitted to the board for suggestions and criticism.

§ 4. The board shall have the power to issue compulsory process to compel the attendance of any witness before said board or any member thereof, and to require the production of such books or papers relating to any public institution mentioned in section three of this act as they may deem necessary; provided, that no witness shall be required to attend before said board out of the county in which he resides. Any member of said board shall have power, and he is hereby authorized to administer an oath to any and all witnesses coming before said board, or any member thereof, for examination, and to examine such witness or witnesses in reference to any matter relating to public institutions mentioned in section three of this act appertaining to the inquiry before the board, or said member. Disobedience of a subpoena issued by said board, or refusal to be sworn, or to answer, shall subject such person disobeying or refusing to a forfeiture of one hundred dollars, to be recovered in a civil action brought in a court of competent jurisdiction by said board in its name as plaintiff, the money recovered to be appropriated to the use of said board.

§ 5. No provision in this act contained shall in any way be construed as preventing the governor of this state from making a plenary investigation in reference to the conduct of any public institutions under the terms of any act of the legislature of this state. Furthermore, the governor may at any time order an investigation by the board, or by a committee of its members, of the management of the above-named institutions, or any thereof.

§ 6. Three months prior to each regular session of the legislature, the board shall make a full and complete report to the governor of all its transactions during the preceding two years, showing fully and in detail all expenses incurred and moneys paid out by it, and giving a list of all officers and agents employed, and the actual condition of all institutions under its supervision, with such suggestions as it may deem necessary and pertinent, and with recommendations for legislative and executive action.

§ 7. The provisions of this act shall not apply to the Veterans' Home of California, located at Yountville, Napa County, nor to the Woman's Relief Corps Home at Evergreen, Santa Clara County.

§ 8. All acts and parts of acts in conflict with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

§ 9. This act shall be in force and take effect from and after its passage.

(Stats. 1903, 44, ch. XLIII; amend. Stats. 1905, 806, ch. DCX.)

§ 1. The title of said act is amended so as to read as follows: "An act defining and providing for the control, protection and treatment of dependent and delinquent children; defining such children; prescribing the powers and duties of courts in respect thereto; providing for the creation and appointment of probation officers, and prescribing their duties, powers, terms of office and compensation; providing for the commitment and confinement of such children; providing for the creation and appointment of boards, to be known as probation committees; to investigate the qualifications of organizations receiving children under this act; and prescribing the powers and duties of such boards, with respect to probation officers and otherwise, and prescribing the terms of office of the members of such boards; providing for the powers of courts and judges with respect to the appointment of probation officers and removal of same, and with respect to probation committees and members thereof; and providing when proceedings under this act shall be admissible in evidence." [Amendment, Stats. 1905, 806.]

§ 1. This act shall apply only to children under the age of sixteen years not now or hereafter inmates of a state institution. For the purposes of this act the words "dependent child" shall mean any child under the age of sixteen years who is found begging, or receiving or gathering alms (whether actually begging or under the pretext of selling or offering for sale anything), or being in any street, road, or public place for the purpose of so begging, gathering or receiving alms; or who is found wandering and not having any home or settled place of abode, or proper guardianship, or visible means of subsistence; or who is found destitute, or whose home, by reason of neglect, cruelty or depravity on the part of either of its parents or of its guardian, or other person in whose care it may be, is an unfit place for such child; or who frequents the company of reputed criminals or prostitutes, or who is found living or being in any house of prostitution or assignation, or who habitually visits, without parent or guardian, any saloon, or place where any spirituous liquors or wine, or intoxicating or malt liquors are sold, exchanged, or given away, or who is incorrigible, or who is a persistent truant from school. The words "delinquent child" shall include any child under the age of sixteen years who violates any law of this state, or any ordinance of any town, city, county, or city and county of this state. [Amendment, Stats. 1905, 806.]

of such court may from time to time designate one or more of their number whose duty it shall be to hear all cases coming under this act. In counties of the first class, such designation shall be made by the presiding judge. The orders and findings, if any, of the superior court, in all cases coming under the provisions of this act, shall be entered in a book to be kept for that purpose and known as the "Juvenile Record," and the court acting under this act shall be called the "Juvenile Court." In justices' courts having more than one justice of the peace, and in police courts having more than one judge, the justices of the peace and the judges of the police courts, from time to time may designate one of their respective number whose duty it shall be to hear all cases coming under this act. All cases coming under the provisions of this act shall be heard at a special separate session of the court, and no matter other than cases under this act shall be on the calendar, or shall be heard at such session, nor shall there be permitted to be present at such session any person on trial, or awaiting trial, or under accusation of crime, who does not come under the provisions of this act. [Amendment, Stats. 1905, 806.]

§ 3. Any citizen of the state may file with the clerk of the superior court a petition showing that there is within the county, or residing within the county, a dependent child, and praying that the superior court deal with such child as provided in this act. Such petition shall be verified, and shall contain a statement of the facts constituting such dependency as provided in section one of this act. There shall be no fee for filing said petition. [Amendment, Stats. 1905, 806.]

§ 4. Upon the filing of the petition, provided for in section three hereof, a citation shall issue, requiring the person having custody or control of the child, or with whom the child may be, to appear with the child at a place and time stated in the citation. Service of such citation must be made at least twenty-four hours before the time stated therein. The parents or guardian of the child, if residing in the county in which the court sits, and if their places of residence be known to the petitioner, or if there be neither parent nor guardian so residing, or if their places of residence be not known to petitioner, then some relative of the child, if there be any residing in said county, and if his residence and relationship to such child be known to petitioner, shall be notified of the proceedings by service of citation requiring them to appear at the time and place to be stated in such citation. In any case, the judge may appoint some suitable person to act in behalf of the child, and may order such further notice of the proceeding to be given as he may deem proper. If any person cited as herein provided, shall fail, without reasonable cause, to appear and abide by the order of the court, or to bring the child, if so required in the citation, such failure shall constitute a contempt of said court and may be punished as provided for in cases of contempt of court. In case any such citation cannot be served, or the party served fails to obey the same, and in any case in which it shall be made to appear to the court that such citation will be ineffectual, a warrant of arrest may issue on the order of the court, either against the parent or guardian, or the person having the custody of the child, or with whom the child may be, or against the child itself, or any of said persons; or if there be no person to be served with citation as above provided, a warrant of arrest may be issued against the child immediately. On the return of the citation or other process, or as soon thereafter as may be, the court shall proceed to hear and dispose of the case in a summary manner. Until the final disposition of any case, the child may be retained in the possession of the person having charge of the same, or may be kept, upon the order of the court, in some suitable place, provided by the county, or city and county, or may be held otherwise, as the court may direct. [Amendment, Stats. 1905, 806.]

§ 5. When any child under the age of sixteen years shall be found by said court or judge or justice to be dependent, within the meaning of this act, the court may make an order committing the child, for such time during its minority as the court may deem fit, to the care of some reputable citizen of good moral character, or to the care of some association, society or corporation willing to receive it, embracing in its objects the purpose of caring for or obtaining homes for dependent or neglected children, or to the care of the probation officers or other person to remain in the home of the child. The court may thereafter set aside, change or modify such order. [Amendment, Stats. 1905, 806.]

§ 6. The judge of the superior court in and for each county or city and county of the state, or where there are more than one judge of said court, a majority of the judges thereof by an order entered in the minutes of such court, shall appoint seven discreet citizens of good moral character, and of either sex, to be known as probation committee, and shall fill all vacancies occurring in such committee. The clerk of said court shall immediately notify each person appointed on said committee and thereupon said persons shall appear before the judge of said juvenile court, if there be one, or otherwise before a judge of said superior court in said county and qualify by taking oath, to be entered in said juvenile record, if any, or in the minutes of said superior court, to faithfully perform the duties of a member of such probation committee. [Amendment, Stats. 1905, 806.]

§ 7. The members of such probation committees shall hold office for four years, and until their successors are appointed, provided that of those first appointed, one shall hold office for one year, two for two years, two for three years, and two for four years, the terms for which the respective members first appointed shall hold office to be determined by lot as soon after their appointment as may be. When any vacancy occurs in any probation committee by expiration of the term of office of any member thereof, the successor shall be appointed to hold for the term of four years; when any vacancy occurs for any other reason, the appointee shall hold for the unexpired term of his predecessor. [Amendment, Stats. 1905, 806.]

§ 8. The members of the probation committee shall serve without compensation. [Amendment, Stats. 1905, 806.]

§ 9. The superior court or any judge thereof may at any time require said probation committee or a probation officer to examine into the qualifications and management of any society, association or corporation, other than a state institution, applying to receive any child or children under this act, and to report to the court, provided that nothing in this section shall be construed as giving any probation committee or probation officer any power to enter any institution without the consent of such institution.

It shall be the duty of each probation committee prior to December first in each year to prepare a report in writing on the qualifications and management of all societies, associations and corporations, except state institutions, applying for or receiving any child under this act from the courts of their respective counties, and in said report said committee may make such suggestions or comments as to them may seem fit; said report to be filed in the office of the clerk of the court appointing such committee, for the information of the judges thereof. [Amendment, Stats. 1905, 806.]

§ 10. In counties of the first class there shall be one probation officer and not more than five deputy probation officers; in counties of the second class, one probation officer and not more than one deputy probation officer; in all other counties there shall be one probation officer.

In any county or city and county additional deputy probation officers may be appointed and their appointment approved or disapproved as hereinafter provided, from time to time when in the opinion of the court it may be necessary, provided that they serve without salary. [Amendment, Stats. 1905, 806.]

§ 11. The salaries of the probation officers and deputy probation officers (except as herein otherwise provided) shall be as follows, and shall be paid out of the county treasury of the county for which they are appointed, after being allowed and audited in the same manner as salaries of other county officers:

In counties of the second class the probation officer shall receive one hundred and twenty-five dollars per month, and the deputy probation officer seventy-five dollars per month. In all other counties the probation officer and the deputy probation officers shall serve without compensation, provided however, that the probation officer and deputy probation officers in all the counties of the state shall be allowed such necessary incidental expenses as may be authorized by a judge of the superior court; and the same shall be a charge upon the county in which the court appointing them has jurisdiction, and the said expenses shall be paid out of the county treasury upon a warrant therefor issued by the said court. [Amendment, Stats. 1905, 806.]

§ 12. The offices of probation officer and deputy probation officer are hereby created. The appointments of probation officers and deputy probation officers to serve hereunder in any county or city and county shall be made by the probation committee of said county or city and county from discreet citizens of good moral character. The appointments by each probation committee shall be made in writing, signed by a majority of the members of such committee, and filed with the county clerk of such county, and shall be subject to and shall take effect upon approval by the judge of the superior court appointing such committee, or by a majority of the judges thereof if there be more than one; such approval to be by order entered in the minutes of said court. The term of office of probation officers and of deputy probation officers shall be two years from the date of the said approval of their several appointments, such probation officers and deputy probation officers may at any time be removed by the judge approving their appointment in his discretion. [Amendment, Stats. 1905, 806.]

§ 13. It shall be the duty of the clerk of any court before which a child is brought under the provisions of this act, or if there be no clerk, then it shall be the duty of the judge or justice of said court, before the hearing of said matter, to notify the probation officer of the county thereof; except in cases where the child is brought before the court by a society, association or corporation which embraces within its objects the care of dependent or delinquent children and which has in the last report thereon by the probation committee of such county been favorably passed upon. [Amendment, Stats. 1905, 806.]

§ 14. The probation officer or deputy probation officer detailed by him for that purpose, shall inquire into the child's antecedents, character, history, family environment and cause of delinquency or dependency, and shall make his report in writing to the judge or justice in the case of every child to be dealt with under the provisions of this act as a dependent or delinquent child; but only when the judge so specially orders it in the case of a dependent child who is already in the charge of a society, association or corporation which embraces within its objects the care of dependent children and which has in the last report thereon by the probation committee of such county been favorably passed upon. In the event that such a society, association or corporation shall be so in charge, it shall through its agent or superintendent make such report to the judge in place of the probation officer.

It shall be the duty of said probation officer or said deputy probation officer or said agent or superintendent of such society, association or corporation to be present in court in order to represent the interests of the child when the case is heard, and to furnish to the court such information and assistance as it may require and to make the said report at such time; and to take such charge of the child before and after the hearing as may be ordered.

The probation officer and each deputy probation officer shall have as to any child committed to the care of such probation officer, the powers of a police officer. At any time in his discretion such officer or deputy may bring such child before the court committing such child to his care, for such further or other action as the court may see fit.

Any of the duties of the probation officer may be performed by a deputy probation officer, and shall be performed by him whenever detailed to perform the same by the probation officer; and it shall be the duty of the probation officer to see that the deputy probation officer performs his duties. [New section added, Stats. 1905, 806.]

§ 15. If any child is arrested and taken before a justice of the peace or police judge, then at any time before the child is found delinquent and a commitment thereunder issues, it may be detained under order of the court in any detention home provided for that purpose by any county or city and county; or it may be otherwise provided for as the court sees fit in any manner provided herein for the care of a child after the finding of its delinquency. If, after a hearing, any child shall be found to be delinquent by such court, the justice of the peace or police judge may continue the further hearing from time to time, and may at any time commit the child to the care and custody of a probation officer and may allow such to remain in the home of such child, subject to the visitation of a probation officer, and such child shall report to the probation officer as often as may be required and be subject to be returned to the court for further proceedings whenever such action may appear to be necessary or desirable. If the justice of the peace or police judge at any time deems it necessary or to the best interests of the child that he should be committed to a state reform school or to the care or custody of some association, society or corporation embracing in its objects the care of neglected, dependent, or delinquent children, or should be placed in a suitable family home, or that a guardian should be appointed for such child, the justice of the peace or police judge shall certify the case with a transcript of the docket or other record to the clerk of the superior court of the county or city and county in which the justices' court or police court is held, and the officer having the child in charge shall take the child before the superior court, and thereupon the superior court may proceed to hear and dispose of the case in the same manner as if the child had been brought before the court on petition as herein provided for dependent children. In such case the court shall require notice to be given and investigation to be made as in other cases under this act, and may adjourn the hearing from time to time for that purpose. [New section added, Stats. 1905, 806.]

§ 16. In the case of a child alleged to be delinquent, within the meaning of this act, and brought before the superior court at any time before the child is found delinquent and a commitment thereunder issues, it may be detained under order of the court in any detention home provided for that purpose by any county or city and county; or it may be otherwise provided for as the court sees fit in any manner provided herein for the care of a child after the finding of its delinquency. If the court find the child to be delinquent, said court may continue the hearing from time to time, and may at any time commit the child to the care or custody of the probation officer, and may allow such child to remain in the home of such child, subject to the visitation of a probation officer, and such child shall report to the probation officer as often as may be required, and be subject to be returned to the court for further proceedings whenever such action may appear necessary or desirable, or the court may commit the child to the care or custody of the probation officer, to be placed in a suitable family home, subject to the supervision of such probation officer and the further order of the court, or it may authorize the probation officer to board out the child in some suitable family home in case provision is made by voluntary contribution, or otherwise, for the payment of the board of such child, until a suitable provision may be made for the child in a home without such payment; or the court may commit the child for such time during its minority, as the court may deem fit, to the care and custody of some association, society or corporation that will receive it, embracing within its objects the care of dependent or delinquent children; or the court may commit such child to a state reform school, as is now, or may hereafter be provided by law in accordance with the procedure provided by law for such commitment. Provided, further, that should the legislative body of the county, or city and county, or of a municipality, provide a suitable place for the detention of said dependent and delinquent children, which they are hereby authorized to do, such children may be committed thereto after the adjudication of dependency or delinquency for a definite period to be specified in such order. The court may thereafter set aside, change or modify such order, and may provide for a further detention in said place. Any order providing for the custody of a dependent or delinquent child may provide that the expense of maintenance of said child shall be paid by the parent or parents, or guardian, of said child, and in such case shall determine the amount so to be paid, and shall determine whether or not the parent or parents shall exercise any control over said child and the extent thereof, and any disobedience of such order or interference with the custody of the child as therein determined by a parent or guardian having notice of the proceedings or of the order shall constitute a contempt of court. The court may thereafter set aside, change or modify any order herein provided for. [New section added, Stats. 1905, 806.]

§ 17. No court or magistrate shall commit a child under twelve years of age to jail, prison or police station, but if such child is unable to give bail, it may be committed to the care of the sheriff, police officer, constable or probation officer, who shall keep such child in some suitable place provided by the city, county, or city and county, outside of the inclosure of any jail or police station. When any child shall be sentenced to confinement in any institution to which adult convicts or prisoners are sentenced or where adults are confined, it shall be unlawful to confine such child in the same room or yard or inclosure with such adult convicts or prisoners, or to permit such child to come or remain within sight of or meet or come into or remain in the presence of any of such adult convicts or prisoners. [New section added, Stats. 1905, 806.]

§ 18. Nothing in this act shall be construed to repeal any portion of the act entitled "An act to establish a state reform school for juvenile offenders, and to make an appropriation therefor," approved March eleven, eighteen hundred and eighty-nine, or any of the amendments thereto, or the act entitled "An act to establish the California Home for the Care and Training of Feeble-Minded Children, and provide for the maintenance of the same," approved March eighteen, eighteen hundred and eighty-five, or any of the amendments thereto, or the act entitled "An act to establish a school of industry, and provide for the maintenance and management of the same and to make an appropriation therefor," approved March eleven, eighteen hundred and eighty-nine, or any of the amendments thereto; and in all commitments to said institutions, the acts in reference to said institutions shall govern the same. [New section added, Stats. 1905, 806.]

§ 19. No record of or testimony concerning any proceedings against any child under this act shall be admissible as evidence against such child in any other court or proceeding, except in proceedings under this act, and except in guardianship or adoption proceedings relating to said child. [New section added, Stats. 1905, 806.]

§ 20. This act shall be liberally construed, to the end that its purpose may be carried out, to wit—that the care, custody and discipline of a child shall approximate as nearly as may be that which should be given by its parents, and in all cases where it can be properly done, the child be placed in an approved family, with people of the same religious belief and become a member of the family by legal adoption, or otherwise. In this act, words used in any gender shall include all other genders, and the word "county" shall include "city and county." [New section added, Stats. 1905, 806.]

§ 21. All acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act are hereby repealed, except as hereinabove provided in section nineteen [eighteen].— [New section added, Stats. 1905, 806.]

The foregoing act purports to amend Stats. 1903, 44, but in reality it entirely supersedes and leaves nothing of former act in force.

CHILDREN—HOURS OF LABOR, ETC.

Regulating the employment and hours of labor of children; prohibiting the employment of minors under certain ages; prohibiting the employment of certain illiterate minors; providing for the enforcement hereof by the commissioner of the bureau of labor statistics and providing penalties for the violation hereof.

(Stat. 1905, 11, ch. XVIII.)

§ 1. No minor under the age of eighteen shall be employed in laboring in any manufacturing, mechanical, or mercantile establishment, or other place of labor, more than nine hours in one day, except when it is necessary to make repairs to prevent the interruption of the ordinary running of the machinery, or when a different apportionment of the hours of labor is made for the sole purpose of making a shorter day's work for one day of the week; and in no case shall the hours of labor exceed fifty-four hours in a week.

§ 2. No minor under the age of sixteen years shall be employed or permitted to work in any mercantile institution, office, laundry, manufacturing establishment, or workshop, between the hours of ten o'clock in the evening and six o'clock in the morning.

No child under fourteen years of age shall be employed in any mercantile institution, office, laundry, manufacturing establishment, workshop, restaurant, hotel, apartment house, or in the distribution or transmission of merchandise or messages.

Provided that the judge of the juvenile court of the county, or city and county, or in any county or city and county in which there is no juvenile court, then any judge of the superior court of the county, or city and county in which such child resides, shall have authority to issue a permit to work to any such child over the age of twelve years, upon a sworn statement being made to him by the parent of such child that such child is past the age of twelve years, that the parents or parent of such child are incapacitated for labor, through illness, and after investigation by a probation officer or truant officer of the city, or city and county, in which such child resides, or in cities and counties where there are no probation or truant officers, then by such other competent persons as the judge may designate for this purpose. The permit so issued shall specify the kind of labor and the time for which it is issued, and shall in no case be issued for a longer period than shall seem necessary to the judge issuing such permit. Such permit shall be kept on file by the person, firm or corporation employing the child therein designated, during the term of said employment, and shall be given up to said child upon his quitting such employment. Such certificate shall be always open to the inspection of the truant and probation officers of the city and county, city or county, in which the place of employment is situated or of the officers of the state bureau of labor statistics.

And provided that any such child, over the age of twelve years, may be employed at any of the occupations mentioned in this act during the regular vacation of the public schools of the city, county, or city and county in which the place of employment is situated, upon the production of a permit signed by the principal of the school which such child has attended during the term next preceding any such vacation. Such permit shall contain the name and age of the child to whom it is issued, and the date of the termination of the vacation for which it is issued, and shall be kept on file by the employer during the period of employment, and at the termination of such employment shall be returned to the child to whom it was issued.

No minor who is under sixteen years of age shall be employed or permitted to work at any gainful occupation during the hours that the public schools of the city, town, or school district in which his place of employment is situated are in session, unless he or she can read English at sight and can write legibly and correctly simple English sentences, or unless he or she is a regular attendant for the then current term at a regularly conducted night school. A certificate of the principal of such school shall be held to be sufficient evidence of such attendance.

§ 3. Every person, firm, or corporation employing minors under eighteen years of age, in any manufacturing establishment, shall post, and keep posted, in a conspicuous place in every room where such help is employed, a written or printed notice stating the number of hours per day for each day of the week required of such persons.

Every person, firm, corporation, agent or officer of a firm or corporation employing or permitting minors under sixteen years and over fourteen years of age to work in any mercantile institution, office, laundry, manufacturing establishment, workshop, restaurant, hotel, apartment house, or in the distribution or transmission of merchandise or messages, shall keep a record of the names, ages, and places of residence of such minors, and shall have on file a certificate of age and schooling, as provided in this act, for every such minor so employed, said record and certificate to be open at all times to the inspection of those whose duty it is to enforce the provisions of the act.

An age and schooling certificate shall be approved only by the superintendent of schools of the city or city and county, or by a person authorized by him, in writing, or where there is no city or city and county superintendent of schools, by a person authorized by the local school trustees; provided that the superintendent or principal of any school of recognized standing shall have the right to approve an age and schooling certificate, and shall have the same rights and powers as the superintendent of public schools to issue the certificate herein provided, for children attending such schools. The persons authorized to issue age and schooling certificates shall have the authority to administer the oaths necessary for carrying out the provisions of this act, but no fee shall be charged for issuing such certificates.

An age and schooling certificate shall not be approved unless satisfactory evidence is furnished by the last school census, the certificate of birth or baptism of such child, the public register of birth of such child, or in some other manner, that such child is of the age stated in the certificate.

A duplicate copy of each age and schooling certificate granted under the provisions of this act shall be kept by the person issuing such certificate, such copy to be filed with the county superintendent of schools in the county where the certificate was issued, provided that all such copies of certificates issued between June twenty-fifth and December twenty-fifth of any year shall be filed not later than December thirty-first of such year, and those issued between December twenty-fifth and June twenty-fifth of the ensuing year shall be filed not later than June thirtieth of each year. Such certificate shall be substantially in the following form, to wit:

Every person authorized to sign the certificate prescribed by this act, who knowingly certifies to any false statement therein, is guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not less than five nor more than fifty dollars, or imprisoned not more than thirty days, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

§ 4. Any person, firm, corporation, agent, or officer of a firm or corporation that violates or omits to comply with any of the foregoing provisions of this act, or that employs, or suffers, or permits any minor to be employed in violation thereof, is guilty of a misdemeanor and shall, on conviction thereof be punished by a fine of not less than fifty dollars or more than two hundred dollars, or by imprisonment for not more than sixty days, or by both such fine and imprisonment, for each and every offense. A failure to produce any age and schooling certificate or permit, or to post any notice required by this act, shall be prima facie evidence of the illegal employment of any person whose age and schooling certificate or permit is not produced, or whose name is not so posted. Any fine collected under the provisions of this act shall be paid into the school funds of the county, or city and county, in which the offense occurred.

§ 5. Nothing in this act shall be construed to prohibit the employment of minors at agricultural, horticultural, viticultural or domestic labor, during the time the public schools are not in session, or during other than school hours.

§ 1. Unless excused as hereinafter provided, each parent, guardian, or other person, in the state of California, having control or charge of any child between the ages of eight and fourteen years, shall be required to send such child to a public school, during the time in which a public school shall be in session, in the city or city and county or school district in which said child resides; provided, that should it be shown to the satisfaction of the board of education of the city or city and county, or of the board of trustees of the school district, in which such child resides, that the child's bodily or mental condition is such as to prevent or render inadvisable attendance at school, or application to study, a certificate from any reputable physician that the child is not able to attend school, or that its attendance is inadvisable, must be taken as satisfactory evidence, by any such board, or that such child is being taught in a private school, or by a private tutor, or at home by any person capable of teaching, in such branches as are usually taught in the primary and grammar schools of this state; or that any such child between the age of twelve and fourteen years has been given a permit to work by the proper judicial officer in accordance with section two of "An act regulating the employment and hours of labor of children, prohibiting the employment of minors under certain ages, prohibiting the employment of certain illiterate minors, providing for the enforcement hereof by the commissioner of the bureau of labor statistics and providing penalties for the violation thereof," approved February twenty, nineteen hundred and five; or that no public school is located within two miles, by the nearest traveled road, of the residence of the child; or that the child has completed the prescribed grammar school course; then it shall be the duty of such board of education or board of trustees, upon application of the parent, or guardian, or other person having the control or charge of such child, to excuse such child from attendance at school, during the continuance of such defect or condition upon which such excuse is granted; and provided further, that circumstances rendering attendance impracticable or dangerous to health, owing to unusual storm or other sufficient cause, shall work an exemption from the penalties of this act. If any parent or guardian or other person having control or charge of any such child presents proof to such board of education or board of trustees, by affidavit, that he is unable to compel such child to attend school, said parent, guardian, or other person shall be exempt from the penalties of this act, as regards the subsequent non-attendance at school of such child, and said child may, in the discretion of such board, be deemed a truant and subject to assignment to the parental school. [Amendment, Stats. 1905, 388.]

§ 2. Any parent, guardian, or other person having control or charge of any such child, who shall fail to comply with the provisions of this act, shall, unless excused or exempted therefrom as hereinbefore provided, be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction, shall be liable, for the first offense, to a fine of not more than ten dollars or to imprisonment for not more than five days, and for each subsequent offense he shall be liable to a fine of not less than ten nor more than fifty dollars, or to imprisonment for not less than five days nor more than twenty-five days, or to both such fine and imprisonment.

§ 3. The board of education of any city or city and county, or the board of trustees of any school district, shall, on the complaint of any person, make full and impartial investigation of all charges against parents or guardians or other persons having control or charge of any such child, for violation of any of the provisions of this act. If it shall appear upon such investigation that any such parent or guardian or other person has violated any of the provisions of this act, it is hereby made the duty of the secretary of such board of education, except as hereinafter provided, or the clerk of such board of trustees, to make and file in the proper court a criminal complaint against such parent, guardian or other person, charging such violation, and to see that such charge is prosecuted by the proper authorities; provided, that in cities, and cities and counties having an attendance officer or officers, such officer or officers shall, under the direction of the board of education, or the city superintendent of schools, make and file such complaint, and see that such charge is prosecuted by the proper authorities.

§ 4. The board of education of any city, or city and county, may appoint and remove at pleasure one or more attendance officers of such city, or city and county, and shall fix their compensation, not exceeding one thousand dollars per annum for any such officer, payable from the county or special school fund of such city or city and county, and shall prescribe their duties, not inconsistent with law, and make rules and regulations for the performance thereof; provided, that in any city, or city and county, containing less than twenty thousand school census children, not more than one attendance officer shall be appointed, and in any city, or city and county, containing more than twenty thousand school census children, not more than one attendance officer shall be appointed for each twenty thousand school census children, or fraction greater than one half thereof.

§ 5. It shall be the duty of the attendance officer to arrest during school hours, without warrant, any child between eight and fourteen years of age, found away from his home, and who has been reported to him by the teacher, the superintendent of schools, or other person connected with the school department as a truant from instruction upon which he is lawfully required to attend within the city, or city and county. He shall forthwith deliver the child so arrested either to the parent, guardian or other person having control or charge of such child, or to the teacher from whom said child is then a truant, or if such child shall have been declared an habitual truant, he shall bring such child before a magistrate for commitment by him to a parental school, as provided in this act. The attendance officer shall report promptly such arrest, and the disposition made by him of such child, to the school authorities of such city, or city and county. Any child may be reported as a truant, in the meaning of this act, who shall have been absent from school without valid excuse more than three days or tardy on more than three days, any absence for a part of a day being regarded as a tardiness. Any child who has once been reported as a truant and who is again absent from school, without valid excuse, one or more days, or tardy on one or more days, may again be reported as a truant. Any child may be deemed an habitual truant who shall have been reported as a truant three or more times. Any child who has once been declared an habitual truant and who, in a succeeding year, is reported as a truant from school one or more days or tardy on one or more days without valid excuse, may be again declared an habitual truant.

§ 6. The board of education of any city, or city and county, may establish schools in a manner hereinafter prescribed, or set apart rooms in public school buildings for children between eight and fourteen years of age, who are habitual truants from instruction upon which they are lawfully required to attend, or who are insubordinate or disorderly during their attendance upon such instruction, or irregular in such attendance. Such school or room shall be known as a parental school. A parental school, as herein designated and provided for, shall be one of the primary and grammar schools of the city, or city and county, and the teachers therein shall have the same qualifications and be employed and paid in the same manner as in other primary and grammar schools; but such parental school shall be established and maintained specially for the instruction therein of such pupils, between the ages of eight and fourteen years, as shall be committed thereto as provided in this act, and no pupil shall be committed to, or required to attend, such school, except as in this act provided. Said board of education may make such special rules and regulations for the government of a parental school as shall be consistent with the provisions and purposes of this act and not contrary to law. Such board may provide for the detention, maintenance and instruction of such children in such schools; and such board or the city superintendent of schools in any city, or city and county, may, after reasonable notice to any such child, and an opportunity for the child to be heard, and with the consent of the parent, guardian or other person having control or charge of such child, order such child to attend such school, or to be detained and maintained therein for such period and under such rules and regulations as such board may prescribe, not exceeding the remainder of the school year. If such parent, guardian, or person having control or charge of such child shall not consent to such order, such child may be proceeded against under this act. If any child, in any city, or city and county in which a parental school shall be established, shall be an habitual truant, or be irregular in attendance at school, within the meaning of these terms as defined in this act, or shall be insubordinate or disorderly during attendance at school, it shall be the duty of the attendance officer, or of the secretary of the board of education if there be no attendance officer, to make and file a complaint against such child, in the proper court, charging the fact, and to see that such charge is prosecuted by the proper authority; and if the court, upon the hearing of such complaint, shall find that such charge is sustained, the court shall render judgment that such child be committed to, and be detained and maintained in, a parental school in such city, or city and county, for a term not to exceed the remainder of the current school year; provided, that if the parent, guardian or other person having control or charge of such child shall, within three days after the rendition of such judgment, execute a good and sufficient bond to the board of education of the city or city and county in which said court is situated, with sufficient sureties, in the sum of two hundred dollars, conditioned that such child will, during the remainder of such current school year, regularly attend some public or private school in such city, or city and county, and not be insubordinate or disorderly during such attendance, such bond to be approved by the judge of said court and be filed with the secretary of the board of education, then such court shall make an order suspending the execution of such judgment so long as the condition of such bond shall be complied with. If the condition of such bond be violated, such court, upon receiving satisfactory evidence of the fact in any action brought therefor, shall make an order declaring such bond forfeited and directing such judgment to be thenceforth enforced. Such board of education may, at any time within one year after any such bond shall be declared forfeited, have execution issued against any or all of the parties to such bond, to collect the amount thereof; and all moneys paid or collected on such bond shall be paid over to the parental school fund of such city, or city and county. No fees shall be charged or received by any court or officer in any proceeding under this section. The confinement of any child in a parental school shall be conducted with a view to the improvement of the child and to its restoration, as soon as practicable, to the school which he would, if not so confined, be required to attend. The city superintendent of schools, or, if there be no city superintendent, the board of education of any city, or city and county, shall have authority, in their discretion, to parole at any time any child committed to, or ordered to attend, a parental school, except when such commitment shall be by judgment or order of a court; and when such commitment of any child shall be by judgment or order of a court, such court may, on the recommendation of the city superintendent of schools, or the board of education, make an order paroling such child, upon such terms and conditions as shall be specified in the order. The expense incurred by any city, or city and county, in purchasing or renting a school site, erecting or renting a building and equipping the same, for the maintenance of a parental school, shall be paid out of funds other than those collected for the maintenance of schools. The salaries of teachers and the expense for all school supplies in a parental school shall be paid out of the same funds from which similar salaries and expense are paid for primary and grammar schools, but all other expense incurred in the maintenance of such parental schools shall be paid out of the parental school fund.

§ 7. Whenever any board of education shall determine that it is necessary or expedient for the city or city and county to establish and maintain a parental school, said board shall furnish to the city council, or other governing body of such city or city and county, all necessary and required information and statistics, and if, after consideration, such city council or other governing body grants its consent for the establishment of such parental school, then the board of education shall furnish to the authorities whose duty it is to levy taxes in such city, or city and county, thirty days before the time specified by law for fixing the annual tax rate, an estimate of the cost of purchasing or renting a suitable site, and also an estimate of the cost of renting or erecting a suitable building and equipping the same for occupancy as a parental school, and the cost to the city or city and county, other than for salaries of teachers and for school supplies, of conducting the school for the remainder of the current school year. When, pursuant to such consent by such governing body, such estimates shall have been so made and furnished by the board of education of any city, or city and county, it is hereby made the duty of the authorities whose duty it shall be to levy taxes in such city, or city and county, at the time of levying the taxes, to levy a special tax upon all taxable property of said city, or city and county, sufficient in its judgment to provide the facilities requested by the board of education, and for which such estimates shall have been so furnished. It shall be the duty of the board of education, yearly, thereafter, to present to the authorities of the city, or city and county, whose duty it is to levy taxes, on or before the first Monday in July, an estimate of the moneys required for conducting the parental school for the school year, other than for the salaries of teachers and for school supplies. When such estimate shall have been so presented, it shall be the duty of the said authorities to levy a special tax upon the taxable property of said city, or city and county, sufficient to maintain such school for the year, exclusive of salaries of teachers and expense of school supplies. All taxes in this act provided for shall be computed, entered upon the tax roll and collected, in the same manner as other taxes are computed, entered and collected, and when collected shall be placed in a separate fund, to be known as the "parental school fund," and shall be paid out on the order of the board of education for the purposes set forth in this act; provided, that all moneys so collected for the purchase of sites or buildings, or the erection or equipment of buildings for parental school purposes, shall be placed in a separate fund, to be known as the "parental school building fund," and shall be used solely for the purpose or purposes for which collected, except that after such purpose or purposes shall have been fully accomplished, the residue of such fund, if any, may be transferred to said parental school fund.

§ 8. Two or more school districts or cities may unite in the following manner, to form a joint district for the maintenance of a joint parental school. When any board of education or board of school trustees has secured, in the manner as set forth in section seven of this act, the consent of the legislative body of the city or school district, in which said board of education or board of school trustees holds office, for the union of two or more districts to form a joint parental school district, said board of education or board of trustees shall transmit such information to the board of supervisors of the county of which said city or school district or districts forms a part, setting forth at the same time the cities or districts with which said city or district seeks to unite for the maintenance of a joint parental school. When such information has been received by the board of supervisors from all the cities or school districts seeking to be united, it is hereby made the duty of the board of supervisors, by resolution, to declare such cities or school districts united for the maintenance of a joint parental school, to be known as the joint parental school district of (give the names of the school districts uniting). When the districts have been so united, the boards of education or boards of trustees of the cities or school districts so uniting shall appoint a board of trustees for the joint parental school district, to consist of five members, (unless the number of cities or school districts uniting exceeds five), who shall be appointed from the membership of the boards of the several districts or cities uniting, by the respective boards in approximate proportion to the census children between five and seventeen years of age, in the districts uniting; provided however, that each district shall be represented by at least one member on the board of trustees of the joint parental school district. The members so appointed, to serve for the remainder of the term of office for which they were elected on their respective boards of education or boards of trustees, and when vacancies occur on said board of trustees of joint parental school districts, they shall be filled by the board making the original appointment. The superintendent of schools of each of the cities or school districts uniting, shall be ex officio members of the board of trustees of the joint parental school district, without the right to vote. In the management of a parental school within a school district, city, or city and county, the right to transport pupils to and from school at public expense, when, in the judgment of the board of education, or board of school trustees, the interest of the pupil demands it, is hereby conferred upon such boards. All the powers and duties by any section of this act conferred or imposed upon the boards of school trustees or boards of education of any city, or city and county, in the management of, and the securing of, funds for a parental school within a city or school district, are hereby conferred upon and imposed upon the board of trustees of any joint parental school district in the management of and the securing of funds for the support of a joint parental school; provided however, that in estimating the expense of maintenance of a joint parental school the amount of money needed for the payment of teachers' salaries and for the furnishing of school supplies, shall be included in the estimate of expenses; and provided further, that the estimates shall be transmitted to the board of supervisors of the county of which the joint parental school district forms a part. When such estimates shall have been so transmitted, it is hereby made the duty of the board of supervisors to levy a special tax upon the taxable property within the boundaries of the joint parental school district, sufficient to provide the facilities requested by the board of trustees of the joint parental school district, and for which such estimate shall have been furnished, and yearly thereafter when the estimates of the total expense of the maintenance of the joint parental school and increased facilities shall have been furnished the board of supervisors, it shall be the duty of said board to levy a special tax sufficient to maintain the school for the year. All taxes in this act provided shall be computed and entered upon the tax roll and collected in the manner prescribed for the collection of taxes in section seven of this act; provided, that all moneys so collected shall be collected by the county tax collector and apportioned to the credit of the joint parental school district, and placed in the fund for which they were specially collected. If for sites or buildings, to be placed in a fund known as the joint parental school building fund, to be used exclusively for the purposes for which they were collected, the same as set forth in section seven of this act. The board of trustees of joint parental school districts shall organize, by the election of one of their number as chairman, and by the election of a secretary who shall be the city superintendent of schools, or the secretary of a board of education or the clerk of one of the boards of education or boards of trustees of the cities, or school districts united, and such secretary shall serve without additional salary. All moneys in a joint parental school fund shall be paid out on the order of the board of trustees of the joint parental school district for the purposes herein set forth, and in the same manner that funds are paid from the ordinary school funds of a school district.

§ 9. All fines paid as penalties for the violation of any of the provisions of this act shall, when collected or received, be paid over by the justice or officer receiving the same to the treasurer of the city, or city and county, in which the offense was committed, to be placed to the credit of the parental school fund of such city, or city and county, if there be such a fund, otherwise to the credit of the general school fund of such city, or city and county, or to the county treasurer, to be placed to the credit of the school fund of the school district in which the offense was committed.

§ 10. Any parent or guardian of any deaf, dumb, or blind child, legally entitled to admission to said institution, shall send such child to said institution until such child shall have been therein for five years, or shall have reached the age of majority, unless such child shall be excused from such attendance by the board of education or board of trustees of the city, city and county, or school district in which such child resides, for the reason that the child's bodily or mental condition is such as to prevent or render inadvisable attendance at said institution, or for the reason that such child is receiving proper instruction at home or in some public or private school. Any parent or guardian failing to comply with the requirements of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and be punishable as provided in section two of this act.

§ 11. Any justice of the peace, or recorder of the city or city and county or any justice of the peace of the township in which the school district is located, or in which the offense is committed, shall have jurisdiction of all offenses committed under the provisions of this act.

§ 12. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after July first, nineteen hundred and three.

In case of a vacancy in said commission, by death or resignation, removal or otherwise, a successor to fill such vacancy, for the unexpired term, shall be appointed in like manner.

§ 4. The secretary of state shall, after the appointment of such commissioner, immediately notify such appointee thereof, and issue to such appointee a commission under the great seal of this state, notifying him of the passage of said act, and of his appointment by the governor. Such appointee shall, upon receiving said notice of his appointment, if he accept the same, take and subscribe an oath of office, which shall be filed in the office of the secretary of state, and shall, on the first day of May, nineteen hundred and three, enter upon the discharge of his duties.

§ 5. Said commissioner shall select and adopt a suitable seal for the authentication of his acts, records, and proceedings. He shall select and appoint a stenographer, who shall act as secretary of said commission, to hold office during the pleasure of said commissioner, who shall assist in the work to be performed and under the supervision of the commissioner.

§ 6. 1. It shall be the duty of said commissioner to revise and examine the parts of the Code of Civil Procedure, the Political Code, the Civil Code, and the Penal Code of the State of California, not already revised, under the provisions of an act of which this act is amendatory; to note all decisions of the supreme court upon sections of the codes herein specified, and to present to the legislature, at its next session, all sections of the codes which have been declared unconstitutional and have, for any reason, been declared by the supreme court as inoperative; and to suggest any such legislation as will remedy defects in existing laws by reason of decisions of the supreme court or otherwise; to make and compile an index of all the laws of California, not already completed by the present commission; and to revise and compile a new county government act, in accordance with and having regard to decisions of the supreme court thereon.

2. To revise and examine all the statutes of this state that have been or shall hereafter be passed by the legislature thereof and published by the state.

3. He shall ascertain, determine, and designate, according to his best judgment, those statutes now in force, and those expressly or by implication repealed, and report the same to the next legislature.

4. He shall note and designate the errors, defects, or omissions, verbal, grammatical, or otherwise, and suggest what will be necessary to supply, correct, or amend the same, and such improvements as shall introduce precision and clearness into the wording of the codes and statutes.

5. All or any of the reports, records, or proceedings of said commission shall be printed by the state printer, on the requisition of said commissioner, when so ordered and directed by said commissioner.

6. Said commissioner shall have the power to order the state printer to print and deliver to him such number as said commissioner may designate of any report, record, or proceedings of said commission.

7. Said commissioner, shall attend at the capital, during the sitting of said session of the legislature, and act as legislative counsel or adviser, in drafting or passing upon the form of any bill, or proposed bill, pending or to be introduced before the legislature; and also, when requested, give advice to said legislature, or such committee, as to the form of any proposed legislation, and its effect upon existing laws, and as to whether said bill, as drawn and presented, is so constructed and worded as to carry out the purpose intended, and shall advise as to the constitutionality thereof.

8. Thirty days prior to every session of the legislature, said commissioner shall make and file with the secretary of state a report of his transactions relating to legislative matters, or which would give any information or knowledge to said legislature as to legislation in the past, and as to the policy for future legislation. And he shall also report to said legislature such suggestions as he may deem proper for the promotion of the public welfare and the best interests of the state, or any locality or citizens thereof, and file therewith schedules or exhibits, showing the form or substance of all proposed legislation which he may recommend. And he shall suggest all such improvements as shall conduce to precision and clearness in the wording of the codes and statutes, and propose such measures as may be necessary to improve or give unity and completeness to the system of the laws of this state. Said reports, schedules, and exhibits shall be printed by the state printer, upon the requisition and under the supervision of the commissioner. They shall be so printed as to show, in the readiest manner, the changes proposed by the commissioner, and in those cases wherein he shall recommend the repeal of a law, and propose a substitute therefor, such law and substitute shall be printed in the manner most convenient for comparison; and his report, when so printed, shall be mailed to every member who has been elected to sit in such legislature.

9. Said commissioner shall, at all such times as he may designate by rules and regulations which he may adopt, hear in public such printed or oral arguments as may be addressed to him, for or against any proposed or existing legislation, and a record of all proceedings shall be kept and preserved by the secretary of said commission.

§ 7. 1. Said commissioner shall receive for his services, from the state, the sum of thirty-six hundred dollars per annum; such compensation shall be paid in the same manner as the salaries of the justices of the supreme court are now paid.

2. The stenographer of the commission shall receive the sum of one hundred dollars ($100) per month, payable in like manner as the salary is paid to the commissioner.

3. The expenses incurred by said commission, or commissioner, exclusive of salaries, shall be set forth in detail in an itemized statement, and thereupon a requisition shall be made by said commissioner upon the state controller, accompanied by the sworn certificate of the commissioner that the services have been performed and the materials used or things furnished, and that said sums are justly due.

4. Said state controller is hereby directed to draw his warrant on the treasurer for the payment of said salaries, when due and payable, as herein provided, and also for such sums as are covered by said requisitions, and the treasurer is hereby directed to pay the same out of any money not otherwise appropriated.

§ 8. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after the fifteenth day of April, nineteen hundred and three; provided, however, that the commissioners, appointed under the act of March twenty-eighth, eighteen hundred and ninety-five, of which this act is amendatory, shall hold office and perform the duties prescribed by said act, to and including the thirtieth day of April, nineteen hundred and three, and receive the compensation prescribed by said act, of which this act is amendatory.

§ 9. The commission hereby created shall cease to exist and this act shall become inoperative on and after the first day of May, nineteen hundred and seven. [Amendment, Stats. 1905, 403.]

§ 10. All acts and parts of acts in conflict with this act are hereby repealed.

The Statute of 1903, 479, purports to amend the Statute of 1895, 341, but in fact it supersedes the former statute in every section, hence its omission here.

COLLATERAL INHERITANCE TAX.

To establish a tax on gifts, legacies, inheritances, bequests, devises, successions and transfers, to provide for its collection, and to direct the disposition of its proceeds; to provide for the enforcement of liens created by this act and for suits to quiet title against claims of lien arising hereunder; to repeal an act entitled "An act to establish a tax on collateral inheritances, bequests, and devises, to provide for the collection, and to direct the disposition of its proceeds," approved March twenty-three, eighteen hundred and ninety-three, and all amendments thereto, and all acts and parts of acts in conflict with this act.

§ 1. All property which shall pass, by will or by the intestate laws of this state, from any person who may die seized or possessed of the same while a resident of this state, or if such decedent was not a resident of this state at the time of death, which property, or any part thereof, shall be within this state, or any interest therein, or income therefrom, which shall be transferred by deed, grant, sale, or gift, made in contemplation of the death of the grantor, vendor or bargainor, or intended to take effect in possession or enjoyment after such death, to any person or persons, or to any body politic or corporate, in trust or otherwise, or by reason whereof any person or body politic or corporate shall become beneficially entitled, in possession or expectancy, to any property, or to the income thereof, shall be and is subject to a tax hereinafter provided for, to be paid to the treasurer of the proper county, as hereinafter directed, for the use of the state; and such tax shall be and remain a lien upon the property passed or transferred until paid and the person to whom the property passes or is transferred and all administrators, executors, and trustees of every estate so transferred or passed shall be liable for any and all such taxes until the same shall have been paid as hereinafter directed. The tax so imposed shall be upon the market value of such property at the rates hereinafter prescribed and only upon the excess over the exemptions hereinafter granted.

Whenever any person or corporation shall exercise a power of appointment derived from any disposition of property made either before or after the passage of this act, such appointment when made shall be deemed a transfer taxable under the provisions of this act in the same manner as though the property to which such appointment relates belonged absolutely to the donee of such power and had been bequeathed or devised by such donee by will; and whenever any person or corporation possessing such a power of appointment so derived shall omit or fail to exercise the same within the time provided therefor, in whole or in part, a transfer taxable under the provisions of this act shall be deemed to take place to the extent of such omissions or failure, in the same manner as though the persons or corporations thereby becoming entitled to the possession or enjoyment of the property to which such power related had succeeded thereto by a will of the donee of the power failing to exercise such power, taking effect at the time of such omission or failure.

§ 2. When the property or any beneficial interest therein so passed or transferred exceeds in value the exemption hereinafter specified and shall not exceed in value twenty-five thousand dollars the tax hereby imposed shall be:

(1.) Where the person or persons entitled to any beneficial interest in such property shall be the husband, wife, lineal issue, lineal ancestor of the decedent or any child adopted as such in conformity with the laws of this state, or any child to whom such decedent for not less than ten years prior to such transfer stood in the mutually acknowledged relation of a parent, provided, however, such relationship began at or before the child's fifteenth birthday, and was continuous for said ten years thereafter, or any lineal issue of such adopted or mutually acknowledged child, at the rate of one per centum of the clear value of such interest in such property.

(2.) Where the person or persons entitled to any beneficial interest in such property shall be the brother or sister or a descendant of a brother or sister of the decedent, a wife or widow of a son, or the husband of a daughter of the decedent, at the rate of one and one half per centum of the clear value of such interest in such property.

(3.) Where the person or persons entitled to any beneficial interest in such property shall be the brother or sister of the father or mother or a descendant of a brother or sister of the father or mother of the decedent, at the rate of three per centum of the clear value of such interest in such property.

(4.) Where the person or persons entitled to any beneficial interests in such property shall be the brother or sister of the grandfather or grandmother or a descendant of the brother or sister of the grandfather or grandmother of the decedent, at the rate of four per centum of the clear value of such interest in such property.

(5.) Where the person or persons entitled to any beneficial interest in such property shall be in any other degree of collateral consanguinity than is hereinbefore stated, or shall be a stranger in blood to the decedent, or shall be a body politic or corporate, at the rate of five per centum of the clear value of such interest in such property.

§ 3. The foregoing rates in section two are for convenience termed the primary rates. When the market value of such property or interest exceeds twenty-five thousand dollars, the rates of tax upon such excess shall be as follows:

(1.) Upon all in excess of twenty-five thousand dollars and up to fifty thousand dollars, one and one half times the primary rates.

(2.) Upon all in excess of fifty thousand dollars and up to one hundred thousand dollars, two times the primary rates.

(3.) Upon all in excess of one hundred thousand dollars and up to five hundred thousand dollars, two and one half times the primary rates.

(4.) Upon all in excess of five hundred thousand dollars, three times the primary rates.

§ 4. The following exemptions from the tax are hereby allowed:

(1.) All property transferred to societies, corporations, and institutions now or hereafter exempted by law from taxation, or to any public corporation, or to any society, corporation, institution, or association of persons engaged in or devoted to any charitable, benevolent, educational, public, or other like work (pecuniary profit not being its object or purpose), or to any person, society, corporation, institution, or association of persons in trust for or to be devoted to any charitable, benevolent, educational, or public purpose, by reason whereof any such person or corporation shall become beneficially entitled, in possession or expectancy, to any such property or to the income thereof shall be exempt.

(2.) Property of the clear value of ten thousand ($10,000.00) dollars transferred to the widow or to a minor child of the decedent, and of four thousand ($4,000.00) dollars transferred to each of the other persons described in the first subdivision of section two shall be exempt.

(3.) Property of the clear value of two thousand ($2,000.00) dollars transferred to each of the persons described in the second subdivision of section two shall be exempt.

(4.) Property of the clear value of one thousand five hundred ($1,500.00) dollars transferred to each of the persons described in the third subdivision of section two shall be exempt.

(5.) Property of the clear value of one thousand ($1,000.00) dollars transferred to each of the persons described in the fourth subdivision of section two shall be exempt.

(6.) Property of the clear value of five hundred ($500.00) dollars transferred to each of the persons and corporations described in the fifth subdivision of section two shall be exempt.

§ 5. When any grant, gift, legacy, or succession upon which a tax is imposed by section one of this act shall be in estate, income, or interest for a term of years, or for life, or determinable upon any future or contingent event, or shall be a remainder, reversion, or other expectancy, real or personal, the entire property or fund by which such estate, income, or interest is supported, or of which it is a part, shall be appraised immediately after the death of the decedent, and the market value thereof determined, in the manner provided in section fourteen of this act, and the tax prescribed by this act shall be immediately due and payable to the treasurer of the proper county, and, together with the interest thereon, shall be and remain a lien on said property until the same is paid; provided, that the person or persons, or body politic or corporate, beneficially interested in the property chargeable with said tax, may elect not to pay the same until they shall come into the actual possession or enjoyment of such property, and in that case such person or persons, or body politic or corporate, shall execute a bond to the people of the state of California, in a penalty of twice the amount of the tax arising upon personal estate, with such sureties as the said superior court may approve, conditioned for the payment of said tax, and interest thereon, at such time or period as they or their representatives may come into the actual possession or enjoyment of such property, which bond shall be filed in the office of the county clerk of the proper county; provided further, that such person shall make a full and verified return of such property to said court, and file the same in the office of the county clerk within one year from the death of the decedent, and within that period enter into such security, and renew the same every five years.

§ 6. Whenever a decedent appoints or names one or more executors or trustees, and makes a bequest or devise of property to them in lieu of commissions or allowances, which otherwise would be liable to said tax, or appoints them his residuary legatees, and said bequest, devises, or residuary legacies exceed what would be a reasonable compensation for their services, such excess over and above the exemptions herein provided for shall be liable to said tax; and the superior court in which the probate proceedings are pending shall fix the compensation.

§ 7. All taxes imposed by this act, unless otherwise herein provided for, shall be due and payable at the death of the decedent, and if the same are paid within eighteen months, no interest shall be charged and collected thereon, but if not so paid, interest at the rate of ten per centum per annum shall be charged and collected from the time said tax accrued; provided, that if said tax is paid within six months from the accruing thereof a discount of five per centum shall be allowed and deducted from said tax. And in all cases where the executors, administrators, or trustees do not pay such tax within eighteen months from the death of the decedent, they shall be required to give a bond in the form and to the effect prescribed in section five of this act for the payment of said tax, together with interest.

§ 8. The penalty of ten per centum per annum imposed by section seven hereof, for the non-payment of said tax, shall not be charged in cases where, in the judgment of the court, by reason of claims made upon the estate, necessary litigation, or other unavoidable cause of delay, the estate of any decedent, or a part thereof, cannot be settled at the end of eighteen months from the death of the decedent; and in such cases only seven per centum per annum shall be charged upon the said tax from the expiration of said eighteen months until the cause of such delay is removed, after which ten per centum interest per annum shall again be charged until the tax is paid; but litigation to defeat the payment of the tax shall not be considered necessary litigation.

§ 9. Any administrator, executor, or trustee having in charge or trust any legacy or property for distribution, subject to the said tax, shall deduct the tax therefrom, or if the legacy or property be not money he shall collect the tax thereon, upon the market value thereof, from the legatee or person entitled to such property, and he shall not deliver, or be compelled to deliver, any specific legacy or property subject to tax to any person until he shall have collected the tax thereon; and whenever any such legacy shall be charged upon or payable out of real estate, the executor, administrator, or trustee shall collect said tax from the distributee thereof, and the same shall remain a charge on such real estate until paid; if, however, such legacy be given in money to any person for a limited period, the executor, administrator, or trustee shall retain the tax upon the whole amount; but if it be not in money he shall make application to the superior court to make an apportionment, if the case require it, of the sum to be paid into his hands by such legatees, and for such further order relative thereto as the case may require.

§ 10. All executors, administrators, and trustees shall have full power to sell so much of the property of the decedent as will enable them to pay said tax, in the same manner as they may be enabled by law to do for the payment of debts of the estate, and the amount of said tax shall be paid as hereinafter directed.

§ 11. Every sum of money retained by an executor, administrator, or trustee, or paid into his hands, for any tax on property, shall be paid by him, within thirty days thereafter, to the treasurer of the county in which the probate proceedings are pending, and the said treasurer shall give, and every executor, administrator, or trustee shall take, duplicate receipts for such payment, one of which receipts said executor, administrator, or trustee shall immediately send to the controller of the state, whose duty it shall be to charge the treasurer so receiving the tax with the amount thereof, and said controller shall seal said receipt with the seal of his office, and countersign the same, and return it to the executor, administrator, or trustee, whereupon it shall be a proper voucher in the settlement of his accounts; and an executor, administrator, or trustee shall not be entitled to credits in his accounts, nor be discharged from liability for such tax, nor shall said estate be distributed, unless he shall produce a receipt so sealed and countersigned by the controller, or a copy thereof, certified by him, and file the same with the court.

§ 12. Whenever any debts shall be proven against the estate of a decedent after the payment of legacies or distribution of property from which the said tax has been deducted or upon which it has been paid, and a refund is made by the legatee, devisee, heir, or next of kin, a proportion of the tax so deducted or paid shall be repaid to him by the executor, administrator, or trustee, if the said tax has not been paid to the county treasurer or to the state controller, or by them, if it has been so paid.

§ 13. If a foreign executor, administrator or trustee shall assign or transfer any stock or obligations in this state standing in the name of a decedent, or in trust for a decedent, liable to any such tax, the tax shall be paid to the treasurer of the proper county on the transfer thereof. No safe deposit company, trust company, corporation, bank or other institution, person or persons having in possession or under control securities, deposits, or other assets of a decedent, including the shares of the capital stock of, or other interests in, the safe deposit company, trust company, corporation, bank or other institution making the delivery or transfer herein provided, shall deliver or transfer the same to the executors, administrators or legal representatives of said decedent, or upon their order or request, unless notice of the time and place of such intended delivery or transfer be served upon the county treasurer at least ten days prior to said delivery or transfer; nor shall any such safe deposit company, trust company, corporation, bank or other institution, person or persons deliver or transfer any securities, deposits or other assets of the estate of a non-resident decedent including the shares of the capital stock of, or other interests in, the safe deposit company, trust company, corporation, bank or other institution, making the delivery or transfer, without retaining a sufficient portion or amount thereof to pay any tax and penalty which may thereafter be assessed on account of the delivery or transfer of such securities, deposits, or other assets including the shares of the capital stock of or other interests in, the safe deposit company, trust company, corporation, bank or other institution making the delivery or transfer, under the provisions of this act, unless the county treasurer consents thereto in writing. And it shall be lawful for the said county treasurer, personally, or by representative, to examine said securities, deposits or assets at the time of such delivery or transfer. Failure to serve such notice and to allow such examination, and to retain a sufficient portion or amount to pay such tax and penalty as herein provided, shall render said safe deposit company, trust company, corporation, bank or other institution, person or persons liable to the payment of two times the amount of the tax and penalty due or thereafter to become due upon said securities, deposits or other assets, including the shares of the capital stock of, or other interests in, the safe deposit company, trust company, corporation, bank or other institution, making the delivery or transfer; and the payment as herein provided shall be enforced in an action brought in accordance with the provisions of section seventeen of this chapter.

§ 14. When the value of any inheritance, devise, bequest, or other interest subject to the payment of said tax is uncertain, the superior court in which the probate proceedings are pending, on the application of any interested party, or upon its own motion, shall appoint some competent person as appraiser, as often as and whenever occasion may require, whose duty it shall be forthwith to give such notice, by mail, to all persons known to have or claim an interest in such property, and to such persons as the court may by order direct, of the time and place at which he will appraise such property, and at such time and place to appraise the same and make a report thereof, in writing, to said court, together with such other facts in relation thereto as said court may by order require to be filed with the clerk of said court; and from this report the said court shall, by order, forthwith assess and fix the market value of all inheritances, devises, bequests, or other interests, and the tax to which the same is liable, and shall immediately cause notice thereof to be given, by mail, to all parties known to be interested therein; and the value of every future or contingent or limited estate, income, or interest shall, for the purposes of this act, be determined by the rule, method, and standards of mortality and of value that are set forth in the actuaries' combined experience tables of mortality for ascertaining the value of policies of life insurance and annuities, and for the determination of the liabilities of life insurance companies, save that the rate of interest to be assessed in computing the present value of all future interests and contingencies shall be five per centum per annum; and the insurance commissioner shall, on the application of said court, determine the value of such future or contingent or limited estate, income, or interest, upon the facts contained in such report, and certify the same to the court, and his certificate shall be conclusive evidence that the method of computation adopted therein is correct. The said appraiser shall be paid by the county treasurer out of any funds that he may have in his hands on account of said tax, on presentation of a sworn itemized account and on the certificate of the court, at the rate of five dollars per day for every day actually and necessarily employed in said appraisement, together with his actual and necessary traveling expenses.

§ 15. Any appraiser appointed by virtue of this act who shall take any fee or reward from any executor, administrator, trustee, legatee, next of kin, or heir of any decedent, or from any other person liable to pay said tax, or any portion thereof, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not less than two hundred and fifty dollars nor more than five hundred dollars, or imprisoned in the county jail ninety days, or both, and in addition thereto the court shall dismiss him from such service.

§ 16. The superior court in the county in which is situate the real property of a decedent who was not a resident of the state, or if there be no real property, then in the county in which any of the personal property of such non-resident is situate, or in the county of which the decedent was a resident at the time of his death, shall have jurisdiction to hear and determine all questions in relation to the tax arising under the provisions of this act, and the court first acquiring jurisdiction hereunder shall retain the same, to the exclusion of every other.

§ 17. If it shall appear to the superior court, or judge thereof, that any tax accruing under this act has not been paid according to law, it shall issue a citation, citing the persons known to own any interest in or part of the property liable to the tax or any person or corporation liable under the law for the payment of said tax to appear before the court on a day certain, not more than ten weeks after the date of such citation, and show cause why said tax should not be paid. The service of such citation, and the time, manner, and proof thereof, and the hearing and determination thereon, and the enforcement of the determination or decree, shall conform to the provisions of chapter twelve, of title eleven, of part three of the Code of Civil Procedure; and the clerk of the court shall, upon the request of the district attorney or treasurer of the county, furnish, without fee, one or more transcripts of such decree, and the same shall be docketed and filed by the county clerk of any county in the state, without fee, in the same manner and with the same effect as provided by section six hundred and seventy-four of said Code of Civil Procedure for filing a transcript of an original docket.

§ 18. Whenever the treasurer of any county shall have reason to believe that any tax is due and unpaid under this act, after the refusal or neglect of the persons interested in the property liable to said tax to pay the same, he shall notify the district attorney of the proper county, in writing, of such failure to pay such tax, and the district attorney so notified, if he have probable cause to believe a tax is due and unpaid, shall prosecute the proceeding in the superior court, as provided in section seventeen of this act, for the enforcement and collection of such tax.

§ 19. The controller of state shall furnish to each county clerk a book, which shall be a public record, and in which he shall enter the name of every decedent upon whose estate an application has been made to the superior court for the issuance of letters of administration, or letters testamentary, or ancillary letters, the date and place of death of such decedent, the estimated value of his real and personal property, the names, places of residence, and relationship to him of his heirs at law, the names and places of residence of the legatees and devisees in any will of any such decedent, the amount of each legacy and the estimated value of any real property devised therein, and to whom devised. These entries shall be made from the data contained in the papers filed on any such application, or in any proceeding relating to the estate of the decedent. The county clerk shall also enter in such book the amount of personal property of any such decedent, as shown by the inventory thereof when made and filed in his office, and the returns made by any appraiser appointed by the court under this statute, and the value of annuities, life estates, terms of years, and other property of such decedent, or given by him in his will or otherwise, as fixed by the superior court, and the tax assessed thereon, and the amounts of any receipts for payment of any tax on the estate of such decedent under this statute filed with him. The county clerk shall, on the first day of January, April, July and October of each year make a report, in duplicate, upon forms to be furnished by the controller of state, containing all the data and matters required to be entered in such book, and also of the property from which, or the party from which, he has reason to believe the tax under this act is due and unpaid, one of which shall be immediately delivered to the county treasurer and the other transmitted to the state controller.

§ 20. Whenever the superior court of any county shall certify that there was probable cause for issuing a citation and taking the proceedings specified in section seventeen of this act, the state treasurer shall pay, or allow, to the treasurer of any county, all expenses incurred for services of citation, and his other lawful disbursements that have not otherwise been paid.

§ 21. The treasurer of each county shall collect and pay the state treasurer all taxes that may be due and payable under this act, who shall give him a receipt therefor; of which collection and payment he shall make a report, under oath, to the controller, between the first and fifteenth days of May and December of each year, stating for what estate paid, and in such form and containing such particulars as the controller may prescribe; and for all such taxes collected by him and not paid to the state treasurer by the first day of June and January of each year he shall pay interest at the rate of ten per centum per annum.

§ 22. The treasurer of each county shall be allowed to retain, on all taxes paid and accounted for by him each year under this act, in addition to his salary or fees now allowed by law, three per centum on the first fifty thousand dollars so paid and accounted for by him, one and one half per centum on the next fifty thousand dollars so paid and accounted for by him, and one half of one per centum on all additional sums so paid and accounted for by him.

§ 23. The treasurer of each county, in his discretion, for the better furtherance of the purposes of this act, shall be allowed to employ such special attorney or attorneys, as he may deem necessary, who shall have all the authority conferred upon the district attorney by sections seventeen and eighteen of this act, and such attorney shall be paid for his services out of the fees now allowed the treasurer as provided in section twenty-two of this act, and that in no case shall such compensation exceed the per centum allowed as such fees.

§ 24. Any person, or body politic or corporate, shall, upon payment of the sum of fifty cents, be entitled to a receipt from the county treasurer of any county, or a copy of the receipt, at his option, that may have been given by said treasurer for the payment of any tax under this act, to be sealed with the seal of his office, which receipt shall designate on what real property, if any, of which any decedent may have died seized, said tax has been paid, and by whom paid, and whether or not it is in full of said tax; and said receipt may be recorded in the clerk's office in the county in which said property is situate, in a book to be kept by said clerk for such purpose, which shall be labeled "Inheritance tax."

§ 25. All taxes levied and collected under this act, up to the amount of two hundred and fifty thousand dollars annually, shall be paid into the treasury of the state, for the uses of the state school fund, and all taxes levied and collected in excess of two hundred and fifty thousand dollars annually shall be paid into the state treasury to the credit of the general fund thereof.

§ 26. Every officer who fails or refuses to perform, within a reasonable time, any and every duty required by the provisions of this act, or who fails or refuses to make and deliver within a reasonable time any statement or record required by this act, shall forfeit to the state of California the sum of one thousand dollars, to be recovered in an action brought by the attorney-general in the name of the people of the state on the relation of the controller.

§ 27. An act entitled "An act to establish a tax on collateral inheritances, bequests and devises, to provide for its collection, and to direct the disposition of the proceeds," approved March twenty-three, eighteen hundred and ninety-three, and all amendments thereto, and all acts and parts of acts in conflict with this act are hereby expressly repealed.

§ 28. The words "estate" and "property" as used in this act shall be taken to mean the real and personal property or interest therein of the testator, intestate, grantor, bargainor, vendor, or donor passing or transferred to individual legatees, devisees, heirs, next of kin, grantees, donees, vendees, or successors, and shall include all personal property within or without the state. The word "transfer" as used in this act shall be taken to include the passing of property or any interest therein, in possession or enjoyment, present or future, by inheritance, descent, devise, succession, bequest, grant, deed, bargain, sale, gift, or appointment in the manner herein described. The word "decedent" as used in this act shall include the testator, intestate, grantor, bargainor, vendor, or donor.

§ 29. In all cases where any tax has become or shall hereafter become a lien upon any property under or by virtue of any of the provisions of this act the district attorney of the county in which the estate of the decedent mentioned in this act is being administered or has been administered in probate proceedings, may, whenever any property of said estate has been distributed without the payment to the state of all or any part of the taxes payable on account thereof under this act, bring and prosecute an action or actions in the name of the state as plaintiff, for the purpose of enforcing such lien or liens against all or any of the property subject thereto. In any such action the owner of any property or of any interest in property against which the lien of any such tax is sought to be enforced, and any predecessor in interest of any such owner whose title or interest was deraigned through any such decedent by will or succession or by decree of distribution of the estate of such decedent, and any lienor or encumbrancer subsequent to the lien of such tax may be made a party defendant. The enumeration in this section of the persons who may be made defendants shall not be deemed to be exclusive, but the joinder or non-joinder of parties, except when otherwise herein provided, shall be governed by the rules in equity in similar cases.

COLLEGES—LAND DONATIONS.

Expressing assent of the state of California to the act of Congress, approved August thirtieth, eighteen hundred and ninety, entitled "An act to apply a portion of the proceeds of the public lands to the more complete endowment and support of the colleges for the benefit of agriculture and the mechanic arts, established under the provisions of an act of Congress, approved July second, eighteen hundred and sixty-two," and to the purposes of the grants of moneys authorized thereby, and to all the provisions thereof.

(Stats. 1891, 458, ch. CCXLIII.)

§ 1. The state of California hereby assents to the purposes of the grants of moneys authorized by the act of Congress, approved August thirtieth, eighteen hundred and ninety, and to all the provisions thereof, of which act the following is a copy:

An act to apply a portion of the proceeds of the public lands to the more complete endowment and support of the colleges for the benefit of agriculture and the mechanic arts, established under the provisions of an act of Congress, approved July second, eighteen hundred and sixty-two.

arising from the sales of public lands, to be paid as hereinafter provided, to each state and territory, for the more complete endowment and maintenance of colleges for the benefit of agriculture and the mechanic arts, now established, or which may be hereafter established, in accordance with an act of Congress approved July second, eighteen hundred and sixty-two, the sum of fifteen thousand dollars for the year ending June thirtieth, eighteen hundred and ninety, and an annual increase of the amount of such appropriation thereafter for ten years, by an additional sum of one thousand dollars over the preceding year; and the annual amount to be paid thereafter to each state and territory shall be twenty-five thousand dollars to be applied only to instruction in agriculture, the mechanic arts, the English language, and the various branches of mathematical, physical, natural, and economic science, with special reference to their applications in the industries of life, and to the facilities for such instruction; provided, that no money shall be paid out under this act to any state or territory for the support and maintenance of a college where a distinction of race or color is made in the admission of students, but the establishment and maintenance of such colleges separately for white and colored students shall be held to be a compliance with the provisions of this act, if the funds received in such state or territory be equitably divided as hereinafter set forth; provided, that in any state in which there has been one college established in pursuance of the act of July second, eighteen hundred and sixty-two, and also in which an educational institution of like character has been established, or may be hereafter established, and is now aided by such state from its own revenue, for the education of colored students in agriculture and the mechanic arts, however named or styled, or whether or not it has received money heretofore under the act to which this act is an amendment, the legislature of such state may propose and report to the secretary of the interior a just and equitable division of the fund to be received under this act, between one college for white students, and one institution for colored students established as aforesaid, which shall be divided into two parts, and paid accordingly, and thereupon such institution for colored students shall be entitled to the benefits of this act, and subject to its provisions, as much as it would have been if it had been included under the act of eighteen hundred and sixty-two; and the fulfilment of the foregoing provisions shall be taken as a compliance with the provision in reference to separate colleges for white and colored students.

§ 2. That the sums hereby appropriated to the states and territories for the further endowment and support of colleges shall be annually paid on or before the thirty-first day of July of each year, by the secretary of the treasury, upon the warrant of the secretary of the interior, out of the treasury of the United States, to the state or territorial treasurer, or to such officer as shall be designated by the laws of such state or territory to receive the same, who shall, upon the order of the trustees of the college or the institution for colored students, immediately pay over said sums to the treasurers of the respective colleges, or other institutions entitled to receive the same, and such treasurers shall be required to report to the secretary of agriculture, and to the secretary of the interior, on or before the first day of September of each year, a detailed statement of the amount so received, and of its disbursement. The grants of moneys authorized by this act are made subject to the legislative assent of the several states and territories to the purpose of said grants; provided, that payments of such instalments of the appropriation herein made as shall become due to any state before the adjournment of the regular session of legislature meeting next after the passage of this act, shall be made upon the assent of the governor thereof, duly certified to the secretary of the treasury.

§ 3. That if any portion of the moneys received by the designated officer of the state or territory, for the further and more complete endowment, support and maintenance of colleges, or institutions for colored students, as provided in this act, shall, by any action or contingency, be diminished or lost, or be misapplied, it shall be replaced by the state or territory to which it belongs, and until so replaced no subsequent appropriation shall be apportioned or paid to such state or territory; and no portion of said moneys shall be applied, directly or indirectly, under any pretense whatever, to the purchase, erection, preservation, or repair of any building or buildings. An annual report by the president of each of said colleges shall be made to the secretary of agriculture, as well as to the secretary of the interior, regarding the condition and progress of each college, including statistical information in relation to its receipts and expenditures, its library, the number of its students and professors, and also as to any improvements and experiments made under the direction of any experiment stations attached to said colleges, with their costs and results, and such other industrial and economical statistics as may be regarded as useful, one copy of which shall be transmitted, by mail, free, to all other colleges further endowed under this act.

§ 4. That on or before the first day of July in each year, after the passage of this act, the secretary of the interior shall ascertain and certify to the secretary of the treasury as to each state and territory, whether it is entitled to receive its share of the annual appropriation for colleges, or of institutions for colored students, under this act, and the amount which, thereupon, each is entitled, respectively, to receive. If the secretary of the interior shall withhold a certificate from any state or territory of its appropriation, the facts and reasons therefor shall be reported to the president, and the amount involved shall be kept separate in the treasury until the close of the next Congress, in order that the state or territory may, if it should so desire, appeal to Congress from the determination of the secretary of the interior. If the next Congress shall not direct such sum to be paid, it shall be covered into the treasury. And the secretary of the interior is hereby charged with the proper administration of this law.

§ 5. That the secretary of the interior shall annually report to Congress the disbursements which have been made in all the states and territories, and also whether the appropriation of any state or territory has been withheld, and if so, the reasons therefor.

§ 6. Congress may at any time amend, suspend, or repeal any or all of the provisions of this act. [Approved August 30, 1890.]

§ 9. Any person aggrieved thereby, who may be unable to obtain satisfaction from the proper officers of any railroad in this state, may report to the commissioner of transportation any violations of the provisions of this act by any railroad company doing business therein, or by any of its officers, agents, or employees, and it shall be the duty of the commissioner to make a prompt investigation of such charges.

§ 10. Whenever it shall come to the knowledge of the commissioner that the provisions of this act have been violated by any railroad company, and the facts in his judgment warrant a prosecution therefor, he shall immediately give notice thereof to the district attorney of the county in which such violation occurred, and it is hereby made the duty of such district attorney to commence and prosecute, in a court of competent jurisdiction, an action against any railroad company that shall have been guilty of such violation.

§ 11. All fines, forfeitures, and penalties for violations of the provisions of this act herein provided shall be recovered by action in the name of the people of the state of California. He may also institute and prosecute any action or proceeding which may be necessary the more effectually to carry out the provisions of this act, and he may at any time take control of or assist in the prosecution of any action or proceeding commenced by any district attorney, as herein provided, whenever in his judgment the public interest will be subserved thereby.

Chapter Three. Police Regulations.

§ 1. In forming a train on any railroad no freight, merchandise, or lumber cars shall be placed in the rear of passenger cars, and if they or any of them shall be so placed, the officer or agent who so directed, or who knowingly suffered such arrangement of cars, and the conductor of the train, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished accordingly.

§ 2. No company operating any railroad in this state shall, in carrying and transporting cattle, sheep, or swine, in carload lots confine the same in cars for a longer period than thirty-six consecutive hours, without unloading for rest, water, and feeding, for a period of at least ten consecutive hours. In estimating such time of confinement, the period during which the animals have been confined without such rest on connecting roads from which they are received shall be computed. In case the owner or person in charge of such animals refuses or neglects to pay for the care and feed of animals so rested, the railroad company may charge the expense thereof to the owner or consignee, and retain a lien upon the animals therefor until the same is paid.

§ 3. When any freight train or any railroad shall stop in such a position as to obstruct the ordinary travel on any highway, for a longer period than ten minutes, the person having charge of such train shall cause it to be separated, so as to leave one street or highway open to its full width to accommodate the public travel; and any railroad company in whose employment any person shall be, who shall violate this section, shall forfeit and pay the sum of twenty-five dollars for each offense.

§ 4. Whoever enters upon or crosses any railroad, at any private passway, which is inclosed by bars or gates, and neglects to leave the same securely closed after him, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

§ 5. Whoever shall lead, ride, drive, or conduct any beast along the track of a railroad, except where the railroad is built within the limits of the public highway, or who shall place, or having the right to prevent it, shall suffer any animal to be placed within the fences thereof for grazing or other purposes, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

§ 6. Any person who may be employed upon the railroad of any company in this state as engineer, conductor, baggage-master, brakeman, switchman, fireman, bridge-tender, flagman, or signalman, or who may have charge of the regulation or running of trains upon said railroad in any manner whatever, and who shall become or be intoxicated while engaged in the discharge of his duties, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be punished for each offense by a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars, or by imprisonment in a county jail for a term not exceeding six months, or both, in the discretion of the court having cognizance of the offense; and if any person so employed as aforesaid, by reason of such intoxication, shall do any act, or neglect any duty, which act or neglect shall cause the death of, or bodily injury to any person or persons, he shall be deemed guilty of a felony.

§ 7. The governor may, from time to time, upon the application of any railroad or steamboat company, commission during his pleasure, one or more persons designated by such company, who, having been duly sworn, may act at its expense as policemen, with the powers of a deputy sheriff, upon the premises used by it in its business, or upon its cars or vessels. The company designating such person shall be responsible civilly for any abuse of his authority.

§ 8. Every such policeman shall, when on duty, wear in plain view a shield bearing the words "railroad police," or "steamboat police," as the case may be, and the name of the company for which he is commissioned.

§ 9. Every person who shall fraudulently evade or attempt to evade the payment of his fare for traveling on any railroad shall be fined not less than five nor more than twenty dollars.

§ 10. An act entitled an act to provide for the appointment of commissioners of transportation, to fix the maximum charges for freights and fares, and to prevent extortion and discrimination on railroads in this state, approved April third, eighteen hundred and seventy-six, is hereby repealed, and all other acts and parts of acts in conflict with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed, so far as they conflict herewith.

§ 11. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

This statute by some has been treated as superseded by act of 1880, p. 207, ch. CXVII, relating to railroad commissioners, and which, by section 13, required the commissioner of transportation to turn over the effects of his office to the railroad commissioners.

It is evident that the latter act does not entirely supersede the former.—See Dyer vs. Placer County, 90 Cal. 276, 278, 27 Pac. Rep. 197; Gieseke vs. County San Joaquin, 109 Cal. 489, 42 Pac. Rep. 446.

It may be that chapters 2 and 3 of the Act of 1877-8 are not superseded, and they are therefore here given in full. Section 10 of the original statute was considered in People vs. Central P. R. Co., 62 Cal. 506, 507.

Portions of the statute relating to care of animals on trains, and providing for police protection, have been carried into the Penal Code by Stats. 1905, 672, ch. DXII, and 1905, 766, ch. DLXXIII. See KERR'S CYC. PEN. CODE § 369b.

First—The said election shall be held and conducted by the proper election officers of the several election districts of this state, and shall be governed and regulated in all respects by the general election laws of the state in force at the time of said election, so far as the same shall be applicable thereto, and not inconsistent with the provisions of this act.

Second—At the special election to be held under this act, if no other provision for printing and using new great registers or ward registers shall have in the mean time been made by law, the copies of the great registers which were used in the several counties of this state at the general election held in the year eighteen hundred and seventy-seven shall be used. The boards of supervisors must furnish the boards of election of each precinct in their respective counties, before the day on which said special election is appointed to be held, at least one copy of the aforesaid printed great register. If the boards of supervisors cannot otherwise obtain a sufficient number of copies of the register for the purpose, it must take the copies filed in the office of the county clerk, in pursuance of section one thousand two hundred and sixty-eight of the Political Code. If the copy of the register which shall be furnished to any precinct shall have been used at a previous election, the character "X" may be used instead of the word "voted," as required by section one thousand two hundred and twenty-eight of the Political Code. the canvass must be postponed from day to day until all of the returns are received, or until six postponements have been had, when they shall proceed to make out returns of the votes cast for delegates to be members of the convention; and the proceedings of the officers whose duty it is to make out said returns shall be the same as those prescribed for like officers in the case of an election for governor, except that the returns shall be transmitted to the secretary of state. The persons receiving the highest number of votes at such election shall be elected, except in the case of persons voted for as delegates at large. Of the persons so voted for as delegates at large, the eight persons, residents of any one congressional district, who shall have received a plurality of votes over all other persons, severally, who reside in the same congressional district, shall be declared elected such delegates at large.

The secretary of state shall also attend at the opening of the convention and call the roll of delegates. Said convention may adopt such rules and regulations for its own government as a majority of its members may determine, and said convention shall be the judge of the election and qualification of its own members.

§ 6. A journal of the proceedings of the said convention shall be kept, and shall, at the final adjournment thereof, be filed in the office of the secretary of state, and the constitution agreed to by the convention shall be recorded in his office. Every delegate to the convention shall have the like privileges from arrest and from civil process as members of the legislature now have by law. For any speech or debate in the convention, the delegates shall not be questioned in any other place. The convention shall have the power to expel any of its members, and to punish its members and officers for disorderly behavior, by imprisonment or otherwise; but no member shall be expelled until the report of a committee appointed to inquire into the facts alleged as the ground of his expulsion shall have been made. The convention shall have power to punish as a contempt, and by imprisonment or otherwise, a breach of his privileges, or of the privileges of its members, but such power shall not be exercised except against persons guilty of one or more of the following offenses:

First—The offense of arresting or subjecting a member or officer of the convention to civil process in violation of his privilege from arrest as heretofore declared.

Second—That of disorderly conduct in the immediate view and presence of the convention, and directly tending to interrupt its proceedings.

Third—That of publishing any false and malicious report of the proceedings of the convention, or of the conduct of a member in his delegated capacity.

Fourth—That of refusing to attend, or be examined as a witness, either before the convention or a committee to take testimony in the proceeding of the convention.

Fifth—That of giving or offering a bribe to a member, or of attempting by menace, or any other corrupt means or device, directly or indirectly, to control or influence a member in giving his vote, or to prevent him from giving the same.

§ 7. The constitution framed by such convention shall be submitted by the convention to the people for their adoption or rejection at a special election to be held on the first Wednesday of May, eighteen hundred and seventy-nine, and every person hereby entitled to vote for delegates may vote at that election, on such adoption or rejection, in the election district in which he shall then reside, and not elsewhere. The said constitution shall be voted on as a whole. No other question than the adoption or rejection of the proposed constitution shall be submitted to the people or voted on at such election, any statute or law to the contrary notwithstanding. The convention shall prescribe the publication of said constitution, and the notice to be given of the election. The ballots or tickets shall have printed or written upon them the words "For the new constitution," or "Against the new constitution," and all the provisions of law now or at that time existing in regard to general elections shall be applicable to such election, except that the provisions of the first and second subdivisions of section four of this act shall also apply to said election. The canvassing and returns of the votes cast upon such question shall, in such manner as the convention shall direct, be certified to the executive of the state, who shall call to his assistance the controller, treasurer, and secretary of state, and compare the votes as certified to him. If, by such an examination, it is ascertained that a majority of the whole number of votes cast at such election be in favor of such new constitution, the executive of this state shall, by his proclamation, declare such new constitution to be the constitution of the state of California, and that it will take effect at such time as the said convention may have in its discretion, by resolution, or in said constitution itself, fixed. If said convention fix no time for said constitution to take effect, then it shall take effect immediately upon such proclamation being made.

§ 8. All wilful and corrupt false swearing in taking any of the oaths prescribed by this act, or by the laws of this state made applicable to this act, or in any other mode or form in carrying into effect this act, shall be deemed perjury, and shall be punished in the manner now prescribed by law for wilful and corrupt perjury.

§ 9. It shall be the duty of the secretary of state to cause this act to be published once a month after its passage, until the election of delegates herein provided, in not more than five of the public newspapers published in this state—one of said publications to be in some newspaper published in the city and county of San Francisco, and one in the city of Sacramento, one in the county of Los Angeles, and one in the county of Nevada, and one in the county of Tulare; and the expense of publishing the same, and all other legal expenses incurred in printing for the convention, shall be audited by the controller and paid by the state treasurer according to law.

§ 10. All printing necessary for the said convention, under the provisions of this act, shall be done and performed at the state printing office.

§ 11. In case any vacancy occurs by reason of the death, resignation, or otherwise, of any delegate elected to said convention, the same shall be filled by the convention.

§ 12. The sum of one hundred and fifty thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated out of any money in the state treasury to pay the expenses of the convention provided for in this act.

§ 13. This act shall take effect immediately.

The Act of 1883, p. 53, relating to submission to popular vote of amendments, proposed by the legislature, was repealed by Act of 1899, p. 24; and this latter act contained provisions for submission of such amendments, but failing to state this sub-

Such arbitrators so appointed shall have full authority to examine witnesses, and to do all other things necessary to the proper determination of the amount of loss sustained by the claimant, and shall make their award in writing to the president of such company, and such award so as aforesaid made shall be final as to the amount of the loss sustained.

The pay of the said committee shall be three ($3.00) dollars per day for each day's services so rendered, and five cents for each mile necessarily traveled in the discharge of their duties, which shall be paid by the claimant, unless the award of such committee shall exceed the sum offered by the company in liquidation of such loss or damage, in which case such expense shall be paid by the company.

§ 12. When the amount of any loss shall have been ascertained, which exceeds in amount the cash funds of the company, the president shall convene the directors of said company, who shall make an assessment upon all the property to the amount for which each several piece of property is insured, taken in connection with the rate of premium under which it may be classified.

It shall be the duty of the secretary, whenever such an assessment shall have been made, to immediately notify every person holding a risk in such company, personally, by an agent, or by letter directed to his usual post-office address, of the amount of such loss, and the sum due from him, as his share thereof, and of the time and to whom such payment is to be made; but such time shall not be less than thirty days, nor more than ninety days, from the date of such notice.

§ 14. An action may be brought against any member of such company who shall neglect or refuse to pay any assessment made upon him by the provisions of this act, or other liabilities due the company, and the directors of any company so formed who shall wilfully refuse or neglect to perform the duties imposed upon them by law or by the by-laws of the company, shall be liable in their individual capacity to the person sustaining such loss. An action may also be brought and maintained against any such company by members thereof for losses sustained if payment is withheld after the amount of such losses have been determined, and is due by the terms of the policy.

§ 15. It shall be the duty of the secretary to prepare an annual statement showing the condition of such company on the thirty-first day of December, and present the same at the annual meeting.

§ 16. Any member of such company may withdraw therefrom by surrendering his policy for cancellation at any time while the organization continues the business for which it was organized, by giving notice in writing to the secretary thereof, and paying his share of all claims that may exist against such company; provided, that the company shall have power to cancel or terminate any policy by giving the insured five days' written notice to that effect, and returning to him any excess of premium he may have paid during the term of the policy, over the cost of his insurance, as measured by the rates of standard fire insurance companies doing business in this state.

§ 17. It shall be the duty of the president and secretary, within thirty days after the first day of January in each year, to prepare, under their own oath, and transmit to the insurance commissioner, a statement of the condition of the company on the last day of the month next preceding the annual meeting. If, upon examination, the insurance commissioner finds that such company is doing business correctly, in accordance with the provisions of this act, he shall thereupon furnish the company his certificate, which shall be deemed authority to continue business during the ensuing year, subject, however, to the provisions of this act. For such examination and certificate the company shall pay one dollar. Each company shall pay, at the time of organization, five dollars to the insurance commissioner, for all services which he shall render in the matter of organization.

§ 18. Any such company may be proceeded against and dissolved in the manner and upon the same conditions as provided in case of other insurance companies incorporated in this state.

CORPORATIONS—AS EXECUTOR, ETC.

Authorizing certain corporations to act as executor and in other capacities, and to provide for and regulate the administration of trusts by such corporations.

(Stats. 1891, 490, ch. CCLXIV; amended 1897, 424, ch. CCLXV; 1903, 244, ch. CCVIII; and Stats. 1905, 232, ch. CCLIX.)

§ 1. Any corporation which has or shall be incorporated under the general incorporation laws of this state, authorized by its articles of incorporation to act as executor, administrator, guardian, assignee, receiver, depository, or trustee, and having a paid-up capital of not less than two hundred and fifty thousand dollars, of which one hundred thousand dollars shall have been actually paid in, in cash, may be appointed to act in such capacity in like manner as individuals. In all cases in which it is required that an executor, administrator, guardian, assignee, receiver, depository, or trustee, shall qualify by taking and subscribing an oath, or in which an affidavit is required, it shall be a sufficient qualification by such corporation if such oath shall be taken and subscribed or such affidavit made by the president or secretary or manager thereof, and such officer shall be liable for the failure of such corporation to perform any of the duties required by law to be performed by individuals acting in like capacity and subject to like penalties; and such corporation shall be liable for such failure to the full amount of its capital stock; provided any such appointment as guardian shall apply to the estate only, and not to the person. Such corporations shall be entitled to and shall be allowed proper compensation for all the services performed by them under the foregoing provisions of this act; but such compensation shall not exceed that allowed to natural persons for like services.

§ 2. Any court, having appointed and having jurisdiction of any executor, administrator, guardian, assignee, receiver, depository, or trustee, upon the application of such officer or trustee, or upon the application of any person having an interest in the estate administered by such officer or trustee, after notice to the other parties in interest, as the court may direct, and after a hearing upon such application, may order such officer or trustee to deposit any moneys then in his hands, or which may come into his hands thereafter, and until the further order of said court, with any such corporation, and upon deposit of such money and its receipt and acceptance by such corporation the said officer or trustee shall be discharged from further care or responsibility therefor. Such deposits shall be paid out only upon the orders of said court.

§ 3. And it shall be lawful for any public administrator to deposit with any such corporation doing business in the county or city and county, in which he is acting as such administrator any and all moneys of any estate upon which he is administering, not required for the current expenses of the administration. And such deposits shall relieve the public administrator from depositing with the county treasurer the moneys so deposited with such corporation. Moneys deposited by a public administrator may be drawn upon the order of such administrator, countersigned by a judge of a superior court, when required for the purpose of administration or otherwise.

§ 4. Whenever, in the judgment of any court having jurisdiction of any estate in process of administration by any executor, administrator, guardian, assignee, receiver, depository, or trustee, the bond required by law of such officer shall seem burdensome or excessive, upon application of such officer or trustee, and after such notice to the parties in interest, as the court shall direct, and after a hearing on such application, the said court may order the said officer or trustee to deposit with any such corporation, for safe-keeping, such portion or all of the personal assets of said estate as it shall deem proper; and thereupon said court shall, by an order of record, reduce the bond to be given or theretofore given by such officer or trustee, so as to cover only the estate remaining in the hands of said officer or trustee; and the property as deposited shall thereupon be held by said corporation, under the orders and directions of said court. Any court having jurisdiction of an estate being administered by a public administrator may direct such public administrator to deposit all or any part of the moneys of the estate not required for the current expenses of the administration, with any such corporation doing business in the county or city and county where such public administrator is acting.

§ 5. Such corporations shall not be required to give any bond or security in case of any appointment hereinbefore provided for, except as hereinafter provided, but shall be responsible for all investments which shall be made by it of the funds which may be intrusted to it for investment by such court, and shall be further liable as natural persons in like positions now are, and as hereinafter provided. The amount of money which any such corporation shall have on deposit at any time shall not exceed ten times the amount of its paid-up capital and surplus, and its outstanding loans shall not at any time exceed said amount.

§ 6. Such corporations shall pay interest upon all moneys held by them by virtue of this act, at such rate as may be agreed upon at the time of its acceptance of any such appointment, or as shall be provided by the order of the court.

§ 7. Each corporation, before accepting any such appointment or deposit, shall deposit with the treasurer of state, for the benefit of the creditors of said corporation, the sum of one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000.00), in bonds of the United States, or municipal bonds of this state, or of any county, or city, or school district thereof, or in mortgages on improved and productive real estate in this state, being first liens thereon, and the real estate being worth at least twice the amount loaned thereon. The bonds and securities so deposited may be exchanged from time to time for other securities, receivable as aforesaid. Said bonds of the United States, or municipal bonds of this state, or of any county, city, or school district thereof, to be registered in the name of said treasurer, officially, and all said securities to be subject to sale and transfer, and to the disposal of the proceeds by said treasurer, only on the order of a court of competent jurisdiction, and as hereinafter provided. [Amendment, Stats. 1897, 424.]

§ 8. Any such corporation, having a paid-up capital in excess of two hundred and fifty thousand dollars, may be permitted by the board of bank commissioners to mortgage any improved and productive real estate owned by it, in excess of said amount, to the treasurer of state, for such sum as the said board may determine; and such mortgage may be deposited with said treasurer, and, when so deposited, it shall be included in the amount of securities, hereinabove required to be deposited with said treasurer for the benefit of the creditors of said corporation.

§ 9. So long as the corporation so depositing shall continue solvent, such corporation shall be permitted to receive from said treasurer the interest or dividends on said deposit; provided, however, that when it shall appear to the board of bank commissioners, from the semi-annual report of any such corporation, that the value of the personal property and cash held and possessed by such corporation, by virtue of the provisions of this act and any amendment thereof, exceeds ten times the amount of the deposit aforesaid, said board shall require said corporation to forthwith increase its said deposit to the sum of five hundred thousand dollars in such securities. And whenever it shall appear to said board that the amount of personal property and cash so held by any such corporation has been reduced below ten times the value of its original deposit above provided for, and said corporation is not in any default in its duties and obligations hereunder, they shall allow such corporation to reduce its said deposit to the sum of two hundred thousand dollars, by the withdrawal of such additional deposit, until such time as an increase in its holdings shall again require an additional deposit, as hereinbefore provided.

§ 10. When any part of such deposit is made in bonds and mortgages, it shall be accompanied by full abstracts of titles and searches, and shall be examined and approved by or under the direction of the said board. The fees for an examination of title by counsel, to be paid by the corporation making the deposit, shall not exceed twenty dollars for each mortgage, and the fee for each appraiser, not exceeding two, besides expenses, shall be five dollars for each mortgage.

§ 11. It shall not be lawful for any such corporation to accept any trust or deposit, as hereinbefore provided, after the passage of this act without first procuring from the board of bank commissioners a certificate of authority, stating that such corporation has complied with the requirements of this act in respect to such deposit.

§ 12. Such corporation shall file with the said board of bank commissioners, during the months of January and July of each year, a statement, under oath, of the condition of such corporation at the close of business on the thirty-first day of December and the thirtieth day of June, respectively, next preceding, showing its financial condition. Also, a list and brief description of the trusts held by such corporation, the source of the appointment thereto, and the amount of real and personal estate held by such corporation by virtue thereof, except that mere mortgage trusts, wherein no action has been taken by such corporation, shall not be included in such statement. The said statement shall also be in such form, and contain such reports, returns, and information, as to the affairs, business, condition, and resources of the corporation, as the said board may from time to time prescribe and require.

§ 13. Such statement shall be verified by the affidavit of one of the managing officers and two of the directors or trustees of such corporation, who shall also state in such affidavit that they have examined the assets and books of such corporation for the purpose of making such statement. Any false swearing in regard to such statement shall be deemed perjury, and shall be subject to the punishment prescribed by law for such offense.

§ 14. The said board of bank commissioners are hereby authorized and empowered to address any inquiries to any such corporation, or the officers thereof, in relation to its doings and conditions, or any other matter connected with its affairs; and it shall be the duty of any such corporation or person so addressed to promptly reply, in writing, to such inquiries; and they may also require reports from any such corporation at any time they may deem desirable. It shall be the duty of one or more of the bank commissioners, as designated by the commissioners, annually, or as often as in their judgment they may deem it necessary, without previous notice, to visit and to make personal examination of the solvency of any such corporation, its ability to fulfil all its obligations, and report its condition to the attorney-general as soon as may be after such examination.

§ 16. Such commissioners shall have power to administer an oath to any person whose testimony may be required on any such examination, and to compel the appearance and attendance of any such person, for the purpose of examination, by summons, subpoena, or attachment, in the manner now authorized in respect to the attendance of persons as witnesses in courts of record in this state; and all books and papers which may be deemed necessary to examine by the commissioners shall be produced, and their production may be compelled in like manner.

§ 17. Whenever it shall appear to the board of bank commissioners, from any such examination or report, that any such corporation has committed any violation of law, or is conducting its business in an unsafe or unauthorized manner, they shall, by an order under their hands, direct the discontinuance of such illegal and unsafe or unauthorized practice, and strict conformity with the requirements of the law, and with safety and security in its transactions; and whenever any such corporation shall refuse or neglect to make any such report as hereinbefore required or to comply with any such order as aforesaid, or whenever it shall appear to the said board that it is unsafe or inexpedient for any such corporation to continue to transact business, they shall communicate the facts to the attorney-general, who shall thereupon institute such proceedings against the corporation as the nature of the case may require.

§ 18. If the board of bank commissioners shall at any time have satisfactory evidence that any semi-annual statement or other report required or authorized by this act, made or to be made by any officer or officers of such corporation, is false, it shall be the duty of the said board to immediately revoke the certificate of authority granted on behalf of such corporation and mail a copy of such revocation to said corporation and to the clerk of every court of record in this state. Such revocation shall not be set aside until satisfactory evidence shall be given to said board of bank commissioners that such corporation is in substance and in fact in the condition set forth in such statement or report, and that all the requirements of this act have been complied with. Such revocation shall be sufficient cause for the removal of such corporation from any appointment held by it under the provisions of this act.

§ 19. Any corporation which desires to retire from business under this act shall furnish to the board of bank commissioners satisfactory evidence of its release and discharge from all the obligations and trusts hereinbefore provided for; whereupon they shall revoke their certificate to such corporation, and thereupon the treasurer of state shall return to said corporation all its securities.

§ 20. All laws and parts of laws in conflict with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

§ 22. Any corporation exercising the powers and performing the duties provided for in said act, shall keep inviolate all communications confidentially made to it touching the existence, condition, management, and administration of any trusts confided to it; and no creditor or stockholder of any such corporation shall be entitled to disclosure of any such communication; provided, however, that the president, manager and secretary of such corporation shall be entitled to knowledge of such communication; and provided further, that in any suit or proceeding touching the existence, condition, management or administration of such trust, the court wherein the same is pending may require disclosure of any such communication. [New section, Stats. 1903, 244.]

§ 23. The use of the word "trust" in combination or in connection with the word "company," "corporation," "incorporation," "association," "society," "organization," or "syndicate" is hereby prohibited to all persons, firms, associations, companies or corporations, other than corporations provided for by a certain act of the legislature entitled: "An act authorizing certain corporations to act as executor and in other capacities and to provide for and regulate the administration of trusts by such corporations," approved April six, eighteen hundred and ninety-one, and any person, firm, association, company or corporation which uses the word "trust" in combination with or in connection with the word "company," "corporation," "incorporation," "association," "society," "organization" or "syndicate" as the name under which business is done or transacted, shall be subject to the provisions of the act last referred to and to the supervision of the bank commissioners as required by the said act. Any person, firm, association, company or corporation making use of the word "trust" in combination or in connection with the word "company," "corporation," "incorporation," "association," "society," "organization" or "syndicate" in the manner hereinabove mentioned in the transaction of business and not subject to the provisions of said act and the supervision of the bank commissioners as in said act provided shall forfeit for each day the offense is committed, the sum of one hundred dollars to be recovered by the bank commissioners of the state of California in the manner provided by law. CORPORATIONS—SPECIAL ENACTMENT.

To authorize the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York and the Equitable Life Assurance Company of the United States to invest moneys in real and personal estate within the limits of California.

(Stats. 1873-4, 777, ch. DXL.)

§ 1. The Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, a corporation duly incorporated and carrying on business under the laws of the state of New York, and the Equitable Life Assurance Company of the United States, are hereby authorized and empowered to purchase and hold real estate and personal property; also to loan upon mortgages of real estate; also to construct houses and buildings, within the state of California.

§ 2. This act shall take effect from and after its passage.

CORPORATIONS—LOANS UPON CHATTELS.

To provide for the incorporation of associations for lending money on personal property, and regulating the same, and to forbid certain loans of money, property or credit.

(Stats. 1905, 711, ch. DL.)

§ 1. Any corporation which shall be incorporated under the general incorporation laws of this state, and the provisions of this act, authorized by its articles of incorporation to loan money at interest upon the pledge or mortgage of goods or chattels, or of safe securities, shall be granted all the powers and privileges necessary for the execution of these purposes; provided, that nothing herein contained shall authorize any such corporation to engage in the business of banking.

§ 2. Corporations may be organized under the provisions of this act, with a capital stock of fifty thousand dollars ($50,000.00), or over, but no business shall be transacted by any such corporation until all the capital stock of such corporation has been actually and in good faith subscribed, and at least fifty per centum thereof shall have actually been paid in, in cash, or in interest-bearing securities, to be approved by the board of bank commissioners.

§ 3. Any such corporation, before transacting any business, shall be required to obtain from the board of bank commissioners a license in the form to be prescribed by them, authorizing such corporation to transact business in pursuance of the provisions of this act.

§ 4. Every corporation applying for a license under this act shall, at the time of making the application, execute and file a bond, to the people of the state, in an amount equal to one twentieth of its capital stock, with the board of bank commissioners, to be approved by them, conditioned for the faithful performance of the duties and obligations pertaining to the business so licensed and for a faithful compliance with the provisions of this act. Said bond shall be executed by a domestic or foreign corporation authorized by the insurance commissioner to transact within this state, the business of surety insurance as surety. Such bond shall be renewed and refilled annually, in January of each year, or the corporation shall, within thirty days thereafter, cease doing business and proceed to close up its affairs.

§ 5. Such corporations when they have disposable funds may make advances on all goods, chattels and savings bank deposit books, or on all safe securities offered, embraced within its rules and regulations, but in no case shall the amount loaned to any one person exceed the sum of three hundred dollars ($300.00).

§ 6. Such corporation shall be entitled to charge and receive upon each loan made by it upon a mortgage of personal property, which charge shall include all services of every character in connection with said loan, except upon the foreclosure of the security, interest or discount at a rate not exceeding one and one half ($1\frac{1}{2}$) per centum per month. It may also charge for the first examination of the property to be mortgaged and for drawing and filing the necessary papers, and for all other expenses, a sum not exceeding five dollars (\$5.00) if a loan shall actually be made; but no further charge for examination of the property or for drawing or filing papers, or for any services or expenses, or upon any pretext whatsoever, beyond the said charge for interest or discount, shall be made upon any renewal or extension of the loan, or any transfer or change of the loan, or upon any other occasion, within one year from the date of the original loan, or oftener than once in each period of twelve months thereafter, provided, however, it shall be lawful to charge for any fire insurance that may be at any time effected.

It may also charge and receive upon each loan made by it upon the pledge of personal property which charge shall include all services of every character in connection with said loan, except upon the sale of the security at public auction, as hereinafter provided, interest or discount at a rate not exceeding one and one half ($1\frac{1}{2}$) per centum per month; provided, however, that all loans shall be subject to one month's interest and no loan shall be settled at a less charge than fifteen cents. A charge of one half ($\frac{1}{2}$) of one per centum per month additional may be made upon pledges for storage, burglary and fire insurance. In case of loss by fire or theft, such corporation shall not be liable, however, for more than the amount loaned, and twenty-five (25) per centum thereof in addition.

§ 7. Such corporation shall give to each pledgeor a memorandum or ticket inscribed with the name of the corporation, mentioning the article or articles, security or securities, pledged, the name of the pledgeor, the amount of the loan, the rate of compensation, the date when made, the date when payable, the page of the book where recorded, and a copy of section six (6) and eight (8) of this act.

§ 8. Property pledged to such corporations shall not be sold prior to six (6) months after the day fixed in the contract for payment, and all sales shall be at public auction, and notice of any such sale shall be published at least five (5) days previous thereto in a daily newspaper printed in the city, or city and county, in which any such corporation is located. If upon the sale of any such property at public auction there be any surplus left, after paying the cost of advertising and sale, and the amount of the loan and interest due thereon, the same shall be paid over to the pledgeor or his legal representative or assigns on demand, any time within two years after such sale. It shall not be necessary for such corporation to sell at public auction any savings bank deposit book pledged for a loan, but the corporation may collect the money due thereon or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay the debt, in such manner and at such time as in the judgment of the directors of such corporation will best serve the interest of all parties, holding the net surplus, if any, for the owner, his legal representative or assigns. Loans on pledges may be renewed from time to time, but in no case longer than one year.

§ 9. A corporation organized under this act shall be authorized to borrow money in any amount to be used in its business not exceeding in the aggregate the amount of its capital stock.

§ 10. Such corporation shall file with the board of bank commissioners, during the months of January and July of each year, a statement, under oath, of the condition of such corporation at the close of business on the thirty-first day of December, and the thirtieth day of June, respectively next preceding, showing its actual financial condition. The said statement shall also be in such form, and contain such reports, returns, and information as to the affairs, business, condition, and resources of the corporation, as the said commissioners may from time to time prescribe and require.

§ 11. The said board of bank commissioners shall have access to the vaults, books, and papers of any such corporation, and it shall be their duty to inspect, examine and inquire into its affairs and take proceedings in regard to it, in the same manner and to the same extent as if said corporation were a savings bank or a banking corporation.

§ 12. No person, firm or corporation, other than corporations organized pursuant to this act shall, directly or indirectly, charge or receive any interest, discount or consideration greater than at the rate of one and one half ($1\frac{1}{2}$) per centum per month upon the loan, use or forbearance of money, goods or things in action, less than three hundred dollars (\$300.00) in amount or value, or upon the loan, use or sale of personal credit in anywise, where there is taken for such loan, use or sale of personal credit, any security upon any upholstery, furniture or household goods, oil paintings, pictures or works of art, pianos, organs, musical instruments, or sewing machines, plate or silver ware, iron or steel safes, professional libraries, or office furniture or fixtures, instruments of surveyors, physicians, or dentists, printing presses or printing material, wearing apparel, diamonds, watches or jewelry. The foregoing prohibition shall apply to any person who, as security for any such loan, use or forbearance of money, or for any such loan, use or sale of personal credit, as aforesaid, makes a pretended purchase of property from any person, or who, by any device or pretense of charging for his services, or otherwise, seeks to obtain a larger compensation in any case hereinbefore provided for. Any person violating the foregoing prohibition shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and is punishable by a fine of one hundred dollars (\$100.00) for the first offense, and by a like fine and imprisonment in the county jail for thirty days for the second and each subsequent offense; and further, the interest on any amount loaned shall be forfeited to the borrower. But this section shall not apply to licensed pawnbrokers, making loans upon the actual and permanent deposits of personal property, excepting those charging unlawful rates of interest, nor affect in any way the validity or legality of any loan of money or credit exceeding three hundred dollars (\$300.00) in amount.

§ 13. Any corporation organized under this act which shall violate the provisions of the second section hereof, shall be liable to a penalty of one hundred dollars ($100.00) for each and every day of the continuance of such violation; and any corporation which shall wilfully violate any of the provisions of any other section of this act, by which any person shall suffer or sustain loss or damage, shall forfeit its rights to do business, and the attorney-general of this state shall take the necessary legal measures to wind up and discontinue its business. Any director, officer or employee of any corporation organized under this act who shall charge, take or collect or receive, any compensation on a loan beyond or in excess of the charges herein allowed, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and be fined not to exceed one hundred dollars ($100.00) or be imprisoned in the county jail for not more than six (6) months, or both.

§ 14. No such corporation shall, in any year, declare or pay dividends on its capital stock amounting to more than six (6) per centum. After any such corporation shall have accumulated a surplus or risk fund amounting to fifty (50) per centum of its capital, the board of bank commissioners, upon ascertaining that said corporation has, during the previous calendar year, made a net profit amounting to more than six (6) per centum on its capital, shall have authority to make an order reducing the rates of interest, discount and charges which said corporation may lawfully charge and receive upon loans, to such rates as will, in the judgment of said commissioners, produce a net return of six (6) per centum on its capital stock. It shall be stated in said order when it shall take effect, which shall not be less than four months after it is made, and it shall continue in force until revoked.

§ 15. Such corporation shall pay annually in advance license fees, as follows: To the treasurer of state, who shall pay the same into the "bank commissioners' fund," the sum of fifty dollars ($50.00), to the treasurer of the city, or city and county, in which such corporation is located, the sum of one hundred and fifty dollars ($150.00). This is to be in lieu of all other licenses.

CORPORATIONS—MUTUAL LIFE.

To provide for the incorporation of mutual insurance companies, for the insurance of life and health, and against accidents.

(Stats. 1865-6, 752, ch. DXLVI; § 14 repealed Stats. 1867-8, 330; amended Stats. 1867-8, 661, ch. CCCXC, and Stats. 1880, 230, ch. CXXV.)

§ 1. Any number of persons, not less than thirteen, may associate and form a mutual insurance company for the purpose of making insurance on the lives or health of individuals, or against accidents to them, and every insurance appertaining thereto or connected therewith, and to grant, purchase, and dispose of annuities. Insurance on lives, or on health, or against accidents, may in each case respectively include insurance for the whole term of life or any shorter period.

§ 2. Whenever a publication or notice in a newspaper is provided for in this act, it shall be deemed to mean a publication or notice in a newspaper issued every day, or six days in the week, or if there be none such, then in one of the most frequent issue in each week in the place where the company's office is located, or, if none be published there, then in any such newspaper published in the same or an adjoining county. Whenever such publication or notice is required to be published for a given period of time in days or weeks, it shall be sufficient if published once in each week of such period, rejecting fractions of a week. The word "company," whenever used in this act, shall be construed to mean a corporation proposed or incorporated under the provisions of this act. Any act required by this act to be performed by the president of the company, may be performed by the vice-president in case of the president's inability to act or a vacancy in the office, whatever be the cause of such inability or vacancy, whether death, illness, absence, refusal to act, or otherwise.

§ 3. The persons mentioned in the first section of this act shall make, sign, and acknowledge before any officer competent to take the acknowledgment of deeds, a written certificate of incorporation, in which shall be specified the corporate name of the company, and that such company is formed under this act, referring to it by its title and date, and any act supplementary thereto or amendatory thereof, the amount of its capital stock, and the number of shares of which such capital stock shall consist, the term of its existence, which shall not exceed seventy-five years, the number and the names of the directors who shall manage the concerns of the company for the first year, or until the first annual election, and the name of the city, or town, and county, or city and county in which the officer [office?] of the company shall be located. They shall file said certificate in the office of the county clerk of the county or city and county in which the office of the company shall be located, and also a copy thereof, certified by the said county clerk under his hand and seal to be a true copy, in the office of the secretary of state. Every company organized under this act shall have power to make insurance upon any or all of the risks, and to do any or all of the business mentioned in section one, and to make reinsurance of any risks taken by them respectively. A copy of said certificate of incorporation, certified by the said county clerk under his hand and seal to be a true copy, shall be, prima facie, equal in all cases as proof to the original if produced.

§ 4. Upon the filing of said certificate and of a certified copy thereof, as in section three provided, the persons who shall have signed and acknowledged such certificate, and their successors, shall be a corporation under the laws of this state, by the name specified in the certificate.

§ 5. The concerns of every such company shall be managed by a board of directors, not less than nine, who shall be stockholders of the company in such number of shares as shall be provided by the by-laws of the company. The majority of them shall be citizens of this state. Their term of office may be one, two, or three years, as shall be provided by the by-laws of the company. After the expiration of the term of office of the directors named in the certificate of incorporation, they shall be elected each year at the annual meeting. If their term shall be more than one year, the directors chosen at the first annual meeting shall classify themselves by lot, so that one half of them shall go out of office at the end of the first year, if the term be two years, or so that one third of them shall go out of office at the end of the first year, and one third at the end of the second year, if their term be three years. The annual meeting shall be at such time and place in the town or city where the company's office is located, as shall be directed by the by-laws of the company. Notice of such meeting, time, and place, shall be published in a newspaper at least four weeks previous thereto. The election shall be by such stockholders as shall attend in person or by proxy, and each stockholder shall have one vote for each share of stock owned by him; provided, that after the filing of the declaration of the company's fixed capital, in section nine of this act provided, the holders of policies of life insurance for the term of life, on which the premiums shall not be in default, may also vote at the election of directors, and shall have one vote for each one thousand dollars insured by their policies, respectively. The election shall be by ballot, and the persons receiving the highest number of votes cast shall be the directors for the ensuing term, and until their successors shall be elected. The number of directors specified in the certificate of incorporation may be altered from time to time during the existence of the company, by resolution, at the annual meeting, of a majority of those present in person entitled to vote at the election of directors, but the number shall never be reduced below nine.

§ 6. There shall be a president and a vice-president of the company, who shall be elected by the directors from their own number, at their first meeting after the incorporation of the company, and thereafter at their first meeting after each annual election. They shall hold office during the pleasure of the board of directors, and until their successors are elected and enter upon their duties. Such other officers may be elected or appointed as the by-laws shall provide. The compensation of all officers shall be regulated by the by-laws.

§ 7. The by-laws of the company shall be made by the board of directors, and may from time to time be altered or amended by them, or at any annual meeting, upon a notice of at least four weeks, published in a newspaper, specifying the substance of the proposed alteration or amendment, by a majority of those present in person or by proxy entitled to vote at the election of directors. Besides the usual rules and regulations for the transaction and management of the business of life insurance and annuities as in section one mentioned, the by-laws may provide in any manner not inconsistent with this act, as follows:

First—For the time, place, and mode of holding the annual meetings and the election of directors, and also of any special meetings in the town or city where the office of the company shall be located, by whom such meetings shall be called, and all other regulations connected therewith.

Second—For the number of directors who shall constitute a quorum, which shall not be less than five in a board of nine, or than seven in a larger number, for filling vacancies in the board, and for removing any member thereof or declaring his office vacant.

Third—For designating the officers of the company, their duties, powers, qualifications, the time and mode of their election or appointment, the mode of their removal, their tenure of office, their compensation, and all other matters respecting them.

Fourth—For regulating the holding and disposition of the stock of the company, and the person holding the same [sic], and the amount which may be held by any one person, or in any manner otherwise providing for the solvency of the stockholders and for the better security of those dealing with the company.

§ 8. Every company formed or existing under this act shall have a capital stock of not less than one hundred thousand dollars. It shall not make any insurance, nor transact any business until its capital stock shall have been fully paid up in cash. The board of directors of the company, or a committee of the directors appointed by the board, shall, without delay, after organizing, proceed to obtain the subscriptions required to complete the capital stock of the company, and in obtaining such subscription, or any subscriptions to capital stock afterwards authorized, must open books therefor, giving public notice thereof, if deemed necessary by them, in some newspaper of general circulation in the county in which the principal office of the company is located; such books shall, in either case, be kept open until the amount of capital stock required shall have been subscribed. If more than the requisite amount is subscribed, the stock shall be distributed pro rata among the subscribers. Any subscription may be rejected by the board of directors, or the committee thereof, or by either, as to the whole or any part thereof, and shall be, so far as rejected, without effect. [Amendment, Stats. 1880, 229.]

§ 9. Any corporation formed or existing under this act may, at any time, return to the makers, their assigns or heirs, the guarantee notes held by said corporation; and from and after such return, or the offer thereof, made in good faith, the corporation shall not be subject to any of the obligations or burdens imposed by section ten of said act upon said corporation, and in favor of the makers of such notes. [Amendment, Stats. 1880, 229.]

§ 10. Whenever, at any time, the capital of any corporation formed or existing under this act shall become impaired, it shall be duty of the board of directors at once to levy such an assessment upon the capital stock, whether paid up or not, as may be necessary to make good such impairment; and such assessment, except as to the amount thereof, shall be levied and collected in the manner prescribed by sections three hundred and thirty-one to three hundred and forty-nine, inclusive, of the Civil Code of this state. Every such corporation may increase or diminish its capital stock in the mode and manner prescribed by section three hundred and fifty-nine of said Civil Code. [Amendment, Stats. 1880, 299. The amendatory act of 1880, 299, also contained the following section: § 4. Nothing in this act shall be construed to affect any corporation formed after twelve o'clock noon, on the day upon which the Civil Code of California took effect, nor shall anything in this act be construed to revive or put in force any part of the act of which it is amendatory, beyond what was intended should be in force by the provisions of section two hundred and eighty-eight of the Civil Code of California.]

§ 11. It shall be lawful for the company to invest its capital in funds, as follows:

First—In loans upon unencumbered and improved real estate within the state of California, which shall be worth, at the time of the investment, fifty per centum more than the sum loaned.

Second—In the purchase of or loans upon interest-bearing stocks, bonds and other securities of the United States and of the states thereof.

Third—In the purchase of or loans upon interest-bearing bonds of any incorporated city or city and county in the state of California.

Fourth—In the purchase of or loans upon any stocks of companies formed under the laws of this state, which shall have, at the time of such investment, a value in the city and county of San Francisco of not less than sixty per centum of their par value, and which shall be rated as first-class securities.

But no loans shall be made on any securities specified in subdivisions three and four in any amount beyond seventy-five per centum of their market value, except mining stocks. [Amendment, Stats. 1867-8, 661.]

§ 12. No company formed under this act shall purchase, hold, or convey real estate, except for the purposes, and as herein set forth, to wit:

First—Such as shall be requisite for its accommodation in the convenient transaction of its business.

Second—Such as shall have been conveyed to it or to any person for it by way of mortgage or in trust, or in any manner otherwise, to secure or provide for the payment of loans previously contracted, or for moneys due.

Third—Such as shall have been purchased at sales upon deeds of trust, or judgments, decrees, or mortgages obtained or made for such loans or debts.

Fourth—Such as shall have been conveyed to it in satisfaction of debts previously contracted in the course of its dealings.

All such real estate as may be acquired as aforesaid, and which shall not be requisite for the accommodation of such company in the convenient transaction of its business, shall be sold and disposed of within five years after such company shall have acquired title to the same, and it shall not be lawful for such company to hold such real estate for a longer period than that above mentioned, unless the said company shall procure a certificate from the controller of state that the interest of the company will suffer materially by a forced sale of such real estate, in which event the time for the sale may be extended to such time as the controller shall direct in said certificate.

§ 13. The dividends payable to the stockholders of the company shall be deducted before any net earnings shall be deemed to have accrued. Such dividends shall consist of the interest or moneys earned by the investment or other use of the capital stock. No dividends shall be made by the company while its capital stock is impaired, or when the making of such dividends would have the effect of impairing its capital; and any dividend so made shall subject the directors voting for, and the stockholders having notice and receiving the same, to a joint and several liability to the creditors of such company to the extent of such dividend.

[§ 14 repealed, Stats. 1867-8, 330.]

§ 15. Upon the expiration of the period of existence specified in the certificate provided for in section three, the company may extend its term of existence for another period of not more than seventy-five years, if the same shall be desired by a majority of the stockholders and others qualified to vote for directors, and approved of by the board of directors in office for the last year of such unexpired term. Such desire of the stockholders and others qualified to vote for directors of the company may be declared either by a vote in favor of such extension, at a meeting of them called specially for the purpose by the president or any five stockholders of the company, at the office of the company, upon a notice published in some newspaper, or by a statement in writing, declaring themselves in favor of such extension, signed by such majority of the stockholders and others qualified to vote for directors, or their attorneys in fact duly authorized. Such resolution or statement shall be submitted to the board of directors, and if approved by them, they or a majority of them shall sign a certificate in writing, declaring the desire of the company for a renewal for such further period not exceeding seventy-five years. Such certificate shall be duly acknowledged before some officer competent to take acknowledgment of deeds, and the original and a copy thereof shall be filed before the expiration of the current term of the company's existence in the same manner as is provided in section three with respect to the original certificate of incorporation. Thereupon the company shall be deemed, from and after the expiration of its current term of existence named in the certificate of incorporation, to have renewed its term of existence for the period mentioned in said certificate of renewal, in all respects as though its previous term of existence had not expired. Other renewals may be made from time to time thereafter in the like manner and with the like force and effect; but no renewal shall ever be made for a period exceeding seventy-five years.

§ 16. All premiums shall be payable wholly in cash, or one half or a greater proportion in cash, and the remainder in promissory notes bearing interest as may be provided by the by-laws. Agreements and policies of insurance made by the company may be upon the basis of full or partial participation in the profits, or without any participation therein, as may be provided by the by-laws and agreed between the parties.

§ 17. Each stockholder of the company shall be individually and personally liable for such proportion of all its debts and liabilities as the amount of its capital stock owned by him bears to the whole of such capital stock.

§ 18. It shall be lawful for any married woman, by herself and in her name or in the name of any third person, with his assent as her trustee, to cause to be insured for her sole use the life of her husband for any definite period or for the term of his natural life; and in the event of her surviving her husband, the sum or net amount of the insurance becoming due and payable by the terms of the insurance shall be payable to her, and for her own use, free from the claims of the representatives of the husband or of any of his creditors, or of any parties claiming by, through, or under him. But when the premium or any part thereof paid in each year out of the funds or property of the husband shall exceed five hundred dollars, such exemption from such claims shall not apply to so much of said insurance as shall be in proportion to said excess over five hundred dollars. In case of the death of the wife before the decease of her husband, the amount of insurance may be made payable after her death to her children, for their use, or if under age, to their guardian.

§ 19. So much of an act entitled an act to provide for the incorporation of mutual insurance companies, passed April twenty-sixth, one thousand eight hundred and fifty-one, and any act amendatory thereof or supplementary thereto, as relates to insurance upon lives, is hereby repealed; but this repeal shall not affect the validity of any incorporation formed, or contract made, or rights existing under said act or acts, and the same shall be and remain in all respects as though this act had not been passed. An act entitled an act in respect to insurance for lives for the benefit of married women, passed May eleventh, one thousand eight hundred and fifty-four, is also repealed. All acts and parts of acts, so far as they affect incorporations formed under this act, are hereby repealed.

See Const. of 1879, § 24, and subds. 19, 33, § 25, art. IV; In re California Mut. L. Ins. Co., 81 Cal. 364, 22 Pac. Rep. 869; Neale vs. Head, 133 Cal. 42, 65 Pac. Rep. 131, 576.

CORPORATIONS.

An act concerning corporations.

(Stats. 1850, 347, ch. CXXVIII.)

Although it is held in Murphy vs. Pacific Bank, 119 Cal. 334, 51 Pac. Rep. 317, that this act and its amendments are applicable to corporations formed prior to the adoption of § 288, Civil Code, which may still exist without having reorganized under the provisions of that code, it is not deemed expedient to reproduce those enactments at length in this publication. The following list of the enactments, however, has been prepared:

The Act of 1850, 347, specifically names insurance, railroad, turnpike, and plank roads, manufactures, mining, etc., telegraph, bridges, religious and other societies, steam navigation, as objects for which corporations may be formed, though not necessarily excluding other objects.

The Act of 1851, 433, "An act to provide for the incorporation of railroad companies," § 31, reads: "An act entitled an act concerning corporations, passed April twenty-second, eighteen hundred and fifty, is hereby repealed." The Act of 1850, beginning with § 54, provided for railroad corporations, but the repeal above mentioned was not confined (in terms) to a portion of the Act of 1850. It is found in the case of Brewster vs. Hartley, 37 Cal. 15, 99 Am. Dec. 237, that an error occurred in printing the Railroad Incorporation Act, and that according to the enrolled bill, only chapter III (relating to railroads) was repealed.

§ 174 of the Act of 1850 is repealed by 1851, 424.

The incorporation of colleges was provided for by Act of 1850, 273: §§ 1, 2, 3 of that act were amended by Act of 1855, 110. A supplementary act was passed enabling college trustees to borrow money for the benefit of the institutions. § 5 of the Act of 1850 was amended, 1867-8, 69, and §§ 3 and 7 were amended 1867-8, 218; also 1869-70, 419. What is termed a "supplementary" act occurs, 1871-2, 10, relating to colleges that may be founded by benevolent or fraternal organizations, and this was amended, including religious societies, and extending powers by Stats. 1873-4, 85.

In 1851, 523, provision was made for incorporation of mutual insurance companies.

COUNTIES, NEW—FUNDS.

To provide for the transfer of certain moneys from one county to another, when a new county has been formed and organized.

(Stats. 1893, 235, ch. CXCI.)

§ 1. Whenever a new county has been formed within the state, it shall be the duty of the treasurer of the county or counties out of whose territory said

(Stats. 1873-4, 365, ch. CCLXVIII.)

§ 1. In all cases where new counties have been or may hereafter be erected, and executions, orders of sale upon foreclosures of mortgages, or other process affecting specific real estate, have been or may hereafter be adjudged by the final judgment or decree of a court of competent jurisdiction, to be executed by the sheriff of the county in which such real estate was originally situated, such process may be executed by the sheriff of the new county in which such real estate is found to be situated, with the like effect as if he were the sheriff of the county designated in the judgment, decree, or order of sale, to execute the same.

§ 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

See last preceding statute, as to transfer of funds by county treasurer.

And for counties formed since adoption of Political Code, see names of respective counties, for instance: Glenn, Riverside, etc.

COUNTY BONDS.

It is believed that the issuing of bonds and funding indebtedness of counties is covered by subd. 13, § 25, County Government Act of 1897, post.

Former enactments were: 1883-4 (extra session), 8; 1889, 37; Pol. Code §§ 4048-4051, as amended 1880, 313-315. See also Stats. 1880, 211.

COUNTY BOUNDARIES.

To publish independent acts relating to or more definitely defining boundaries between certain counties in this connection would be of no advantage. Boundaries of counties are given in Kerr's Cyc. Pol. Code §§ 3903 to 3958 inclusive, and the special acts here alluded to are generally cited in the codes, under appropriate sections. See Glenn County; Riverside County, etc., post.

BOUNDARIES. — Fresno, Madera, and Mariposa counties. — Stats. 1871-2, 891, 1873-4, 100; County of Mariposa vs. County of Madera, 142 Cal. 50, 53, 54, 75 Pac. Rep. 572.

§ 1. CCLXXVII; and in same connection, as to certain officers in counties of tenth class, see 1903, 217, CXCIV, which is properly an amendment, though not so designated in its title, and is inserted in this act immediately preceding § 168.)

§ 1. The several counties of this state, as they now exist, and such other counties as may be hereafter organized, according to law, are bodies corporate and politic, and as such have the powers specified in this act, and such other powers as are necessarily implied.

§ 2. Their powers can only be exercised by the board of supervisors, or by agents and officers acting under their authority, or authority of law.

§ 3. The name of a county designated in the law creating it is its corporate name, and it must be designated thereby in all actions and proceedings touching its corporate rights, properties, and duties.

§ 4. It has power:

1. To sue and be sued.
2. To purchase and hold land within its limits.
3. To make such contracts and purchase and hold such personal property as may be necessary to the exercise of its powers.

§ 5. No county shall, in any manner, give or loan its credit to or in aid of any person or corporation. An indebtedness or liability incurred contrary to this provision shall be void.

§ 6. All contracts, authorizations, allowances, payments, and liabilities to pay, made or attempted to be made in violation of this act, shall be absolutely void, and shall never be the foundation or basis of a claim against the treasury of such county. And all officers of said county, are charged with notice of the condition of the treasury of said county, and the extent of the claims against the same.

§ 7. Any officer authorizing, or aiding to authorize, or auditing, or allowing, or paying any claim or demand upon or against said treasury, or any fund thereof, in violation of any of the provisions of this act, or of the constitution of this state, shall be liable in person, and upon his official bond, to the person or persons damaged by such illegal authorization, to the extent of his or their loss by reason of the non-payment of his or their claims.

§ 8. Whenever any board of supervisors shall, without authority of law, order any money paid as a salary, fees, or for any other purposes, and such money shall have been actually paid; or whenever any county officer has drawn any warrant or warrants in his own favor, or in favor of any other person, without being authorized by the board of supervisors, or by the law, and the same shall have been paid, the district attorney of such county is hereby empowered, and it is hereby made his imperative duty, to institute suit, in the name of the county, against such person or persons, to recover the money so paid, and twenty per centum damages for the use thereof; and no order of the board of supervisors therefor shall be necessary to maintain such suit. When the money has not been paid on such order or warrants, it is hereby made the imperative duty of the district attorney of such county, upon receiving notice thereof, to commence suit, in the name of the county, to restrain the payment of the same; and no order of the board of supervisors shall be necessary in order to maintain such suit.

§ 11. The county seats of the respective counties of this state, as now fixed by law, are hereby recognized as and declared to be the county seats of the respective counties. No county seat shall be removed unless two thirds of the qualified electors of the county, voting on the proposition at a general election, shall vote in favor of such removal.

§ 12. Whenever there shall be presented to the board of supervisors of any county a petition, signed by the qualified electors of such county, in number equal to a majority of the votes cast at the preceeding general election, praying for the submission of the question of the removal of the county seat of such county, it shall be the duty of the board of supervisors, by due proclamation, to submit the question of such removal of the county seat at the next general election to the qualified electors of such county. The election shall be conducted and the returns canvassed in all respects as provided by law for the conduct of general elections and canvassing the returns thereof.

§ 13. Whenever there shall be presented to the board of supervisors, a petition, or petitions, signed by legal voters of said county equal in number to fifty per centum of the votes cast at the last preceding general election, asking that an ordinance, to be set forth in such petition, be submitted to a vote of the qualified voters of such county, it shall be the duty of the board of supervisors, by proclamation, to submit such proposed ordinance to the vote of the qualified electors of such county. Such election shall be held within thirty days after the first regular meeting of the board after the filing of such petition; provided, that should said petition be filed within six months prior to a general election, no special election need be held, but such ordinance shall be submitted at the next general election. The ballots used at such special or general election shall contain the words "For the ordinance" (stating the nature of the ordinance), and "Against the ordinance" (stating the nature of the ordinance). The election shall be conducted and the returns canvassed in all respects as provided by law, for the conducting of general elections and the canvassing the returns thereof; provided, that when a special election is held under the provisions of this section, the board of supervisors, in their discretion, may consolidate precincts, and may reduce the number of election officers to a number not less than four. If a majority of the votes cast upon such ordinance shall be in favor of the adoption thereof, the board of supervisors shall proclaim such fact, and upon the publication of such proclamation, such ordinance thus adopted shall have the same and equal force and effect as though adopted and ordained by the board of supervisors. The board of supervisors may also, at any election, submit any question or proposition upon which they may desire the opinion of the voters of the county.

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS.

§ 14. Each county must have a board of supervisors, consisting of five members.

§ 15. Each member of the board of supervisors must be an elector of the district which he represents, must reside therein during his incumbency, must have been such elector for at least one year immediately preceding his election, and shall be elected by such district, and not at large; provided, that in any county or city and county in which supervisorial districts have not been established by law or ordinance, and in which supervisors are now required to be elected at large, but from particular wards, the members of the board of supervisors shall be elected at large and without regard to residence.

§ 16. The board of supervisors may, by a two-thirds vote of the members of said board, change the boundaries of any or all of the supervisor districts of a county. Said districts shall be as nearly equal in population as may be. The boundaries of no supervisor district shall at any time be changed in such manner as to affect the term of office of any supervisor who has been elected, and whose term of office has not expired. No change in the boundaries of any supervisor district shall be made within ninety days next preceding a general election.

§ 17. Whenever a vacancy occurs in the board of supervisors of a county, the governor shall fill the vacancy, and the appointee shall hold office until the election and qualification of his successor. In such case the election of a supervisor shall be held at the next general election to fill the vacancy for the unexpired term, unless such term expires on the first Monday after the first day of January succeeding said election.

§ 18. The supervisors shall elect a chairman, who shall preside at all meetings of the board, and in case of his absence or inability to act, the members present must, by an order entered on their records, select one of their number to act as chairman temporarily. Any member of the board may administer oaths, when necessary in the performance of his official duties. A majority of the members of the board shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business, and no act of the board shall be valid or binding unless a majority of all the members concur therein.

§ 19. The county clerk is ex officio clerk of the board of supervisors. The records and minutes of the board must be signed by the chairman and the clerk.

8. To cause to be erected or rebuilt, or furnished, a court-house, jail, hospital, and such other public buildings as may be necessary, or to provide suitable buildings for such purposes. None of the aforesaid buildings shall be erected or constructed until the plans and specifications have been made therefor and adopted by the board. All such buildings must be erected by contract, let to the lowest responsible bidder, after notice by publication in a newspaper of general circulation published in such county, for at least thirty days. In case there is no newspaper published in such county, then such notice shall be given by posting in three public places.

The expenses of taking such census shall be a county charge.

13. Any county having an outstanding indebtedness, evidenced by bonds or warrants thereof, may refund such indebtedness and issue bonds of the county therefor, and any county may incur or refund a bonded indebtedness for any purposes for which the board of supervisors are herein authorized to expend the funds of said county. Such indebtedness shall be refunded or incurred in the following manner, to wit: The board of supervisors thereof shall by order specify the purpose for which the indebtedness is to be incurred, the amount of bonds which they propose to issue, the rate of interest, and the number of years, not exceeding forty, the whole or any part of said bonds are to run, and shall further provide for submitting the question of the issue of said bonds to the qualified electors of the county at a special election to be called by the board for that purpose, and the words to appear upon the ballot shall be "Bonds—Yes," and "Bonds—No," or words of similar import. None but qualified voters of the county shall be permitted to vote thereat, and it shall be held as nearly as practicable in conformity with the general election law of the state. Notice shall be given of such election by publication in one or more newspapers published in the county, once a week for at least four weeks, or daily for not less than thirty days, prior to said election. If any election officers so named in such notice are not present at the opening of the polls, the electors present may appoint election officers to take the place of such election officers so absent. If two thirds of the electors of the county voting at such election shall vote in favor of issuing such bonds, the board must proceed to issue the amount of bonds specified; provided, that the total amount of bonded indebtedness shall at no time exceed five per centum of the taxable property of the county, as shown by the last equalized assessment book thereof. This limitation shall not apply to bonds which may be issued to refund an indebtedness existing January first, eighteen hundred and eighty. The board of supervisors, by an order entered upon its minutes, shall prescribe the form of said bonds, and of the interest coupons attached thereto, and fix the time when the whole or any part of the principal of said bonds shall be payable, which shall not be more than forty years from the date thereof; and said board may also, at their option, by a provision in such bonds, make such principal payable on or before a specified date at the pleasure of the county. Said bonds may be issued in denominations not to exceed one thousand dollars and not less than one hundred dollars; principal and interest payable in gold coin of the United States, either at the treasury of said county, or at such place as such board may designate, or both at such treasury or such designated place, at the option of the bondholder. Interest on said bonds shall not exceed six per centum per annum, payable annually or semiannually, as said board may designate. Said bonds shall be signed by the chairman of the board of supervisors, and attested by the auditor of said county, and have the seal of the board of supervisors attached, and said coupons shall be signed by said auditor by original or lithographed facsimile signature; and said bonds shall be sold in the manner prescribed by said board of supervisors, but for not less than par. The board of supervisors, before or at the time of incurring the indebtedness of any bonds issued under the provisions of this act, and annually thereafter until all of said bonds are paid and canceled, must levy a tax for that year upon the taxable property of said county for the interest and redemption of said bonds, and such tax must not be less than sufficient to pay the interest on said bonds for that year, and such portion of the principal, if any, as is to become due during such year, and in any event must be sufficient to raise annually for the first half of the term said bonds have to run, a sufficient sum to pay the interest thereon; and during the balance of the term sufficient to pay such annual interest, and to provide annually a proportion of the principal of said bonds equal to a sum produced by taking the whole amount of said bonds outstanding and dividing it by the number of years said bonds then have to run. And the board of supervisors, before or at the time of issuing said bonds by ordinance shall provide for the levy of an annual tax sufficient to effect the objects of this provision, and to provide for the payment of the interest on said bonds as it becomes due, and also sufficient to constitute a sinking fund to pay the principal of such indebtedness at or before maturity. Such tax when collected, shall be paid into the treasury of the county, and used solely to pay the interest and principal of said bonds as they respectively become due.

The revenue derived from the sale of said bonds shall be applied to the purpose specified in the order of the board, and no other. Should there be any surplus, it shall be applied toward the payment of said bonds. The board of supervisors of any county can contract a bonded indebtedness for county purposes only as herein provided.

In issuing bonds under this act, the board of supervisors may, at its option, use the following form of bond and coupon:

§ 251½. [Seems to have been incorrectly numbered.] The board of supervisors shall adopt orders and enact ordinances necessary for the preservation of the health of domestic live stock, which orders and ordinances shall not be in conflict with state or federal laws, and the said board of supervisors shall provide for the payment of all expenses incurred in enforcing the same, which expenses shall be a county charge and payable in the same manner and out of the same funds as other county charges are paid. [New section added, Stats. 1905, 722.]

§ 251½. The boards of supervisors shall also have jurisdiction and power in their respective counties to acquire and take by purchase, condemnation, or otherwise, land for the uses and purposes of public boulevards; to lay out, establish and improve public boulevards and to incur a bonded indebtedness for any of such purposes; provided, that no such indebtedness shall be incurred for any of such purposes until after the question of the issue of bonds therefor shall have been submitted to the qualified electors of the county, at a special election called for that purpose and two thirds of the electors of the county voting at such election shall have voted in favor of issuing such bonds; said election to be called and held, and said bonds, if authorized, to be issued, sold and made payable in the manner and form prescribed by subdivision thirteen of section twenty-five of this act. Said boards shall also have power to maintain public boulevards, established and laid out under the provisions of this act, and to make and enforce rules and regulations for the protection, management, control and use of such boulevards. [New section added March 16, 1903, Stats. 1903, p. 160. In effect immediately.]

§ 26. The enacting clause of all ordinances of the board shall be as follows: "The board of supervisors of the county of _____ do ordain as follows." Every ordinance shall be signed by the chairman of the board and attested by the clerk. On the passage of all ordinances the votes of the several members of the board shall be entered on the minutes, and all ordinances shall be entered at length in the "ordinance book." No ordinance passed by the board shall take effect within less than fifteen days after its passage, and before the expiration of the said fifteen days the same shall be published, with the names of the members voting for and against the same, for at least one week, in some newspaper published in the county if there be one, and if there be none published in the county, then such ordinance shall be posted at the court-house door at least one week. An order entered in the minutes of the board that such ordinance has been duly published or posted shall be prima facie proof of such publication or posting.

§ 27. The board of supervisors shall have power to direct the sheriff to attend, in person or by deputy, all the meetings of the board, to preserve order, serve notices, subpœnas, citations, or other process, as directed by the board.

§ 28. Whenever the board of supervisors of any county shall deem it necessary or important to examine any person as a witness upon any subject or matter within the jurisdiction of such board, or to examine any officer of the county in relation to the discharge of his official duties, as to the receipt or disposition by him of any moneys, or concerning the possession or disbursement by him of any property belonging to the county, or to use, inspect, or examine any books, account, voucher, or document in the possession of such officer or other person, or under his control, relating to the affairs or interests of such county, the chairman of such board shall issue a subpœna, in proper form, commanding such person or officer to appear before such board, at a time and place therein specified, to be examined as a witness; and such subpœna may require such person or officer to produce on such examination all books, papers, and documents in his possession or under his control, relating to the affairs or interests of the county.

§ 29. It shall be the duty of the sheriff of the county to whom the subpœna is delivered, to serve the same by reading it to the person named therein, and at the same time to deliver to him a copy thereof, and his official return thereon, of the time and place of such service, shall be prima facie evidence thereof.

§ 30. Whenever the board of supervisors shall appoint any members of their body a committee upon any subject or matter of which the board has jurisdiction, and has conferred upon such committee power to send for persons and papers, the chairman of such committee shall possess all the powers and be liable to all the duties herein given to and imposed upon the chairman of the board of supervisors.

§ 31. Whenever any person duly subpoenaed to appear and give evidence, or to produce any books and papers, as herein provided, shall neglect or refuse to appear, or to produce such books and papers, as required by such subpoena, or shall refuse to testify before such board or committee, or to answer any questions which a majority thereof shall decide to be proper and pertinent, he shall be deemed in contempt, and it shall be the duty of the chairman of the board, or of the committee, as the case may be, to report the fact to the judge of the superior court of the county, or of the city and county, who shall thereupon issue an attachment in the form usual in the court of which he shall be judge, directed to the sheriff of the county where such witness was required to appear and testify, commanding the said sheriff to attach such person, and forthwith bring him before the judge by whose order such attachment was issued.

§ 32. On the return of the attachment and the production of the body of the defendant, the said judge shall have jurisdiction of the matter, and the person charged may purge himself of the contempt in the same way, and the same proceedings shall be had, and the same penalties may be imposed, and the same punishment inflicted as in case of a witness subpoenaed to appear and give evidence on the trial of a civil cause before a superior court.

§ 33. The witnesses summoned to testify on behalf of the county in matters of public concern before the board of supervisors are not entitled to have their fees prepaid; but the board must allow them the reasonable expenses of their attendance.

§ 33½. To appropriate from the general fund of the county, unless otherwise provided, not exceeding in counties of the first and second class the sum of twenty thousand dollars, and in all other counties not exceeding the sum of ten thousand dollars in any one year, to aid in and carry on the work of the preservation of forests upon public lands, the reforestation of forests upon public lands, and the protection of forests upon public lands from fire. [New section added, Stats. 1905, 394.]

§ 34. The board must provide printed copies of the great register, poll-lists, poll-books, blank returns and certificates, proclamations of elections, and other appropriate and necessary appliances for holding all elections in the county, and allow reasonable charges therefor, and for the transmission and return of the same to the proper officers.

§ 35. Whenever, as canvassers, the board of supervisors have declared the result of an election held in the county, certificates must be, by the county clerk, issued to all persons elected to a county, township, or district office therein, and such other certificates must be made out and transmitted as required by law.

§ 36. The board must not, for any purpose, contract debts or liabilities, in any manner or for any purpose, which exceed in any fiscal year the income and revenue provided for such year, except as permitted by the constitution. It shall be the duty of the auditor, at the commencement of each regular session of the board, to lay before it a statement prepared by him of the aggregate amount of allowance against each fund, and of salaries and liabilities fixed by law, paid or payable therefrom since the beginning of the fiscal year, together with a statement of receipts of each fund for that portion of the year already elapsed, and an exact estimate of the revenue for the remainder of the year apportioned to the different funds, based upon the receipts for the corresponding portion of the preceding year. Whenever the board shall have levied the state and county tax for the fiscal year, the auditor's estimates for the remainder of the year shall, as to receipts from property tax, be based upon the assessment roll and tax levy, deducting ten per centum for the anticipated delinquencies. Up to and including the first day of January in each fiscal year the board shall have no power for any purpose to contract debts or liabilities in any manner or for any purpose nor to make any allowances against any funds, which with all the debts and liabilities previously incurred and with all allowances previously made, and salaries and liabilities fixed by law payable therefrom, shall exceed seventy per centum of the auditor's estimate of revenue for the year, except to build or repair roads and bridges which have been destroyed or made impassable by flood or fire. Any debts or liabilities contracted in any manner or for any purpose and any allowances made contrary to the provisions of this section shall be null and void and the auditor shall not draw his warrant therefor nor the treasurer pay the same. When several allowances are made on the same day, they shall be deemed to have been in the order in which they are entered in the "allowance book," and shall be certified in that order by the auditor. [Amendment, Stats. 1903, 402.]

§ 37. Whenever the board of supervisors shall adopt plans and specifications for the erection, alteration, construction, or repair of any public building, bridge, or other public structure, such plans and specifications shall not be altered or changed in any manner whereby the cost of such building, bridge, or structure shall be increased, except by a vote of two thirds of their number.

§ 38. Whenever the board of supervisors shall enter into a contract for the erection, construction, alteration, or repair of any public building, bridge, or other structure, such contract shall not be altered or changed in any manner, unless they shall, by a vote of two thirds of their number, and with the consent of the contractor, first so order. And whenever any such change or alteration is so ordered, the particular change or alteration shall be specified, in writing, and the cost thereof agreed upon between the board and the contractor. In no case shall the board pay or become liable to pay for any extra work done on, or extra material furnished for, such building or structure.

§ 39. No county officer shall, except for his own service, present any claim, account, or demand for allowance against the county, or in any way except in the discharge of his official duty advocate the relief asked in the claim or demand made by any other. Any person may appear before the board and oppose the allowance of any claim or demand made against the county.

§ 40. The board of supervisors must not hear or consider any claim in favor of any public officer, person, corporation, company, or association against the county, nor shall the board credit or allow any claim or bill against the county or district fund, unless the same be itemized, giving names, dates and particular services rendered, character of process served, upon whom, distance traveled, where and when, character of work done, number of days engaged, supplies or materials furnished, to whom, and quantity and price paid therefor, duly verified to be correct, and that the amount claimed is justly due, and is presented and filed with the clerk of the board within a year after the last item of the account or claim accrued. If, in case of any claim which requires itemizing, the board do not hear or consider the same because it is not itemized, they shall cause notice to be given to the claimant or his attorney of that fact, and give time to have the claim itemized and reverified.

§ 41. No account shall be passed upon by the board, unless made out as prescribed in this and the preceding section and filed with the clerk three days prior to the time of the meeting of the board at which it is asked to be allowed.

Said demand shall be approved before filing by the officer who directed such expenditure. If said demand be allowed by the board, the clerk of the board shall detach and file the memorandum, and shall indorse on such demand "Allowed by the board of supervisors," together with the date of such allowance, the amount of such allowance and from what fund; shall attest the same with his signature, and, when countersigned by the chairman, shall transmit the same to the auditor, who shall, in case he allows said demand, indorse upon it "Allowed," together with the amount for which it is allowed, from what fund, date and number of the warrant, and shall, in attestation thereof, affix his signature thereto and deliver the same to the claimant; and said demand, when so allowed and signed by the auditor, shall constitute the warrant on the treasury, within the meaning of this act.

§ 42. When the board find that any claim presented is not payable by the county, or is not a proper county charge, it must be rejected; and said rejection shall be plainly indorsed on said claim; if they find it to be a proper county charge, but greater in amount than is justly due, the board may allow the claim in part, and draw a warrant for the portion allowed, on the claimant filing a receipt in full for his account. If the claimant is unwilling to receive such amount in full payment, the claim may again be considered at the next regular session of the board, but not afterward.

§ 43. If the board refuse, or neglect to allow or reject a claim or demand for ninety days, after the same has been filed with the clerk, such refusal or neglect may, at the option of the claimant, be deemed equivalent to final action and rejection on the ninetieth day, and a claimant dissatisfied with the rejection of his claim or demand, or with the amount allowed him on his account, may sue the county therefor at any time within six months after the final action of the board, but not afterward, and if, in such action, judgment is recovered for more than the board allowed, on presentation of a certified copy of the judgment, the board must allow and pay the same, together with the costs adjudged; but if no more is recovered than the board allowed, the board must pay the claimant no more than was originally allowed.

§ 44. Warrants drawn by order of the supervisors on the county treasury for the current expenses during each year, must specify the liability for which they are drawn, and when they accrued, and must be paid in the order of the presentation to the treasurer. If the fund is insufficient to pay any warrant, it must be registered, and thereafter paid in the order of registration.

§ 45. No member of the board must be interested, directly or indirectly, in any property purchased for the use of the county, nor in any purchase or sale of property belonging to the county, nor in any contract made by the board, or other person, on behalf of the county, for the erection of public buildings, the opening or improvement of roads, or the building of bridges, or for any purpose, or act as a member of a committee or board of reviewers.

§ 46. Whenever an application is made to the board for an order, franchise or license relating to any toll road, bridge, ferry, wharf, chute, pier or other subject over which the board has jurisdiction, in which a majority of the board are interested, the application, by order of the board, must be transferred to the superior court of the county. The clerk of the board must thereupon certify the application, and all orders and papers relating thereto, to said superior court, and thereafter the said superior court shall have full jurisdiction to hear and determine the application.

§ 47. All public notices of proceedings of or to be had before the board, not otherwise specially provided for, must be posted at the court-house door, and two other public places in the county.

§ 48. The board must require the assessor to report to the state board of equalization, annually, a true statement of the agricultural and industrial pursuits and products of the county, with such other statistical information as they may direct.

§ 49. All claims against the county, presented by members of the board of supervisors for per diem and mileage, or other service rendered by them, must be itemized and verified as other claims, and must state that the service has been actually rendered, and before allowance such claims must be presented to the district attorney, who must indorse thereon, in writing, his opinion as to the legality thereof. If the district attorney declare the claim, or any part thereof, illegal, he must state specifically wherein it is illegal, and the claim, or such part, must then be rejected by said board.

§ 50. The board must have prepared by the clerk, and when he is not also auditor, then by that officer, and under their direction, prior to their annual meeting for levying taxes, a statement showing:

1. The indebtedness of the county, funded and floating, stating the amount of each class, and the rate of interest borne by such indebtedness, or any part thereof.

2. A concise description of all property owned by the county, with an approximate estimate of the value thereof, and the amount of cash in the county treasury and its several funds.

§ 51. The board must receive from the United States, or other sources, lands and other property granted or donated to the county for the purpose of aiding in the erection of county buildings, roads, bridges or other specific purposes, and may use the same therefor, and may provide for the sale of the same, and the application of the proceeds thereof.

§ 52. The board may provide for widening, deepening, straightening, removing obstructions from and otherwise improving all streams and washes within the county and also protecting the banks and adjacent lands from overflow of such streams or washes, when the same are not declared by law to be, and in fact are not, navigable for commercial purposes, the overflow of which interferes with highways; and provide regulations for the use, repair, and control thereof; but no regulations of the board, nor improvements directed, must in any manner interfere with the private rights or privileges of riparian owners, miners or others. Whenever, in the opinion of the board of supervisors, the general fund is insufficient to defray the cost of the improvements provided for under this section, they may levy a tax or contract a bonded indebtedness therefor in the manner provided by this act.

§ 53. Any supervisor who refuses or neglects to perform any duty imposed on him, without just cause therefor, or who wilfully violates any law provided for his government as such officer, or fraudulently or corruptly performs any

The judge or judges of the superior court shall, on or before the said first Monday of September, prescribe the amount in which each member of the board of supervisors must execute an official bond before entering upon the discharge of the duties of his office. COUNTY TREASURER.

§ 67. The county treasurer must:

1. Receive all moneys belonging to the county, and all other moneys by law directed to be paid to him, safely keep the same, and apply and pay them out, rendering the account thereof as required by law.

2. File and keep the certificates of the auditor delivered to him when moneys are paid into the treasury.

3. Keep an account of the receipt and expenditure of all such moneys, in books provided for the purpose, in which must be entered the amount, the time when, from whom, and on what account all moneys were received by him; the amount, time when, to whom, and on what account all disbursements were made by him.

4. So keep his books that the amount received and paid out on account of separate funds or specific appropriations are exhibited in separate and distinct accounts, and the whole receipts and expenditures shown in one general or cash account.

5. Enter no moneys received for the current year on his account with the county for the past fiscal year, until after his annual settlement for the past year has been made with the county auditor.

6. Disburse the county moneys only on county warrants, issued by the county auditor, except on settlement with the state.

7. Disburse the moneys in the treasury on such warrants only when they are based on orders of the board of supervisors, or upon order of the superior court, or as otherwise provided by law.

§ 68. He must receive no money into the treasury unless accompanied by the certificate of the auditor, provided for in section one hundred and eleven.

§ 69. When any money is paid to the county treasurer he must give to the person paying the same a receipt therefor, which must forthwith be deposited with the county auditor, who must charge the treasurer therewith, and give the person paying the same a receipt.

§ 70. When a warrant is presented for payment, if there is money in the treasury for that purpose, he must pay the same and write on the face thereof "Paid," the date of payment, and sign his name thereto.

§ 71. When any warrant is presented to the treasurer for payment, and the same is not paid for want of funds, the treasurer must indorse thereon "Not paid for want of funds," with the date of presentation, and sign his name thereto, and from that time until paid the warrant bears five per centum interest per annum.

§ 72. When there are sufficient moneys in the treasury to pay the warrants drawing interest, the treasurer must give notice in some newspaper published in the county, or if none is published therein, then by written notice posted upon the court-house door, stating therein that he is ready to pay such warrants. From the first publication or posting of such notice, such warrants cease to draw interest.

§ 73. In advertising warrants under the provisions of the preceding section in any newspaper, the treasurer must not publish the warrants in detail, but give notice only that county warrants presented for payment prior to such a date, stated in the notice, are payable. When a part only of the warrants presented for payment on the same day are payable, the treasurer must designate such payable warrants in the advertisement.

§ 74. Warrants drawn on the treasury, and properly attested, are entitled to preference as to payment out of the moneys in the treasury properly applicable to such warrants, according to the order in which they were presented. The time of presenting such warrants must be noted by the treasurer, and upon receipt of moneys into the treasury not appropriated, he must set apart the same, or so much thereof as is necessary for the payment of such warrants.

§ 75. Should such warrants not be again presented for payment within sixty days from the time the notice hereinbefore provided for is given, the fund set aside for the payment of the same must be by the treasurer applied to the payment of unpaid warrants next in order of registry. The board of supervisors may, on application and presentation of warrants properly indorsed, which have been advertised, pass an order directing the treasurer to pay them out of any money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated.

§ 76. When the treasurer pays any warrant upon which any interest is due, he must note on the warrant the amount of interest paid thereon and enter on his account the amount of such interest distinct from the principal.

§ 77. The treasurer must settle his accounts relating to the collection, care and disbursement of public revenue, of whatsoever nature and kind, with the auditor, on the first Monday of each month. For the purpose of making such settlement, he must make a statement, under oath, of the amount of money or other property received prior to the period of such settlement, the sources whence the same was derived, the amount of payments or disbursements, and to whom, with the amount remaining on hand. He must, in such settlements, deposit all warrants redeemed by him, and take the auditor's receipt therefor. He must also make a full settlement of all accounts with the auditor, annually, on the first Monday of January, in the presence of the supervisors.

§ 78. Each county treasurer must make a detailed report, at every regular meeting of the board of supervisors of his county, of all moneys received by him, and the disbursement thereof, and of all debts due to and from the county, and of all other proceedings in his office, so that the receipts into the treasury and the amounts of disbursements, together with the debts due to and from the county, may distinctly appear.

§ 79. If any county treasurer neglect or refuse to settle or report, as required in sections seventy-seven and seventy-eight, he forfeits and must pay to the county the sum of five hundred dollars for every such neglect or refusal, and the board of supervisors must institute suits for the recovery thereof.

§ 80. If the district attorney refuse or neglect to account for and pay over money received by him, as required by the fifth subdivision of section one hundred and thirty-two, he shall be liable for such refusal or neglect upon his official bond, and the county treasurer must bring an action against him for the recovery thereof, in the name of the county, and may recover in such action, in addition to the amount so received, fifty per centum thereon by way of damages. And no order of the board of supervisors shall be necessary to bring such action. His reasonable expenses, including attorney's fees, shall be a county charge.

§ 81. The treasurer, upon receiving from the coroner, or justice of the peace acting as coroner, money found on a dead body, must place it to the credit of the county; on receiving other property in like manner, he must, within thirty days, sell it at public auction, upon reasonable public notice, and must, in like manner, place the proceeds to the credit of the county. All said moneys must be kept in a separate fund.

§ 82. If the money in the treasury is demanded within six years, by the legal representatives of the decedent, the treasurer must pay it to them, after deducting the fees and expenses of the coroner, and of the county, in relation to the matter, or the same may be so paid at any time thereafter, upon the order of the board of supervisors.

§ 83. The county treasurer must keep all moneys belonging to this state, or to any county of this state, in his own possession, until disbursed according to law. He must not place the same in the possession of any person, to be used for any purpose; nor must he loan, or in any manner use, or permit any person to use the same, except as provided by law; but nothing in this section prohibits him from making special deposits for the safe-keeping of the public moneys; but he shall be liable therefor on his official bond.

§ 84. Whenever an action, based upon official misconduct, is commenced against any county treasurer, the supervisors may, in their discretion, suspend him from office until such suit is determined, and may appoint some person to fill the vacancy, who shall qualify and give such bond as may be required by the board of supervisors.

§ 85. In case of the death of any county treasurer, his legal representatives must deliver up to the person appointed to fill the vacancy occasioned by such death, all official moneys, books, accounts, papers and documents which are or may come into their possession.

§ 86. The books, accounts and vouchers of the treasurer are at all times subject to the inspection and examination of the board of supervisors and grand jury.

§ 87. The treasurer must permit the chairman of the board of supervisors, district attorney and auditor to examine his books and count the money in the treasury, whenever they may wish to make an examination or counting.

§ 91. The return of the sheriff upon process or notices is prima facie evidence of the facts in such return stated.

§ 92. If a sheriff does not return a process or notice in his possession, with the necessary indorsement thereon, without delay, he is liable to the party aggrieved for the sum of two hundred dollars, and for all damages sustained by him.

§ 95. A sheriff who suffers the escape of a person arrested in a civil action, without the consent or connivance of the party in whose behalf the arrest or imprisonment is made, is liable as follows:

1. When the arrest is upon an order to hold to bail, or upon a surrender in exoneration of bail before judgment, he is liable to the plaintiff as bail.

2. When the arrest is on an execution or commitment to enforce the payment of money, he is liable for the amount expressed in the execution or commitment.

3. When the arrest is on an execution or commitment other than to enforce the payment of money, he is liable for the actual damages sustained.

4. Upon being sued for damages for an escape or rescue, he may introduce evidence in mitigation and exculpation.

§ 96. He is liable for the rescue of a person arrested in a civil action, equally as for an escape.

§ 97. An action cannot be maintained against the sheriff for a rescue, or for an escape of a person arrested upon an execution or commitment, if, after his rescue or escape, and before the commencement of the action, the prisoner returns to the jail, or is retaken by the sheriff.

§ 98. No direction or authority by a party or his attorney to a sheriff, in respect to the execution of process or return thereof, or to any act or omission relating thereto, is available to discharge or excuse the sheriff from a liability for neglect or misconduct, unless it is contained in a writing, signed by the attorney of the party, or by the party, if he has no attorney.

§ 99. When the sheriff is committed, under an execution or commitment, for not paying over money received by him by virtue of his office, and remains committed for sixty days, his office is vacant.

When any process remains with the sheriff unexecuted, in whole or in part, at the time of his death, resignation of office, or at the expiration of his term of office, said process shall be executed by his successor or successors in office; and when the sheriff sells real estate, under and by virtue of an execution or order of court, he or his successors in office shall execute and deliver to the purchaser or purchasers all such deeds and conveyances as are required by law and necessary for the purpose, and such deeds and conveyances shall be as valid in law as if they had been executed by the sheriff who made the sale.

§ 104. When the sheriff is a party to an action or proceeding, the process and orders therein, which it would otherwise be the duty of the sheriff to execute, must be executed by the coroner of the county; provided, when any action is begun against the sheriff, all process and orders may be served by any person, a citizen of the United States over the age of eighteen years, in the manner provided in the Code of Civil Procedure.

When process is delivered to an elisor, he must execute and return it in the same manner as the sheriff is required to execute similar process. Whenever process is executed, or any act performed by a coroner or elisor, in the cases provided by law in that behalf, such coroner or elisor shall be entitled to receive a reasonable compensation, to be fixed by the court, to be paid by the plaintiff in case of the summoning of jurors to complete the panel, and by the person or party requiring the service in all other cases in private action. The sheriff of each county (of the classes above named) is hereby authorized and empowered to appoint, and to provide for the payment of the compensation of, a matron of the county jail of the county of which they are such board, and to specify the conditions, and fix the amount of the matron's official bond, to be approved by such board. The monthly compensation of such matron in the several counties of the classes above mentioned (regulated hereby in proportion to the duties to be discharged) shall be as follows, payable monthly: In counties of the first class, seventy-five dollars; in counties of the second class, fifty dollars; in counties of the third class, forty dollars; in counties of the fourth class, thirty-five dollars, and in counties of the fifth class, thirty dollars. To further the carrying into effect of the authority above conferred and in furtherance of the discharge of the duties of the matrons of such county jails, it is hereby enacted that no officer, deputy, jailer, keeper, guard or person having charge or control of any such county jail shall refuse the duly appointed and qualified matron thereof free access at all reasonable times to the immediate presence of all female prisoners therein, including the right of visitation and conversation with them, or in such jail allow the searching of the person, in the case of a female prisoner, to be made except by the matron of such jail, or obstruct the performance by the matron of her official duties in such jail as those duties may be specified under the provisions of this act or of law. [New section, Stats. 1901, 681.]

§ 215. The salaries and fees provided in this act shall be in full compensation for all services of every kind and description rendered by the officers herein named either as officers or ex officio officers, their deputies and assistants, unless in this act otherwise provided, and all deputies employed shall be paid by their principals out of the salaries hereinbefore provided, unless in this act otherwise provided; provided, and except that where an assistant district attorney has been heretofore appointed in any county, either under the provisions of subdivision thirty-six of section twenty-five, or under any other provisions of an act entitled "An act to establish a uniform system of county and township government," approved March twenty-fourth, eighteen hundred and ninety-three, and such assistant is continued by the provisions of this act, either as an assistant or deputy in such county, then such deputy or assistant shall be paid out of the funds of such county, as heretofore or herein provided; the assessor shall be entitled to receive and retain for his own use six per centum on personal property tax collected by him, as authorized by section thirty-eight hundred and twenty of the Political Code, and fifteen per centum of all amounts collected by him for poll-taxes, and road poll-taxes, and also five dollars per hundred names of persons returned by him as subject to military duty, as provided in section nineteen hundred and one of the Political Code, and the license collector shall be entitled to receive and retain for his own use ten per centum on all licenses collected by him, except where otherwise provided in this act; provided, however, that in counties and cities and counties of the first, second and third class, the assessor shall receive no commission for the collection of taxes on personal property, nor shall such assessor receive any compensation for making out military roll of persons returned by him as subject to military duty as provided by section nineteen hundred and one of the Political Code; nor shall the license collector in cities and counties of the first class and counties of the second class receive any commission on licenses collected by him except the commissions on state liquor licenses; provided, that the treasurer shall receive and retain for his own use the commissions on all inheritance and transfer taxes collected by him, and provided further, that whenever the treasurer of any county shall employ a special attorney for the collection of such taxes said attorney shall be paid out of the commissions and fees allowed by law for the collection of such taxes; provided that in any county where the number of judges of the superior court shall have been increased since the first day of January, eighteen hundred and ninety-seven, or shall hereafter be increased, there must be and there hereby is allowed to the sheriff of such county, by reason of such increase, one additional deputy, to be appointed by the sheriff, at a salary not exceeding twelve hundred dollars per annum, to be paid at the same time and in the same manner as other county officers are paid; and also there must be and is hereby allowed to the county clerk of such county, one additional deputy to act as court-room clerk, for each judge so appointed or elected, at a salary not exceeding twelve hundred dollars per annum for each of said deputies, to be paid at the same time and in the same manner as other county officers are paid. The board of supervisors shall allow to the sheriff his necessary expenses for pursuing criminals, or transacting any criminal business, and for boarding prisoners in the county jail; provided that the board of supervisors shall fix a reasonable price at which such prisoners shall be boarded, if not otherwise provided for in this act; provided, further, that the sheriff shall be entitled to receive and retain for his own use, five dollars per diem for conveying prisoners to and from the state prisons, and for conveying persons to and from the insane asylums, or other state institutions not otherwise provided for by law; also, all expenses necessarily incurred in conveying insane persons to and from the insane asylums, and in conveying persons to and from the state prisons, or other state institutions, which per diem and expenses shall be allowed by the board of examiners, collected from the state. The court shall also allow the sheriff his necessary expenses in keeping and preserving property seized on attachment or executions, to be paid out of the fees collected in the action. The sheriff may retain for his own use the mileage for service of papers or process issued by any court of the state.

Provided further that the county treasurers of the several counties of this state, where their necessary expense incurred in the making of the state settlements provided for by section thirty-eight hundred and sixty-six Political Code, shall exceed the maximum amount of mileage allowed them by section thirty-eight hundred and seventy-six of the Political Code, shall be allowed out of the county treasury of their respective counties, the amount of such excess, which shall be paid as other demands against the county are paid. [Amendment, Stats. 1905, 582.]

§ 216. All salaried officers of the several counties of this state shall charge and collect for the use of their respective counties, and pay into the county treasury, on the first Monday in each month, the fees now or hereafter allowed by law in all cases, except where such fees, or a percentage thereof, is allowed such officers, and excepting also such fees as are a charge against the county.

§ 217. Each of the officers authorized to receive fees under the provisions of this act must keep a fee-book, open to the public inspection during office hours, in which must be entered, at once and in detail, all fees or compensation, of whatever nature, kind, or description, collected or chargeable. On the first Monday of each and every month, the officer must add up each column in his book to the first day of the month, and set down the totals. On the expiration of the term of such officer, he must deliver all fee-books kept by him to the county auditor.

§ 218. The fees and compensation collected and chargeable for the county in each month shall be paid to the county treasurer on the first Monday in the following month, and must be accompanied by a statement of the aggregate amount thereof, as shown by the fee-book, duly verified by the officer making such payment. The affidavit shall be in the following form: "I, A. B., county clerk (or other officer, as the case may be), do swear that the fee-book in my office contains a true statement in detail of all fees and compensation of every kind and nature for official services rendered by me, my deputies, and assistants, for the month of —, A. D. —, and that said fee-book shows a full amount received or chargeable in said month, and since my last monthly payment; and neither myself, nor to my knowledge or belief, any of my deputies or assistants have rendered any official service, except for the county, which is not fully set out in said fee-book, and that the foregoing statement thereof is true and correct."

The treasurer shall file and preserve in his office said statements and affidavit.

§ 219. For the purpose of paying the salaries provided for in this act, all fees directed to be paid into the county treasury shall be set apart therein as a separate fund, to be known as the salary fund, to be applied to the payment of said salaries. Should the amount received from such source be insufficient, it shall be the duty of the county treasurer from time to time to transfer to said fund from the general fund of the county such sums as may be necessary to pay said salaries as they become due.

§ 220. The salaries of such officers named in this act as are entitled to salaries shall be paid monthly out of the county treasury; and it shall be the duty of the auditor, on the first Monday of each and every month, to draw his warrant upon the county treasurer in favor of each of said officers for the amount of salary due him under the provisions of this act for the preceding month; except that one half of the annual salary of the assessor shall be paid to him in equal monthly instalments for the months of March, April, May, and June, and one half in equal monthly instalments for the remaining eight months of the year. The treasurer shall pay said warrants on presentation out of the salary fund of the county treasury.

§ 221. The auditor shall not draw his warrant for the salary of any such officer for any month until the latter shall first have presented him with the certificate of the county treasurer, showing that he has made the statement and settlement for that month required in this act.

§ 222. The officers mentioned in this act are not in any case, except for the state or county, to perform any official services, unless upon the prepayment of fees prescribed for such services, except in cases on habeas corpus and for naturalization, and on such payment the officer must perform the services required. For every failure, or refusal to perform official duty when the fees are tendered, the officer is liable on his official bond.

§ 223. Every officer, upon receiving any fees for official duty or service, may be required by the person paying the same to make out, in writing, and deliver to such person a particular account of such fees, specifying for what they, respectively, accrued, and shall receipt the same; and if he refuse or neglect to do so when required, he shall be liable to the party paying the same in treble the amount so paid.

§ 224. It shall be the duty of each justice of the peace to prepare, and keep posted in a conspicuous place in his office, a plain and legible statement of the fees allowed by law to justices of the peace and constables, upon pain of forfeiting, for failure so to do, fifty dollars, to be recovered, with costs, by any person, before any other justice of the peace of the county.

§ 225. The board of supervisors, upon receiving a certified copy of the record of conviction of any officer for receiving illegal fees, must declare his office vacant.

§ 226. It shall be the duty of all officers in this act named to complete the business of their respective offices to the time of the expiration of their respective terms; and in case any officer at the close of his term shall leave to his successor official labor to be performed, which it was his duty to perform, he shall be liable to pay to his successor the full value for such services.

§ 227. No fee or compensation of any kind must be charged or received by any officer for duties performed or services rendered in proceedings upon habeas corpus or naturalization, nor for administering or certifying the oath of office, nor fees or other compensation shall be paid for service rendered in an affidavit or application relating to the securing of a pension or the payment of a pension voucher, or any matter relating thereto, nor filing nor swearing to any claim or demand against any county in this state.

§ 228. The following are county charges:

1. Charges incurred against the county by virtue of any of the provisions of this act.

2. The traveling and other personal expenses of the district attorney, incurred in criminal cases arising in the county, and in civil actions and proceedings in which the county is interested, and all other expenses necessarily incurred by him in the detection of crime and prosecution of criminal cases, and in civil actions and proceedings and all other matters in which the county is interested.

3. The expenses necessarily incurred in the support of persons charged with or convicted of crime and committed therefor to the county jail.

4. The sums required by law to be paid to the grand and trial jurors and witnesses in criminal cases.

5. The accounts of the coroner of the county for such services as are not provided to be paid otherwise.

6. All charges and accounts for services rendered by any justice of the peace in the examination or trial of persons charged with crime, not otherwise provided for and allowed by law.

7. The necessary expenses incurred in the support of the county hospitals, poorhouses, and the indigent sick and otherwise dependent poor, whose support is chargeable to the county.

8. The contingent expenses necessarily incurred for the use and benefit of the county.

9. Every other sum directed by law to be raised for any county purpose under the direction of the board of supervisors, or declared to be a county charge.

10. The fees of constables in criminal cases allowed by law.

§ 229. When a criminal action is removed before trial, the costs accruing upon such removal and trial shall be a charge against the county in which the indictment or information was found.

§ 230. The clerk of the county to which such action is removed shall certify the amount of costs allowed and certified by the court to the auditor of his county, and such auditor shall audit the same and draw his warrant therefor upon the treasury of the county from which such action was removed; and such auditor shall forward to said treasurer and auditor of the county from which said action was transferred, as aforesaid, a certified copy of the total amount of costs allowed by the court, giving each item as certified to him by the county clerk and the court; and the auditor receiving such certified copy of said costs allowed shall enter the same in his book as a charge against the treasury of his county; and the county treasurer of the county from which said action was removed must, immediately upon presentation, pay said warrant out of the general fund of said county; or, if at the date of presentation there is not sufficient money in the said general fund to pay the same, he must indorse upon said warrant, "Not paid for want of funds," and said warrant must be registered, and shall draw interest at the same rate, and be paid in the same manner, as though it had been drawn by the auditor of the county where the indictment was found.

§ 231. Counties created or organized after the passage and approval of this act shall immediately come under and be governed by its provisions, so far as the same are applicable thereto. When the population of any existing county shall have been reduced, by reason of the creation of any new county from the territory thereof, below the class and rank first assumed hereunder, it shall be the duty of the board of supervisors of such county to designate by order the class to which such county has been reduced by reason thereof, and such county shall thereafter enter the list of such class; provided, that the salary of county officers shall not be affected by reason of such division of the county or order of the board, for the term for which they were elected and qualified. In any newly created county, for the purpose of fixing the salaries and fees of county and township offices, the board of commissioners appointed to organize said new county, and if no commissioners be appointed, then the board of supervisors of said new county, shall classify said new county according to the population classification of this act. In each case the population shall be numerically fixed, and when so fixed shall be certified to the secretary of state by the board fixing the same.

§ 233. The provisions of sections one hundred and fifty-eight to two hundred and fourteen, inclusive, of this act, so far as they change the compensation of any officer therein named, heretofore paid a fixed salary, or heretofore paid a fixed salary and commissions, and not fees or per diem, shall not affect incumbents, unless otherwise provided in any of said sections.

§ 234. This act, except as otherwise herein provided, shall take effect and be in force sixty days from and after its passage.

COURTS—RECORDS OF.

To transfer the records, papers, and business of the courts existing on the thirty-first day of December, eighteen hundred and seventy-nine, in this state, to the courts now existing therein.

(Stats. 1880, 2 ch. IV.)

§ 1. The supreme court shall, for all purposes, be considered the successor of the court of the same name which was abolished on the first day of January, eighteen hundred and eighty, and to have succeeded to all its unfinished business. It shall have jurisdiction of, and shall hear and determine, or otherwise dispose of, all causes, proceedings, appeals, motions, and matters pending on said day in the court superseded by it; and also, of all appeals taken to such court before or after such day, from judgments or orders of any of the inferior courts abolished by the constitution. From and after the first day of January, eighteen hundred and eighty, the supreme court shall have the custody of all records, books, and papers of the former supreme court, and the same jurisdiction over its judgments, orders, and proceedings as if they had in the first instance been rendered, made, or commenced in the present court. All laws relating to the former court shall, as far as applicable, be considered as applying to the present court. All rules of the former court which were in force on the first day of January, eighteen hundred and eighty, and not inconsistent with the constitution, shall continue in force as rules of the present court until altered, abolished, or superseded by the order of the court.

§ 2. The superior court of each county in this state shall, for all purposes, be considered the successor of the district, county, and probate courts thereof, and, in the city and county of San Francisco, of the municipal criminal court and municipal court of appeals, and shall be deemed to have succeeded to all the unfinished business of said courts. § 8. The agent or assistant agents shall also have the power to require each and every person, firm or corporation, having any stock in his or their possession, or under his or their control, to drive the same into corrals or small inclosures, for the purpose of inspection. (Stats. 1887, 160, ch. CXLVIII; amended 1889, 147, ch. CXXXVII.)

ARTICLE I.

§ 1. The sum of sixty-five thousand dollars is hereby appropriated out of any moneys in the state treasury not otherwise appropriated, to be placed by the state controller to the credit of the fund hereafter to be known and designated as "The Fund of the Industrial Home of the Adult Blind," and to be expended for the objects and in the manner hereinafter specified.

§ 2. The said appropriation is for the purpose of teaching and supporting the adult blind that may be admitted to the "home," and for providing the material for the workshops, the cost of additional machinery for the same, the payment of all persons employed at the home, and for all legitimate expense of maintaining the institution hereinbefore named.

§ 3. All moneys drawn from this fund shall be drawn only when bills have been ordered paid by the board of directors of the home, and approved in writing by the state board of examiners; and, when so approved, the state controller must issue his warrant in payment thereof, and the state treasurer must pay the same.

§ 4. The governor of the state shall appoint five citizens of the state, who shall organize as and constitute the board of directors for the Home for Adult Blind.

§ 5. The home shall be located at such a place as the board of directors may designate.

ARTICLE II.

§ 1. The objects of the industrial home are: First, to instruct the adult blind that may be admitted as inmates in some trade or trades, in order to enable them to contribute to their own support; and, second, to furnish a working home for the adult blind, who, after having learned a trade or trades, desire to remain at the home as workmen; provided, that all of the latter class who remain shall pay to the state, through the board of directors, the cost of their maintenance at the home. The rate of wages to be paid to these journeymen, as well as the amount which they must pay for their maintenance, shall be fixed by the board.

§ 2. Every blind person who has been a resident of this state for the period of three years prior to his application for admission, of suitable age, character, and qualifications (as hereinafter provided) shall be entitled to the benefits of instruction in said home free of charge; provided, that the board of directors may admit blind persons from other states; but the admission of such blind persons shall be made under such conditions only as shall not entail cost on this state, and provided further, that the admission of persons not residents of this state shall in no case be allowed, if such admission would exclude a qualified blind resident of this state.

§ 3. The salaries of the superintendent, secretary and physician, and all other expense accounts, including the wages of workmen at trades, and employees, must be paid monthly out of the moneys appropriated by the legislature for the support of the home, or from accumulations from the industries of the home, or from donations and bequests to the home, made without restraining conditions, whenever resort to said donations or bequests be necessary. All such claims in said expense account, excepting salaries of said officers, shall be first approved by the board of directors, and shall be so indorsed by the secretary and attested by the president, and shall immediately thereafter be sent forward to the secretary of the state board of examiners. When the claims have been approved by the said board of examiners, the controller must issue his warrant therefor, directed to the state treasurer, in favor of the board of directors. The state treasurer is authorized to pay such warrant only when indorsed by the secretary, and attested by the president of the board. No claim for wages of employees or workmen at trades shall be audited by the board of directors until having first received from the foreman his monthly time certificate, duly verified by his oath, and stating the amount of labor performed by the employee or workman. [Amendment, Stats. 1889, 147.]

§ 4. The official bonds hereinafter required must be approved by the board of directors, and filed and recorded in the office of the secretary of state. The approval of the bond must be by indorsement thereon by the president, and reference thereon made by the secretary to said action of the board.

§ 3. To prescribe in particular the duties of the superintendent, physician, and secretary.

§ 4. To make inquiry into the department of labor and expense, the condition of the home and its prosperity, and to employ all reasonable means to make the same self-supporting.

§ 5. To hold stated meetings at the home at least once in every month.

§ 6. To keep at the home a record of their proceedings which shall be accessible to the public during the hours from nine a. m. to four p. m., excepting on legal holidays.

§ 7. To report annually in the month of December, to the governor, a statement of receipts and expenditures, the condition of the home, the number of the inmates, and the number of beneficiaries doing work at their own residences, and such other matters touching the management of the home as they may deem proper. The annual report must be verified by the oath of the president of the board of directors. The superintendent of state printing is hereby authorized to print annually two thousand copies of said report, which copies the board must circulate in the manner appearing to them to be in the best interests of the home.

§ 8. The board of directors is empowered to purchase, from time to time, such material as may be suitable to the requirements of the manufacturing and other departments of the home, and to audit the bills therefor, and to forward the same to the state board of examiners. When approved by said state board, the controller must issue his warrants in payment thereof. All purchases shall be made as provided in section twenty of this article.

§ 9. § 11. The board of directors is authorized and empowered to grade and fix the prices of skilled and unskilled labor. The board may fix the amount of work required in the various departments to constitute a day's labor, and, in accordance with such regulations, may permit inmates to work at piece-work.

§ 12. The board of directors may authorize work to be let out to blind people, so that such beneficiaries as in their judgment may require it, shall receive it at their residence; and for such piece-work liberal prices shall be paid, so as to equal, as nearly as possible, the compensation of resident laborers. But in no case shall the board incur any indebtedness for labor contracts with beneficiaries, resident or otherwise, except when there is sufficient money on hand to pay the same.

§ 13. The board shall provide dormitories for males and females in separate apartments, and may prescribe conditions, not inconsistent with the provisions of this act, for the admission of applicants.

§ 14. The directors shall receive no compensation for their services.

§ 15. The board of directors of the Industrial Home of Mechanical Trades for the Adult Blind of the State of California is hereby authorized and empowered to take, receive, manage, and invest all moneys or property hereafter bequeathed or donated to said home, in accordance with the wishes of the testator or donor; or, if no conditions are attached to the bequests or donations, then to invest such moneys or proceeds of property for the best interests of the home; provided, that if any donation or bequest be trammelled with any religious conditions of a sectarian character, or conditioned in any manner antagonistic to the provisions of this act, or in conflict with any necessary rule or regulation of the home, the board may refuse to accept such donation or bequest, and is hereby authorized to reject the same. Donations or bequests may be received by the state treasurer, or by the president of the board of directors; but no donations or bequests accompanied by any condition shall be received until such donation or bequest shall have been ordered approved and received by the board, and notice thereof given by the secretary to the state controller. Any bequest or donation received or collected by the president of the board must be immediately paid over by him to the state treasurer, and at the same time the president must forward to the state controller a statement thereabout verified by his oath. All moneys received by the state treasurer must be placed to the credit of the "Fund of the Industrial Home of Adult Blind." The investment of funds by the board can be made only in the same manner as the approval of claims, subject likewise to the action of the state board of examiners thereon.

§ 16. It shall be the duty of the president of the board to make careful and diligent inquiry into the general management of the home, and to report the result thereof at each meeting of the board, together with such recommendations as he may wish to make concerning the management of the home.

§ 17. Every officer and employee of the home, and any other person acquiring possession, by any means whatever, of moneys belonging to the home, must, at the close of each and every month, deliver the same to the board of directors, accompanied by a statement thereabout, verified by his oath, taking the secretary's receipt therefor. The board of directors must, at least once in every month, forward to the state treasurer all moneys in their charge belonging to the home. The secretary of the board must at the same time forward to the state controller a statement thereabout, verified by his oath. Each bid shall be accompanied by such security as the board shall require. Notice of the time, place, and letting of each contract shall be given for at least two consecutive weeks in a daily paper published in the city of San Francisco, and in one newspaper published in the city or town where the home is located. If all the bids at any letting are deemed by the board unreasonably high, the board may decline to contract, and may again advertise for proposals, and so continue to renew the advertisement until satisfactory contracts are made; and in the meantime the board may contract with any person whose contract is just and equitable, but no contract thus made shall extend beyond sixty days. No bid shall be accepted when such bid is higher than any other bid, made at the same letting, for the same class or schedule of articles. When two or more bids are equal in amount, the board may divide the contract between the bidders.

§ 21. The board shall designate the number of employees, prescribe their duties, and fix their compensation. All employees shall be appointed by the superintendent, subject to the approval of the board.

The superintendent shall be the chief executive officer of the home, with duties and powers as follows:

First—To superintend the grounds, buildings, workshops, manufacturing departments, and property of the home.

Second—To certify to the board of directors the number of instructors and employees needed in the manufacturing departments, and to recommend to the board the appointment of suitable persons for these positions.

Third—To dismiss any domestic, servant, or person employed at the home—other than an instructor or an employee in the manufacturing department—whenever in his judgment the good of the home demands it.

Fourth—To prescribe and enforce the duties of all instructors, employees, domestics, servants, and laborers employed at the home.

Fifth—To admit inmates only upon the certificate of the attending physician, or by order of the board, as hereinafter provided; to control the inmates, and to prescribe and enforce a system of instruction and labor.

Sixth—To suspend any instructor or employee pending a recommendation to the board for his permanent dismissal, and to appoint substitutes during the absence of any or all employees.

Seventh—Pending a recommendation to the board for his final dismissal, to suspend the privileges of and to remove from the premises any inmate whose presence appears to be in conflict with the interests of the home. Should any inmate so suspended or removed be in destitute condition, the superintendent must, upon his demand, furnish him with suitable lodgings and board elsewhere, until the decision of the board is made thereabout. The bill therefor must be presented to the board for payment in the same manner as other claims.

Eighth—To reside at the home.

Ninth—To keep a daily record of his official acts in the manner prescribed by the board, and to present the same to the board at each monthly meeting, verified by his oath, in accordance with the blanks furnished by the board for that purpose, and to make in said monthly reports such recommendations to the board as he may deem proper. The monthly report must contain a statement of all stock, goods, and supplies of any nature received at the home during the month.

Tenth—To turn over to the board, at the close of each and every month, together with the balance sheet, all moneys derived by him from the sale of manufactured goods, and all revenues derived by him from any source whatsoever in behalf of and for the benefit of the home, and to take the secretary's receipt therefor.

Eleventh—To make up and present to the board, in the month of July of each year, his annual accounts and statement of the affairs of the home, verified by his oath. The annual statement shall be an epitome of the monthly reports, and shall contain the number and names of all inmates, officers and employees, and their respective dates of admission, or beginning of employment, and the respective dates of dismissals made during the year. It shall contain a full review of all receipts and expenditures, and an invoice of all goods and stock and supplies on hand. It shall contain, also, the average weekly cost of board per capita of all persons residing at the home, without considering the labor credits, and the average annual cost of instruction per capita. It shall show clearly the relation of the gross products to the gross cost, and the percentage lacking in order to become self-supporting. For the making up of said statement, the superintendent shall have full access to the secretary's and other books of the home, and said statement shall be independent of each and all of the other annual reports.

Twelfth—To make requisitions on the board of directors for articles and goods needed at the home, and to order the same as directed by the board; provided, that the board may, by resolution spread upon its minutes, authorize the superintendent, in case of emergency, to make purchase of material and supplies for the home without such previous requisition. He must, in addition, perform such further services as may be required of him by the board. The annual salary of the superintendent shall be twenty-one hundred dollars. He must execute an official bond in the sum of five thousand dollars. The superintendent must be a man of good education, of good moral character, and business experience.

ARTICLE V.

It shall be the duty of the physician to examine at his office, at the stated hour daily, and at the home, at a stated hour upon the days of his visits, all applicants for admission, as to their blindness. If the applicant appears to be a proper subject for admission to the benefits of the home, the physician must forthwith deliver to him his certificate of admission, directed to the board and also to the superintendent of the home. Upon presentation of the certificate the superintendent must admit the applicant as a beneficiary. Any applicant rejected by the attending physician shall have the right of appeal to the board. The physician must present to the board, monthly, a statement of the sanitary condition of the home, and must therein specify the days and dates of his visits, and the ages and nativity of each person to whom he has issued during the month a certificate of admission, together with the cause or causes of their blindness, their physical condition, and also as to whether any such inmates would be benefited by medical treatment as well as any other matters which the board may deem proper to require of him. The monthly statements must be made upon blanks furnished by the board for that purpose. He must present to the board, in the month of July, his annual report, which shall be an epitome of his monthly reports, and in which he must specify, with particularity, all sickness at the home during the year; and such observations and recommendations may be therein made as seem to him pertinent to the sanitary welfare of the home. The attending physician must, in no instance, permanently treat any inmate for blindness, or any optical affection, without permission in each case first being given by the board, at the request of the person so afflicted. The attending physician must visit the home once every day.

Any failure, neglect or refusal on the part of any person holding such license to register the same with the clerk of said county as above directed for a period of six months after the issuance thereof shall ipso facto work a forfeiture of his license, and it shall not be restored except upon the payment to said board of twenty-five (25) dollars. Any suspension, revocation or reinstatement of a license shall with the date thereof be forthwith noted by the county clerk on the margin of the registration thereof upon receipt of notice from the secretary of the board. DRAINAGE—LANDS.

§ 1. Whenever the owners of two thirds of any body of lands susceptible of one mode of drainage desire to drain the same, they may present to the board of supervisors of the county in which the lands, or the greater portion thereof, are situated, at a regular meeting of the board, a petition setting forth that they desire to adopt measures to drain the same, the description of the land, the number of acres in the whole district, and the number of acres in each tract, and the names of the owners thereof, and the names of three persons who may desire to serve as trustees for the first three months; the petition must be verified by the affidavit of one of the petitioners, and must be published for four weeks next preceding the hearing thereof, in some newspaper published in the county in which the lands are situated; or if there is no newspaper published in the county, then it must be published in some newspaper having a general circulation in the county, and an affidavit of such publication must be filed with the petition.

§ 2. When a district is situated partly in different counties, the trustees must, after the petition has been granted, forward a copy thereof to the clerk of the board of supervisors of any county in which any portion of the district may lie, and the board to which the same is forwarded must not allow another district to be formed within such district, unless with the consent of the trustees thereof.

§ 3. If the board of supervisors find, upon the hearing of such petition, that lands have been improperly included in such district, they may, before fixing the final boundaries, exclude from such district any lands which may have been included, or include any lands adjacent thereto, on petition of any owner of such land presented at such time of hearing, as they may deem for the best interests of such district; and they must then define the boundaries, declare the district duly formed, and the persons named in the petition for the formation of such district to be the trustees for the first three months, or until their successors are appointed. [Amendment, Stats. 1891, 262.]

§ 4. The petition must then be recorded by the county recorder.

§ 5. After the approval of the petition the petitioners may make such by-laws as they deem necessary for future appointment of trustees, and to effect the work of drainage, keep the same in repair and operation, and for the control and management thereof, by the votes or consent of the owners of a majority of the land in the district.

§ 6. The by-laws adopted must be signed by persons owning a majority of land in the district, and must be recorded by the county recorder.

§ 7. The board thus formed shall have power to elect one of their number president thereof, and to employ engineers to survey, plan, locate, and estimate the cost of the works necessary for drainage, and the land needed for right of way, including drains, canals, sluices, water gates, embankments, and material for construction, and to construct, maintain, and keep in repair all works necessary to the object in view.

§ 8. The board of trustees must report to the board of supervisors of the county, or if the district is situated in more than one county then to the board of supervisors of each county in which the district is situated, the plans of the work and estimates of the costs, together with the estimates of the incidental expenses of superintendence, repairs, etc.

§ 9. The board by which the district was formed must appoint three commissioners, disinterested persons residing in the county in which the district, or some part thereof, is situated, and such commissioners must view and assess upon the lands situated in the district a charge proportionate to the whole expense, and to the benefit which will result from such work, which charge must be collected and paid into the county treasury as hereinafter provided, and must be placed by the treasurer to the credit of the district, and paid out for the work of drainage upon the warrants of the trustees appointed by the board of supervisors of the county.

§ 10. The warrants drawn by the trustees must, after they are approved by the board of supervisors, be presented to the treasurer of the county, and if they are not paid on presentation, like indorsements must be made thereon, and they must be registered in like manner as county warrants.

§ 11. If a district is situated partly in different counties the charges must be paid into the treasury of the county in which the particular tract may be situated.

§ 12. If the original assessment is insufficient to provide for the complete drainage of the lands of the district, or if further assessments are from time to time required to provide for the protection, maintenance, and repairs of the works, the trustees must present to the board of supervisors by which the district was formed a statement of the work to be done and its estimated cost, and the board must make an order directing that the commissioners who made the original assessment, or other commissioners to be named in such order, to assess the amount of such estimated cost as a charge upon the lands in the district, which assessment must be made and collected in the same manner as the original assessment.

§ 13. The commissioners appointed by the board of supervisors must make a list of the charges assessed against each district of land, and the list must contain a description of each tract assessed, the number of acres in each tract, and the names of the owners in each tract, if known, and if unknown, the amount of charges assessed against each tract; and the board of commissioners must, on completion of such list, cause a notice to be published in some paper published in the county where such district is situated, and also have such notice posted in three places in such district, to the effect that the board of commissioners will, in ten days from the publication of such notice, meet (and they shall also name the time and place of such meeting) as a board of equalization for the purpose of equalizing assessments, and will continue in session as long as may be necessary, not to exceed ten days, at the end of which time, having equalized and adjusted such assessments, the list must then be filed as hereinafter provided. [Amendment, Stats. 1891, 262.]

§ 14. The list so made must be filed with the county treasurer of the county, or if the district is partly situated in different counties, then the original list must be filed in the county first in order under alphabetical arrangement, and copies thereof, certified by the commissioners, must be filed with the treasurers of each of the other counties. From and after the filing of the list, or certified copies thereof, the charges assessed upon any tract of land in the county constitutes a lien thereon; and the list thus prepared must remain in the office of the treasurer for thirty days, or longer if ordered by the board of trustees; and during the time they so remain any person may pay the amount of the charges against any tract to the treasurer without costs; or if so ordered by the board of trustees, said payments may be by instalments: and if at the end of thirty days, or of the longer period fixed by trustees, all of the charges, or all of any instalments ordered by them, have not been paid, the treasurer must return the list to the district attorney, who must at once proceed by civil action to collect such charges.

§ 15. The work must be executed under the direction and in the manner prescribed by the board of trustees.

§ 16. The board must keep accurate accounts of all expenditures, which accounts, and all contracts that may be made by them, are open to the inspection of the board of supervisors, and every person interested.

§ 18. The trustees may acquire, by condemnation, the right of way for canals, drains, embankments, and other works necessary, and may take materials for the construction, maintenance, and repair thereof from lands outside of as well as in the limits of said district.

§ 19. The provisions of title seven, part three, of the Code of Civil procedure are applicable to, and condemnation herein provided for must be made thereinunder.

§ 20. Whenever any district susceptible of one mode of drainage, entirely owned by parties who desire to drain the same, and to manage such drainage without the intervention of trustees of [or], the establishment of by-laws, they may file the petition provided for in sections one and two, and must state therein that they intend to undertake such drainage on their own responsibility. If the petition is granted, the owners of the land have all the rights, immunities, and privileges granted to boards of trustees, and in all proceedings the names of owners may be used instead of the names of trustees.

§ 21. This act shall take effect upon its passage.

§ 2. The officers of said district shall consist of a board of drainage commissioners, who shall hold office four years from and after their election or appointment, and until their successors have qualified, and a board of river control, consisting of two members selected as hereinafter provided.

§ 3. Said drainage commissioners shall be nine in number, and shall be selected as follows: Two from the county of Sacramento; one from the county of San Joaquin; one from the county of Solano; one from the county of Yolo; one from the county of Colusa; one from the county of Sutter; one from the counties of Yuba and Placer jointly, and one from the counties of Glenn and Butte jointly.

§ 4. An election shall be held on the first Saturday after the first day of September, in the year one thousand nine hundred and five, and every four years thereafter, on the first Saturday after the first day of September of such year, in that portion of each of said counties situated within said drainage district, at which election said commissioners shall be elected. At such election each owner of land within that portion of each county situated within said district shall be entitled to cast one vote, in person or by proxy, for each commissioner to be elected in such county for each one dollar's worth of real estate owned by such landowner within said district, and within said county, such valuation to be determined by the next preceding assessment roll of such county. Where more than one commissioner is to be elected in a county, every owner of real estate entitled to vote shall have the right to cumulate his or her votes and multiply them by the number of candidates to be elected in said county, and give one candidate all of said votes, or distribute such votes on the same principle among as many candidates as may be desired. The estates of minors, incompetent or deceased persons shall be represented by the guardian, executor, administrator or trustee in person.

The board of supervisors of each county shall designate the voting places in such county. Notice of the time and place of holding such elections in each county shall be given by publication for two weeks next preceding such election in some newspaper published in such county, and in case there is a newspaper published in such drainage district, such notice must be published therein. An inspector and two judges of election shall be appointed for each voting place, who shall constitute a board of election for such voting place. Said board of election shall be appointed by the board of supervisors of each county, respectively. In case no board of election shall be appointed, or if any member thereof shall fail or refuse to serve, the landowners present at such election may appoint such board of election, or supply the place of an absent member. Each member of the board of election must, before entering upon the discharge of his duties, be sworn to perform them faithfully. Any person entitled to vote at such election may administer the oath. The polls shall be kept open from ten o'clock a. m. until four o'clock p. m. on the day of said election.

The board of election must keep a list of the names of the persons voting at such election, together with a statement of the number of votes cast by each, and shall canvass the votes and make a return thereof showing the number of votes cast for each person for drainage commissioner, and shall return therewith said list containing the names of the landowners voting at such election.

Such election shall be by ballot, which ballots must contain the name of the person voting the same, the total number of votes cast, the names of the persons voted for and the number of votes cast for each of said persons. The ballots must be inclosed in an envelope by the election board, and delivered, with the election returns, to the board of supervisors of the county in which the votes were cast, and such board of supervisors shall cause a certificate of election to be issued by the clerk of said board to the person or persons receiving the highest number of legal votes. Where one drainage commissioner is to be elected by votes cast in more than one county, the election returns must be made to the board of supervisors of the county containing the greater quantity of land within said drainage district.

If a certificate of election shall be issued to any person who has not received the highest number of legal votes, and upon an affidavit being filed by a landowner in said drainage district setting forth that such person did not receive the highest number of legal votes, and giving the names of the persons who cast illegal votes for such person, and the number of such illegal votes so cast, the board of supervisors shall canvass the election returns, and hear evidence touching the legality of any votes cast, and may revoke such certificate of election and issue a certificate to the person legally elected; and any person aggrieved may thereupon prosecute a contest in the courts for the determination of the legality of the election of the person to whom the certificate of election has been issued.

§ 5. Within fifteen days after receiving a certificate of election, and before entering upon the duties of his office, each drainage commissioner shall take the oath of office prescribed by law, and file the same in the office of the county clerk of the county in which such commissioner resides, and shall file in the office of said clerk a bond approved by a judge of the superior court of such county in the sum of ten thousand dollars, conditioned that he will faithfully discharge the duties of his trust according to law.

Each drainage commissioner must be a bona fide owner of at least forty acres of land within said drainage district, and within the county for which he was elected.

All vacancies in the board of drainage commissioners shall be filled by appointment by the governor, and such appointee shall hold office until the next succeeding election.

§ 6. The board of drainage commissioners shall elect one of their number as president, and shall elect a secretary, and an engineer, who shall not have been a member of the board, and employ such other persons as may be necessary to assist and advise said board.

The office of said board of drainage commissioners shall be kept at the city of Sacramento. The board shall hold regular meetings upon the first Mondays of February, May, August and November of each year, and may, in the by-laws of the district, provide for as many regular meetings as may be necessary, and at such meetings a majority of all of the members shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of any and all business.

Each commissioner shall receive ten dollars per day, and necessary mileage actually expended while engaged in the performance of his duties, but the per diem of any commissioner shall in no case exceed one thousand dollars for any one year.

The engineer elected by the board of drainage commissioners shall inspect the works of reclamation of all persons and districts within said drainage district, and report the condition thereof to the board of drainage commissioners. He must examine all plans of reclamation, and estimates submitted to said board of drainage commissioners, and advise such board as to the sufficiency of such plans and estimates, and perform such other duties as may be required by the board.

All notices required by this act to be published, must be published in a newspaper within the drainage district, if there be a newspaper published therein, and within the county in which such publication is to be made. If there is no newspaper published within said drainage district and within such county, such publication must be made in the newspaper published nearest to said district and within said county.

§ 7. The board of drainage commissioners shall have power to adopt by-laws, not in conflict with general laws; to supervise and control the formation, consolidation or division of reclamation districts within said drainage district; to employ engineers, and such other persons as may be necessary to advise and assist them in the performance of their duties; to appoint an executive committee, with such powers as are not in conflict with general laws; to have supervision of all levees and canals within said drainage district, excepting such levees and canals as are, or may be, placed under the supervision of the board of river control, as in this act provided; to approve, or disapprove, any plan of reclamation in any reclamation district; to compel the construction and maintenance of necessary reclamation works in reclamation districts within said drainage district; to issue warrants upon the state controller for its expenditures incurred as provided by law; to appoint trustees of reclamation districts in case of vacancies; to acquire by contract, purchase, condemnation, or other lawful means, from private persons, reclamation, swamp-land, levee or protection districts, or corporations, all rights of way, easements, property, and material necessary or requisite for levees, canals and other reclamation works; to sue and to be sued in the name of said drainage district, and to do all other acts and things necessary or requisite for the full exercise of their powers or necessary for the promotion of the reclamation of lands within said drainage district.

§ 8. Whenever, in the opinion of said board of drainage commissioners, it shall be necessary to levy an assessment upon the lands within said drainage district for the purpose of paying the expenses of said board of drainage commissioners, or the cost of construction of any canals or levees that are intended to promote drainage or protection of more than one reclamation district or tract of land, or any expenditures necessary to enable said board to perform its duties and promote reclamation, said board of drainage commissioners shall cause an assessment to be levied upon the lands within said drainage district for such purpose.

Said board shall make an estimate of the sum or sums necessary for each purpose, excepting the expenses of general management, which may be estimated in one sum.

The board shall appoint three assessors, who shall be disinterested persons, and who shall have no interest in any real estate within said drainage district, and each of whom, before entering upon his duties, shall make and subscribe an oath that he is not in any manner interested in any real estate within said district, directly or indirectly, and that he will perform the duties of an assessor to the best of his ability.

Said assessors must assess upon the land within said drainage district the said sum so estimated by the board of drainage commissioners, and shall apportion the same according to the benefits that will accrue to each tract of land in said district, respectively, by reason of the expenditure of said sums of money.

Said assessors shall make a separate list of the lands so assessed in each county, which list shall contain a description of the tracts of land assessed, by swamp land surveys, legal subdivisions, or other boundaries or references sufficient to identify the same; the name of the owner, if known, or if unknown, that fact; the amount of the charge assessed against each tract. No mistake in the name of the owner, or supposed owner, of any real estate shall invalidate the assessment.

Said lists when completed shall be filed with the secretary of the board of drainage commissioners, and said secretary shall forward to the county treasurer of each county the assessment list for such county, and the same shall be open for inspection by the public.

The board of drainage commissioners shall appoint a time and place when and where it will meet in each county for the purpose of hearing objections to said assessments, and notice of such hearing shall be given by publication for two weeks in some newspaper published in said county, such publication to be made in the newspaper nearest to said district and within said county. At any time before the date of such hearing, any person interested in any real estate, upon which any charge has been assessed, may file written objections to such assessment, stating the grounds of such objection, which said statement shall be verified by the affidavit of such person, or some other person who is familiar with the facts. At said hearing, the board of drainage commissioners shall hear such evidence as may be offered touching the correctness or the equity of such assessment, and may modify or amend the same, and the decision of said board of drainage commissioners shall be final, and thereafter said assessment list shall be conclusive evidence that the said assessment has been apportioned according to the benefits that will accrue to each tract of land in said district, and such assessment shall constitute a lien upon the lands so assessed.

§ 9. After such hearing has been had in any county, said assessment list shall be certified by the secretary of the board of drainage commissioners to be correct, and said list shall be deposited in the office of the county treasurer of said county, and said assessment shall thereafter be paid to the county treasurer in such instalments, and in such amounts, and at such times as the board of drainage commissioners shall by order direct, but the time for such payments shall not be less than sixty days from and after the date of making such order.

In case any instalment of any assessment shall not be paid at the time directed by the board of drainage commissioners, a cause of action shall accrue for the collection of such delinquent instalment, or of the whole of such assessment, at the option of said board of drainage commissioners, together with interest at the rate of seven per centum per annum from the date of such delinquency.

of said drainage district, in the superior court of the county in which the land is situated, for the collection of said delinquent instalment or delinquent assessment, with interest thereon and costs, and for the enforcement of the lien on the land assessed, against the person to whom the same shall have been assessed, or against the owner of said land in case the same shall not have been assessed to the owner, and if said land was assessed to unknown owners, then against the real owners, or if the names of such real owners cannot be ascertained, then against all persons having or claiming any interest therein by fictitious names. The complaint shall contain a description of the real estate as described in the assessment; the amount of the delinquent instalment or assessment sought to be recovered; a statement that the said lands have been assessed by the assessors appointed by the board of drainage commissioners; the name of the person to whom it was assessed, or if assessed to unknown owners, that fact, and the date when the assessment list was certified by the secretary of the said board of drainage commissioners.

Service of the summons and complaint in such action shall be made in the manner prescribed by the Code of Civil Procedure when the defendant can be found within the county where the action is commenced; but if the defendant cannot be found within the county, or if no person is named as a defendant other than by fictitious names, or, if any person shall be sued by a fictitious name, the summons may be served on such person by posting a copy of the summons at the court-house door, and publishing the same once a week for four successive weeks in a newspaper published in the county, and such posting and publication is equivalent to personal service on all persons having or claiming any interest, right or title in the lands assessed, whether named as a party in such action or not. The summons must contain a description of the property. Proof of such posting and publication must be made by a certificate of the sheriff or the affidavit of the person making the service. In case the service be made by posting and publication, the defendant, or any person claiming any interest in the land assessed, may appear and answer the complaint within thirty days after the expiration of the four weeks of posting and publication. Assessments on several tracts may be included in the same action if listed to the same person. In all actions for the collection of delinquent instalments or delinquent assessments, if the decision shall be in favor of plaintiff the court shall make a decree directing that each tract of land be sold on execution or decree to satisfy the amount of the instalment or assessment on such tract, together with the interest, costs and accruing costs. The sale shall be made by the sheriff of the county or by a commissioner appointed by the court for such purpose, in the same manner as sales upon foreclosures of mortgages on real property. If the suit is for the recovery of one or more instalments, less than the whole assessment, the sale shall be made subject to subsequent instalments, but all sums received shall be applied to the payment of said assessment, and the excess, if any, must be paid to the owner of the lands.

All moneys collected upon the sale shall be paid to the county treasurer of the county in which the land is situated, and said money, together with all other moneys collected by the treasurer on such assessment, shall be deposited in the state treasury to the credit of said drainage district, and shall be paid out upon warrants of the state controller, and the controller is hereby directed to issue warrants upon said funds whenever warrants of the board of drainage commissioners shall be presented to him, without the approval of the state board of examiners, and the state treasurer is hereby directed to pay such controller's warrants when there is sufficient money in the funds of said drainage district. In case there are not sufficient funds for such purpose, the state treasurer shall indorse on such warrants the date of presentation and register the same, and thereafter such warrants shall bear interest at the rate of seven per centum per annum, and must be paid in the order of their registration.

The owner of any land that has been sold in pursuance of the provisions of this section may redeem the same at any time within six months after such sale by paying to the purchaser the sum bid for the land, and such other sums as may have been paid by such purchaser for assessments or taxes upon such land, together with interest on such sums at the rate of ten per centum per annum.

§ 10. The board of river control shall consist of two members appointed by the governor of the state of California, one of whom shall be the president of the board of drainage commissioners of said drainage district, and the other shall be a competent civil engineer.

§ 11. Within six months after the organization of the board of drainage commissioners they shall appoint a committee of three persons to act in conjunction with a similar committee appointed by the governor of the state of California to determine the proportion to be borne by said district and the state respectively, of the cost of constructing and completing the works recommended in the report of T. G. Dabney, H. B. Richardson, H. M. Chittenden, and M. A. Nurse, engineers appointed by the commissioner of public works of the state of California, which said report of said engineers was filed with the commissioner of public works of the state of California on the fifteenth day of December, one thousand nine hundred and four; or such supplemental, amended, or other plan as shall be approved by the state board of examiners. When said cost has been apportioned and approved by the board of drainage commissioners, they shall appoint three assessors, as in section eight of this act provided. Said assessors shall immediately proceed to assess upon the lands within said drainage district the said sum so apportioned to said district as its proportion of the cost of said works, as a charge upon the lands within said district. Separate lists shall be made by said assessors for such assessment, and the same shall be a lien upon the lands so assessed, and in all respects the same proceedings shall be had in the levying, equalizing and collecting of said assessment as is provided in sections eight and nine of this act for levying and collecting other assessments, and the provisions of sections eight and nine hereof are hereby made applicable to the assessments to be levied under this section, so far as the same are not in conflict with this section, excepting that the payment of said assessments levied under the provisions of this section shall be directed by the board of river control in such amounts as from time to time may be necessary for the purposes of prosecuting said work.

Provided, however, that no part of said assessment in this section provided shall be called in or collected until the state of California and the government of the United States, or one of them, shall have made an appropriation, or other legal provision, for the payment of the balance of the sum to be expended jointly with said district in performing the work according to the plans recommended by the said report of said engineers, or such supplemental, amended or other plan, as may be approved by the state board of examiners.

In case the payment of said sum by the state of California, or the government of the United States, shall not be provided for within five years from the time said assessment shall have been levied, said assessments upon said lands shall become void, and the lien thereof upon the said lands shall expire.

The said assessments may be apportioned upon the said lands at the same time as, and by the same assessors appointed to levy, an assessment under the provisions of sections eight and nine of this act, and such assessments shall be apportioned according to the benefits that will accrue by the expenditure of said money and the construction of said works.

Said assessments shall be paid to the county treasurer of the county in which the lands are situated, and shall be by said county treasurer deposited in the state treasury to the credit of a fund hereby designated as the "River Improvement Fund."

§ 12. The board of river control shall have supervision of all levees and canals intended to do duty in carrying flood water, and shall have such other powers and shall perform such other duties as may be prescribed by law. They may acquire from private owners, or from reclamation, swamp land, levee or protection districts, or corporations, by contract, purchase, condemnation or other lawful means, such rights of way, easements, property, and material as may be necessary for their said purposes, whether the same shall be situated within said district or not, and may prosecute any condemnation suit or proceeding in the name of the people of the state of California, and do and perform all other acts and things necessary or requisite for the full discharge of their duties.

The term of office of the members of the board of river control shall be four years from and after their appointment, and until their successors are qualified. Each member of said board shall receive a salary of six thousand dollars per annum from and after the commencement of the said work, which salary shall be paid out of the river improvement fund. They may employ a secretary, and such other persons as may be necessary, to advise and assist them in the performance of their duties. They shall keep an office at the city of Sacramento, and their records, books and papers shall be subject to inspection by any person interested.

§ 13. It shall be the duty of said board of river control to consult and advise with such board or officer as may be designated or appointed by the government of the United States, to devise and construct works for the improvement of the channels of the Sacramento and San Joaquin rivers and their tributaries, in accordance with the report of the engineers mentioned in section eleven of this act, or such supplemental, amended or other plan as may be approved by the state board of examiners. It shall also be their duty to examine all plans and specifications which may be prepared or adopted for the construction of works for controlling flood waters and improvement of the channels of said rivers and their tributaries, and to submit a copy of all such plans and specifications to said state board of examiners for their examination and consideration. The state board of examiners shall thereupon proceed to examine and consider such plans and specifications, and may require the attendance, counsel and advice of said board of river control during the examination and consideration thereof.

The state board of examiners shall keep a record of their deliberations and shall either approve or disapprove said plans and specifications by a majority vote of said board. If said plans and specifications shall be approved by the state board of examiners, the said board of river control shall thereupon report such action to said board or officer designated or appointed by the government of the United States, whenever the government of the United States, or its agents or officers, shall have entered into any contract for the construction of such works, in pursuance of plans and specifications which have been approved by the state board of examiners, as in this act provided, it shall then be the duty of the said board of river control to carefully inspect such works during the process of their construction, and to keep a record of the result of such inspection, and to report the same monthly to the state board of examiners. Said board of river control shall also from time to time, during the progress of the construction of such work, when requested so to do by said board or officer designated or appointed by the government of the United States, draw warrants upon the state controller in favor of such person or persons as may be designated by the said board or officer of the United States government for such amount as shall equal the proportion of the cost of construction of such works, to be paid from the river improvement fund, as hereinbefore in this act provided.

All expenditures made from the river improvement fund shall be subject to the approval of the state board of examiners, and the state controller is hereby authorized to draw his warrant upon said fund for all expenditures so approved by the state board of examiners, and the state treasurer is hereby directed to pay the same.

§ 14. The boundaries of all reclamation districts, drainage districts, swamp-land districts, levee districts, and protection districts, heretofore legally formed by any method, under any law, or at any time, shall continue to exist as at present formed, and until altered by the board of drainage commissioners, excepting that the boards of supervisors of the various counties shall continue to exercise jurisdiction under the provisions of the Political Code of the state of California, until the suspension of the powers of the board of drainage commissioners under section twenty-nine of this act, shall have been removed.

§ 15. Whenever the holders of title, or evidence of title representing one half or more of any body of lands within said drainage district shall desire to reclaim the same, they may file with the secretary of the board of drainage commissioners a petition setting forth that they desire to form a district for the reclamation of the same; a description of the lands by legal subdivisions, swamp-land surveys, or other boundaries or references sufficient to identify the same; that the same are susceptible of one mode of reclamation; the county or counties in which they are situated; the number of acres in the pro-

§ 16. When said petition has been filed the board of drainage commissioners must fix a time for hearing the same, and said petition must be published for four weeks next preceding the hearing thereof in a newspaper published in the county or counties in which any of the lands, are situated, and an affidavit of such publication must be filed with the clerk of the board of drainage commissioners. On the hearing of the petition, the board of drainage commissioners may make an order forming said district, or if, in its opinion, any land has been improperly included in, or excepted from, the proposed district, it must reform the district in such respects in its order.

§ 17. If the reclamation of any lands within said drainage district will be promoted by the formation of a reclamation district, including lands situated in one or more reclamation, swamp-land, levee, drainage or protection districts, as well as lands not embraced in any district, the board of drainage commissioners may make an order forming a new district in such manner and embracing such lands as in its judgment will best promote reclamation. Before making such order the board must direct the engineer of the board to examine said lands and report upon the necessity for forming such district. If the report of the engineer be favorable to the formation of such district, the board must fix a time and place for hearing objections to the formation of such a district and must publish a notice thereof for four weeks next preceding such hearing, in a newspaper published in each county in which any of the lands affected are situated. The notice must contain a description of the lands by legal subdivisions, swamp-land surveys, or other boundaries or references sufficient to identify the same. On such hearing the board must hear such evidence as may be offered by any person interested in said lands, and in case said board shall determine that the formation of such district will promote the reclamation of the lands, it must make an order forming the same.

§ 18. The orders made under the provisions of sections sixteen and seventeen of this act, must be signed by the president and attested by the secretary of the board of drainage commissioners, and must contain a description of the lands embraced in the reclamation district formed under said sections, together with a certificate that said lands have been formed into a reclamation district. The order must then be recorded by the county recorder of each county in which any of the lands are situated, and a certified copy thereof forwarded to the register of the state land office. The register must give the district a number, and send its number to the secretary of the board of drainage commissioners, and to the recorder of each county in which any of the lands are situated, and such recorder must number the order upon the records. Thereafter the lands described in such order shall comprise a reclamation district, and said district shall have all the powers pertaining to other reclamation districts within said drainage district, notwithstanding that such lands may have been previously embraced in a reclamation district, swamp-land district, levee district, drainage district, or protection district, created by, or under, any law of the state of California; it being the intention of this act to provide a uniform system for promoting the reclamation of all lands within said drainage district.

§ 19. The boards of trustees of reclamation, swamp-land, levee, drainage, and protection districts within said Sacramento drainage district must submit all original and supplemental plans of reclamation for their respective districts, together with estimates of cost, to the board of drainage commissioners, and said board of drainage commissioners shall have power to amend or modify the same in any manner which in its opinion, will best promote the purposes of reclamation. When such plans and estimates have been fully approved by the board of drainage commissioners, it shall appoint commissioners of assessment as provided in section thirty-four hundred and fifty-six of the Political Code, who must perform the duties of commissioners as prescribed in sections thirty-four hundred and fifty-six, thirty-four hundred and fifty-nine, thirty-four hundred and sixty, thirty-four hundred and sixty-one and thirty-four hundred and sixty-two of the Political Code of the state of California.

§ 20. The powers and duties of boards of supervisors under the provisions of article two of chapter one of part eight of the Political Code of the state of California are hereby conferred upon and are hereby made the powers and duties of the board of drainage commissioners of said drainage district relating to all matters within the boundaries of said drainage district as fully as though such provisions were incorporated in this act, and all powers and duties to be exercised or performed by boards of supervisors under the said provisions of the Political Code, shall be exercised and performed by said board of drainage commissioners, excepting where such provisions are inconsistent with the provisions of this act.

§ 21. The trustees and officers of all reclamation, swamp-land, drainage, levee and protection districts within said Sacramento drainage district, and the owners of land therein, shall hereafter exercise such powers and perform such duties as are conferred and imposed upon the trustees, officers, and landowners within reclamation districts formed under the provisions of article two of chapter one of part eight of the Political Code of California, excepting so far as such provisions are inconsistent with the provisions of this act, and all such reclamation, swamp-land, drainage, levee and protection districts within said drainage district, must, after the passage of this act, elect trustees, adopt by-laws, issue warrants, and manage the affairs of such districts in the manner directed by the said provisions of the Political Code and the provisions of this act, so that a uniform system may be followed in all the districts within said Sacramento drainage district, whether such districts were formed under the provisions of the Political Code, or otherwise, and all provisions of this act relating to reclamation districts shall apply to any and all districts formed or created in any manner for the purpose of reclaiming swamp and overflowed lands.

§ 22. If the landowners in any reclamation or other district shall fail to elect trustees for such district, or if a vacancy occur in any board of trustees, the board of drainage commissioners may appoint such trustees, and in case any board of trustees shall fail to qualify, or to perform its duties in submitting a plan of reclamation for their district, or shall fail to prosecute the reclamation of the lands in pursuance of a plan of reclamation that has been adopted, the board of drainage commissioners may adopt a plan of reclamation for such district, and may cause the works of reclamation to be constructed and operated in pursuance of such plan, and may cause an assessment to be levied upon the lands in such district in the manner that other assessments are levied, and may collect and cause the same to be expended in the construction and maintenance of such works of reclamation, and for such purpose may exercise all the powers of a board of trustees for such district.

§ 23. All warrants issued by the trustees of any reclamation, or other district, must be presented to the board of supervisors of the county in which the district is situated for approval, and must be approved by said board if such warrants are a legal charge against the funds of such district, and such warrants must not be paid or registered by the county treasurer unless the same have been so approved and indorsed by the president of the board of supervisors. After such warrants shall have been registered, they must be paid by the county treasurer in the order in which they are registered.

§ 24. In all cases where the board of drainage commissioners shall consolidate, divide or change the boundaries of any reclamation, swamp-land, levee, drainage or protection district, it may impose and provide such terms as may be just for the payment of any indebtedness of any such district, and apportion the property and reclamation works of any district, and provide for payment to any such district of such sum as may be just for such of its works of reclamation as may be beneficial to other lands, and may cause assessments to be levied for such purposes.

§ 25. It shall be unlawful for any member or officer of said board of drainage commissioners, without the unanimous consent of the board of drainage commissioners, to have or own any interest or share, either directly or indirectly, in any contract made or let by said board for the construction or repair of any levee, or in any contract whatever for supplies or material used for levee purposes, or for any officer or member of said board to receive directly or indirectly for his own use and benefit any portion or share of the money or other thing paid for the construction or repair of such levees.

§ 26. If any member of the board of drainage commissioners herein created, or any agent, or any other person intrusted with the care, custody or possession of any of the money, goods, rights in action, or other valuable security, effects, or property, of any kind or description, which shall have come or been intrusted into his or their care by virtue of his or their office, place or employment, shall conceal, secrete, retain for his own use, or appropriate the same to his own benefit or behoof, he or they shall be punished by imprisonment in the penitentiary not more than five years.

§ 27. Any person who shall cover up in or under any levee in the construction, enlargement, or repair thereof, any log, stump, or other material which, under the specifications of the contract under which the work is being done, should be removed or should not be used in the construction, or who shall procure any such act or thing to be done, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction shall be fined not less than one hundred dollars nor more than one thousand dollars, or be imprisoned in the county jail not less than one month nor more than six months, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

§ 28. Every board of trustees of any reclamation, swamp-land, levee, drainage or protection district within said drainage district shall annually, in the month of January of each year, make and furnish to the board of drainage commissioners a complete statement in detail of the work done by such board of trustees during the preceding twelve months, and a detailed statement of the condition of the works of reclamation in such district, together with a statement of the expenditures made by such board of trustees during the preceding twelve months, showing the persons to whom all warrants were issued, together with the several amounts thereof, and the services performed by such persons.

§ 29. Until the state of California, and the government of the United States, or one of them, shall have made legal provisions for paying a sum, or sums, which, together with the amount of the assessment mentioned in section eleven of this act, shall equal the entire estimated cost of river improvement specified in said section eleven, the powers of the board of drainage commissioners conferred by this act shall be, and they are hereby suspended; excepting that said board of drainage commissioners may cause to be levied and collected an assessment under the provisions of sections eight and nine of this act, which said assessment shall not exceed the sum of fifty thousand dollars; and said board of drainage commissioners may also exercise the powers conferred by section eleven of this act, and such other powers as may be necessary to the exercise of the powers that are not hereby suspended. The powers of all boards of supervisors and trustees of reclamation, swamp-land, drainage, levee and protection districts are hereby continued in force until the general powers of the drainage commissioners shall become fully effective under the provisions of this section.

DRAINAGE—LAND OTHER THAN SWAMP, ETC.

To provide for the organization and government of drainage districts, for the drainage of agricultural lands other than swamp and overflowed lands, and to provide for the acquisition or construction thereby of works for the drainage of the lands embraced within such districts.

(Stats. 1903, 291, ch. CCXXXVIII.)

§ 1. Whenever fifty or a majority of the holders of title, or evidence of title as herein provided, to agricultural lands other than swamp and overflowed lands, which are susceptible of one general mode of drainage by the same system of works, desire to provide for the drainage of such lands, they may propose the organization of a drainage district under the provisions of this act, and when so organized, such district shall have the powers, rights and duties conferred, or which may be conferred by law, upon such drainage districts. The equalized county assessment roll next preceding the presentation of a petition for the organization of a drainage district under the provisions of this act, shall be sufficient evidence of title for the purposes of this act; provided, that no person who has received or acquired title to land within such proposed district for the purpose of enabling him or her to join in such petition or to become an elector of said district, shall be allowed to sign such petition or to vote at any election to be held in such district under the provisions of this act. Such illegal signing, however, shall not invalidate such petition when there shall be found a sufficient number of other legal petitioners.

§ 2. In order to propose the organization of a drainage district, a petition shall be presented to the board of supervisors of the county in which the lands within the proposed district or the greater portion thereof, are situated, signed by the required number of holders of title, or evidence of title, to lands within such proposed district, which petition shall set forth and particularly describe the proposed boundaries of such district, and shall pray that the same be organized under the provisions of this act. The petitioners must accompany the petition with a good and sufficient bond, to be approved by the said board of supervisors, in double the amount of the probable cost of organizing such district, conditioned that the obligors will pay all the costs in case such an organization will not be effected. The petition shall be presented at a regular meeting of said board of supervisors, and shall have been published for at least two weeks before such presentation, in some newspaper printed and published in the county where the petition is presented, together with a notice stating the date of the meeting of the said board at which the petition will be presented; and if any portion of the proposed district lies within another county, or counties, then said petition and notice shall be likewise published in a newspaper printed and published in each of such counties.

§ 3. When such petition is presented, the board of supervisors shall hear the same, and may adjourn such hearing from time to time not exceeding four weeks in all, and on the final hearing said board shall make such changes in the proposed boundaries as may be deemed advisable, and shall define and establish such boundaries. But said board shall not modify said boundaries so as to exclude from such proposed district any territory which is susceptible of drainage by the same system of works applicable to the other lands in such proposed district; nor shall any lands which will not, in the judgment of said board, be benefited by drainage, by means of said system of works, be included within such proposed district. Any person whose lands are susceptible of drainage by the same system of works, may, upon his application, in the discretion of said board, have such lands included within said proposed district. Upon such hearing of said petition, the board of supervisors shall determine whether or not said petition complies with the requirements of sections one and two of this act, and for that purpose must hear all competent and relevant testimony offered in support or in opposition thereto. Such determination shall be entered upon the minutes of said board of supervisors.

§ 4. The right of appeal from said order to the superior court of the county where said petition is heard, is hereby given to any person interested, who is a party to the record; provided, that if more than one appeal be taken they shall be consolidated and tried together. Such appeal shall be taken within ten days after the entry of such order upon the minutes of the board of supervisors. The appeal shall be taken and heard in the same manner as appeals from justices' courts to the superior court, except as herein otherwise provided. Upon the appeal, the superior court may make and enter its judgment affirming, modifying, or reversing the order appealed from. Within ten days thereafter, the superior court must cause its remittitur to issue to said board of supervisors, and if said order of the board of supervisors is modified or reversed, the judgment of the superior court and its remittitur shall direct the board of supervisors what order it shall enter. Such remittitur shall be filed by the clerk of the board of supervisors, and at the first regular meeting of the board thereafter, it shall cause to be entered in its minutes the order as directed by said superior court. The appeal herein provided for shall be heard and determined within thirty days from the time of filing the notice of appeal.

§ 5. When, under the provisions of the preceding sections, the boundaries of the proposed district are defined and established, said board shall make an order dividing said district into three or five divisions, as nearly equal in size as practicable, which divisions shall be numbered consecutively, and one director who shall be an elector and a resident freeholder of the division, shall be elected, as hereinafter provided, by each division; provided, that when requested in the petition three directors who shall be residents, electors and freeholders of the district, shall be elected at large by the qualified electors of the district.

§ 6. Said board of supervisors shall then give notice of an election to be held in such proposed district for the purpose of determining whether or not the same shall be organized under the provisions of this act. Such notice shall designate a name for such proposed district, and describe the boundaries thereof and the boundaries of the precincts established therein, when more than one, together with a designation of the polling-place and board of election for each precinct; and said notice shall be published for at least three weeks previous to such election, in a newspaper published within the county in which the petition for the organization of the proposed district was presented; and if any portion of such proposed district is within another county or counties, then such notice shall be published for the same length of time in a newspaper published in each of said counties. Such notice shall require the electors to cast ballots, which shall contain the words "Drainage District—Yes" or "Drainage District—No" or words equivalent thereto, and also the names of one or more persons (according to the divisions of the proposed district as prayed for in the petition and ordered by the board) to be voted for to fill the office of director. Such election shall be conducted as nearly as practicable in accordance with the general election laws of the state but no particular form of ballot shall be required.

§ 7. No person shall be entitled to vote at any election held under the provisions of this act unless he possesses all the qualifications required of electors under the general election laws of the state.

§ 8. The said board of supervisors shall on the first Monday succeeding such election, if then in session, or at its next succeeding general or special session proceed to canvass the votes cast thereat, and if upon such canvass, it appear that at least two thirds of all the votes cast are "Drainage District—Yes," the board shall by an order entered in its minutes, declare such territory duly organized as a drainage district, under the name theretofore designated, and shall declare the persons receiving, respectively the highest number of votes for directors to be duly elected to such offices.

§ 9. Said board shall then cause a copy of such order, duly certified, to be immediately filed for record in the office of the county recorder of any county in which any portion of the lands embraced in such district are situated, and must also immediately forward a copy thereof to the clerk of the board of supervisors of each of said last mentioned counties and no board of supervisors of any county in which any portion of the lands embraced in such district are situated, shall, after the date of the organization thereof, allow another district to be formed including any portion of said lands, without the consent of the board of directors of the district in which they are situated. From and after such filing, the organization of the district shall be complete.

§ 10. Such election on organization may be contested by any person owning property within the proposed district liable to assessment. The directors elected at such election shall be made parties defendant. Such contest shall be brought in the superior court of the county where the petition for organization is filed; provided, that if more than one contest be pending they shall be consolidated and tried together. The court having jurisdiction shall speedily try such contest, and determine, upon the hearing, whether the election was fairly conducted and in substantial compliance with the requirements of this act, and enter its judgment accordingly. Such contest must be brought within twenty days after the canvass of the vote and declaration of the result by the board of supervisors. The right of appeal is hereby given to either party to the record within thirty days from entry of judgment. The appeal must be heard and determined by the supreme court within sixty days from the time of filing the notice of appeal.

§ 11. The directors elected at the election hereinbefore provided for shall immediately enter upon their duties as such upon qualifying in the manner herein provided. Said directors shall hold office respectively until their successors are elected and qualified.

§ 12. The directors of any district created after the passage of this act, on the first Tuesday after their election, after they shall have qualified, shall meet and classify themselves by lot into two classes, as nearly equal in number as possible, and the term of office of the class having the greater number shall expire at the next general February election in this act provided for; and the term of office of the class having the lesser number shall terminate at the next general February election thereafter. After such classification, said directors shall organize as a board, shall elect a president from their number, and appoint a secretary, who shall each hold office during the pleasure of the board. The salary of the secretary and the amount of the bond to be given by him for the faithful performance of his duties shall be fixed by the board of directors.

§ 13. The board of directors shall hold regular meetings in their office on the first Tuesday in March, June, September and December, and such special meetings as may be required for the proper transaction of business; provided, that all special meetings must be ordered by a majority of the board by an order entered in the minutes specifying the business to be transacted. Three days' notice to any member not joining in the order must be given by the secretary, and only the business specified in the order must be transacted at such special meeting. All meetings of the board must be public, and a majority of members shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business. A minute of all proceedings of the board shall be kept by the secretary, and all records of the board shall be open to public inspection during business hours. The board of directors shall, on the first Tuesday in March of each and every year, render, and immediately thereafter cause to be published, a verified statement of the financial condition of the district, showing particularly the receipts and disbursements of the last preceding year, together with the source of such receipts and purpose of such disbursements. Said publication shall be made at least once a week for two weeks, in some paper published in the county where the office of the board of directors of such district is situated.

§ 14. The board shall have the power and it shall be their duty, to manage and conduct the business and affairs of the district; make and execute all necessary contracts; to adopt a seal for the district to be used in the attestation of proper documents; provided for the payment, from the proper fund, of all the debts and just claims against the district; employ and appoint when necessary, engineers to survey, plan, locate, and estimate the cost of the works necessary for drainage and the land needed for right of way, including drains, canals, sluices, water-gates, embankments and material for construction, and to construct, maintain, and keep in repair all works necessary for the purpose of drainage. The board and its agents and employees shall have the right to enter upon any land to make surveys, and may locate the necessary drainage works and the line for any canals, sluices, water-gates and embankments, and the necessary branches for the same, on any lands which may be deemed best for such location. Said board shall also have the right to acquire, hold and possess either by donation, purchase or condemnation, any land or other property, necessary for the construction, use, maintenance, repair, and improvement of any works required for the purpose of drainage as provided herein. The board may establish equitable by-laws, rules and regulations necessary or proper for carrying on the business herein contemplated, and generally may perform all such acts as shall be necessary to fully carry out the purposes of this act.

§ 15. The board of directors, when they deem it advisable for the best interests of the district and the convenience of the electors thereof, may at any time, but not less than sixty days before an election to be held in the district, change the boundaries of the divisions and election precincts of the district; provided, such changes shall be made to keep each division as nearly equal in area and population as may be practicable. Such change of boundaries of the division must be shown on the minutes of the board.

§ 16. In case of condemnation proceedings, the board shall proceed, in the name of the district, under the provisions of title seven, part three, of the Code of Civil Procedure, which said provisions are hereby made applicable for that purpose, and it is hereby declared that the use of the property which may be condemned, taken, or appropriated under the provisions of this act, is a public use, subject to regulation and control of the state in the manner prescribed by law.

§ 17. In each district organized as herein provided, an election shall be held on the first Wednesday in February, nineteen hundred and five, and on the first Wednesday in February of each second year thereafter, at which a board of directors for the district, as provided in section five of this act, shall be elected. The person receiving the highest number of votes for the office to be filled at such election, is elected thereto. Within ten days after receiving their respective certificates of election, each of said persons shall qualify as such by taking and subscribing the official oath and filing a bond as herein provided. Each director shall execute an official bond in the sum of one thousand dollars, which shall be approved by the judge of the superior court of the county where the organization of the district was effected and shall be recorded in the office of the county recorder of such county and then, together with his official oath, filed with the secretary of the board of directors. All official bonds herein provided for shall be in the form prescribed by law for the official bonds of county officers. If a vacancy shall occur in the office of director the same shall be filled by appointment by the supervisors of the county where such district is organized. A director so appointed shall qualify within ten days after receiving notice of his appointment as in said act provided, if he were elected to such office and he shall hold such office only until the next regular election for said district and until his successor is elected and qualified.

§ 18. On the first Tuesday in March next following the election, the directors who shall have been elected at the general February election, shall meet and organize as a board, elect a president and appoint a secretary, who shall each hold office during the pleasure of the board. And the directors of districts now organized, who shall have been elected at the general February election of nineteen hundred and five, shall, on the first Tuesday in March next thereafter, when they meet to organize, first classify themselves by lot into two classes as nearly equal in number as possible. And the terms of office of the class having the greater number shall be two years; and the term of office of the lesser number shall be four years. The full term of office of directors is hereby fixed at four years. The office of the board of directors of any such district may be established by said board of directors at the county seat, or at some proper and convenient place within the district, but after the office is once established it shall not be changed without giving notice thereof by posting in three public places in the district and by publishing a similar notice for thirty days in some newspaper of general circulation published in the county where such district is organized.

§ 19. Fifteen days before any election held under this act, subsequent to the organization of any district, the secretary of the board of directors shall cause notices to be posted in three public places in each election precinct, of the time and place of holding the election, and shall also post a similar notice of the same in a conspicuous place in the office of the said board, specifying the polling-places of each precinct, and the names of the members of the boards of election, for each precinct. Prior to the time for posting such notices, the board must appoint for each precinct, from the electors thereof, one inspector and one judge and one clerk, who shall constitute a board of election for such precinct. If the board fail to appoint a board of election, or the members appointed, or any of them do not attend at the opening of the polls on the morning of election, the electors of the precinct present at that hour, may appoint the board, or supply the place of an absent member thereof. The board of directors must in its order appointing the board of election, designate the place within each precinct where the election must be held.

§ 20. The inspector is chairman of the election board, and may administer all oaths required in the progress of an election; and appoint judges and clerks, if, during the progress of the election, any judge or clerk cease to act. Any member of the board of election, or any clerk thereof, may administer and certify oaths required to be administered during the progress of an election. The board of election for each precinct must, before opening the polls, appoint two persons to act as clerks of the election. Before opening the polls, each member of the board and each clerk must take and subscribe an oath to faithfully perform the duties imposed upon them by law. Any elector of the precinct may administer and certify such oath. The polls must be open at nine o'clock a. m., and be kept open until four o'clock p. m., when the same must be closed. The provisions of the general election laws concerning the form of ballots to be used shall not apply to elections held under this act.

§ 21. Voting may commence as soon as the polls are opened, and may be continued during all the time the polls remain opened, and shall be conducted, as nearly as practicable, in accordance with the provisions of the general election laws in this state.

§ 22. As soon as all the votes are read off and counted, a certificate shall be drawn up on each of the papers containing the poll list and tallies, or attached thereto, stating the number of votes each one voted for has received, and designating the office to fill which he was voted for, which number shall be written in figures and in words at full length. Each certificate shall be signed by the clerk, judge and the inspector. One of said certificates with the poll list and the tally paper to which it is attached, shall be retained by the inspector, and preserved by him at least six months. The ballots shall be strung upon a cord or thread by the inspector, during the counting thereof, in the order in which they are entered upon the tally list by the clerks; and said ballots together with the other of said certificates, with the poll list and tally paper to which it is attached, shall be sealed by the inspector in the presence of the judges and clerks, and indorsed "Election returns of (naming the precinct) precinct" and be directed to the secretary of the board of directors and shall be immediately delivered by the inspector, or by some other safe and responsible carrier designated by said inspector, to said secretary, and the ballots shall be kept unopened for at least six months, and if any person be of the opinion that the vote of any precinct has not been correctly counted, he may appear on the day appointed for the board of directors to open and canvass the returns and demand a recount of the vote of the precinct that is so claimed to have been incorrectly counted.

§ 23. No list, tally paper, or certificate from any election, shall be set aside or rejected for want of form if it can be satisfactorily understood. The board of directors must meet at its usual place of meeting on the first Monday after each election to canvass the returns. If, at the time of meeting, the returns from each precinct in the district in which the polls were opened have been received, the board of directors must then and there proceed to canvass the returns; but if all the returns have not been received, the canvass must be postponed from day to day until the returns have been received, or until six postponements have been had. The canvass must be made in public and by opening the returns and estimating the vote of the district for each person voted for and declaring the result thereof.

§ 24. The secretary of the board of directors, must, as soon as the result is declared, enter in the records of such board, a statement of such result, which statement must show: (a) the whole number of votes cast in the district and in each precinct thereof if there be more than one precinct; (b) the names of the persons voted for; (c) the office to fill which each person was voted for; (d) the number of votes given in each precinct to each of such persons; (e) the number of votes given in each division for the office of director. The board of directors must declare elected the persons having the highest number of votes given for each office. The secretary must immediately make out and deliver to such person a certificate of election, signed by him, and authenticated with the seal of the board.

§ 25. In any district the board of directors thereof may, upon the presentation of a petition therefor, by a majority of the holders of title, or evidence of title, of said district, evidenced as above provided, order that on and after the next ensuing general election for the district, there shall be either three or five directors, as said board may order, and they shall be elected, by the district at large, or by divisions, as so petitioned and ordered; and after such order such directors shall be so elected.

§ 26. The legal title to all property acquired under the provisions of this act shall immediately and by operation of law vest in such drainage district, and shall be held by such district in trust for and is hereby dedicated and set apart to the uses and purposes set forth in this act. And said board is hereby authorized and empowered to hold, use, acquire, manage, occupy, and possess said property as herein provided. The said board is hereby authorized and empowered to take conveyances or other assurances for all property acquired by it under the provisions of this act, in the name of such drainage district, to and for the uses and purposes herein expressed, and to institute and maintain any and all actions and proceedings, suits at law or in equity, necessary or proper in order to fully carry out the provisions of this act, or to enforce, maintain, protect, or preserve any and all rights, privileges and immunities created by this act, or acquired in pursuance thereof. And in all courts, actions, suits, or proceedings, the said board may sue, appear, and defend in person or by attorneys, and in the name of such drainage district.

§ 27. For the purpose of constructing necessary conduits, drains, sluices, water-gates, embankments and all works necessary for the purpose of drainage, and acquiring the necessary property and rights therefor, and otherwise carrying out the provisions of this act, the board of directors of any such district must, as soon after such district has been organized as may be practicable, and also whenever thereafter the construction fund has been exhausted by expenditures as herein authorized therefrom, and it is necessary to raise additional money for said purposes, estimate and determine the amount of money necessary to be raised. And thereafter said board shall immediately call a special election, at which shall be submitted to the electors of such district the question whether or not the bonds of said district shall be issued in the amount so determined. Notice of such election must be given by posting notices in three public places in each election precinct in said district for at least twenty days, and also by publication of such notice in some newspaper published in the county where the office of the board of directors of such district is required to be kept, once a week for at least three successive weeks. Such notices must specify the time of holding the election, the amount of bonds proposed to be issued; and said election must be held and the result thereof determined and declared in all respects as nearly as practicable in conformity with the provisions of this act governing the election of officers; provided, that no informalities in conducting such an election shall invalidate the same, if the election shall have been otherwise fairly conducted. At such election the ballots shall contain the words "Bonds—Yes" or "Bonds—No," or words equivalent thereto. If a majority of the votes cast are "Bonds—Yes," the board of directors shall cause bonds in said amount to be issued; if a majority of the votes cast at any bond election are "Bonds—No," the result of such election shall be so declared and entered of record. Whenever thereafter, a petition of the character hereinbefore provided for in this section, is presented to the board, it shall so declare of record in its minutes, and shall thereupon submit such questions to said electors in the same manner and with like effect as at such previous election.

§ 28. All bonds issued under the provisions of this act shall be payable in gold coin of the United States, in ten series as follows, to wit: On the first day of January after the expiration of eleven years, five per centum of the whole number of said bonds; on the first day of January after the expiration of twelve years, six per centum; on the first day of January after the expiration of thirteen years, seven per centum; on the first day of January after the expiration of fourteen years, eight per centum; on the first day of January after the expiration of fifteen years, nine per centum; on the first day of January after the expiration of sixteen years, ten per centum; on the first day of January after the expiration of seventeen years, eleven per centum; on the first day of January after the expiration of eighteen years, thirteen per centum; on the first day of January after the expiration of nineteen years, fifteen per centum; and on the first day of January after the expiration of twenty years, sixteen per centum; that the several enumerated percentages being of the entire amount of the bond issue, but each bond must be made payable at a given time for its entire amount and not for a percentage. Said bonds shall bear interest at the rate of five per centum per annum, payable semiannually, on the first day of January and July of each year. The principal and interest shall be payable at the place designated therein. Said bonds shall be each of the denomination of not less than one hundred dollars nor more than five hundred dollars; shall be negotiable in form, signed by the president and secretary, and the seal of the board of directors shall be affixed and the bonds of each issue shall be numbered consecutively, and bear date at the time of their issue. Coupons for the interest shall be attached to each bond, signed by the secretary. Said bonds shall express on their face that they were signed by authority of this act, stating its title and date of approval, and shall also so state the number of the issue of which such bonds are a part. The secretary shall keep a record of the bonds sold, their number, the date of sale, the price received, and the name of the purchaser.

§ 29. The board may sell said bonds from time to time in such quantities as may be necessary and most advantageous, to raise money for the construction of said drains and works, the acquisition of said property and rights, and otherwise to fully carry out the objects and purposes of this act. Before making any sale the board shall, at a meeting, by resolution, declare its intention to sell a specified amount of the bonds, and the day and hour and place of such sale, and shall cause such resolution to be entered in the minutes, and notice of the sale to be given, by publication thereof at least three weeks in some newspaper published in the county where the office of the board of directors is located, and in any other newspaper, at its discretion. The notice shall state that sealed proposals will be received by the board at their office, for the purchase of the bonds, till the day and hour named in the resolution. At the time appointed the board shall open the proposals, and award the purchase of the bonds to the highest responsible bidder; provided, however, that they may reject all bids. Said board shall in no event sell any of the said bonds for less than the par value thereof.

§ 30. Any bonds issued under the provisions of this act, shall be a lien upon the property of the district and the lien for the bonds of any issue shall be a preferred lien to that for any subsequent issue. Said bonds, and the interest thereon, shall be paid by revenue derived from an annual assessment upon the real property of the district; and all the real property in the district shall be and remain liable to be assessed for such payments as hereinafter provided.

§ 31. In case the money raised by the sale of bonds issued be insufficient or in case the bonds be unavailable for the completion of the plan of drainage and works adopted, and additional bonds be not voted, it shall be the duty of the board of directors to provide for the completion of said plan by levy of assessments therefor; provided, however, that such levy of assessments shall not be made except first an estimate of the amount required for such purposes has been made by said board, and the question as to the making of said levy submitted to a vote of the electors of the district. Before such question is submitted, the order of submission shall be entered in the minutes of the board, stating the amount to be levied and the purpose therefor, and if submitted at a special election said order shall, in addition, fix the day of election. Notice of such election must be given by posting notices in three public places in each election precinct in said district for at least twenty days, and also by publication of such notice in some newspaper published in the county where the office of the board of directors of such district is required to be kept, once a week for at least three successive weeks. Such notices must specify the time of holding the election, and the amount of assessment proposed to be levied. Said election must be held and the result thereof determined and declared in all respects as nearly as practicable in conformity with the provisions of this act governing the election of officers; provided, that no informalities in conducting such an election shall invalidate the same, if the election shall have been otherwise fairly conducted. At such election the ballots shall contain the words "Assessment—Yes," or "Assessment—No," or words equivalent thereto. If a majority of the votes cast are "Assessment—Yes," the board of directors shall proceed in the manner prescribed in sections forty to forty-three herein provided for raising funds for the annual requirements; if a majority of the votes cast are "Assessment—No," the result of such election shall be so declared and entered of record.

§ 32. Whenever a district organized under the provisions of this act, has outstanding bonds, coupons, or other evidences of indebtedness, the payment thereof may be provided for by the issuance of new bonds, in the manner hereinafter prescribed.

§ 33. In order to propose the funding of such bonds, coupons, or other evidences of indebtedness a petition shall be presented to the board of directors of such drainage district, signed by a majority in number of holders of title or evidences of title to real property in such district, which petition shall set forth the amount of bonds, coupons, or other evidences of indebtedness proposed to be funded, together with a general description of same, also the total amount of the bonds sought to be issued (provided, that said amount shall in no case be greater than the total amount of bonds, coupons, and other evidences of indebtedness then outstanding and sought to have funded), together with a full and complete statement of the purposes for which such bonds are to be used. On presentation of such petition, the same shall be entered in full on the minutes of the board.

§ 34. Immediately after the recording of said petition, the board shall call a special election, at which shall be submitted to the electors of such district the question whether or not the bonds of such district in the amount set forth in said petition shall be issued. Notice of such election must be given by posting notices in three public places in each election preeinct in said district for at least twenty days, and also by publication of such notice in some newspaper published in the county where the office of the board of directors of such district is required to be kept, once a week for at least three successive weeks before such election. Such notice must specify the time of holding the election, the amount of bonds proposed to be issued, the amount of bonds, coupons or other evidences of indebtedness proposed to be funded, together with a general description of the same. Said election shall be held and the result thereof determined and declared in all respects as nearly as practicable in conformity with the provisions governing the election of officers; provided, that no informalities in conducting such an election shall invalidate the same, if the election shall have been otherwise fairly conducted. At such election, the ballots shall contain the words "Bonds—Yes" or "Bonds—No" or words equivalent thereto. If two thirds of the votes cast are "Bonds—Yes" the board of directors shall cause bonds in said amount to be issued. If more than one third of the votes cast at such election are "Bonds—No," the result of such election shall be so declared. The result in either case shall be duly entered of record.

§ 35. If said bonds are directed to be issued as herein provided for, the board of directors shall cause the same to be issued. Said bonds shall be made payable in gold coin of the United States, in twenty series, as follows, to wit: On the first day of January after the expiration of twenty years, five per centum of the whole amount of said bonds, and on the first day of January of each year thereafter, an equal amount of such bonds until all shall have been finally paid; that is, five per centum of the whole issue of bonds—not five per centum of each bond, each being wholly payable when due. Said bonds shall bear interest at the rate of five per centum per annum, payable semiannually on the first day of January and July of each year. They shall be negotiable in form, and shall be of denominations of not less than one hundred dollars nor more than five hundred dollars. Said bonds shall in all respects conform to the form of bonds prescribed hereinbefore.

§ 36. It shall be unlawful to sell or exchange any of the bonds as herein provided for less than their par value.

§ 37. When bonds issued under section thirty-five of this act shall be duly executed, they shall be deposited with the treasurer of the county wherein the district was organized, who is hereby authorized and charged with the duty of receiving the same, and his receipt shall be taken therefor, and he shall be charged with the same on his official bond, and shall have no power to deliver the same in exchange for any bonds or indebtedness proposed to be funded until the bonds or evidence of indebtedness proposed to be funded shall have been surrendered to him, and he shall have been ordered by the board of directors of the district, by an order duly entered on their records to make such delivery. When such bonds have been exchanged for other bonds, coupons, or other evidences of indebtedness, the said treasurer shall at once cancel such other bonds, coupons, or other evidences of indebtedness by writing across the face thereof "Canceled" and the date of cancelation, and report the same with his next regular report hereinafter provided for to the board of directors of the district designating the bond, coupon, or other evidence of indebtedness, so that it can be identified, the date of cancelation, and the person from whom it was received, together with the amount paid therefor, or the terms of exchange, in case there is an exchange.

§ 38. When said bonds are issued for the purpose of sale to the highest bidder, the board may sell said bonds from time to time, in such quantities as may be necessary and most advantageous, to raise money to pay bonds, coupons, or other evidences of indebtedness of the district which were outstanding at the time of the filing of said petition, and generally described therein. Resolution of intention must be declared, and notice given, and the sale conducted in the manner prescribed in section twenty-nine of this act for the sale of original bonds. Said bonds shall in no event be sold for less than their par value including accrued interest. All moneys realized from the sale of bonds, issued under the provisions of this section, shall be paid into the hands of the said treasurer, and by him kept in a separate fund, known as the funding fund, and shall be applied exclusively to the payment of bonds, coupons, or other evidences of indebtedness of the district outstanding at the time of filing of the said petition, and described therein.

§ 39. The bonds issued as herein provided for may be exchanged, at not less than their par value, including accrued interest, for any of the indebtedness set out and described in the notice of the election authorizing the issuance of said refunding bond. A contract for such exchange may be made by the board of directors upon such terms as said board may deem advisable; provided, that they must receive not less than par value for the bonds so exchanged.

§ 40. The board of directors must, on or before the first meeting of the board of supervisors in September of each year, furnish the supervisors and the auditor of the county wherein the district is situated, or if such district is not entirely within one county, then as hereinafter provided, to the supervisors and auditors of each county in which any portion of the district is situated, an estimate in writing of the amount of money needed for the purposes of the district for the ensuing fiscal year. This amount must be sufficient to raise the annual interest on the outstanding bonds, to pay the estimated cost of repairs, the incidental expenses of the district, and in any year in which any bonds shall fall due, an amount sufficient to pay the principal of the outstanding bonds as they mature.

§ 41. If such district is in more than one county the total estimate as provided for in the preceding section shall be divided by the board of directors in proportion to value of the real property of the district in each county. This value must be determined from the equalized values of the last assessment rolls of such counties. When such division of the estimate has been made, the board shall furnish the supervisors and auditors of the respective counties a written statement of that part of the estimate apportioned to that county.

§ 42. The board of supervisors of each county wherein is situated a district or any part thereof organized under the provisions of this act, must, annually, at the time of levying county taxes, levy a tax to be known as the “——— (name of district) drainage district tax,” sufficient to raise an amount reported to them as herein provided, by the board of directors. The supervisors must determine the rate of such tax by deducting fifteen per centum for anticipated delinquencies from the total assessed value of the real property of the district within the county as it appears on the assessment roll of the county, and then dividing the sum reported by the board of directors as required to be raised by the remainder of such total assessed value.

§ 43. The tax so levied shall be computed and entered on the assessment roll by the county auditor, and if the supervisors fail to levy the tax as provided in the preceding section, then the auditor must do so. Such tax shall be collected at the same time and in the same manner as state and county taxes, and when collected shall be paid into the county treasury for the use of said district.

§ 44. The provisions of the Political Code of this state prescribing the manner of levying and collecting taxes and the duties of the several county officers with respect thereto, are, so far as they are applicable and not in conflict with the specific provisions of this act, hereby adopted and made a part hereof. Such officers shall be liable upon their several official bonds for the faithful discharge of the duties imposed upon them by this act.

§ 45. If the district is in more than one county, the treasury of the county wherein the district was organized shall be the repository of all the funds of the district. For this purpose the treasurers of any other counties wherein is situated a portion of said district, must, at any time, not oftener than twice each year, upon the order of the board of directors, settle with said board and pay over to the treasurer of the county where the district was organized, all moneys in their possession belonging to the district. Said last-named treasurer is authorized and required to receive and receipt for the same, and to place the same to the credit of the district. He shall be responsible upon his official bond for the safe-keeping and disbursement, in the manner herein provided, of these and all other moneys of the district held by him.

§ 46. The following funds are hereby created and established, to which the moneys properly belonging shall be apportioned by the treasurer, to wit: Bond fund, construction fund, general fund, funding fund.

§ 47. The treasurer shall pay out of the same only upon warrants of the board of directors, signed by the president and attested by the secretary. The treasurer shall report in writing at each regular meeting of the board of directors and as often thereafter as requested by the board, the amount of money in the fund, the amount of receipts since his last report, and the amounts paid out; such reports shall be verified and filed with the secretary of the board.

§ 48. Upon the presentation of the coupons due, to the treasurer, he shall pay the same from the bond fund. Whenever said fund shall amount to the sum of ten thousand dollars in excess of an amount sufficient to meet the interest coupons due, the board of directors may direct the treasurer to pay such an amount of said bonds not due as the money in said fund will redeem, at the lowest value at which they may be offered for liquidation, after advertising in the manner hereinbefore provided for the sale of bonds, for sealed proposals for the redemption of said bonds. Said proposals shall be opened by the board in open meeting, at a time to be named in the notice, and the lowest bid for said bonds must be accepted; provided, that no bond shall be redeemed at a rate above par. In case the bids are equal, the lowest numbered bond shall have the preference. In case none of the holders of said bonds shall desire to have the same redeemed, as herein provided for, said money shall be invested by the treasurer, under the direction of the board, in United States bonds, or the bonds of the state, which shall be kept in said "bond fund" and may be used to redeem said district bonds whenever the holders thereof may desire.

§ 49. After adopting a plan for such conduits, drains, pumping plants, water-gates and other works, as in this act provided for, the board of directors shall give notice by publication thereof not less than twenty days in one newspaper published in each of the counties composing the district (provided, a newspaper is published therein) and in such other newspapers as they may deem advisable, calling for bids for the construction of such work, or of any portion thereof; if less than the whole work is advertised, then the portion so advertised must be particularly described in such notice. Said notice shall set forth that plans and specifications can be seen at the office of the board, and that the board will receive sealed proposals therefor, and that the contract will be let to the lowest responsible bidder, stating the time and place for opening said proposals, which, at the time and place appointed shall be opened in public; and as soon as convenient thereafter the board shall let said work, whether in portions or as a whole, to the lowest responsible bidder; or they may reject any or all bids and readvertise for proposals, or may proceed to construct the work under their own superintendence. Contracts for the purchase of material shall be awarded to the lowest responsible bidder. Any person or persons to whom a contract may be awarded shall enter into a bond, with good and sufficient sureties, to be approved by the board, payable to said district for its use for fifty per centum of the amount of the contract price, conditioned for the faithful performance of said contract. The work shall be done under the direction and to the satisfaction of the engineer, and be approved by the board.

§ 50. No claim shall be paid by the treasurer until allowed by the board, and only upon a warrant signed by the president, and countersigned by the secretary.

§ 51. The cost and expense of purchasing and acquiring property and constructing the works and improvements herein provided for, shall be wholly paid out of the construction fund.

§ 52. The board of directors shall have power to construct the works necessary for drainage purposes across any stream of water, watercourse, street, avenue, highway, railway, canal, ditch, or flume which the route of said conduits or drains may intersect or cross, in such manner as to afford security for life and property; but said board shall restore the same, when so crossed or intersected, to its former state as near as may be, or in such manner as not to have impaired unnecessarily its usefulness; and every company whose railroad, and the board of supervisors, where any public highway shall be intersected or crossed by said works, shall unite with said board in forming said intersections and crossings, and grant the privileges aforesaid; and if such railroad company, or said board of supervisors, or the owners and controllers of said property, thing, or franchise so to be crossed, and said board cannot agree upon the amount to be paid therefor, or the points or the manner of said crossings or intersections, the same shall be ascertained and determined in all respects as is herein provided in respect to the taking of property by condemnation. The right of way is hereby given, dedicated, and set apart, to locate, construct and maintain said works over and through any of the lands which are now or may be the property of this state.

§ 53. Each member of the board of directors shall receive three dollars per day for each day's attendance at the meetings of the board, and actual and necessary expenses while engaged in official business under the order of the board.

§ 54. No director or any other officer named in this act shall in any manner be interested, directly or indirectly in any contract awarded or to be awarded by the board, or in the profits to be derived therefrom; and for any violation of this provision, such officer shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and such conviction shall work a forfeiture of his office, and he shall be punished by a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars or by imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding six months, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

§ 55. The board of directors may at any time, when in their judgment it may be deemed advisable call a special election and submit to the qualified electors of the district the question, whether or not a special assessment shall be levied for the purpose of raising money to be applied to any of the purposes provided in this act. Such election must be called upon the notice prescribed and the same shall be held and the result thereof determined and declared in all respects in conformity with the provisions of section twenty-seven of this act. The notice must specify the amount of money proposed to be raised and the purpose for which it is intended to be used. At such elections the ballots shall contain the words "Assessment—Yes" or "Assessment—No." If two thirds or more of the votes cast are "Assessment—Yes," the board shall proceed in the manner hereinbefore prescribed for raising the annual funds by taxation. When collected, the money shall be paid into the district treasury for the purposes specified in the notice of such special election.

§ 56. The board of directors shall have no power to incur any debt or liability whatever, either by issuing bonds or otherwise, in excess of the express provisions of this act; and any debt or liability incurred in excess of such express provisions shall be and remain absolutely void; except for the purposes of organization, or for any of the purposes of this act, the board of directors may, before the collection of the first assessment, incur an indebtedness not exceeding in the aggregate the sum of two thousand dollars, and may cause warrants of the district to issue therefor, bearing interest at seven per centum per annum.

§ 57. The rights of way, ditches, drains, conduits, flumes, pipe-lines, dams, reservoirs, pumping plants, and other property of like character belonging to any drainage district shall not be taxed for state and county or municipal purposes.

§ 58. The board of directors shall within thirty days after the issue of any bonds herein provided for bring an action in the superior court of the county wherein is located the office of such board, to determine the validity of any such bonds. Such action shall be in the nature of a proceeding in rem, and jurisdiction of all parties interested may be had by publication of summons for at least once a week for three weeks in some paper of general circulation published in the county where the action is pending, such paper to be designated by the court having jurisdiction of the proceedings. Jurisdiction shall be complete within thirty days after the full publication of such summons in the manner herein provided. Any one interested may, at any time before the expiration of said thirty days, appear and by proper proceedings contest the validity of such bonds, and may in the same action or proceeding contest the validity of any bonds, coupons, or other evidences of indebtedness referred to in the petition for funding and proposed to be funded, and if any such bonds, coupons, or evidences of indebtedness be shown to be invalid, then the same shall only be funded for the amount of such proportion thereof as equals the fair and reasonable value of whatever the district may have received in consideration therefor, together with unpaid interest thereon, and the amount of such proportion shall be determined and adjudicated by the court in said action or proceeding. Such action shall be speedily tried and judgment rendered declaring such bonds so contested either valid or invalid. Either party shall have the right to appeal at any time within thirty days after the entry of such judgment, which appeal must be heard and determined within three months from the time of taking such appeal.

§ 59. If no such proceeding shall have been taken by the board of directors, then at any time after thirty days and within ninety days after the issue of any bonds under the provisions of this act, any district assessment payer may bring an action in the superior court of the county wherein the office of the board of directors is located, to determine the validity of any such bonds. The board of directors shall be made parties defendant and service of summons shall be made on the members of the board personally, if they can be found within the state; if not, then by publication for three weeks in some newspaper of general circulation within the county wherein the office of the board of directors is located, such newspaper to be designated by the court having jurisdiction. Before such publication can be had, an affidavit, in the usual form shall be made, showing such facts. Said board shall have the right to appear and contest such action. Notice of said action shall be given by publication of summons therein in the same manner and for the same time as required in the preceding section hereof in actions brought by the publication of such summons in the manner herein provided. Any district assessment payer or any one interested may appear and defend said action, and thereafter the same proceedings shall be had in such action as are hereinbefore provided for in the preceding section hereof in actions brought by the board of directors, and the same matters determined and adjudicated by the court therein. Such action shall be speedily tried, with the right of appeal to either party, within the time and manner herein provided for the bringing of actions by the board to determine such matters. Such appeal shall be heard and determined within three months from the time of taking such appeal.

§ 60. At the hearing of such proceedings the court shall hear and determine the sufficiency of all proceedings.

§ 61. If more than one action shall be pending at the same time concerning similar contests in this act provided for, they shall be consolidated and tried together.

§ 62. The court hearing any of the contests herein provided for, in inquiring into the regularity, legality, or correctness of such proceedings, must disregard any error, irregularity or omission which does not affect the substantial rights of the parties to said action or proceeding. The rules of pleading and practice provided by the Code of Civil Procedure, which are not inconsistent with the provisions of this act, are applicable to all actions or proceedings herein provided for. The costs of any hearing or contest herein provided for may be allowed and apportioned between the parties or attached to the losing party, in the discretion of the court.

§ 63. No contest of any matter or thing herein provided for shall be made other than within the time and manner herein specified.

§ 64. The boundaries of any drainage district now organized or hereafter organized under the provisions of this act, may be changed, and tracts of land which were included within the boundaries of such district at or after its organization under the provisions of this act, may be excluded therefrom, in the manner herein prescribed; but neither such change of the boundaries of the districts nor such exclusion of lands from the district shall impair or affect its organization, or its right in or to property, or any of its rights or privileges of whatever kind or nature; nor shall it affect, impair, or discharge any contract, obligation, lien, or charge for or upon which said district was or may become liable or chargeable, had said change of its boundaries not been made, or had not such land been excluded from the district.

§ 65. The owner or owners in fee of one or more tracts of land which constitute a portion of a drainage district, may, jointly or severally, file with the board of directors of the district a petition, praying that such tract or tracts, and any other tracts contiguous thereto, may be excluded and taken from said district. The petition shall state the grounds and reasons upon which it is claimed that such lands should be excluded, and shall describe the boundaries thereof, and also the lands of such petitioner, or petitioners which are included within such boundaries; but the description of such lands need not be more particular or certain than is required when the lands are entered in the assessment book by the county assessor. Such petition must be acknowledged in the same manner and form as is required in the case of a conveyance of land, and the acknowledgment shall have the same force and effect as evidence as the acknowledgment of such a conveyance.

§ 66. The secretary of the board of directors shall cause a notice of the filing of such petition to be published for at least two weeks in some newspaper published in the county where the office of the board of directors is situated, and if any portion of such territory to be excluded lie within another county or counties, then said notice shall be so published in a newspaper published within each of said counties; or, if no newspaper be published therein, then by posting such notice for the same time in at least three public places in said district, and in case of the posting of said notices, one of said notices must be so posted on the lands proposed to be excluded. The notice shall state the filing of such petition, the names of the petitioners, a description of the lands mentioned in said petition, and the prayer of said petition; and it shall notify all persons interested in, or who may be affected by such change of the boundaries of the district, to appear at the office of said board at a time named in said notice, and show cause, in writing, if any they have, why the change of the boundaries of said district, as proposed in said petition, should not be made. The time to be specified in the notice at which they shall be required to show cause shall be the regular meeting of the board next after the expiration of the time for the publication of the notice.

§ 67. The board of directors, at the time and place mentioned in the notice, or at the time or times to which the hearing of said petition may be adjourned, shall proceed to hear the petition, and all evidence of proofs that may or shall be introduced by or on behalf of the petitioner or petitioners, and all objections to such petition that may or shall be presented in writing by any person showing cause as aforesaid, and all evidence and proofs that may be introduced in support of such objections. Such evidence shall be taken down, in shorthand, and a record made thereof and filed with the board. The failure of any person interested in said district, other than the holders of bonds thereof outstanding at the time of the filing of said petition with said board, to show cause, in writing, why the tract or tracts of land mentioned in said petition should not be excluded from said district, shall be deemed and taken as an assent by him to the exclusion of such tract or tracts of land, or any part thereof, from said district; and the filing of such petition with said board, as aforesaid, shall be deemed and taken as an assent by each and all of such petitioners to the exclusion from such district of the lands mentioned in the petition, or any part thereof. The expenses of giving said notice and of the aforesaid proceedings shall be paid by the person or persons filing such petition.

§ 68. If, upon the hearing of any such petition, no evidence or proofs in support thereof be introduced, or if the evidence fail to sustain said petition, or if the board deem it not for the best interests of the district that the lands, or some portion thereof, mentioned in the petition, should be excluded from the district, the board shall order that said petition be denied as to such lands; but if the said board deem it for the best interests of the district that the lands mentioned in the petition, or some portion thereof, be excluded from the district, and if no person interested in the district show cause in writing, why the said lands, or some portion thereof, should not be excluded from the district, or if, having shown cause, withdraws the same, or upon the hearing fails to establish such objections as he may have made, then it shall be the duty of the board to, and it shall forthwith, make an order that the lands mentioned and described in the petition, or some defined portion thereof, be excluded from said district.

§ 69. If there be outstanding bonds of the district at the time of the filing of said petition, the holders of such outstanding bonds may give their assent, in writing, to the effect that they severally consent that the lands mentioned in the petition, or such portion thereof as may be excluded from said district by order of said board, may be excluded from the district; and if said lands, or any portion thereof, be thereafter excluded from the district, the lands so excluded shall be released from the lien of such outstanding bonds. The assent must be acknowledged by the several holders of such bonds in the same manner and form as is required in case of a conveyance of land, and the acknowledgment shall have the same force and effect as evidence as the acknowledgment of such conveyance. The assent shall be filed with the board, and must be recorded in the minutes of the board; and said minutes, or a copy thereof, certified by the secretary of said board, shall be admissible in evidence, with the same effect as the said assent, and such certified copy thereof may be recorded in the office of the county recorder of the county wherein said lands are situated.

§ 70. In the event the said board of directors shall exclude any lands from said district upon petition therefor, it shall be the duty of the board of directors to make an entry in the minutes of the board, describing the boundaries of the district, should the exclusion of said lands from said district change the boundaries of said district, and for that purpose the board may cause a survey to be made of such portions of the district as the board may deem necessary; and a certified copy of the entry in the minutes of the board excluding any land, certified by the president and secretary of the board, shall be filed for record in the recorder's office of each county within which are situated any of the land of the district; but said district, notwithstanding such exclusion, shall be and remain a drainage district as fully to every intent and purpose as it would be had no change been made in the boundaries of the district, or had the lands excluded therefrom never constituted a portion of the district.

§ 71. If the lands excluded from any district under this act shall embrace the greater portion of any division or divisions of such district, then the office of director for such division or divisions shall become and be vacant at the expiration of ten days from the final order of the board excluding said lands; and such vacancy or vacancies shall be filled by appointment by the board of supervisors of the county where the office of such board is situated, from the district at large. A director appointed as above provided, shall hold his office until the next regular election for said district, and until his successor is elected and qualified.

§ 72. At least thirty days before the next general election of such district, the board of directors thereof shall make an order dividing said district into three or five divisions, as the case may require, as nearly equal in size as may be practicable, which shall be numbered first, second, third and so on, and one director shall be elected by each division. For the purposes of elections in such district, the said board of directors must establish a convenient number of election precincts, and define the boundaries thereof, which said precincts may be changed from time to time, as the board of directors may deem necessary.

§ 73. A guardian, an executor, or an administrator of an estate, who is appointed as such under the laws of this state, and who as such guardian, executor, or administrator, is entitled to the possession of the lands belonging to the estate which he represents, may on behalf of his ward, or the estate which he represents, upon being thereto properly authorized by the proper court, sign and acknowledge the petition in section sixty-five of this act mentioned, and may show cause, as herein provided, why the boundaries of the district should not be changed.

§ 74. Nothing herein provided shall in any manner, operate to release any of the lands so excluded from the district from any obligation to pay, or any lien thereon, of any valid outstanding bonds or other indebtedness of said district at the time of the filing of said petition for the exclusion of said lands, but upon the contrary, said lands shall be held subject to said lien, and answerable and chargeable for and with the payment and discharge of all of said outstanding obligations at the time of the filing of the petition for the exclusion of said land, as fully as though said petition for such exclusion were never filed and said order of exclusion never made; and for the purpose of discharging such outstanding indebtedness, said lands so excluded shall be deemed and considered as part of said drainage district the same as though said petition for its exclusion had never been filed or said order of exclusion never made; and all provisions which may have been resorted to to compel the payment by said lands of its quota or portion of said outstanding obligations, had said exclusion never been accomplished, may, notwithstanding said exclusion, be resorted to to compel and enforce the payment on the part of said lands of its quota and portion of said outstanding obligations of said drainage district for which it is liable, as herein provided. But said land so excluded shall not be held answerable or chargeable for any obligation of any nature or kind whatever, incurred after the filing with the board of directors of said district of the petition for the exclusion of said lands from the said district; provided, that the provisions of this section shall not apply to any outstanding bonds, the holders of which have assented to the exclusion of such lands from said district, as hereinbefore provided.

§ 75. The boundaries of any drainage district now organized or hereafter organized under the provisions of this act may be changed in the manner herein prescribed, but such change of the boundaries of the district shall not impair or affect its organization, or its rights in or to property, or any of its rights or privileges of whatsoever kind or nature; nor shall it affect, impair, or discharge any contract, obligation, lien or charge for or upon which it was or might become liable or chargeable, had such change of its boundaries not been made.

§ 76. The holder or holders of title, or evidence of title, representing one half or more of any body of lands adjacent to the boundary of a drainage district, which are contiguous and which taken together, constitute one tract of land, may file with the board of directors of said district a petition, in writing, praying that the boundaries of said district may be so changed as to include therein said lands. The petition shall describe the boundaries of said parcel or tract of land, and shall also describe the boundaries of the several parcels owned by the petitioners, if the petitioners be the owners, respectively, of distinct parcels, but such descriptions need not be more particular than they are required to be when such lands are entered by the county assessor in the assessment book. Such petition must contain the assent of the petitioners to the inclusion within said district of the parcels or tracts of land described in the petition, and of which said petition alleges they are, respectively, the owners; and it must be acknowledged in the same manner that conveyances of land are required to be acknowledged.

§ 77. The secretary of the board of directors shall cause a notice of the filing of such petition to be given and published in the same manner and for the same time that notices of special elections for the issue of bonds are required by this act to be published. The notice shall state the filing of such petition and the names of the petitioners, a description of the lands mentioned in said petition, and the prayer of said petition; and it shall notify all persons interested in, or that may be affected by such change of the boundaries of the district, to appear, at the office of said board, at a time named in said notice, and show cause in writing, if any they have, why the change in the boundaries of said district, as proposed in said petition, should not be made. The time to be specified in the notice at which they shall be required to show cause shall be the regular meeting of the board next after the expiration of the time for the publication of the notice. The petitioners shall advance to the secretary sufficient money to pay the estimated costs of all proceedings arising from such petition.

§ 78. The board of directors, at the time and place mentioned in the said notice, or at such other time or times to which the hearing of said petition may be adjourned, shall proceed to hear the petition and all the objections thereto, presented in writing by any person showing cause as aforesaid why said proposed change of the boundaries of the district should not be made. The failure by any person interested in said district, or in the matter of the proposed change of its boundaries, to show cause, in writing, as aforesaid, shall be deemed and taken as an assent on his part to a change of the boundaries of the district as prayed for in said petition, or to such a change thereof as will include a part of said lands. And the filing of such petition with said board, as aforesaid, shall be deemed and taken as an assent on the part of each and all of such petitioners to such a change of said boundaries that they may include the whole or any portion of the lands described in said petition.

§ 79. The board of directors to whom such petition is presented, may require, as a condition precedent to the granting of the same, that the petitioners shall severally pay to such district such respective sums, as nearly as the same can be estimated (the several amounts to be determined by the board), as said petitioners or their grantors would have been required to pay to such district as assessments, had such lands been included in such district at the time the same was originally formed.

§ 80. The board of directors, if they deem it not for the best interests of the district that a change of its boundaries be so made as to include therein the lands mentioned in the petition, shall order that the petition be rejected. But if they deem it for the best interests of the district that the boundaries of said district be changed and if no person interested in said district or the proposed change of its boundaries shows cause, in writing, why the proposed change should not be made, or if, having shown cause, withdraws the same, the board may order that the boundaries of the district be so changed as to include therein the lands mentioned in said petition or some part thereof. The order shall describe the boundaries as changed, and shall also describe the entire boundaries of the district as they will be after the change thereof as aforesaid is made; and for that purpose the board may cause a survey to be made of such portions of such boundary as is deemed necessary.

§ 81. If any person interested in said district of the proposed change of its boundaries, shall show cause as aforesaid why such boundaries should not be changed, and shall not withdraw the same, and if the board of directors deem it for the best interests of the district that the boundaries thereof be so changed as to include therein the lands mentioned in the petition, or some part thereof, the board shall adopt a resolution to that effect. The resolution shall describe the exterior boundaries of the lands which the board are of the opinion should be included within the boundaries of the district when changed.

§ 82. Upon the adoption of the resolution mentioned in the last preceding section, the board shall order that an election be held within said district, to determine whether the boundaries of the district shall be changed as mentioned in said resolution; and shall fix the time at which such election shall be held, and cause notice thereof to be given and published. Such notice shall be given and published, and such election shall be held and conducted, the returns thereof shall be made and canvassed, and the result of the election ascertained and declared, and all things pertaining thereto conducted in the manner prescribed by this act in case of a special election to determine whether bonds of a drainage district shall be issued. The ballots cast at said election shall contain the words "For change of boundary" or "Against change of boundary" or words equivalent thereto. The notice of election shall describe the proposed change of the boundaries in such manner and terms that it can readily be traced.

§ 83. If at such election a majority of all the votes cast at said election shall be against such change of the boundaries of the district, the board shall order that said petition be denied, and shall proceed no further in that matter. But if a majority of such votes be in favor of such change of the boundaries of the district, the board shall thereupon order that the boundaries be changed in accordance with said resolution adopted by the board. The said order shall describe the entire boundaries of said district, and for that purpose the board may cause a survey of such portions thereof to be made as the board may deem necessary.

§ 84. Upon a change of the boundaries of a district being made, a copy of the order of the board of directors ordering such change, certified by the president and secretary of the board, shall be filed for record in the recorder's office of each county within which are situated any of the lands of the district, and thereupon the district shall be and remain a drainage district, as fully, and to every intent and purpose, as if the lands which are included in the district by the change of the boundaries, as aforesaid, had been included therein at the original organization of the district.

§ 85. Upon the filing of the copies of the order, as in the last preceding section mentioned, the secretary shall record in the minutes of the board the petition aforesaid; and the said minutes, or a certified copy thereof, shall be admissible in evidence with the same effect as the petition.

§ 86. A guardian, an executor or an administrator of an estate, who is appointed as such under the laws of this state, and who, as such guardian, executor or administrator, is entitled to the possession of the lands belonging to the estate which he represents, may, on behalf of his ward, or the estate which he represents, upon being thereunto authorized by the proper court, sign and acknowledge the petition in section seventy-six of this act mentioned and may show cause why the boundaries of the district should not be changed.

§ 87. In case of the inclusion of any land within any district by proceedings under this act, the board of directors, must, at least thirty days prior to the next succeeding general election, make an order redividing such district, into three or five divisions, as the case may require, as nearly equal in size as may be practicable, which shall be numbered first, second, third and so on, and one elector shall thereafter be elected by each division. For the purpose of elections, the board of directors must establish a convenient number of election precincts in said districts, and define the boundaries thereof, which said precincts may be changed from time to time as the board may deem necessary.

§ 88. Whenever the board of directors of a drainage district heretofore organized, or hereafter organized under the provisions of this act, shall determine that the authorized bonded indebtedness of such drainage district is greater than such district is liable to need to complete its system as planned, and there be no outstanding bonds, the board of directors may call a special election for the purpose of voting upon a proposition to reduce such bonded indebtedness to such sum as the board may determine to be sufficient for such purpose.

§ 89. Notice of the said election shall be given in the same manner as provided in section twenty-seven of this act, in relation to calling special elections for issuance of bonds. The notice of election must state the amount of the authorized bonded indebtedness of such district, and the amount to which it is proposed to reduce the same; also, the date on which said election will be held and the polling-places, as established by said board of directors. The ballots cast at said election shall contain the words "For reducing bonds—Yes," or "For reducing bonds—No." When the vote is canvassed by the board of directors and entered of record, if a majority of the votes cast shall be "For reducing bonds—Yes" then in that event the board of directors shall only be empowered to issue or sell the amount of bonds as was stipulated in the said notice of such special election; but if a majority of said votes are not "For reducing bonds—Yes," then the authority to issue bonds shall remain the same as before said special election was held.

§ 90. In case there be outstanding bonds of any district desiring to take advantage of the provisions of sections eighty-eight and eighty-nine of this act concerning reduction of bonded indebtedness, the assent of such bondholders may be obtained to such reduction of the bonded indebtedness, in the same manner as provided in section sixty-nine of this act. If such assent is obtained in the manner therein provided, then, and in that event, such district shall be empowered to take advantage of all the provisions of said sections of this act, but not otherwise. No reduction of the bonded indebtedness, as in this act provided shall in any manner affect any order of court that may have been made, adjudicating and confirming the validity of said bonds.

§ 91. Whenever there remains in the hands of the board of directors of any drainage district organized under the provisions of this act, after the completion of its drainage system, and the payment of all demands against such district, any bonds voted to be issued by said district, but not sold, and not necessary to be sold for the raising of funds, for the use of such district, said board of directors may call a special election for the purpose of voting upon a proposition to destroy said unsold bonds, or so many of them as may be deemed best, or may submit such proposition at a general election.

§ 92. Such election shall be held in the same manner as other elections held under the provisions of this act. A notice of such election shall be given in the same manner as provided in section twenty-seven of this act in relation to calling special elections for the issuance of bonds. The notice of election must state the amount of the bonded indebtedness of such district authorized by the vote of the district, the amount of the bonds remaining unsold, and the amount proposed to be destroyed, and the date on which such election is proposed to be held, and the polling-places as fixed by the board of directors. The ballots to be cast at such election shall contain the words "For destroying bonds—Yes" and "For destroying bonds—No," and the voter must erase the word "No" in case he favors the destruction of bonds, otherwise the word "Yes."

§ 93. When the vote is canvassed by the board of directors and entered of record, if a two-thirds majority of the votes cast should be found to be in favor of the destruction of said bonds, then the president of the board, in the presence of a majority of the members of the board, must destroy the bonds so voted to be destroyed, and the total amount of bonds so destroyed and canceled shall be deducted from the sum authorized to be issued by the electors of said district, and no part thereof shall thereafter be reprinted or reissued.

§ 94. Nothing in this act shall be so construed as to affect the validity of any district heretofore organized under the laws of this state, or its rights in or to property, or any of its rights or privileges of whatsoever kind or nature; but said districts are hereby made subject to the provisions of this act so far as applicable; nor shall it affect, impair, or discharge any contract obligation, lien, or charge, for or upon which it was or might become liable or chargeable had not this act been passed.

§ 95. Nothing in this act shall be construed as repealing or in anywise modifying the provisions of any other act relating to the subject of drainage except such as may be contained in the act entitled "An act to provide for the organization and government of drainage districts, for the drainage of agricultural lands other than swamp and overflowed lands," approved March thirty-first, eighteen hundred and ninety-seven, and any subsequent acts supplementary thereto, or amendatory thereof, all of which acts, so far as they may be inconsistent herewith, are hereby repealed.

See note after next following statute.

DRAINAGE—SWAMP-LANDS.

To promote the drainage of wet, swamp and overflowed lands, and to promote the public health in the communities in which they lie.

(Stats. 1903, 354, ch. CCLVIII.)

§ 1. Whenever ten or more landholders owning parts of any body of wet, swamp or overflowed lands susceptible of drainage by a ditch or drain, or a system of ditches or drains, shall file with the board of supervisors of the county in which said lands, or a portion thereof, are situated, a petition for the establishment of such ditch or drain, or system of ditches or drains, for the draining of said body of lands, defining the boundaries of such body of lands and the location and courses of such ditch or drain, or system of ditches or drains, through said body of lands, and the lands through which it or they are to pass to their outlets, and shall give said supervisors a good and sufficient bond for the payment of all costs that may accrue provided said petition shall not be granted, said supervisors shall, within thirty days of the filing of said petition, appoint a day for the hearing of the same, which shall not be less than fifteen nor more than forty days from such appointment; and shall, also, cause to be published in some newspaper published and having a general circulation in the county, a copy of said petition together with a notice by the clerk of said board of the time and place set for hearing said petition; said publication shall be in a daily or weekly newspaper and for at least two weeks next preceding the time set for said hearing.

§ 2. Said supervisors shall also direct the county surveyor to survey the line or lines of said proposed ditch or drain, or system of ditches or drains, taking notes of the descent of the land and the character thereof, and report to said board, on or before said day of hearing, the descent, if any, between the head and outlet of said ditch or ditches, together with a list of intermediate grades, the lands benefited by said proposed ditch or ditches, and such other information as may come under his notice upon the matter of such proposed location. In locating such ditches or drains, whenever practicable, they shall be located on section or subdivision lines, but the said surveyor may, in surveying the same, follow the lines of location described in said petition or vary therefrom as he may deem for the greatest advantage of said lands and the best location of said ditch or ditches.

§ 3. Upon the hearing of said petition any person interested in the lands described therein, or the community in which the same are located, may appear and support or oppose the granting of said petition, and witnesses may be sworn and testify in reference thereto.

§ 4. If the supervisors shall, on hearing the petition, find that the construction of the ditch or drain, or system of ditches or drains, petitioned for (or as modified by the report of the surveyor) would be advisable, and beneficial to the lands described in the petition, or a smaller body lying within the same, and such body of lands so to be benefited constitute the lands of a farming community or neighborhood, or that the construction of said ditch or drain, or system of ditches or drains, would be conducive to the health of the community or neighborhood in which they lie, then, the supervisors shall, in their discretion, grant said petition for the construction of said ditch or drain, or system of ditches or drains, as prayed for (or as modified by the report of the surveyor) and shall proceed to examine the lands affected thereby, and shall direct the surveyor to survey the same and set stakes every hundred feet, and to make a journal of the depth and width to be excavated at each of said stakes. If, upon the hearing, the said supervisors shall find the location of said ditch or ditches unadvisable, the petition shall be denied and the costs of the proceedings shall be collected from the petitioners or their bondsmen.

§ 5. After having made such examination of the lands so affected said supervisors shall then apportion the excavation of said ditch and the cost of location (including the cost of right of way, when necessary) and superintendence of construction by the surveyor, to the lands affected thereby, according to the benefits received, after giving notice to the owners of such lands of the time and place of making such apportionment, and giving to each a hearing. The names of such owners may be taken from the last assessment books of the county wherein such lands are situate, and such notice shall be in writing, delivered to each landowner resident upon such land so affected, or left at his place of residence with some competent person, at least ten days before the time set for said hearing, and to each landowner not resident upon such lands so affected, by depositing the same in the post-office directed to him at his place of residence or address, at least twelve days before said time so set for said hearing, and in case the residence or post-office address of such non-resident be not known, then by posting said notice in a prominent place on the lands so affected and owned by him, at least twelve days before the time set for said hearing. All notices provided for in this act shall be given by the clerk of said board of supervisors, by and under their direction and authority.

§ 6. After having completed said hearing and apportionment, the board shall then give notice in the same manner as provided in section five, to all the landowners of the part of ditch apportioned to them, as described by the stakes and their numbers, and of the specifications of the ditch, and, also, of the cost of location and superintendence of construction (and right of way, when necessary); and said notice shall also specify the time set for the completion of the work and the payment of the cost of location, superintendence and right of way.

§ 7. On the day set for the completion of the work, or as soon thereafter as is practicable, the county surveyor shall proceed to examine said ditch or ditches, and if, in his opinion, any portion thereof shall not be completed according to the specifications, he shall report the same to the board of supervisors, who shall fix a reasonable time within which the same shall be completed, and shall notify the person to whom said portion was apportioned to complete the same within such time. If not so completed, at the expiration of the time specified said board of supervisors shall advertise the construction of the same by posting notices for two weeks in three conspicuous places within the territory affected by said ditch. Upon the time specified in said notice said supervisors shall proceed to let the same to the lowest responsible bidder, who shall give such bonds as shall be required by said board, and shall proceed to complete such works in the time agreed upon. The board shall report the cost of such work to the county auditor, who shall cause the amount thereof to be entered on the tax books of the county, and the same shall be a tax upon said lands, which amount shall be collected the same as other taxes, and paid to the person performing such work. The cost of location and supervision, and right of way, if not paid at the time required, shall also be reported in like manner to the county auditor and collected as a tax upon the lands affected and paid to the county treasurer.

§ 8. The county treasurer shall place such funds to the credit of each respective ditch fund and shall pay out the same on warrants drawn by the board of supervisors. The treasurer shall receive, as compensation for his services, one per centum of all moneys by him disbursed under this act.

§ 9. The county surveyor shall superintend the construction of all ditches and drains constructed under the provisions of this act, and when constructed they shall be in charge of the officer having charge and supervision of the roads in the district in which they lie. The owners of lands to whom they have been apportioned, shall keep in repair such ditches in accordance with the apportionment, and if not so kept in repair, the board of supervisors shall direct the same to be done, and the cost thereof shall be a tax upon the land, to be collected as hereinbefore provided.

§ 10. Any person causing an encroachment or obstruction to any ditch or drain created under the provisions of this act, and failing to remove the same for the space of twenty-four hours after notice shall have been given to such person by the roadmaster, if he can be found in the county, otherwise by posting by him at or near the place of encroachment or obstruction, may be fined not exceeding two hundred dollars, or imprisoned not more than thirty days in the county jail, or by both such fine and imprisonment. The fines so collected shall be placed to the credit of the district road fund where such encroachment or obstruction is had, and proceedings for such offenses may be had before any court of competent jurisdiction.

§ 11. The provisions of this act shall not be construed so as to permit waters to be carried out of their natural course to augment other streams or drains, to the damage of the residents along the banks of the streams or drains so augmented.

§ 12. Whenever the board of supervisors cannot purchase, at a reasonable price, or procure the right of way, or procure the consent of all parties interested to join or connect with any existing ditches or outlets, the president of the board may proceed to condemn the same under the provisions of title seven, part three, of the Code of Civil Procedure, and amendments thereto, which are now existing or may hereafter be made.

§ 13. This act is not intended to supersede or repeal any other act for the construction or maintenance of ditches or for drainage purposes, but is intended as an independent and alternative means of constructing such ditches where most applicable or desirable to the parties interested.

§ 14. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

DRAINAGE.—There are various special acts for draining lands in particular counties, as: 1865-6, 451, Colusa, Yolo and Solano; 1877-8, 1037, Yolo and Colusa, but the compass of this work necessarily excludes their publication.

The Statute of 1881, 15, amended 1897, 220, is cited in Holley vs. County Orange, 106 Cal. 420, 422, 39 Pac. Rep. 790, held unconstitutional in Nickey vs. Stearns Ranchos Co., 126 Cal. 150, 151, 58 Pac. Rep. 459.

The Statute of 1897, 334, relating to agricultural lands other than swamp, etc., amended 1901, 554, is repealed by the new Act of 1903, 291 (see sec. 95 of latter act).

DRUG STORES—HOURS OF WORK.

To regulate the work and hours of employees engaged in selling, at retail, drugs and medicines, and compounding physicians' prescriptions, and providing a penalty for the violation thereof.

§ 1. As a measure for the protection of public health, no person employed by any person, firm or corporation, shall for more than an average of ten hours a day or sixty hours a week of six consecutive calendar days, perform the work of selling drugs or other medicines, or compounding physicians' prescriptions, in any store, establishment or place of business, where and in which drugs or medicines are sold, at retail, and where and in which physicians' prescriptions are compounded; provided that the answering of and attending to emergency calls shall not be construed as a violation of this act.

§ 2. No person, firm or corporation employing another person to do work which consists wholly or in part of selling, at retail, drugs or medicines, or of compounding physicians' prescriptions, in any store, or establishment or place of business where or in which medicines are sold and where and in which physicians' prescriptions are compounded shall require or permit said employed person to perform such work for more than an average of ten hours a day, or sixty hours a week of six consecutive calendar days.

§ 3. Any person, firm or corporation violating any of the provisions of this act shall be deemed guilty of misdemeanor and shall be punished therefor by a fine not less than twenty dollars nor more than fifty dollars, or by imprisonment for not exceeding sixty days, or by both such fine and imprisonment, at the discretion of the court.

§ 4. All acts or parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

LABOR LAWS—Fixing hours of labor.—The state of New York passed a statute essentially the same as the above in its name and purpose, but relating to employees in bakeries. This statute is as follows:
Gen. Laws—27

"No employee shall be required or permitted to work in a biscuit, bread, or cake bakery or confectionery establishment more than sixty hours in any one week, or more than ten hours in any one day, unless for the purpose of making a shorter workday on the last day of the week; nor more hours in any one week than will make an average of ten hours per day for the number of days during such week in which such employee shall work," and has a penalty attached for a violation thereof.

Joseph Lochner was indicted for a violation of the above law and convicted in the trial court. The conviction was affirmed by the appellate division and also by the court of appeals, and thereupon taken to the supreme court of the United States (Lochner vs. State, May 15, 1905, vol. 197 U. S. —, bk. 49 L. ed. 539, 25 Sup. Ct. Rep. 539), wherein by a bare majority the law was held unconstitutional and the judgment of conviction reversed. Mr. Justice Peckham, writing the majority opinion, says:

"There is nothing in any of the opinions delivered in this case, either in the supreme court or the court of appeals of the state, which construes the section, in using the word 'required,' as referring to any physical force being used to obtain the labor of an employee. It is assumed that the word means nothing more than the requirement arising from voluntary contract for such labor in excess of the number of hours specified in the statute. There is no pretense in any of the opinions that the statute was intended to meet a case of involuntary labor in any form. All the opinions assume that there is no real distinction, so far as this question is concerned, between the words 'required' and 'permitted.' The mandate of the statute, that 'no employee shall be required or permitted to work,' is the substantial equivalent of an enactment that 'no employee shall contract or agree to work,' more than ten hours per day; and, as there is no provision for special emergencies, the statute is mandatory in all cases. It is not an act merely fixing the number of hours which shall constitute a legal day's work, but an absolute prohibition upon the employer permitting, under any circumstances, more than ten hours' work to be done in his establishment. The employee may desire to earn the extra money which would arise from his working more than the prescribed time, but this statute forbids the employer from permitting the employee to earn it."

LIMIT TO VALID EXERCISE OF POLICE POWER.—The court say: "It must, of course, be conceded that there is a limit to the valid exercise of the police power by the state. There is no dispute concerning this general proposition. Otherwise the XIV amendment would have no efficacy and the legislatures of the states would have unbounded power, and it would be enough to say that any piece of legislation was enacted to conserve the morals, the health, or the safety of the people; such legislation would be valid, no matter how absolutely without foundation the claim might be. The claim of the police power would be a mere pretext,—become another and delusive name for the supreme sovereignty of the state to be exercised free from constitutional restraint. This is not contended for. In every case that comes before this court, therefore, where legislation of this character is concerned, and where the protection of the federal constitution is sought, the question necessarily arises: Is this a fair, reasonable, and appropriate exercise of the police power of the state, or is it an unreasonable, unnecessary, and arbitrary interference with the right of the individual to his personal liberty, or to enter into those contracts in relation to labor which may seem to him appropriate or necessary for the support of himself and his family? Of course the liberty of contract relating to labor includes both parties to it. The one has as much right to purchase as the other to sell labor.

"This is not a question of substituting the judgment of the court for that of the legislature. If the act be within the power of the state, it is valid, although the judgment of the court might be totally opposed to the enactment of such a law. But the question would still remain, Is it within the police power of the state? and that question must be answered by the court."

INTERFERENCE WITH CONTRACT.—Fourteenth amendment.—The court say: "The statute necessarily interferes with the right of contract between the employer and employees, concerning the number of hours in which the latter may labor in the bakery of the employer. The general right to make a contract in relation to his business is part of the liberty of the individual protected by the XIV amendment of the federal constitution. (Allgeyer vs. Louisiana, 165 U. S. 578, bk. 41 L. ed. 832, 17 Sup. Ct. Rep. 427.) Under that provision no state can deprive any person of life, liberty, or property without due process of law. The right to purchase or to sell labor is part of the liberty protected by this amendment, unless there are circumstances which exclude the right. There are, however, certain powers, existing in the sovereignty of each state in the Union, somewhat vaguely termed police powers, the exact description and limitation of which have not been attempted by the courts. Those powers, broadly stated, and without, at present, any attempt at a more specific limitation, relate to the safety, health, morals, and general welfare of the public. Both property and liberty are held on such reasonable conditions as may be imposed by the governing power of the state in the exercise of those powers, and with such conditions the XIV amendment was not designed to interfere. (Mugler vs. Kansas, 123 U. S. 623, bk. 31 L. ed. 205, 8 Sup. Ct. Rep. 273; In re Kemmler, 136 U. S. 436, bk. 34 L. ed. 519, 10 Sup. Ct. Rep. 930; Crowley vs. Christensen, 137 U. S. 86, bk. 34 L. ed. 620, 11 Sup. Ct. Rep. 13; In re Converse, 137 U. S. 624, bk. 34 L. ed. 796, 11 Sup. Ct. Rep. 191.)

"The state, therefore, has power to prevent the individual from making certain kinds of contracts, and in regard to them the federal constitution offers no protection. If the contract be one which the state, in the legitimate exercise of its police power, has the right to prohibit, it is not prevented from prohibiting it by the XIV amendment. Contracts in violation of a statute, either of the federal or state government, or a contract to let one's property for immoral purposes, or to do any other unlawful act, could obtain no protection from the federal constitution, as coming under the liberty of person or of free contract. Therefore, when the state, by its legislature, in the assumed exercise of its police powers, has passed an act which seriously limits the right to labor or the right of contract in regard to their means of livelihood between persons who are sui juris (both employer and employee), it becomes of great importance to determine which shall prevail,—the right of the individual to labor for such time as he may choose, or the right of the state to prevent the individual from laboring, or from entering into any contract to labor, beyond a certain time prescribed by the state."

VALIDITY OF LABOR LAW—Laborers not wards of state.—Mr. Justice Peckham further says: "The question whether this act is valid as a labor law, pure and simple, may be dismissed in a few words. There is no reasonable ground for interfering with the liberty of person or the right of free contract, by determining the hours of labor, in the occupation of a baker. There is no contention that bakers as a class are not equal in intelligence and capacity to men in other trades or manual occupations, or that they are not able to assert their rights and care for themselves without the protecting arm of the state interfering with their independence of judgment and of action. They are in no sense wards of the state. Viewed in the light of a purely labor law, with no reference whatever to the question of health, we think that a law like the one before us involves neither the safety, the morals, nor the welfare of the public, and that the interest of the public is not in the slightest degree affected by such an act. The law must be upheld, if at all, as a law pertaining to the health of the individual engaged in the occupation of a baker. It does not affect any other portion of the public than those who are engaged in that occupation. Clean and wholesome bread does not depend upon whether the baker works but ten hours per day or only sixty hours a week. The limitation of the hours of labor does not come within the police power on that ground.

"It is a question of which of two powers or rights shall prevail,—the power of the state to legislate or the right of the individual to liberty of person and freedom of contract. The mere assertion that the subject relates, though but in a remote degree, to the public health, does not necessarily render the enactment valid. The act must have a more direct relation, as a means to an end, and the end itself must be appropriate and legitimate before an act can be held to be valid which interferes with the general right of an individual to be free in his person and in his power to contract in relation to his own labor.

"We think the limit of the police power has been reached and passed in this case. There is, in our judgment, no reasonable foundation for holding this to be necessary or appropriate as a health law to safeguard the public health, or the health of the individuals who are following the trade of a baker. If this statute be valid, and if, therefore, a proper case is made out in which to deny the right of an individual, sui juris, as employer or employee, to make contracts for the labor of the latter under the protection of the provisions of the federal constitution, there would seem to be no length to which legislation of this nature might not go. The case differs widely, as we have already stated, from the expressions of this court in regard to laws of this nature, as stated in Holden vs. Hardy, 169 U. S. 366, bk. 42 L. ed. 780, 18 Sup. Ct. Rep. 383, and Jacobson vs. Massachusetts, 197 U. S. 11, 49 L. ed. 358, 25 Sup. Ct. Rep. 358."

EMERGENCY CLAUSE.—It will be observed that our statute has no emergency clause. Neither has the New York law. On this subject the court, calling attention to the fact that the Utah law (regulating the hours in underground mines and smelters.—See Holden vs. Hardy, 169 U. S. 366, bk. 42 L. ed. 780, 18 Sup. Ct. Rep. 383) had an emergency clause, remarks: "The statute now before this court has no emergency clause in it, and, if the statute is valid, there are no circumstances and no emergencies under which the slightest violation of the provisions of the act would be innocent. There is nothing in Holden vs. Hardy which covers the case now before us. Nor does Atkin vs. Kansas, 191 U. S. 207, bk. 48 L. ed. 148, 24 Sup. Ct. Rep. 124, touch the case at bar. The Atkin case was decided upon the right of the state to control its municipal corporations and to prescribe the conditions upon which it will permit work of a public character to be done for a municipality. Knoxville Iron Co. vs. Harbison, 183 U. S. 13, 46 L. ed. 55, 22 Sup. Ct. Rep. 1, is equally far from an authority for this legislation. The employees in that case were held to be at a disadvantage with the employer in matters of wages, they being miners and coal workers, and the act simply provided for the cashing of coal orders when presented by the miner to the employer."

ELECTIONS—PURITY OF.

To promote the purity of elections by regulating the conduct thereof, and to support the privilege of free suffrage by prohibiting certain acts and practices in relation thereto, and providing for the punishment thereof.

(Stats. 1893, 12, ch. XVI; amended 1895, 227, ch. CLXXXV; 1905, 93, ch. XCV, and § 42a, added 1905, 37, ch. XLI.)

§ 1. All nominations of candidates for public office to be filled by election within this state, and presidential electors, must be filed with the proper officer within the time and in the manner prescribed by law. Every certificate of nominations made by the members of a political party, or by a convention or organized assemblage of delegates, or other body of citizens representing a political party or principle, must be signed as provided by the provisions of sections eleven hundred and eighty-seven (1187) or eleven hundred and eighty-eight (1188) of the Political Code of this state; and at the time of filing the certificate of nomination, the person signing such certificate of nomination shall also file with the officer authorized by law to receive and file such certificate the names of five persons, who have accepted, in writing, and consented to act, selected to receive, expend, audit, and disburse all moneys contributed, donated, subscribed, or in anywise furnished or raised for the purpose of aiding or promoting the election of the candidates for office or electors named in the said certificate of nomination, or in any manner to be used in respect of the conduct and management of the election at which such candidates are to be voted for. The certificate of nomination must not be received or filed unless accompanied by the names of five persons, citizens and electors of this state, to compose such committee, together with their written acceptance and consent to act as such committee, as required by this act. All independent candidates must file the names of five persons to act as an auditing committee, in the same manner and at the same time as required by all regular party nominees or candidates, and all members of such an auditing committee acting for an independent candidate are to be governed by the same laws and requirements as the auditing committee of all regular party nominees or candidates. The said committee shall have the exclusive custody of all moneys contributed, donated, subscribed, or in anywise furnished or raised for or on behalf of the political party, organized assemblage or body, or candidates represented by said committee, and shall disburse the same on proper vouchers, under the directions of the body of superior authority to which it is subject, if there be any. If, for any cause, a vacancy shall occur in the membership of said committee prior to the fifteenth day before the day of holding an election, the vacancy must be filled by the same authority as vacancies in the list of nominees are filled. No vacancy by resignation therefrom or refusal to act upon said committee shall occur after the fifteenth day before the day of holding an election, or until the said committee shall have completed and discharged all of the duties required of them by this act. If any vacancy be created by death or legal disability subsequent to the fifteenth day before the day of holding an election, such vacancy shall not be filled, and the remaining members shall discharge and complete the duties required of said committee as if such vacancy had not been created. [Amendment, Stats. 1895, 227.]

§ 2. Within twenty-one days after the completion of the official canvass of the result of the election, said committee shall file, as hereinafter provided, an itemized statement, showing in detail all the moneys contributed, donated, subscribed, or in anywise furnished or received to the use of the political party, organized assemblage, or body, or any or all of the candidates for public office, or electors coming under the control of such committee, or into their custody, directly or indirectly, together with the name of each contributor, donor, subscriber, or source from which such moneys were derived, and an itemized statement of all money expended; such statement shall give the names of the various persons to whom such moneys were paid, the specific nature of each item, by whom the service was performed, and the purpose for which it was expended.

There shall be attached to such statement an affidavit, subscribed and sworn to by each member of said committee, setting forth, in substance, that the statement thus made is in all respects true, and that the same is a full and detailed statement of all moneys, securities, or equivalents for moneys coming under their control or into their custody, and by them expended, directly or indirectly. Such statement shall be filed in the same office in which is filed the certificate of their selection as such committee, and shall become a public document, and open to inspection by any citizen.

§ 3. Every candidate who is voted for at any public election held within the state shall, within fifteen days after the day of holding such election, file, as hereinafter provided, an itemized statement, showing in detail all moneys paid, loaned, contributed, or otherwise furnished to him, or for his use, directly or indirectly, in aid of his election, and all moneys contributed, loaned or expended by him, directly or indirectly, by himself or through any other person, in aid of his election. Such statement shall give the names of the various persons who paid, loaned, contributed, or otherwise furnished such moneys in aid of his election, and the names of the various persons to whom such moneys were contributed, loaned, or paid, the specific nature of each item, the service performed, and by whom performed, and the purpose for which the money was expended, contributed, or loaned. There shall be attached to such statement an affidavit, subscribed and sworn to by such candidate, which must be substantially in the following form:

State of California, }
County of —, } ss.

I (name), having been a candidate for the office of —, at the election held in the county, city and county, city, or other division, state of California, on the — day of —, 18—, do solemnly swear that I have paid the sum of $— for my expenses at the said election, and no more, and that, except as aforesaid, I have not, nor to the best of my knowledge and belief has any person, club, society, or association, on my behalf, directly or indirectly, made any payment, or given, promised, or offered any reward, office, employment, or valuable consideration, or incurred any liability, on account of or in respect of the conduct or management of the said election, and except such moneys as may have been paid to or expended by the committee selected as prescribed by the act of the legislature of this state approved (date of this act). And I further solemnly swear that, except as aforesaid, no money, security, or equivalent for money has to my knowledge or belief been paid, advanced, given, or deposited by any one, to or in the hands of myself, or any other person, for the purpose of defraying any expenses incurred on my behalf, or in aid of my election, or on account of or in respect of the conduct or management of the said election. And I further solemnly swear that I will not, at any future time, make, or be a party to the making or giving of, any payment, reward, office, employment, or valuable consideration for the purpose of defraying any such expenses as last mentioned, or provide or be a party to the providing of any money, security, or equivalent for money for the purpose of defraying any such expenses.

If the candidate seeks to avoid the responsibility of any illegal payment made by any other person in his behalf, he shall set out such illegal payment and disclaim responsibility therefor. Candidates for office to be filled by the electors of the state, or of any political division thereof greater than a county, and for members of the senate and assembly, representative in Congress, or for members of the state board of equalization, state board of railroad commissioners, shall file their statements in the office of the secretary of state. Candidates for all other offices shall file their statements in the office of the clerk of the county wherein the election is held, and within which the duties of the office for which the candidate is voted for are to be exercised. The statement and affidavit of a committee or candidate shall be recorded in the office of the county recorder, and shall, after being filed, become a public record, and open at all times to public inspection. Vouchers must be filed for all expenditures, except in the case of sums under five dollars.

§ 4. Any candidate for a public office who shall refuse or neglect to file, or who makes a false statement of moneys received or expended, as prescribed by section three of this act, shall in addition to the punishment of such offense prescribed by the laws of this state, forfeit any office to which he may have been elected at the election with reference to which the statement is required to be made. If a candidate elected to a public office refuses or neglects to file the statement prescribed by section three of this act, no certificate of election shall be issued to him, neither shall any official bond presented or offered by him be approved, and the incumbent of the office, unless he is himself a defaulting candidate, must not surrender or deliver up said office, but shall continue to discharge the duties and shall receive the emoluments thereof. If the candidate refusing or neglecting to file the statement, or making a false statement of moneys received or expended, is the incumbent of an office of profit or trust under the laws of this state, in addition to the punishment prescribed by the laws of this state for such refusal or neglect, or for making such false statement, he shall be deprived of his office, and shall also forfeit any office to which he may have been elected at the election in reference to which the statement is required to be made.

§ 5. No sum of money shall be paid and no expense shall be incurred by or on behalf of a candidate at an election held within this state at which he is a candidate, or by or on behalf of a committee selected under the provisions of section one of this act, or by or on behalf of the body or superior authority to which such committee is subject, if any, whether before, during, or after an election, on account of or in respect of the conduct or management of such election, except for the expenses of holding and conducting public meetings for the discussion of public questions, and of printing and circulating specimen ballots, handbills, cards, and other papers previous to such election, and of advertising, and of postage, expressage, telegraphing and telephoning, and of supervising the registration of voters, and watching the polling or counting of votes cast at such election, and of salaries of persons employed in transacting business at office or headquarters and necessary expenses of maintaining same, and for rent of rooms necessary for the transaction of the business of the candidate or committee, or superior authority to which such committee is subject, if any, and for necessary incidental expenses, which shall not exceed the sum of one hundred dollars, if expended by a candidate, or one thousand dollars, if expended by a committee; and no sum shall be paid and no expense shall be incurred, directly or indirectly, by or on behalf of a candidate, whether before, during, or after an election, on account of or in respect of the conduct and management of an election at which he is a candidate, in excess of the maximum amount following, that is to say: if the term of the office for which the person is a candidate be for one year or less, five per centum of the amount of one year's salary of the office; if the term be for more than one year, and not more than two years, ten per centum of the amount of one year's salary of the office; if the term be for more than two years, and not more than three years, fifteen per centum of the amount of one year's salary of the office; if the term be for more than three years, and not more than four years, twenty per centum of the amount of one year's salary of the office; if the term be for more than four years, ten per centum of the amount of one year's salary of the office; if the office be one for which, in lieu of salary, there is allowed per diem, for a statutory period, or for the number of days actually engaged in the performance of public duties, twenty-five per centum of the amount to accrue for the statutory period; if the office be one for which, in lieu of salary, a yearly sum is allowed the officer for all the expenses of his office, the expenditures of the candidate for such office shall not exceed the amount of ten per centum of the allowance for such office for one year; if the office be one for which no salary or compensation is allowed except fees, or a salary not exceeding nine hundred dollars per annum and fees, the expenditures of the candidate for such office shall not exceed the amount of one hundred and fifty dollars; if the office be one for which no salary or compensation is allowed, or for which a per diem is allowed for the days actually employed in the performance of a public duty, the expenditures of the candidate for such office shall not exceed one hundred dollars; if the candidate is also at the same time a candidate for an unexpired term, he shall not pay or expend any sum on account of such unexpired term, but the maximum amount to be expended by such candidate shall be as hereinabove provided.

§ 6. Every claim payable by the committee selected under the provisions of section one of this act on account of or in respect of any expense incurred in the conduct and management of an election held within this state, or on behalf of the candidates of the political party, organized assemblage, or body which such committee represents, must be presented to the committee within ten days after the return day of the election, and if not so presented, the same shall not be paid, and no action shall be commenced or maintained thereon, and all expenses incurred as aforesaid shall be paid within fifteen days after the completion of such official canvass, and not otherwise. Every claim in respect of any expenses incurred by or on behalf of a candidate at an election held within this state on account of or in respect of the conduct or management of such election shall be presented to such candidate within ten days after the day of election, and if not so presented, the same shall not be paid, and no action shall be instituted or maintained thereon; and all such expenses incurred as aforesaid must be paid within twelve days after the day of election, and not otherwise. Any person who makes a payment in contravention of this section, except where such payment is allowed, as provided by this act, is guilty of a misdemeanor.

§ 7. The superior court of the county wherein such statement is filed or is required to be filed, may, on the application of either the committee or candidate, or a creditor of either, allow any claim, not in excess of the maximum amount allowed by this act, to be presented and paid after the time limited by this act; and a statement of any sum so paid, with a certificate of its allowance, shall forthwith, after payment, be filed by the committee or candidate in the same office as the original statement of the committee or candidate. If the candidate or committee, upon such application, shall show to the satisfaction of said court that any error or false recital in such statement or affidavit, or that the failure to make such statement or affidavit, or to present, within the designated time, a claim otherwise just and proper, has been occasioned by the absence or illness of such candidate, or by the absence, illness or death of one or more members of such committee, or by the misconduct of any person other than such applicant, or by inadvertence or excusable neglect, or of any reasonable cause of a like manner, and not by reason of any want of good faith on the part of the applicant, the court may, after such notice of the application as the court shall require, and on the production of such evidence of the facts stated in the application as shall be satisfactory to such court, by order, allow such statement and affidavit to be filed, or such error or false recital therein to be corrected, or such claims to be paid, as to the court seems just; and such order shall relieve the applicant from any liability or consequences under this act in respect of the matters excused by the order. If the application is made by a creditor, the court may, under like conditions and upon a like showing, order the claim to be paid, and the creditor shall also be entitled to his costs. The claims of one or more creditors may be united in such application, but the amount and specific nature of each claim must be fully stated.

§ 8. No payment of money shall be made and no expense shall be incurred by any person in aid of, or for or on behalf of, any candidate, or on account of or in respect of the conduct or management of an election held within this state, except by a candidate or the committee selected under the provisions of section one of this act, or the committee, body, or superior authority to which such committee is subject; and all expenses incurred by the committee, body, or superior authority to which the said committee is subject shall be paid only from the fund in the custody of the said committee so selected, as required by this act. Any contract for the payment of money or any expenses incurred contrary to the provisions of this section shall be absolutely void.

§ 9. No payment of any money shall be made by a committee or candidate for the rent of any premises to be used as a committee-room or headquarters, or for holding a meeting, or for the purpose of promoting the election of a candidate, or on account of, or in respect to the conduct or management of, an election, where intoxicating liquors are sold for consumption on the premises, or where intoxicating liquor is supplied to members of any club, society, or association; provided, that nothing in this section shall apply to any part of such premises which is ordinarily let for the purpose of offices, or for holding public meetings, if such part has a separate entrance and no direct communication with any part of the premises on which any intoxicating liquor or refreshment is sold or supplied as aforesaid.

§ 10. Every bill, placard, poster, pamphlet, or other printed matter having reference to an election, or to any candidate, shall bear upon the face thereof the name and address of the printer and publisher thereof, and no payment therefor shall be made or allowed unless such address is so printed.

§ 11. Whenever any candidate for a public office pays, lends, or contributes, or offers or agrees to pay, lend, or contribute, any money or other valuable consideration to or for any person, either for:

1. The doing or procuring to be done of any act forbidden to be done by the laws of this state relating to public elections; or

2. The commission of any crime or offense against the elective franchise, or the encouragement or assistance of a person in the commission of a crime or offense against the elective franchise, or aiding or assisting any person charged with the commission of a crime against the elective franchise to evade arrest or to escape conviction and punishment for such crime or offense; or

3. Providing wholly or in part the expense of boarding, lodging, or maintaining a person at any place or domicile in any election precinct or ward or district with the purpose of securing the vote of such person for himself or any other person at an election held within the state; or

4. The hiring or employment of a person to take or maintain a place in, or to otherwise obstruct or hinder, or to prevent the forming of, the line of voters awaiting their opportunity or time to enter the polling-place or election-booth of an election precinct; or

5. For services rendered in securing his nomination for the office for which he is a candidate, or for placing his name upon any list of nominees, filed with a public officer authorized to receive certificates of nomination, except the cost or expense authorized by the Political Code to be contributed by a candidate for nomination to defray the legal and authorized expenses of a primary election; and except, also, the cost or expense of circulating a nominating petition for signatures of voters, or in consideration of any member of a convention, organized assemblage of delegates, or other body representing or claiming to represent a political party or principle, having voted to secure for him his selection or indorsement as the nominee of such convention, organized assemblage, or body, for the office for which he is a candidate, or in consideration of any person aiding him in securing his election or indorsement as aforesaid; or

6. In consideration of any person withdrawing as a candidate for public office or presidential elector at any election held within this state; or

7. For any purpose in contravention of the provisions of this act; or

8. For any purpose whatever in excess of the maximum amount which such candidate may lawfully expend under the provisions of this act; or

9. Makes any payment after the time limited by this act, unless the same is authorized as provided in this act; or unless it be in satisfaction of a judgment obtained against him, whether before, during, or after an election, in respect of or on account of such election, or who refuses or neglects to file the statement prescribed by section three of this act, or who makes or files a false statement thereof, or is guilty of any crime against the elective franchise, or of any offense which is punishable by fine or imprisonment, or both, under the provisions of this act—such candidate shall, in addition to the punishment prescribed by the laws of this state or by this act, forfeit any office to which he may have been elected at the election in reference to which such crime or offense was committed; and if the candidate so offending is the incumbent of an office of profit or trust under the laws of this state, he shall thereby forfeit his office. Any candidate who procures, aids, assists, counsels or advises the payment of any money or other valuable thing by or on behalf of a committee selected under the provisions of section one of this act, and such payment is made for any purpose which, if the money were expended by the candidate, would work a forfeiture of the office to which he has been elected, such payment shall be deemed to have been made by such candidate, and he shall forfeit any office to which he may have been elected at the election in reference to which such payment was made by or on behalf of such committee.

§ 12. Any elector of the state, or of any county, city and county, city or of any political subdivision of either, may contest the right of any person declared elected to an office to be exercised therein for any of the causes or offenses named in this act, or to annul and set aside the election of any person declared elected to an office to be exercised therein who has forfeited his office for any offense committed in contravention of this act. In such a proceeding the provisions of title two of part three of the Code of Civil Procedure of the state of California, relating to the proceedings of contesting certain elections, so far as they are not inconsistent with the provisions of this act, are applicable to proceedings authorized by this section. If the contest or proceedings be as to the right of any person declared elected to the office of senator or member of the assembly, the provisions of sections two hundred and seventy-three to two hundred and eighty-three, both inclusive, of the Political Code of this state shall govern and control the conduct and disposition of such contest or proceeding. If the contest be as to the right of any person declared elected to the office of governor or lieutenant-governor, such proceedings shall be had as are provided by sections two hundred and eighty-eight to two hundred and ninety-five, both inclusive, of the Political Code of this state, and shall govern and control the conduct and disposition of such proceeding. Any offense mentioned in this act which, if committed by the incumbent of an office, other than member of the senate or assembly, or governor or lieutenant-governor, or any other office named in section eighteen of article four of the constitution of this state, is cause of removal of such officer from his office, and is hereby declared to be a misdemeanor in office, within the meaning of the constitution of this state; and for any such misdemeanor in office, the governor, lieutenant-governor, or other officer mentioned in said section eighteen of article four of the constitution, is liable to impeachment. For any such misdemeanor in office committed by a member of the senate or assembly of this state, with the concurrence of two thirds of the members elected, such member may be expelled. If the proceeding is against the incumbent of an office of profit or trust under the laws of this state, other than member of the senate or assembly, or governor or lieutenant-governor, or other officer liable to impeachment, to remove him from or deprive him of his office for any offense in contravention of the provisions of this act, the provisions of sections seven hundred and fifty-eight to seven hundred and seventy-two, both inclusive, of the Penal Code of the state of California shall be applicable to such proceedings.

§ 13. Where, upon the trial of any action or proceeding under the provisions of this act for the contesting of the right of any person declared elected to an office, or to annul and set aside such election, or to remove a person from his office, it appears from the evidence that the offense complained of was not committed by the candidate, or with his knowledge or consent, or was committed without his sanction or connivance, and that all reasonable means for preventing the commission of such offenses at such election were taken by and on behalf of the candidate, or that the offenses complained of were trivial, unimportant, and limited in character, and that in all other respects his participation in the election was free from such offenses or illegal acts, or that any act or omission of the candidate arose from inadvertence or from accidental miscalculation, or from some other reasonable cause of a like nature, and in any case did not arise from any want of good faith, and under the circumstances it seems to the court to be just that the said candidate should not forfeit his office, or be deprived of any office of which he is the incumbent, then the election of such candidate shall not, by reason of such offense or omission complained of, be void, nor shall the candidate be removed from or deprived of his office.

§ 14. An action to contest the right of any person declared elected to an office, or to annul and set aside such election, or to remove from or deprive any person of an office of which he is the incumbent, for any offense mentioned in this act, must, unless a different time be stated, be commenced within forty days after the return day of the election at which such offense was committed; or unless the ground of the action or proceeding is the illegal payment of money or other valuable thing subsequent to the filing of the statement prescribed by section three of this act, in which case the action or proceeding may be commenced at any time after such illegal payment. A contest of the office of governor or lieutenant-governor, or member of the senate or assembly, must be commenced within twenty days after the certificate of election is issued or the declaration of the result of the election.

§ 15. An application for filing a statement, payment of a claim, or correction of an error or false recital in a statement filed, or an action or proceeding to annul and set aside the election of any person declared elected to an office, or to remove or deprive any person of his office for an offense mentioned in this act, must be made to or commenced in the superior court of the county in which the certificate of his nomination as a candidate for the office to which he is declared elected or is the incumbent is filed, or would be filed, under any law enacted subsequent to the first day of January, eighteen hundred and ninety-one, had such law been in force at the time he was a candidate.

§ 16. A candidate elected to an office, and whose election thereto has been annulled and set aside for any offense mentioned in this act, shall not, during the period fixed by law as the term of such office, be appointed to fill any vacancy which may occur in such office. A candidate or other person who is removed from or deprived of his office for any offense mentioned in this act shall not, during the period remaining as the unexpired term of such office, or during the period fixed by law as the next ensuing term of such office, be appointed to fill any vacancy which may occur in such office. Any appointment to an office made in violation of or contrary to the provisions of this section shall be void.

§ 17. Every offense mentioned in this act which is punishable by imprisonment in the state prison is hereby declared to be an infamous crime, and when any person is convicted of an offense herein declared to be an infamous crime, he shall, in addition to the punishment prescribed by the laws of this state for such offense, be excluded from the right of suffrage after such conviction; and it shall be the duty of the county clerk of the county in which any such conviction shall be had to transmit a certified copy of the record of conviction to the clerk of each county of the state within ten days thereafter, which said certified copy shall be duly filed by the said county clerks in their respective offices, and a record of such must be made, and such record shall be a public record, and open to the inspection of any citizen.

§ 18. If the district attorney of the county shall be notified by any officer or other person of any violation of any of the provisions of this act, it shall be his duty forthwith to diligently inquire into the facts of such violation, and if there is reasonable ground for instituting a prosecution, it shall be the duty of such district attorney to file a complaint or accusation, in writing, before a court of competent jurisdiction, charging the accused person of such offense, and shall verify such complaint by affidavit; but it shall be sufficient to state in such affidavit that he believes the facts stated in such complaint to be true. If any district attorney shall fail or refuse to faithfully perform any duty imposed upon him by this act, he shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall forfeit his office. It shall be the duty of the district attorney, under penalty of forfeiture of his office, to prosecute any and all persons guilty of any violation of the provisions of this act, the penalty of which is fine or imprisonment, or both, or removal from office. Any citizen may employ an attorney to assist the district attorney to perform his duties under this act, and such attorney shall be recognized by the district attorney and the court as associate counsel in the proceeding; and no prosecution, action, or proceeding shall be dismissed without notice to, or against the objection of, such associate counsel until the reasons of the district attorney for such dismissal, together with the objections thereto of said associate counsel, shall have been filed in writing, argued by counsel, and fully considered by the court, with such limitation as to the time of filing such reasons and objections as the court may impose.

§ 19. It shall be unlawful for any person, directly or indirectly, by himself or through any other person,—

1. To pay, lend, or contribute, or offer or promise to pay, lend, or contribute, any money or other valuable consideration, to or for any voter, or to or for any other person, to induce such voter to vote or refrain from voting at any election, or to induce any voter to vote or refrain from voting at such election, for any particular person or persons, or to induce such voter to come to the polls or remain away from the polls at such election, or on account of such voter having voted or refrained from voting, or having voted or refrained

3. To make any gift, loan, promise, offer, procurement, or agreement, as aforesaid, to, for, or with any person, in order to induce such person to procure, or endeavor to procure, the election of any person, or the vote of any voter at any election.

6. To advance or pay, or cause to be paid, any money or other valuable thing to or for the use of any other person, with the intent that the same, or any part thereof, shall be used for boarding, lodging, or maintaining a person at any place or domicile in any election precinct, or ward, or district, with intent to secure the vote of such person, or to induce such person to vote for any particular person or persons at any election.

7. To advance or pay, or cause to be paid, any money or other valuable thing to or for the use of any other person, with the intent that the same, or any part thereof, shall be used to aid or assist any person to evade arrest who is charged with the commission of a crime against the elective franchise, for which, if the person were convicted, the punishment would be imprisonment in the state prison.

8. To advance or pay, or cause to be paid, any money or other valuable thing to or for the use of any other person, in consideration of being selected or indorsed as the candidate of any convention, organized assemblage of delegates, or other body, representing, or claiming to represent, a political party or principle, or any club, society, or association, for a public office, or in consideration of the selection or indorsement of any other person as a candidate for public office, or in consideration of any member of a convention, club, society, or association having voted to select or indorse any person as a candidate for a public office, except that a candidate for nomination to a public office may contribute such proportion of the cost and expense of holding a primary election as is authorized by the Political Code of this state, and no more.

9. To advance or pay, or cause to be paid, any money or other valuable thing to or for the use of any other person, in consideration of a person withdrawing as a candidate for a public office.

This section shall apply to corporations as well as individuals, and any person or corporation violating the provisions of this section is guilty of a misdemeanor, and any corporation violating this section shall forfeit its charter. (See Kerr's Cyc. Penal Code, § 59.)

§ 4. This act shall take effect immediately.

Statutes fixing fees of county and township officers prior to the County Government Act of 1883 were repealed by the latter statute in the following provisions: Sec. 164—"The salaries and fees provided for in this act shall be in full compensation for all services of every kind and description rendered by the officers therein named," etc. Sec. 182—"The provisions of this act, so far as it relates to the fees and salaries of all officers named, except justices of the peace and constables, shall not affect the present incumbents," etc. Sec. 184—"All acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act are hereby repealed." Decisions affecting those provisions of the statute will be found under the title County Government, Stats. 1883. So the statute here given purports to fix fees that may be charged and repeals "all acts or portions of acts inconsistent therewith."

Jury fees.—It may be further noted that, while the amount of jury fees is here fixed, yet it has been held that the provision in the statute of 1870, as amended by 1871-2, 188, ch. CLXVIII, that jury fees shall be paid by party calling for jury, where jury is discharged without having arrived at a verdict, has not been repealed by the codes nor by subsequent legislation.—Carpenter vs. Jones, 121 Cal. 362, 364, 53 Pac. Rep. 842.

And as to fees in San Francisco, it was held that the statute of 1866 had not been repealed, as to the mode in which payment should be made.—Hilton vs. Curry, 124 Cal. 84-89, 56 Pac. Rep. 784; Birch vs. Phelan, 127 Cal. 49, 50, 51, 59 Pac. Rep. 209; but that statute is now repealed: 1905, 387, ch. CCCXXXI.

The present statute has been cited as follows: As to San Francisco, Miller vs. Curry, 113 Cal. 644, 645, 45 Pac. Rep. 877; justices' fees (unconstitutional), Dwyer vs. Parker, 115 Cal. 544, 547, 47 Pac. Rep. 372; justices' fees, Reid vs. Groezinger, 115 Cal. 551, 552, 47 Pac. Rep. 374; ad valorem fee (unconstitutional), Fatjo vs. Pfister, 117 Cal. 83, 84, 48 Pac. Rep. 1012; jurors, Carpenter vs. Jones, 121 Cal. 362, 364, 53 Pac. Rep. 842; justice of the peace, Cooley vs. County Calaveras, 121 Cal. 482, 484, 53 Pac. Rep. 1075; jurors' fees, Hilton vs. Curry, 124 Cal. 84, 87, 56 Pac. Rep. 784; clerk fees, Davis & Son vs. Hurgren & Anderson, 125 Cal. 48, 50, 57 Pac. Rep. 684; justices' fees, San Francisco, Kozminsky vs. Williams, 126 Cal. 26, 27, 58 Pac. Rep. 310; jurors' fees, Birch vs. Phelan, 127 Cal. 49-51, 59 Pac. Rep. 209; witness fees, Murphy vs. Madden, 130 Cal. 674, 676, 63 Pac. Rep. 80; constable (unconstitutional), Kiernan vs. Swan, 131 Cal. 410, 412, 63 Pac. Rep. 768; clerk, ad valorem (unconstitutional), Wingerter vs. San Francisco, 134 Cal. 547, 86 Am. St. Rep. 94, 66 Pac. Rep. 730; justice of the peace, Burce vs. Jack, 135 Cal. 535, 536, 67 Pac. Rep. 907; constables, Thom vs. County Los Angeles, 136 Cal. 375, 378, 69 Pac. Rep. 919; generally, County San Diego vs. Schwartz, 145 Cal. 49, 51, 78 Pac. Rep. 231.

No person shall sell, offer, or expose for sale in this state, any pulverized leather, hair, ground hoofs, horns, or wool waste, raw, steamed, roasted, or in any form as a fertilizer, or as an ingredient of a fertilizer or manure, without an explicit statement of the fact; said statement to be conspicuously affixed to every package of such fertilizer or manure, and to accompany and go with every lot, parcel, or package of the same.

§ 3. The manufacturer, importer, agent of, or dealer in any commercial fertilizers, or materials used for manurial purposes, the selling price of which to the consumer is eight ($8) dollars or more per ton, shall, before the same is offered for sale, obtain a certificate of registration from the secretary of the board of regents of the University of California, countersigned by the director of the agricultural experiment station of the said university, authorizing the sale of fertilizers in this state, and shall securely fix to each lot, parcel, or package of fertilizer the word "Registered" with the number of registry. The manufacturer, importer, agent, or dealer obtaining such registry, shall pay to the said secretary the sum of fifty ($50) dollars, to be applied as provided in section one of this act; such registration shall expire on the thirtieth day of June of the fiscal year for which it was given; provided, the provisions of this section shall not apply to any agent whose principals shall have obtained a certificate of registration as herein provided. Every such manufacturer, importer, agent, or dealer, who makes or sells, or offers for sale, any such substances, under a name or brand, shall file, on or before the first day of July, in each year, a statement, under oath, with said director, stating such name or brand, and stating the component parts in accordance with the provisions of section one of this act, of the substances to be sold, or offered for sale, or manufactured under each such name or brand.

§ 4. The said director shall annually, on or before the first day of September, take samples in accordance with the provisions of section five hereof of the substance made, sold, or offered for sale, under every such name or brand, and cause analyses to be made thereof in accordance with the provisions of section one hereof, and said analyses may include such other determinations as said director may at any time deem advisable. Dealers in, or manufacturers of fertilizers, must give free access to the director of the agricultural experiment station, or his duly authorized deputy, to all the materials which they may place on the market for sale in California. Whenever the analysis certified by the said director shall show a deficiency of not more than one fourth of one per centum of nitrogen, or one per centum of soluble or available phosphoric acid, or one half of one per centum of potash soluble in distilled water, the statement of the manufacturer or importer, as required in section one of this act, shall not be deemed to be false in the meaning of this act; provided, that this act shall not apply to sales of fertilizing materials made to a registered manufacturer of fertilizers, or to sales for export outside of this state; provided further, that the said director of the agricultural experiment station of the University of California shall, upon the receipt of a sample of fertilizer, accompanied with a nominal fee of two ($2) dollars, furnish to the user of said commercial fertilizer, such examination or analysis of the sample as will substantially establish the conformity or non-conformity of the said fertilizer to the guarantee under which it was sold.

§ 5. The director of the agricultural experiment station of the University of California, in person or by deputy, is hereby authorized to take a sample not exceeding two pounds in weight for analysis by the said director, or his deputies, from any lot, parcel, or package of fertilizer, or material, or mixture of materials used for manurial purposes, which may be in the possession of any manufacturer, importer, agent, or dealer, but said sample shall be drawn in the presence of said party or parties in interest, or their representatives. In lots of five tons or less, samples shall be drawn from at least ten packages, or, if less than ten packages are present, all shall be sampled; in lots of over five tons, not less than twenty packages shall be sampled. The samples so drawn shall be thoroughly mixed, and from it two equal samples shall be drawn and placed in glass vessels, carefully sealed, and a label placed on each, stating the name or brand of the fertilizer or material sampled, the name of the party from whose stock the sample was drawn, and the time and place of drawing; and said label shall also be signed by the said director or his deputy making such inspection, and by the party or parties in interest, or their representatives present at the drawing and sealing of said samples. One of said duplicate samples shall be retained by the party whose stock was sampled, and the other by the director of the agricultural experiment station of the University of California.

§ 6. The director of the agricultural experiment station of the University of California shall publish in bulletin form, from time to time, at least annually, the results of the analyses hereinbefore provided, with such additional information as circumstances may advise.

station of the University of California at Berkeley, Alameda County, as set forth in this act, out of any moneys in the treasury not otherwise appropriated, the sum of eighteen hundred ($1,800) dollars for the equipment of a laboratory, with the chemicals and apparatus, and other incidentals necessary to the successful prosecution of the work.

§ 8. In order to further provide for the necessary expenses of this work, there shall be paid by the manufacturer, importer, agent, or dealer, twenty-five cents for every ton of fertilizer sold, the selling price of which to the consumer is eight ($8) dollars or more per ton. A statement sworn to by the manufacturer, importer, agent, or dealer, of such sales, shall be rendered quarterly to the secretary of the board of regents of the University of California, accompanied by the corresponding amount of the special license fee as above specified; provided, that whenever the manufacturer or importer shall have paid the special license fee herein required, for any person acting as agent or seller for such manufacturer or importer, such agent or seller shall not be required to pay the special license fee named in this section. On receipt of said special license fee and statement, the said secretary shall issue to the manufacturer, importer, agent, or dealer, a certificate of compliance with this section.

§ 9. All moneys, whether received from registry and analytical fees or special license fees, shall be paid to the secretary of the board of regents of the University of California, for the use of said board in carrying out the provisions of this act.

§ 10. Any party selling, offering, or exposing for sale, any commercial fertilizer without the statement required by section one of this act, or with a label stating that said fertilizer contains a larger percentage of any one or more of the constituents mentioned in said section than is actually contained therein, except as provided for in section four, or respecting the sale of which all the provisions of this act have not been fully complied with, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof before any court of competent jurisdiction, shall be fined in a sum not less than fifty ($50) dollars and costs of action for the first offense, and one hundred ($100) dollars and costs of the action for each subsequent offense. Said fines to be paid into the school fund of the county in which conviction is had.

§ 11. In any action, civil or criminal, in any court in this state, a certificate under the hand of said director, and the seal of said university, stating the results of any analysis, purporting to have been made under the provisions of this act, shall be prima facie evidence of the fact that the sample or samples mentioned in said analysis or certificate were properly analyzed as in this act provided; that such samples were taken as in this act provided; that the substances analyzed contained the component parts stated in such certificate and analysis; and that the samples were taken from the parcels or packages or lots mentioned or described in said certificate.

§ 12. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after July first, nineteen hundred and three.

FIRE DEPARTMENT—TOWNS.

To amend an act to allow unincorporated towns and villages to equip and maintain a fire department, and to assess and collect taxes, from time to time, for such purpose, and to create a board of fire commissioners (approved March 4, 1881, Stats. 1881, 26), relating to assessing and collecting said taxes.

(Stats. 1899, 69, ch. LIX.)

§ 1. Section one of “An act to amend an act to allow unincorporated towns and villages to equip and maintain a fire department, and to assess and collect taxes from time to time for such purpose, and to create a board of fire commissioners” (approved March fourth, eighteen hundred and eighty-one), is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 1. Any unincorporated town or village of this state may equip and maintain a fire department for the purpose of protecting property from destruction by fire.

§ 2. Upon the application, by petition, of fifty or more taxpayers and residents of said town or village to the board of supervisors of the county in which said town or village is situated, the said board of supervisors shall appoint three commissioners, to be known as and called a board of fire commissioners, of the town or village for which they are appointed, who shall hold their office until the second Monday in April next thereafter, and until their successors are elected and qualified.

§ 3. The board of fire commissioners so appointed by said board of supervisors, and their successors, shall be authorized and empowered, and it shall be their duty:

1. To fix and establish the fire limits of said town or village, and shall accurately describe the same, in writing by metes and bounds and file a copy thereof, subscribed by them, in the office of the county recorder of the county in which said town or village is situated;

2. To make all contracts with water companies for a supply of water, and attaching hydrants or fire-plugs to the pipes, or conduits, or cisterns of such water company; to make contracts for and to purchase the engines, hose, hose-carts or carriages, and other appliances for the full equipment of a fire company or department;

3. To call an election and submit to the electors residing within the fire limits fixed by them, the question whether a tax shall be levied and raised for the purpose of establishing and maintaining a fire department for the said town, or village, and for protecting the same from loss by fire;

4. To appoint judges, not less than three, and other officers, to conduct such election, and to issue certificates of election;

5. To do and perform such other acts and things as may be proper and necessary to carry out the full intent and meaning of this act.

§ 4. Said election must be called by posting notices in three of the most public places in said town or village, for not less than ten days, and also, if there is a newspaper printed and published in the town or village, by advertising such notice therein at least two regular issues of the paper.

§ 5. Such notice must specify the time and place of holding the election, and the amount required for each specific purpose, and the amount of money to be raised shall not exceed in any one year one per centum of the assessable property within the fire limits, as fixed by the board of fire commissioners; provided, that after the first year the amount so raised shall not exceed one half of one per centum.

§ 6. The board of fire commissioners must appoint three judges and two clerks to conduct the election, and it must be held in all respects as nearly as practicable in conformity with the general election law; provided, that no new register shall be required, nor legal ballot paper; and provided, further, that the polls may be opened at eight o'clock a. m. and close at five o'clock p. m. on the day appointed for such election.

§ 7. At such election the ballots must contain the words "Tax—Yes" or "Tax—No."

§ 8. The judges of election shall, within twenty-four hours after holding said election, make returns and certify said votes, and the names of the person or persons voted for, to the said board of fire commissioners, and within five days after the returns have been received by the board of fire commissioners they shall count the votes, determine who has been elected, and forthwith issue certificates of election to the persons elected.

§ 9. The board of supervisors must, at the time of levying the county taxes, levy a tax upon all the taxable property within the fire limits of the unincorporated town or village voting such tax sufficient to raise the amount voted. The rate of taxation shall be ascertained by deducting fifteen per centum for anticipated delinquencies from the aggregate assessed value of the property in the district, as it appears on the assessment roll of the county, and then dividing the sum voted by the remainder of such aggregate assessed value. The taxes so levied shall be computed and entered on the assessment roll of the county auditor, and collected at the same time and in the same manner as state and county taxes; and when collected shall be paid into the county treasury for the use of the district in which the tax was voted.

§ 10. All moneys arising from the tax herein authorized to be levied and collected shall be kept by the treasurer of the county in which said town or village is situated, subject only to the order of said board of fire commissioners of said town or village voting said tax.

§ 12. The board of fire commissioners are hereby directed and empowered to make all necessary arrangements for the purchase of rights of making connections with the pipes of water companies for fire-plugs or hydrants, in such part of the town or village as they shall deem best for the common interest, and also for purchasing fire hose and carriages, subject, however, to the provisions hereinbefore contained.

§ 13. They shall procure all necessary books and blanks for the purpose of keeping a correct record of their proceedings; and they shall keep a record of all their acts, of all moneys received and disbursed by them, which said books shall be open to public inspection at all times.

§ 14. All accounts, bills, and demands against the fire department shall be audited, allowed, and paid by the board of fire commissioners by warrants drawn on the county treasurer, and the county treasurer shall pay the same in the order in which they are presented.

§ 15. The board of fire commissioners shall, from time to time, and in like manner, submit to a vote of the electors of said town, or village, the propriety of levying and raising an additional tax for keeping in repair the apparatus of said fire department, and maintaining the same in good order and condition.

§ 17. In case of a vacancy of any or all of the members of the board of fire commissioners, after election had, by death, resignation, or otherwise, such vacancy shall be filled by appointment by the board of supervisors of the county in which said vacancy may happen.

§ 18. That in case an election be had under the provisions of this bill, and the electors, by vote, shall decline to equip and maintain a fire department, and refuse to levy and collect a tax for that purpose, no other election shall be called or held under this act within one year next thereafter.

§ 19. An election shall be held annually, on the first Monday of April, for the election of three fire commissioners, who shall take their office on the next succeeding Monday in the same month; and it shall be the duty of the board of fire commissioners to give notice of such elections by posting notices thereof in three public places in the town, for at least two weeks before the day of election. They shall also appoint the judges of election.

§ 20. Each board of fire commissioners shall at the expiration of their term of office, turn over to their successors all the books and documents belonging to the office of said board of fire commissioners, taking their receipt for the same.

§ 21. No assessment or act relating to assessment or collection of taxes, or elections held under the provisions of this act, shall be illegal, void, or voidable on account of any error, omission, or informality, or failure to comply strictly with the provisions of this act, nor on account of any misnomer; but the same shall be liberally construed, with a view to hold valid all acts done under this act.

§ 22. The said board of fire commissioners may regulate the construction of, and order the suspension, discontinuance, removal, repair, or cleaning of, fire-places, chimneys, stoves and stovepipes, flues, ovens, boilers, kettles, forges or any apparatus used in any building, manufactory, or business which may be dangerous in causing or promoting fires, and prescribe limits within which no dangerous nor obnoxious and offensive business may be carried on.

§ 23. They may adopt such ordinance, within the purview of the preceding section, as they may deem proper to prevent fires and conflagrations, and for the protection of property at and during the pendency of any fire, and for that purpose may provide that at and during the pendency of any fire the officers of the fire company or companies present shall be vested with police powers. Such ordinances shall be signed by the said fire commissioners, and published in a newspaper printed in said town or village, or posted in three of the most public places thereof, for the period of two weeks, at the end of which time it shall be and become a law for the government of the inhabitants of said town or village.

§ 24. Any person who shall violate any of the provisions of said ordinance shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

§ 25. Any justice of the peace within the townships within which said town or village is situated shall have jurisdiction of all prosecutions under this act, and sections fourteen hundred and twenty-six to fourteen hundred and forty-nine, both inclusive, title nine, chapter one, of the Penal Code, are hereby made applicable to proceedings under this act.

§ [26.] 2. All acts or parts of acts, so far as they do conflict with the provisions hereof, are hereby repealed.

§ [27.] 3. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

The foregoing so evidently supersedes the statute of 1881, 26, that the former is here omitted. See next succeeding statutes.

FIREMEN—PAID DEPARTMENT.

The possibility of a city of the "first class" (Mun. Cor. Act 1883, and amendments) having no special charter governing its fire department, is too remote to justify publishing the Stats. 1897, 192, ch. CXXXII;

1897, 61, ch. LXX, relating to fire departments in such municipalities.—See Popper vs. Broderick, 123 Cal. 456, 56 Pac. Rep. 53, and cases there cited. And see note at head of tit. Fire—Corporations, etc.

FIRE DEPARTMENT—VACATION.

Authorizing and requiring boards or commissions having the management and control of paid fire departments to grant the members thereof yearly vacations.

(Stats. 1895, 76, ch. LXXXIV; amended 1899, 57, ch. XLIX, and 1905, 39, ch. XLIV.)

§ 1. In every city or city and county of this state where there is a regularly organized paid fire department, the board of supervisors, common council, commissions or other body having the management and control of the same are authorized and required once in every year to provide for each regular or permanent member thereof, a leave of absence from active duty of not less than five, nor more than fifteen days, in each year and in addition thereto a leave of absence from active duty of four days in every month of such service. Leave of absence so granted, as aforesaid, must be arranged by said board of [or] commissions, so as not to interfere with or any way impair the efficiency of the said department; no deduction must be made from the salary or pay of any member of such fire department granted such leave of absence in the provisions of this act. [Amendment, 1905, 39.]

The foregoing statute apparently supersedes the statute of 1895, 96, and amendatory statute of 1899, 57; the former statutes are therefore omitted.

FIREMEN—PENSIONS.

To amend an act entitled "An act to authorize the boards of supervisors or other governing authority of the several counties, cities and counties, cities, and towns of the state to provide pensions or benefits for the relief of aged, infirm, or disabled firemen," approved March eleventh, eighteen hundred and eighty-nine.

§ 1. The board of supervisors, or other governing authority of the several counties, cities and counties, cities and towns of the state in which fire departments exist, shall, upon the written petition of a majority of the lawfully registered electors of any such political division respectively, by appropriate ordinances, provide a fund by general tax upon the property of the county, city and county, city, or town, for the relief of aged, infirm, or disabled firemen; provided, that such disability shall be caused by exposure while in the discharge of such duty. [Amendment, Stats. 1901, 575.]

§ 2. No person shall be entitled to any benefits from any fund created by authority of this act, unless he shall have served as an active member in the fire department of such county, city and county, city, or town, at least fifteen years, and any person having served in the fire department of such county, city and county, city, or town, at least fifteen years, may make application to be placed on the retired list of such fire department, and he shall receive the sum of not more than twenty-five (25) dollars and not less than fifteen (15) dollars per month, to be paid out of said fund, and those members of a fire department who have been paid a stipulated salary, having served fifteen years in such fire department, shall receive an amount equal to one half of the salary provided by law at the time of such retirement; provided, that any person injured in the actual discharge of fire duty shall be entitled to the benefits of this act regardless of his length of service in the fire department of any such county, city and county, city, or town. [Amendment, Stats. 1901, 575.]

§ 3. This act shall take effect from and after its passage.

The foregoing statute purports to "amend," but it in fact supersedes the former statute of 1889, in every section. This statute is also probably superseded by the next following statute of 1905, 412.

FIREMEN—RELIEF, INSURANCE, PENSION.

To create a firemen's relief, health, and life insurance and pension fund in the several counties, cities and counties, cities, and towns of the state.

(Stats. 1905, 412, ch. CCCLI.)

§ 1. The chairman of the board of supervisors of the county, city and county, city, or incorporated town in which there is no board of fire commissioners, the treasurer of the county, city and county, or incorporated town, and the chief of the fire department, and their successors in office, are hereby constituted a board of trustees of the firemen's relief or pension fund of the fire department, to provide for the disbursement of the same and to designate the beneficiaries thereof as hereinafter directed, which board shall be known as the "Board of Firemen's Pension Fund Commissioners"; provided, however, that where there is in any county, city and county, city, or town, a board of fire commissioners, then such body shall constitute said board of trustees of the firemen's relief and pension fund of the fire department.

§ 2. They shall organize as such board by choosing one of their number as chairman, and by appointing a secretary. The treasurer of the county, city and county, city, or town, shall be ex officio treasurer of said fund. Such board of trustees shall have charge of and administer said fund, and to order payments therefrom in pursuance of the provisions of this act. They shall report annually, in the month of June, to the board of supervisors, or other governing authority of the county, city and county, city, or incorporated town, the condition of the firemen's relief and pension fund, and the receipts and disbursements on account of the same, with a full and complete list of the beneficiaries of said fund and the amounts paid them.

§ 3. Whenever any person at the taking effect of this act, or thereafter shall have been duly appointed or selected and sworn, and have served for twenty years, or more, in the aggregate, as a member, in any capacity or any rank whatever of the regularly constituted fire department of any such county, city and county, city, or town which may hereafter be subject to the provisions of this act, said board may, if it see fit, order and direct that such person after becoming sixty years of age be retired from further service in such fire department, and from the date of the making of such order the service of such person in such fire department shall cease, and such person so retired shall thereafter, during his lifetime, be paid from such fund a yearly pension equal to one half of the amount of salary attached to the rank which he may have held in said fire department for the period of one year next preceding the date of such retirement.

§ 4. Whenever any person, while serving as a fireman in any such county, city and county, city, or town, shall become physically disabled by reason of any bodily injury received in the immediate or direct performance or discharge of his duty as such fireman, said board may, upon his written request, or without such request, if it deem it to be for the good of said fire department force, retire such person from said department, and order and direct that he shall be paid from said fund, during his lifetime, a yearly pension equal to one half of the amount of salary attached to the rank which he may have held on such fire department force at the date of such retirement, but on the death of such pensioner his heirs or assigns shall have no claim against or upon such firemen's relief or pension fund; provided, that whenever such disability shall cease such pension shall cease, and such person shall be restored to active service at the same salary he received at the time of his retirement.

§ 5. No person shall be retired, as provided in the next preceding section, or receive any benefit from said fund, unless there shall be filed with said board certificates of his disability, which certificates shall be subscribed and sworn to by said person, and by the county, city and county, city, or town physician (if there be one), and two regularly licensed practising physicians of such county, city and county, city, or town, and such board may require other evidence of disability before ordering such retirement and payment as aforesaid.

§ 6. Whenever any member of the fire department of such county, city and county, city, or town, shall lose his life while in the performance of his duty, leaving a widow, or child or children under the age of sixteen years, then upon satisfactory proof of such facts made to it, such board shall order and direct that a yearly pension, equal to one third the amount of the salary attached to the rank which such member held in said fire department at the time of his death, shall be paid to such widow during her life, or if no widow, then to the child or children, until they shall be sixteen years of age; provided, if such widow, or child or children, shall marry, then such person so marrying shall thereafter receive no further pension from such fund.

§ 7. Whenever any member of the fire department of such county, city and county, city, or town, shall, after ten years of service, die from natural causes, then his widow or children, or if there be no widow or children, then his mother or unmarried sisters, shall be entitled to the sum of one thousand dollars from such fund.

§ 8. Any person retired for disability under this act may be summoned before the board herein provided for at any time thereafter, and shall submit himself thereto for examination as to his fitness for duty, and shall abide the decision and order of such board with reference thereto; and all members of the fire department force who may be retired under the provisions of this act shall report to the chief of the fire department of the county, city and county, city, or town where so retired, on the first Mondays of April, July, October, and January of each year; and in cases of great public emergency may be assigned to and shall perform such duty as said chief of the fire department may direct; and such persons shall have no claim against the county, city and county, city, or town, for payment for such duty so performed.

§ 9. When any person who shall have received any benefit from said fund shall be convicted of any felony, or shall become an habitual drunkard, or shall become a non-resident of this state, or shall fail to report himself for examination for duty as required herein, unless excused by the board, or shall disobey the requirements of said board under this act, in respect to said examination or duty, then such board shall order that such pension allowance as may have been granted to such person shall immediately cease, and such person shall receive no further pension, allowance, or benefit under this act.

§ 10. The board herein provided for shall hold quarterly meetings on the first Mondays of April, July, October, and January of each year, and upon the call of its president; it shall biennially select from its members a president and secretary; it shall issue warrants, signed by its president and secretary, to the persons entitled thereto of the amount of money ordered paid to such persons from such fund by said board, which warrant shall state for what purpose such payment is to be made; it shall keep a record of all its proceedings, which record shall be a public record; it shall, at each quarterly meeting, send to the treasurer of the county, city and county, city, or town, and to the auditor of such county, city and county, city, or town, a written or printed list of all persons entitled to payment from the fund herein provided for, stating the amount of such payments and for what granted, which list shall be certified to and signed by the president and secretary of such board, attested under oath. The auditor shall thereupon enter a copy of said list upon a book to be kept for that purpose, and which shall be known as "The Firemen's Relief and Pension Fund Book." When such list has been entered by the auditor, he shall transmit the same to the board of supervisors, or other governing authority of such county, city and county, city, or town, which board of authority shall order the payment of the amounts named therein out of "The Firemen's Relief and Pension Fund." A majority of all the members of said board herein provided for shall constitute a quorum, and have power to transact business.

§ 11. The board herein provided for shall, in addition to other powers herein granted, have power,—

First—To compel witnesses to attend and testify before it, upon all matters connected with the operation of this act, in the same manner as is or may be provided by law for the taking of testimony before notaries public; and its president, or any member of said board, may administer oaths to such witnesses.

Second—To appoint a secretary, and to provide for the payment from said fund of all its necessary expenses including secretary hire and printing; provided that no compensation or emolument shall be paid to any member of said board for any duty required or performed under this act.

Third—To make all needful rules and regulations for its guidance, in conformity with the provisions of this act.

§ 12. FLAG—OF THE UNITED STATES.

To prohibit the desecration of the flag of the United States and to provide a punishment therefor.

(Stats. 1899, 46, ch. XLIII.)

§ 1. Any person who shall desecrate the flag of the United States, by printing thereon or attaching thereto any advertisement of any nature whatsoever, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor.

DESECRATING THE FLAG does not include use thereof as an emblem in business or a trade-mark, and a statute prohibiting such use was held unconstitutional by the supreme court of Illinois in Ruhrstrat vs. People, 185 Ill. 133, 76 Am. St. Rep. 30, 57 N. E. Rep. 41, 49 L. R. A. 181.

This decision is without direct precedent, and is based solely upon considerations applicable only to state law, and not to federal law. A federal statute placing such restriction upon the use of the national emblem would undoubtedly be within the purview of federal authority.

It may be interesting to note that there is an unreported decision of the Illinois court that a statute requiring the national emblem to be floated over every school-house during school hours is unconstitutional. The decision is placed on the ground that the statute transcends the police power of the state.—See 30 Am. L. Rev. 746.

FOREIGN MINER'S LICENSE.

The general legislation on this subject found at page 447, Stats. 1861, is omitted from this publication. It is assumed that these provisions were repealed by the revenue and taxation system of the Political Code. They are not continued in force by section 19 of that code. See note at page 647, of volume by code commissioners, entitled "Statutes Continued in Force" (held by supreme court not to be authoritative, although the note referred to is instructive). The collection and application of this tax were given to the respective counties by Stats. 1867-8, 173. It will be readily suggested that the subject is omitted from the County Government Act, but see Stats. 1880, 39, held unconstitutional in the superior court of Los Angeles in the case of People vs. Quong On Long, 6 Pac. Coast Law Journal 116.
